• Something About British Navy

WRITING in the Brantford Expositor, W. G. Raymond, formerly M.P. for the riding, speaks of the history and accomplishment of the British navy. Mr. Raymond is said to be the oldest Royal Navy veteran, having joined the navy 71 years ago. In part he writes:

Sir Francis Drake, the first Englishman to circumnavigate the world, whose life story reads like a fantastic romance, stayed to finnish his game of bowls on Plymouth Hoe before he went to thrash the "Invincible Armada." Perhaps it was the reaction against the over towering power of Spain that produced so many naval heroes at that time. Sir Richard Grenville whose fight in the little "Revenge" against 53 large Spanish galleons, is immortalized by Tennyson in his poem "The Revenge." Sir Walter Raleigh who took the first settlers to America and named the land "Virginia" after Queen Elizabeth and founded Jamestown in 1605. Martin Frobisher who sought the North West Passage and brought an Eskimo home that is said to have suggested the idea of "Caliban" to the fertile mind of Shakespeare. These and many more left an imperishable record of naval daring and achievement that has been an inspiration ever since.

In the next century that sturdy old Puritan "Admiral and General-at-Sea" Robert Blake fought with Dutch and Spaniard and took for the first time our flag into the Mediterranean; when he was asked his opinion of Cromwell's arbitarary dismissal of the Rump Parliament he said, —"The duty of the Navy was to guard the shores of Britain and leave such matters to the politicians." This was the origin of the Royal Navy being called, "The Silent Service."

In the next century Canada and India were acquired because our ships under Admirals Hawke and Boscowan maintained the mastery of the Seas during the Seven Years War. Just before 1756 when the War began, Pitt saw the need of a powerful Navy and roused the Nation to the effort with his matchless power of oratory.

From then till the peace after Waterloo the Navy grew from about 40,-000 men to 300,000 and 1,000 ships. It was a time of much naval warfare and the names of Benbow, Duncan, Rodney, Howe, Collingwood, Nelson and many others each with their heroic story of valor and victory as examples to future sailors. Of course Nelson was the most prominent. He was beloved by his men to an unusual degree. He was the "Darling of the Nation."

Canada House in London looks across Trafalgar Square to the Nelson Column. It is the tallest monument in the Empire and is surmounted by the effigy in bronze of our greatest sea fighter. He was small, had lost an eye and his right arm in the service of his Country and left an imperishable example of patriotic devotion to duty and passionate will to victory. We would recall the words of Tom Hood:

"And now see our hero high over the Kings,
However 't displeases the loyals
'Tis after the fashion of nautical things
A "skyscraper" over the royals."

The Canadian observer would remember with justifiable pride that the first statue to Lord Nelson was erected on Canadian soil at Montreal.

• The Season After Christmas

THEN there will have to be a post-mortem upon the turkey, unless, of course the diners were so numerous that they licked the platter clean, both of fat and lean. The thrifty housewife will know what to do with the remains. She will serve them in a number of tempting ways, but by the time she gets through the family will be devoutly thankful that Christmas and turkey do not come every week. Then on December 26 some people have to give some thought to relief of stomach distress, following too much turkey and Christmas cake.

Some years ago the writer knew of a whole family which was rendered hors de combat by over-indulgence at the Christmas dinner and supper tables, but since then many remedies for indigestion and for those other bodily troubles that result from indiscreet eating have been developed so that suffering humanity can obtain relief without having to take tons of baking soda. There will also be the odd headache, which will require attention, but this complaint won't be so widespread as it will next week, since the business of seeing the old year out and the new in seems to aggravate it. Here, too, so many bubbling remedies have been marketed for the discomfort that marks the morning after the night before that speedy relief may be obtained and the brain cleared for the formulation of water-wagon resolutions.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MASS MURDER

ONE CAN HARDLY bear to think of what the Czechs are going through; it is bloodcurdling to hear that hundreds of students have been taken off to Buchenwald and other concentration camps.

The accounts I have heard recently of Hitler's plans for the Jews are more terrible still. I gather that the so-called Jewish state in Poland is another ghastly pretence. The idea is apparently to move all the remaining Jews out of Germany and all the Jews from Czechoslovakia and Poland into what will amount to a vast concentration camp. They are being sent in cattle trucks, with nothing but the clothes they have on and a few marks, to a district where there is no chance of them making a living. They are being used for road-making; they have no tools or homes or land for an independent life. It seems that Hitler has really decided on the mass murder of a great proportion of from one to two million people.

There is a nasty rumor, which I hope will prove untrue, that Stalin is also going to take measures against the Jews.—New Statesman and Nation, London.

SWANKY AFFAIR

JOCK WHITNEY tendered a party at the Whitneys' 5th Avenue mansion last night to celebrate the premiere of "Gone With the Wind." When—wearing a Confederate flag in her hair—Tallulah Bankhead departed, escorted by Glenn Anders, she walked down the thickly carpeted steps, waded through wagon-loads of food and tubfuls of champagne, found a path through a hundred flunkies and countless floral decorations and reached the doorway. Then she went under the protective canopy and through a squad of policemen to a taxi at the curb, waved her hand majestically and directed the driver: "Childs, please."

Whitney was complimented by his friends upon the excellence of this $4,000,000 movie. "It's a wonderfully artistic job, too," one of them said. "Frankly," Jock confided, "I did it for Art"—then he emitted a razzberry and sighed: "I hope Art will pay back ten million for it."—Leonard Lyons, in New York Post.

CONSISTENT

AN IRISHMAN was ordered to appear in court, as he was present at a shooting affair. When he entered the witness box the judge asked him if he saw the shot fired. "No, sorr, I only heard the shot," was the reply. The judge told the man to stand down: his evidence was of no use at all. Just as he turned to go, the Irishman laughed and made the court roar. The judge called the man back and told him that as he had laughed he had a good mind to sentence him for contempt of court. "But, sorr, did ye see me laugh?" queried the man. "No, I heard you, and that was enough," growled the judge. "Well, your honor, that sort of evidence, we have just been told is no use at all," replied the fellow. "Next witness," said the judge. —Montreal Star.

SEE COL. DREW RISE

IF THE Edmonton Journal's denial of Col. George Drew's "tin pot navy" reference ever catches up to the wave of editorial indignation that arose therefrom, the Colonel's political stock should start climbing again.

His recent western trip added substance to the view already held in some Conservative circles that the Leader of the Opposition in Ontario is the heir-apparent to the federal Conservative leadership.

Many Conservative stalwarts are disappointed with the leadership now being given the party by Dr. Manion. They foresee his defeat at the next Federal election. This would leave an opening for a new leader such as the up and coming Col. Drew—so it is argued. — Financial Post.

There are so many men in German and Russian armies that there aren't enough left at home to grow crops satisfactorily and keep industries running smoothly.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Give ear to my prayer, O God; and hide not thyself from my supplication....Fearfulness and trembling are come upon me, and horror hath overwhelmed me. And I said, Oh that I had wings like a dove! for then would I fly away, and be at rest.... I would hasten my escape from the windy storm and tempest....As for me, I will call upon God; and the Lord shall save me.—Ps. lv, 1, 5, 6, 8, 16.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Point of View

Jack: "Only that little scrap of jam for me?"

Mother: "That's not for you, that's for Sister."

Jack: "What! All that for her?"

Careless

A schoolmaster was trying to explain the word "widower" to his class.

"What would you call a man who had just lost his wife?" he asked.

"Very careless," was the reply of a bright boy.

Tact

The shoe store proprietor was hiring a clerk. "Suppose," he said, "a lady customer were to remark while you were trying to fit her, 'Don't you think one of my feet is bigger than the other? What would you say?"

"I should say, 'On the contrary, Madam, one is smaller than the other.'"

"The job is yours."

JAPS WILL DISAPPEAR

SURELY the Japanese have not studied their history else they would not be sending Japanese immigrants into China by the hundreds of thousands. Other waves of immigration have flowed over and into China, always with the same result, complete absorption with the Chinese. Japan is building a new city, seven miles from Peiping, the old capital of Peking, where it is said more than a million Japanese will be given homes.

A new highway is being built, which will go through the Tartar wall, built more than five hundred years ago. Future historians will tell if it is possible to have a Japanese colony inside China, able to continue to retain its identity as purely Japanese. Reading history, one would expect that, within a couple of generations the people of this new city will be indistinguishable from the ordinary Chinese people: And what are a couple of generations in the age-old history of the celestial empire?—Niagara Falls Review.

NOTHING DONE

WHERE is a more utterly wasted life than that of Henry Scrivens—a man who has spent 44 of his 78 years behind the grey walls of the South Carolina Penitentiary?

The humblest of free men can look back at things accomplished, even if it is only ditches dug or streets swept clean. No matter how ill the world has rewarded them, such men can look upon the face of the earth and say, "Here are the marks of the labor of my hands." That is something. Many believe it is everything. But the Scrivenses, thousands of them, have cheated themselves of the soundest satisfaction life offers. Therein lies their tragedy.—Victoria Times.

Finland's Ski Warriors In The Field

Four Old Troopships, Prizes Of '17, Headed for Scrap

SOLOMONS, N.D., Dec. 28. —(AP)—Four United States prizes of the First Great War, which carried 300,000 soldiers to France as troop transports, will follow another one-time German luxury liner, the Leviathan, to the scrap heap.

The 23,788-ton George Washington, on which President Wilson travelled to the peace conference, the 19,360-ton Monticello, the 16,372-ton Mt. Vernon and the 21,329-ton American have been ordered sold for scrap by the United States' Maritime Commission.

Unlike the Leviathan, which was sold to Scottish ship breakers last year, the four rusting at anchorage in this Maryland fishing port will be sold only to nations not designated by President Roosevelt as belligerents.

The ghost fleet, machinery daubed with grease and hulls spotted with red lead paint, but still showing vestiges of former splendor, must not be used in commercial operation, the commission stipulated in invitations for bids which are to be opened Jan. 19.

All were built in the first 10 years of the 20th century, during Germany's' contest for maritime supremacy over England, and like many German ships in 1939 they took refuge in neutral harbors in 1914. They were seized from German owners on April 6, 1917 in United States ports.

Soviet Wipes Out Kulak Class

MOSCOW, Dec. 28 — (CPHavas) —Soviet newspapers to-day noted the 10th anniversary of Joseph Stalin's proclamation of total collectivization of Russian agriculture and the liquidation of the kulaks (well-to-do farmers) as a class.

Pravda, Communist Party organ, said 240.000 collective farms had replaced 25,000,000 small holdings that once made up rural Russia.

The paper quoted census figures which showed a decrease in the rural population between 1926 and 1939 from 120,713,801 to 114,557,278, and an increase in urban population from 26,314,114 to 55,909,908.

CAMPBELLFORD TEAM SLATED TO OPEN SEASON IN NORWOOD

Leaps Lightly To Avoid Lefts

Up off the tips of his toes jumps Pete Scalzo, challenger for the featherweight championship, poor thing that it is, during his fight in New York with Simon Chavez, a native of Venezuela, who decisioned Scalzo earlier in the year in South America, but lost this return bout also on points. This makes Scalzo one of the innumerable "logical candidates" for the title, a much abused bauble in this division, now in the hands of Joey Archibald.

Patrick Has Plan To Cut Down Offsides, Put End To So Much Whistle-Blowing

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 — (CP). — New York hockey writers covered a table-cloth with pencilled diagrams last night after Lester Patrick produced an idea to cut down on National Hockey League whistle-blowing. The Rangers' manager voiced his plan at a dinner given the writers by League President Frank Calder. Briefly, it is that the puck-carrier is always onside.

To illustrate, Patrick pointed out that if a flanking forward is as much as six inches over the defensive blue line when the puck-carrier crosses, the whistle blows for an offside. Under his scheme the puck-carrier could carry on, though the offending linemen could take no part in the play until he had re-crossed the line and made a legal entry into the defending zone.

The puck-carrier and his icemates would have to be smart enough to realize that an offside had been committed and not slip any passes to the player concerned until he had veered back and crossed behind the puck. Until then all members of the attacking team except the man with the puck would be offside.

"What's wrong with hockey?" a question brought up recently in the sports columns hereabouts, was the theme of speakers at the dinner. Red Dutton of New York Americans couldn't see much wrong with it, nor could President Calder, who remarked that all activities had their ups and downs, but that if the average over the years showed an upward trend, add was well. That, he felt, was true of hockey. The men who keep the game going were always willing to accept constructive suggestions from persons who had played it and knew it from the inside.

President John Reid Kilpatrick of Madison Square Garden told the writers he was convinced that a widening of goal nets, elimination of blue lines and so on, sometimes advocated as a means of opening up play, would really result in backing the defencemen up to flank the goaltender and produce more scoreless ties than ever. The baseball game that stuck in the memory was the 1-0 to 2-1 thriller, rather than the 13-7 sluggers' battle. The same, he thought, was true of hockey.

McCormick Bats In The Most Runs

Adolph Camilli, Brooklyn, for the second consecutive year received most bases on balls, 110. In 1939 he struck out most times, 107. John W. Cooney, Boston, struck out the fewest number of times, 8, for players who took part in 100 or more games.

Ival R. Goodman, Cincinnati, and Richard Bartell, Chicago, tied for being hit most often by pitched balls, 7 each.

Henry J. Bonura, New York, and Roy J. Hughes, Philadelphia, each hit into three double plays in a single game, tieing a record held by many players, Bonura on July 8 and Hughes, September 5.

Melvin T. Ott, New York, by receiving an even 100 bases on balls brought his record for 100 or more during a season to seven years.

Cubs Buy Two Players

CHICAGO, Dec. 28—(AP)—Chicago Cubs, continuing efforts to strengthen the National Baseball League club, purchased a pitcher Wednesday from St. Louis Cardinals and a shortstop from Columbus of the American Association.

From the Cardinals the Cubs obtained Southpaw Kenneth Raffensberger, giving two players and cash. The Cardinals received Pitcher Gene Lillard and Shortstop Steve Mesner, who on Wednesday was obtioned to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League. The Cardinals will assume the San Diego option.

In a straight cash deal, the Cubs obtained Shortstop Bob Sturgeon, 19, from Columbus. His acquisition portends a lively fight for infield jobs when the Cubs go into spring training.

Raffensberger, 22, and a native of York, Pa., won 15 and lost 15 games with Rochester of the International League last season.

India has received orders for war supplies totalling $50,000,000.

They Never Miss a Bet

Trent Valley Schedule Opens Friday

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28. — (ENS) — With the local hockey team only begining to take shape and no manager or coach as yet lined up for the season the announcement of the schedule for the season comes as somewhat of a surprise. It may be more of a shock to the "Sunocos" who held their first practise on Tuesday evening with only two men who are likely candidates for the team appearing. They are slated to play their opener against Norwood in that town next Friday.

Following is the first half of the schedule as agreed to by the seven teams:—

December 29—Stirling at Bata; Campbellford at Norwood.

January 24— Tweed at Madoc; Norwood at Bata.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

When G. D. Carlisle, president of the Curling Club, breezed through the portals of No. 8 last evening at 7:15, the curling season of 1939-40 was officially declared open, and so eager and anxious were the boys to get going that by 7:15½ every available ice was occupied. Many who came in later were disappointed and had to be content to stay in on No. 8.

There is one thing about the curling business, if it takes the real curlers four or five games to get into condition, the boys who occupy No. 8, never lose the art.

Looking over the crowd we noticed the Green brothers; Dorey Davis; Jack Welsh; the boy who could hardly wait for the door to open—Ray Bacon; Arthur Robinson; "Broowick" Paget, back after a year's illness; and many new curlers who are trying the sport for the first time.

J. W. Fraser, who at one time was a member of the club and is now residing in Toronto and curling at the Victoria Club, has just paid a friendly visit here.

We have an error to correct. In last night's paper it was said that we commenced curling last season on Dec. 26th. It should have read December 28. It was our mistake. So now we commence this season one day ahead of last season.

There will be good ice for tonight, so come on out and keep us company.

The skips are urged to get in touch with their rinks, particularly the new players, impressing upon them the importance of working out in advance for the big New Year's Day bonspiel and the schedule games commencing next week.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

And it comes about that the 1939-40 hockey season has finally arrived in the town of Peterborough. Yep, the O.H.A. intermediate "A" schedule commences here tomorrow (Friday) e'en at 8.30 of the clock in the rink on the Rue Brock. With none other than the boys of Bella Villa clashing with the Petes. Taken by and large—or even around the block for a walk—there is no squad we'd sooner see pry off the puck lid here with the Buckland buckaroos than the bold, bad Bellevillains. Skipper Eddie Thomas—who will grunt and grumble his way to a win in any verbal argument in hockey meetings—yearly rounds up a pack of puck-chasers from the area which we call Greater Belleville (as it covers an enormous area) and this hand-picked outfit gives a right good account of itself. Yes, indeed.

* * * * * *

There is Goalie Ken Watt, one of the few born-and-bred-in-Belleville boys, who can field rubber with the best of the keepers of the cord citadel around and about. An A-1 netminder. And much could be written of Speedy St. Louis who guards the blue line for the Redmen in bouncing manner. The former Kingston hurler needs fewer haircuts these days, but he is still full of fight and puck savvy. He is a tricky puck-carrier, a hard body-slammer and would as soon hit ya a punch on the nose as not. Speedy is one of the leading scorers now in the VanHorne Cup series in Kingston.

* * * * * *

Hand-Picked Horde

A gee named Filion is also on defence and we dunno him from a carload of dried crab-apples. But we recollect quite well the two Jackson brothers on the first line, two pesky little pests who are always underfoot and in the rival goalie's hair. They have an import from Prescott—a guy called Windsor—with 'em. Another Prescott import is Yates. Then there are Hastie and Gow (if the O.H.A. hasn't barred 'em yet) who hail from down Gananoque way, and the two Storms—thunder and lightning—and a chap wearing Fownal for a monicker. Maybe a few more, too, as even Skipper Thomas himself never knows till he counts noses before a game which players are on deck. Depends on good roads and high creeks between Belleville and such spots as Napanee, Deseronto, Stirling, etc.!

* * * * * *

Yeah, they are a scrappy squad and may prove tougher than a pig's snout here tomorrow in the evening. But Coach Frank Buckland has a husky, young but experienced, and well-conditioned gang of homebrew players this season. He'll have Ray Harding in goal, and likely Drake Jopling, Don Crowe, Jack Gardner and Jim Ellis on defence; while one forward line is made up of Honey Tompkins, Bun Kingdon and Joe Blewett, and the other has Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin and Art Heal. Extra players are Les Burton, Cliff Cadd and Jack Jopling, with Earl McNabb spare goalie. A right promising crew and we hope they live up to their promises. It'll be a good game on hard ice between old rivals and in ideal weather for hockey—and this opening fray ought to pack in the cash customers like a free showing of Sonja Henie.

* * * * * *

Ice At The Brock

On a fine sheet of ice at the Brock last gloaming, the Petes enjoyed a long and brisk workout before interested railbirds. Harding was working and McNabb had a cold, so Shorty Roberts tended goal. Kingdon, Blewett and Jack Jopling were also absent because of colds. The latter two may not be ready for tomorrow's tilt but the Petes will have a full squad. The club has signed 15 players but dresses only a dozen each game, leaving a few over for injuries or other emergency. The boys are in okay condish now and ready for the campaign to open. Secretary Bill Hewitt of the O.H.A. has advised Manager Bill Jackson here that either Hap Day—former captain and star defenceman of Toronto Leafs—or Army Armstrong would be referee here.

* * * * * *

Coach Archie Weir and Manager Hap Wilgar looked over a gang of 20 prospective junior "B" players trying for berths at the Brock last eve. Most of last year's Colts were on deck, except Foster and a couple lads who had to work. A new chap named Mason showed up well, while some ex-Monarchs—like Beggs and Rochetta—dished up some swish. Two goalies were on hand for the opening workout, Cournyea and Jones. The squad will have several more workouts, with a few being chopped off here and there before opening the season in Port Hope next Tuesday night.

Hockey In Lakefield

And hockey of the O.H.A. variety returns to Lakefield tomorrow after twilight, too, Lindsay's large Midgets being the guests in a junior joust. Coach Red Wakelin had no less than 27 candidates—gathered from far and fairly near—at his first roll call but will be swinging the hatchet like a butcher the week before Christmas these days. Among last year's crew (and the Midgets were hotter than red flannels in Mandalay in the 1938-39 season) with the team again are Brennan, Owen, Sharpe, Warrian, Elliott and Begley. Which is a pretty fair nucleus—as nucleuses go—to build a junior hockey squad around. Or do you like your nucleuses more robustness and less nucleus? Well, it's all a matter of opinion, and personally we'd settle for a bromo seltzer! Anyway, Friday's junior opener in Lakefield ought to be a right interesting melee.

* * * * * *

Men's City Cage Loop meets at 7.30 tonight in the "Y" and all teams should have a delegate on deck to deal with thisa and thata ere the senior hoop season commences. As far as we know, at least five teams will enter, Quakers, C.G.E., Dominions, Independents and the Bees. Other dope will be slipped along to an anxious basketball public as soon as it's slipped along to us. Which strikes us as being a very fair offer, indeed. However, we believe the City Leaguers expect to start their schedule practically instantaneously—if they can find someone who can spell that bunch of bound-up syllables!

Star Netters Play

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28—(AP)—Top-flight tennis players took the stage today as thousands of visitors poured into New Orleans from all over the country for the star-studded events of the Sugar Bowl sports carnival.

Tennis competition got under way with such netters as Bobby Riggs and Charles Hare, No. 1 players of the United States and Great Britain, respectively, on hand.

The program opened formally last night when the University of Kentucky Wildcats won the Sugar Bowl Basketball championship by defeating the Ohio State Buckeyes, 36-30, in a fast game.

Chief interest, however, centres on the Tulane-Texas Aggie football game which will attract 70,000 spectators New Year's day.

Last Night's Stars

(By The Canadian Press.)

Murray Armstrong, Americans — who scored winning goal and assisted in another as New York beat Chicago 4-2 in overtime.

Rangers' Streak Partly Due To Davey Kerr

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—(CP) — Game undefeated streak New York Rangers are riding at present in the National Hockey League is due in no small part to Davey Kerr, their poker-faced net guardian.

It's five seasons now since Davey came to the Rangers from the old Montreal Maroons. At present he's the league's leading goaler, well on the way to winning the Vezina Trophy for the least number of goals scored against him over the whole season.

His style hasn't changed in these five years, and Kerr credits a strong defense and some luck for his record of having been beaten only 26 times in 17 games. Only one team, Chicago Black Hawks has fired three goals by him in one game. In the last twelve games the Rangers have won seven and tied five.

In the season of 1934-35, the first one Davey was with Rangers, he compiled a record of thirteen undefeated games. The Rangers' infra-city rivals, the Americans, spoiled the run. There's a chance a similar situation will develop again this season.

If the Rangers can tie or beat Boston Bruins here Friday night they will face the Americans New Year's Eve with a thirteen-game undefeated record. Kerr says they won't break the string this time—if it's still running.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

JACK PORTLAND
Boston Bruins
By Central Press Canadian

An imposing figure on any National league ice is that of Jack Portland, ponderous defenceman with Boston Bruins, off whom opposing forwards bounce with considerable frequency. Jack is playing his fourth full season with the Stanley Cup champions, after making his N. H. L. debut with Canadiens in 1933-34. The year after he joined Canadiens he was traded to the Bruins, for Tony Savage, shipped down to the Bruin farm team for a season, and then came back as a regular to start the 1936-37 campaign. Last year he and Eddie Shore paired to make up the "sockingest" defence in the league, although Jack has not acquired the rushing capabilities of the incomparable Eddie, whom he first saw 10 years ago when he hitch-hiked 90 miles from his home town, Collingwood, Ont., to Toronto to see a major league puck battle. That decided him on a hockey career, but he postponed it long enough to continue his high jumping at which he was proficient enough to make the Canadian Olympic team of 1932. His teammates call him Tarzan. Dark-haired, spreads his 200 pounds over a six-foot-two frame and is steadily improving at his job. Nine goals, 17 assists and 144 minutes served in penalties constitute his major league mathematical output until the start of this season.

Psychiatric Test Is Suggested For Boxers

TRENTON, N.J., Dec. 28—(AP). —Abe Greene, New Jersey State Athletic Commissioner, studied today the advisability of putting boxers through a psychiatric test as well as a physical examination before allowing them to enter a ring.

Mental alertness inside the ropes, Greene figures, is just as important as physical fitness. He'd just like to know whether they were mentally fit for combat.

The idea would fit into Greene's program to rid the ring of punch-drunk performers, and to prevent others from turning daffy from too much leather mitten punishment.

Snow Bowl Game

Sarnia, Dec. 28.

WHILE the United States is waging football wars in Rose, Cotton, Sun and Orange Bowls on New Year's Day, Canada will stage its Snow Bowl game.

Tilbury Junior Clippers, sidetracked by the O.R.F.U. last fall, will play the Chatham Colvocs at Tecumseh Park, Chatham, on New Year's Day. They expect to attract a crowd of 1,000 people at 15 cents a head. Receipts of the game will be devoted toward the fund to launch a junior team in Chatham next fall.

Phil Stein Loaned

TORONTO, Dec. 28.—(CP) —Phil Stein, substitute goaltender with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has been loaned to Omaha of the American Association for the balance of the season. The Omaha club, a farm team of Detroit Red Wings, presently shares the league cellar with Wichita.

Stein, who played with Syracuse Stars for several years during which the International-American League club was a farm for the Leafs, has been used only in Leaf practice sessions this season due to Toronto having severed connections with Syracuse.

British Golf Star and Bride

SYDNEY, N.S., Dec. 28—(CP).—National Hockey League teams in general and Toronto Maple Leafs in particular without a doubt have one of the largest sport-fan followings during their season—now they can also boast of having what is believed to be the oldest and one of the most enthusiastic fans on the North American continent in 108-year-old Mrs. Annie Oliver of Sydney.

Celebrating her birthday this month, the centenarian, in an interview, said her greatest winter pastime is listening to the regular Saturday night hockey broadcasts from the Queen City — she hasn't missed one since the season opened this year. She also delights in discussing the games when visiting neighbors.

Although her sympathies are clearly with the Leafs' squad, she nevertheless gives Boston's bruising Bruins and Montreal's speedy Canadiens a chance of winning the circuit race this winter.

She knows the majority of players on each of the N.H.L. teams by name, "but my favorite stars are Gordon Drillon, Syl Apps, Red Horner, Nick Metz and Turk Broda of Toronto; Ray Getliffe and Johnny Gagnon of Canadiens, and Eddie Shore of the Bruins," she related.

One of her ambitions has been to attend one of the big league fixtures, "but I guess I'm getting too old now to think of that, and instead will root for 'my boys' from here."

Dividend Is Declared By The Cards

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28—(AP)— The 1939 comeback of St. Louis Cardinals lacked a few victories of nosing out Cincinnati's Reds for the National Baseball League flag, but it was sufficiently good to enable the club to declare a $101,520 dividend yesterday.

The board of directors fixed the profits at $10 a share— a belated Christmas gift, particularly to President Sam Breadon, controlling owner of the club.

Dividends for 1938 were passed after the Cards drew only 292,000 clustomers to Sportsmans Park while finishing sixth in the pennant race that year.

During the last season the Redbirds under Pilot Ray Blades boosted themselves up to second place and played to 411,000 paying patrons here, and also increased their road attendance to 700,000. Only the Reds outdrew the Cards on the road in the National League last season.

BLACK HAWKS ARE DEFEATED 4-2 BY AMERICANS IN OVERTIME

Paul Goodman In Nets For Chicago

By The Canadian Press.

Chicago Black Hawks, the team of lost opportunities, sought another reason today upon which to pin the string of losses that has been shoving them slowly down toward the National Hockey League cellar.

Noted as front runners early in the season, the Hawks are reverting to form and at present are just two points out of the cellar. The bottom rung came two points nearer to them last night when they lost 4-2 in overtime to New York Americans.

The game marked Paul Goodman's first regular N. H. L. start as a goal-tender. The 30-year-old rookie was brought in to replace Mike Karakas, regular Chicago goaler for four years who went down to the minors.

Judging from last night's game the Hawks need more than a good goaler. Goodman stood up well during the regulation play and but for a disputed goal might have gained a victory. His team wilted in overtime and Murray Armstrong and Tommy Anderson scored the deciding goals.

Johnny Sorrell gave the New Yorkers the lead in the first period but Bill Carse evened up for the Hawks in the second. In the third session Art Wiebe tallied while his team was shorthanded to send Chicago ahead but late in the game veteran Charlie Conacher knotted the score.

Chicago players claimed Conacher knocked the puck into the net with his hand but referee Bill Stewart ruled the goal was good and the teams went into overtime. Armstrong scored the winning counter at 4:30 and three minutes later Anderson got another on a breakaway.

New Haven Ties Indianapolis 2-2

It still was an open question today as to whether the eastern or western division leaders in the International-American Hockey League are the better teams.

Last night's game between New Haven Eagles, eastern pace-setters, and Indianapolis Capitals, western leaders, was expected to settle the question, but the teams played a 2-2 draw. It was New Haven's first stalemate of the season.

In another game last night Philadelphia Ramblers edged out Pittsburg Hornets 3-2 to pull into a last place tie with Hershey Bears in the eastern division.

Capitals outplayed the Eagles for two-thirds of the game and held a 2-1 lead going into the third period, but in that session Coach Jimmy Ward shuffled up his lines and Don Willson came through with the tieing goal.

The game at Philadelphia also went into overtime with Vince Germann scoring the winning counter after two minutes of play.

Belleville Here To Play Petes Tomorrow Night

The 1939-40 O.H.A. hockey season opens in Peterborough tomorrow Friday night at 8:30 o'clock in the Brock St. arena, the Belleville Redmen opening the schedule against the Petes. With a fine sheet of ice available, both teams in good condition and prices no higher than previously, the first game of the winter should draw a big crowd of city and district puck fans. The Petes won their group in senior "B" last year and went into the final provincial round-robin series, which the Falls won. Belleville gave them some stubborn battles last season, and are stronger this winter. The clubs are rated O.H.A. intermediate "A" calibre now, but are as strong as a year ago.

Coach Frank Buckland has a husky, speedy and well-trained team of homebrew players. They include Goalie Ray Harding and Earl McNabb; defencemen Drake Jopling, Don Crowe, Jim Ellis, Jack Gardner and Les Burton; and forwards Honey Tompkins, Bun Kingdon, Joe Blewett, Eddie Starr, Art Heal, Don Coughlin, Jack Jopling and Cliff Cadd. It should be an exciting contest between old rivals all the way.

Puck Season Opens At Lakefield Rink

The district O.H.A. junior "B" scheduled for the season opens tomorrow (Friday) night in Lakefield with the Lindsay Midgets being the visitors. Oshawa plays at Cobourg in the only other game of the evening, both the local Colts and Port Hope being idle till next week. Lakefield has lined up a promising pack of young puckists and they hope to start off the winter on the right foot with a victory over the revamped Midgets, who lost a number of last year's stars but have built up a fair squad again. The Lakefield team plays back in Lindsay the day after New Year's.

Remember When—

Dick Irvin of the Saskatchewan Senior Amateur League turned professional with Regina Capitals 18 years ago today. On his sixth anniversary of pro hockey, Irvin suffered a fractured skull while playing as captain of the Chicago Black Hawks 12 years ago tonight. Irvin was appointed coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1931-32 season.

Oshawa Rink Captures First On Curling Bonspiel

OSHAWA, Dec. 28.— A. E. Dyment, Andy Heron and the others of the Granite Club rink copped second prize in the monster one-day bonspiel held here Wednesday, while L. V. Harrington and his High Park Club quartet, also from Toronto took third-place honors.

Frank Michael, veteran skip of the local club, guided his mates, Milt Gay, Russ Gay and Fred Garrard, to the day's championship with three wins for a plus total of 24. A. E. Dyment's rink had 19, while the High Park rink totalled 13.

The most thrilling finish of the night saw Jack McLeod's Oshawa rink win fourth prize by nosing out Robert Walton's Agincourt four in an extra-end game, a total of 10 for three wins. Percy Skitch, well-known Lindsay exponent of the roarin' game, skipped his rink into the money, a total of 16 points for two wins. James Thurston's rink from Dunsford won the sixth set of prizes with a total of 9 for only one win.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 28 — (AP). — Note to Hollywood: If Bob Feller becomes a "celluloid cowboy" be very sure to load his six-shooter only with blanks—otherwise there'll be some dead Indians on the lot.... He's a bit wild at times with his fast ball, but not with his gun.

Incidentally, the Iowa farm boy thinks it will be up to either his Cleveland Indians or Boston Red Sox to halt the Yankees...."If those guys are going to be stopped it's up to the Red Sox or us," says the 21-year-old speedball king.... He believes Detroit will be stronger, but not strong enough.

Omaha has gone for professional hockey in a big way....The crowds average around 2,500, and everybody knows Manager Happy Emms and his boys by their first names.

We thought we had something when we noticed Stockton, Ill., High School scored 90 points in a basketball game, but along came Westerly, R.I., with 158....Scoring also comes easy for the nine Minneapolis High Schools....They averaged 50.2 points for their first 30 games.

Goodyears Blast Galt Goalie, Score 17 Times

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Goodyears must be fighting mad at losing three games in the Senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association this season.

Held scoreless in the first period by a fighting but winless Galt Moose team in Toronto last night, the Goodies ran wild in the remaining two periods to score an avalanche of goals that gave them a 17-3 victory. It was the highest-scoring game of the season.

The result jumped Toronto into a triple tie for first place because while Goodyears were walloping Galt, Hamilton Dominions edged St. Catharines Saints 4-3 in a thrill-packed tilt at Hamilton. The result left St. Kitts, Toronto and the idle Port Colborne Sailors sharing the top rung.

The Moosemen whose ages average 21, skated full out with the Toronto club in the first period on the large ice surpace of Maple Leaf Gardens and backed up by the sensational goaltending of Gordie Brown, led 1-0 at the end of the frame.

Shaw in Nets.

Obviously out to fatten individual scoring averages, the Toronto All-Stars sank 15 of their goals after Brown was forced to give way to substitute Artie Shaw early in the second period when cut about the right eye.

Re-united with the return of Johnny Inglis following an injury two weeks ago, the first-string line of Inglis, Johnny O'Flaherty and Eddie King accounted for 21 of the 39 points picked up by the Toronto snipers.

O'Flaherty shot five goals and drew three assits, while Eddie King scored four goals and aided in another four. Inglis made three assists and two goals.

Leading point maker for Galt was Jack Hogan, who tried out with Detroit Red Wings of the National League last fall. He shot the first Galt tally and earned two assists. Doug Grieg, Brantford player awarded to Galt despite protests of Hamilton, and Keith Cooper were the other scorers.

Nearly 3,000 fans cheered themselves hoarse when Johnny Conick scored the winning Hamilton goal against the High-flying St. Kitts with less than four minutes of the game remaining. Rudy Pilous and Pete Backor each scored a goal earlier in the frame to tie the count.

Conick was a double scorer with Barlow and Brunell contributing one each. Bill Boyd on a pass from Captain Red Reynolds opened scoring for the Saints with the first goal of the game in the first period.

Europe's war has incerased smoking in nervous South Africa.

Slump-Ender

One of those steady, dependable, consistently good players that any hockey manager likes to have around is Syd Howe, ABOVE, left wing—and a general handy-man—with Detroit Red Wings, fluttering in, or close to, the N.H.L. cellar all season. Recently the Wings went 10 games without a win until Syd sank three in one game, all his team could get in beating Canadiens to end its slump.

Halifax Lively Scene Of A Night As Tars Of 3 Navies Invade Port

HALIFAX, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Wartime street scene:

The Fleet's in....thousands of sailors and marines mingling with soldiers and airmen....free for the night....This old seaport seethes with activity.

English marines . . . the acme of dignity....quietly they stroll, fingers twirling swagger sticks....Tall, soldierly forms in snug-fitting blue tunics, trousers with red piping.... smart greatcoats, glittering buttons

English tars . . . many full-bearded ....no dignity there, singing the "Lambeth Walk," dancing in the streets....loosing lusty "Oi's" when the song demands....Shorter and lighter than Canadian seamen.... neat as a pin....shoes gleaming.... spotless white silk scarfs twined about their necks....snore-going swank.

Scores of French seamen....red poms atop pie-plate hats and peajackets distinguish them....They're stocky, muscular....also good-natured....Urchins, panhandlers learn to bum cigarettes, using the French tingue for the touche.

Quick to learn English....a sailor from a Canadian destroyer formerly on the Pacific teaches a Frenchman to say the weekdays in English....He lights a cigarette.... "Match," he says, holding up his light...."Oui," repeats the Frenchman, "Match." The French sailor lights a cigarette...."Matching a cigarette?" he asks....Astray, but thinking.

They Know Where to Head.

Canadian sailors....tall, rangy.. ..No time to wander about.... knowing the city thoroughly, they're off for some destination. A restaurant, crowded, noisy....nickels cascade into the "Juke Box"....the machine blares jive....An English tar leads the singing...The Frenchmen don't know the songs, so they swing into the "Marseillaise"....everybody swells the chorus....the Frenchmen are pleased.

Overhead a plane drones in a black sky....A searchlight's accusing finger seems to pin the plane against the black expanse....the pilot is giving a searchlight company practice....Rolling over lazily time and time again the plane drifts into the distance . . . heads towards its base, as if tired of soaring through the night.

Surveyor Dies

PORTAGE DU FORT, Que., Dec. 28—(CP)—Alfred James Brabazon, 81, former Dominion land surveyor who played an important part in surveys which formed the basis for the boundary between Canada and Alaska, died here yesterday.

ping. The first, for commerce between Britain and the Scandinavian countries, will pass through the mine field and into Inverness-shire through the Moray Firth. The second, for shipping between Britain and Belgium and the Netherlands will lead into the Thames Estuary. Entrances of the two channels will be amply protected by warships, anti-submarine nets and air and naval patrols.

Once the barrage is in position, it will be extremely difficult for Nazi planes to penetrate the mine field and sow magnetic weapons inside the mine-free channel along the coast, experts said. The mine field will restrict this channel to about five or six miles, affording an extremely narrow target for the German airmen. In addition it will be a comparatively simple matter for British air patrols to protect this coastal band.

The Berlin Report.

BERLIN, Dec. 28 — (AP). — The German high command claimed today that British planes were blocked in a foray yesterday against the German North Sea coast and said that one British plane was shot down.

(The British Air Ministry announced yesterday that a German patrol vessel disabled and three German Dornier bombers "damaged and silenced" near the German coast in a British aerial thrust. All the Royal Air Force craft returned to their base).

This morning's German communique said:

"No special events on the Western front.

"British airplanes yesterday afternoon attempted to advance toward the German North Sea coast but were repelled by timely defence.

"Of two planes which penetrated to the German coast one was shot down by a pursuit plane. The other was chased away by anti-aircraft fire."

Allies To Blame.

Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Correspondenz, mouthpiece of the Nazi Foreign Office, charged meanwhile that Britain and France had "incited" Finland to resist Soviet Russia to upset Northern Europe and thus interfere with the flow of supplies to Germany.

The commentary said that "from the moment it became certain that Russia was not willing to pull chestnuts out of the fire for the western powers the efforts of these powers centred on bringing about complications in the north.

"On one hand it seemed desirable to engage Russia there with her military and material resources; on the other it is considered worth trying, through the resulting confusion, to interfere with the possibilities of supplying Germany from this area which cannot be blockaded."

The mouthpiece argued that the ouster of Russia from the League of Nations and the League decision to co-ordinate aid for Finland was part of the Allied plan.

Back To Roost – After Egg Laying Expedition

Somewhere in France two huge bombers of the British Royal Air Force glide down to a landing on their airfield after an egg-laying expedition over the line in Germany. In the foreground is a "taxi" plane, a light ship used by officers for quick trips from one airfield to another.

he added, that there is no danger of a serious earthquake in the Dominion.

Several months ago Thrupp made public a prediction that Nov. 8 to Nov. 20 was a "period of risk." British Columbia and the Northwest United States felt a severe earth shock Nov. 12. Several buildings in Washington and Oregon were damaged but no injuries were reported. A minor shock was felt around Philadelphia Nov. 14.

On Nov. 23—within the "seven to 10 days" leeway Thrupp allows because of the uncertainty of determining the "relative weakness of the earth's crust"—a severe quake occurred in Turkey, and several score were killed in 16 villages most seriously affected.

At the same time he forecast Dec. 25 this year to Jan. 10, 1940, would "bring a much more destructive quake." Yesterday tremblors were reported in both hemispheres, the most severe being in Turkey where news dispatches reported 9,000 persons killed.

Civilian deaths from bombings throughout Finland were placed unofficially at 150 since the start of the war.

Guerrilla fighting increased on the Northern Suomussalmi and Petsamo fronts, Finnish advices said, with forces on skis moving swiftly.

"North of Suomussalmi, fighting occurred at Piispajaervi, where one tank was captured from the enemy," the Finnish communique reported.

Norwegian sources on the Arctic front said the Russians were using their new supply of tanks to form a mobile fortification on their line.

Attacking on the Petsamo area, Finns were said to have encountered several dozen tanks forming a circle in the manner pioneers of the North American West used covered wagons as barricades against the Indians. The formation forced the Finns to withdraw.

Soviet bombing planes yesterday renewed raids on Tannerfors (Tampere), Finnish munitions base, where more than 50 bombs were dropped. One person was killed and another injured.

Seventeen planes attacked Turku, southern port, but caused slight damage. One Russian plane was shot down.

"Among the civilian population there were several victims in some localities," said the communique. "In a raid at Kota four civilians were killed and a few wounded."

of persons killed by falling debris. Whole families were buried in their beds under tons of wreckage.

Others were burned to death as they attempted to escape from flaming buildings. Many who escaped unhurt in their night clothes into the bitter winter night already were seriously ill from exposure.

Authorities prepared for an expected wave of pneumonia and other illnesses.

Scantily clad men, women and children were camping in field, refusing to return to their homes in fear of new tremors.

Ordu, Sivas and Amasia were scenes of widespread havoc.

President Ismet Inonu interrupted a tour of the country to rush to the disaster area and take personal charge of the hastily mobilized relief organization. Other members of the government were joining him.

Army units stationed at various centres in the quake area rushed to the communities worst hit to help dig into the ruins for bodies and fight the flames.

Parliament in an emergency session set up a commission to make a worldwide appeal for funds.

Some of the stricken towns still bore the scars of more than a week of tremors in April, 1938, and subsequent shocks in September and November, this year. Some 800 lives were lost in April, 1938, disaster.

The districts of Erzincan and Kemah were hardest hit in the latest disaster. The Black Sea towns of Samsun and Ordu were pictured as vistas of shattered buildings in the reports filtering through to Ankara. Samsun, about 200 miles northeast of Ankara, has a population of 33,000.

Another large city reported heavily damaged is Sivas, about 200 miles east of Ankara, nestling in the hollow of two mountain ranges near the head of the Kizil Irmak river. It has a population of 34,000. Others caught in the sweep of the catastrophe include Tokat, Amasia, Yozgad.

for more than 24 hours had stumped the nation's literary authorities.

In Crowborough, Sussex, where she is known as "that quiet little woman," the author told the Canadian Press that she left her living-room half way through the King's speech and did not hear the quotation until later in the evening when she listened to a relay and heard the whole broadcast.

Then she said to her sisters: "Oh, dear! Those are my words, I am sure."

"But to tell the truth it took a long time for it to sink in that the words used by the King were mine," Miss Haskins added. "I cannot think how he came across them. Margaret's cable finally convinced me."

Miss Haskins disclosed that some years ago she met the King while he was Duke of York at an informal meeting of social welfare workers in London.

The quotation used by His Majesty was writeen by Miss Haskins some 25 years ago in a privately-circulated book of poems. It read:

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown,' and he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light, and safer than the known way.'"

U.S. Starts Pressure Recruiting Drive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—(AP).—United States army recruiting sergeants will take to the air next month in a super-selling effort to fill the 227,000 enlistment quota set by President Roosevelt.

Four flying recruiting units—two planes each—will tour the country from coast to coast.

The tour is another part of the campaign to "glamorize" the army, using all the high-pressure methods of modern American business. Youngsters chosen for service in the air corps these days may be given a free ride in a big bomber to their first station of duty. So many want to go that the recruits sometimes have to draw lots for the privilege.

For the first time, magazines soon will be carrying army advertisements, paid for by some commercial sponsor "in the interest of national defence."

Three With Guns

DUBLIN, Dec. 28—(CP).—Three men were arrested today on charges of possessing revolvers in connection with the raid Saturday on the Phoenix Park Arsenal.

The men, John Parnell, John Lyons, and Joseph McDermott, all of Dublin, were taken into custody while military guards searched traffic on highways into Dublin.

Oshawa Taximan Robbed Of Car

OSHAWA, Dec. 28.—Held up at the point of a gun after two passengers had taken him on a five-mile trip to a lonely byroad five miles north of Oshawa, Sonny McHugh, Oshawa taxi-driver, lost his car and $7 in cash early last night.

Late last night police had found no trace of either the car or the two men who made their 27-year-old victim accompany them during the first leg of their getaway trip, then thrust him out after picking up a third man near Columbus. McHugh was able to tell officers investigating the case only that the two bandits were dressed in dark overcoats.

A call to Oshawa General Hospital brought the order from his two fares to drive to the farm of R. S. McLaughlin, well-known automobile magnate and sportsman, several miles from town.

At the McLaughlin farm one man left the taxi-cab, McHugh said, walked to the rear of the house and returned with the remark, "There's no one there."

As the driver headed back toward the highway with his two passengers in the rear seat a gun was pressed into his back and a voice barked, "This is a holdup." One man took the wheel from McHugh while the other kept him covered with the revolver, forcing him to thrust his head down below the level of the windshield.

When the car was stopped again, McHugh said, the third man was picked up and the taxi-man was ordered out after one of the men had relieved him of his day's receipts, roughtly $7 in change and bills.

"At first I had no idea where I was," McHugh said, "but I soon recognized it as the Columbus vicinity."

Columbus is about five miles from Oshawa.

Out Of Politics

FRIBOURG, Switzerland, Dec. 28 (AP) — Ignace Moscicki, former president of Poland, arrived here today with his wife from Rumania and said he would "stay out of politics."

Moscicki, who retained his years as Polish president starting in 1926, returned to this western Swiss town where he made a fortune as an exiled chemist and industrialist before the Great War. He was exiled by Russia in 1892 for his agitation for Poland's freedom.

JUSTICE URQUHART RESERVES JUDGMENT IN WINE BYLAW VOTE

Judge Promises To Give Speedy Decision

TORONTO, Dec. 28. — (CP) — Whether electors of Peterborough will vote Monday on the question of whether or not they favor closing a wine shop there will depend upon a judgment which Mr. Justice A. Urquhart will deliver in the meantime.

The judge today reserved judgment but promised a speedy decision on the motion of John R. Cartwright, K.C., that the bylaw be quashed. W. F. Huycke, K.C., Peterborough City Solicitor, appeared for the municipality in defence of the bylaw.

Denies Council the Right

Mr. Cartwright, representing the Hillcrest Wine Co., owner of the shop in question, contended that under either the municipal or liquor control acts the council had no right of submit the question asking if the electors were in favor of passing a bylaw to close it. Mr. Huycke stated that the bylaw was a mere formality, the question was in the nature of an academic one and the liquor control board was free to act in the decision of the people or throw it into the waste-paper basket.

"Your theory is that you can submit any kind of a question under section 111?" said Mr. Justice Urquhart. "You are simply determining the opinion of the people on a certain point. You pass it on to the board and they don't need to act on it unless they want to." Mr. Huycke assented.

Mr. Cartwright submitted that under a decision of Chief Justice Rose in a Hamilton case the council could not ask the electors to vote on such a question. In the Hamilton case they were asked if they were in favor of closing the beverage rooms throughout the province at 10 o'clock at night. He said they went too far. In the case at bar it was not a question authorized by the Liquor Control Act. It was not a municipal question as required by the municipal act. The question in the Hamilton case went too far and that in Peterborough not far enough. It affected only one individual, was discriminatory and, therefore, bad.

"What looked like a prima facie case turns out to be a very hard one," observed Mr. Justice Urquhart in reserving judgment.

Traffic Officer Rescues Pair In Stalled Car

Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton led a one-man rescue expedition out No. 7 Highway early Wednesday morning and salvaged a Peterborough couple who had spent hours in a stalled car four miles west of Fowler's Corners and were badly chilled by the time the officer arrived.

The two had driven a friend to Lindsay and on the way home engine trouble developed and the car refused to move. That was at 2 a.m. and traffic was very light. No Peterborough-bound cars came along, and although they sent a message into Lindsay via a passing motorist for assistance no help arrived.

Early in the morning the mother of the girl member of the stranded duo became alarmed over the failure of her daughter to return home and called Officer Broughton. He decided to investigate, and at 6.30 o'clock found the two half frozen after four and one-half hours' exposure to sub-zero weather.

Masonic Lodges Observe St. John's Night

Members of Peterborough's three masonic lodges together with visiting masons, on Wednesday evening celebrated the Feast of St. John the Evangelist with a banquet in the Empress hotel, when Rt.W.Bro. J. A. McRae, deputy grand master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, was the principal speaker. More than 150 sat down to the dinner, the largest number of masons to celebrate this occasion in a number of years.

Prior to the celebrating of St. John's Night, W.Bro. Cyril H. Crowe and his officers of Corinthian lodge and W.Bro. C. H Elliott and his officers of Peterborough lodge were installed in a most impressive and solemn ceremony in the lodge. The installing master who was later congratulated on his work by the deputy grand master was W.Bro. E. M. Turner, a past master of Peterborough lodge. He wa sassisted by past masters of the two lodges.

During the installation ceremony W.Bro. E. A. Peck, a past master of Corinthian lodge for 50 years, was presented with a past master's jewel and also a veteran's jewel being a member of Corinthian lodge for 55 years. The presentation was made by Rt.W.Bro. J. A. McRae. Mr. Peck, in receiving the presentations, delivered one of the most inspiring masonic addresses to be heard in the lodge room in some time. He testified as to what masonry had meant to him both from his wealth of experience and fullness of heart.

But Mr. Peck was not the only veteran to be honored, for W.Bro. Robert Kingan, also of Corinthian lodge and who for 50 years has been a member of Corinthian lodge, was presented with a veteran's jewel by Rt.W.Bro. R. F. Downey, district deputy grand master. Bro. J. H. Eastwood, a member of Peterborough lodge and of masonry for 50 years, was also to be honored, but was prevented from being present through illness.

Officers Installed.

The officers installed were:

Professor at Queen's

Over the dinner W.Bro. Alex Donnelly presided, and the speaker of the evening was introduced by Rt.Wor.Bro. R. F. Downey. Rt.W. Bro. McRae is Professor of Chemistry of Queen's University and he told of the part masonry was playing and especially Grand Lodge in the lives of many widows, children and masons who have happened upon evil days, in its Benevolent Fund. He pleaded with the members to take especial notice of the brothers absent from lodge meetings. He spoke of the brotherhood of masonry, the sense of pride it gives one in belonging to such a brotherhood and especially on St. John's Night, for wherever masonry exists there will be found masons gathering together to celebrate the occasion which marks the end of the year and the beginning of a new masonic year.

He urged all masons to memorize the closing words of King George's speech on Christmas Day: "I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown,' and he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way'."

W.Bro. M. H. Hardill, the recently installed master of Royal Arthur lodge, thanked the speaker and presented him with a clock as a remembrance of his visit to Peterborough.

The Toast List

A lengthy toast list was honored, with the toast to Grand Lodge being proposed by Bro. H. M. Yelland and responded to by the district deputy, Rt.W.Bro. R. F. Downey. Rt.W. Bro. W. D. Campbell proposed the toast to the Visiting Brethren, and this was responded to by Bro. Ralph Standish; and the toast to the Absent Brethren was proposed by Bro. J. G. Wharry who, in speaking of those who had gone to the "Grand Lodge Above" during the past year, made special mention of what masonry had lost in Peterborough in the deaths of W.Bro. George Morrow, W.Bro. John I. Allen, W. Bro. A. W McPherson, and Bro. E. F. Mason and V.Rt.W.Bro. Alex Gibson

The three new masters, W.Bros. Cyril Crowe, Charles Elliott, and M. H. Hardill were introduced by W Bro. D. T Crawford.

Music for the evening was provided by an instrumental quartette from the Salvation Army Band, composed of Bandmaster R. G. Routly, F. W. Robinson, Al French, and A. Mills.

Crowe Master of Corinthian Lodge. Royal Arthur Lodge, the third Masonic Lodge in the city, recently installed Milton G. Hardill as Master.

Weaver Of The Cedar Hedge At Bensfort Introduced To Examiner By Mere Chance

If you drive down the Bensfort Road from Wilbert Wood's corner to the United Church overlooking the west end of Rice Lake, you are bound to notice on the east side of the road a farm house with a distinctively attractive hedge.

Usually when an Examiner reporter had occasion to be motoring that way he was strongly inclined to go in and find out who lived there, but the impulse was turned aside to some later day for a special visit to get a close up of that hedge and the owner of the farm.

It is a hedge of cedar, tall and closely woven, neatly trimmed with an arched gate, if memory is correct in that detail, and the impression lingers that in the whole of Peterborough county there is not another so well kept and decorative.

If you are interested in farm beautification you naturally desire to meet the man who made that hedge, an asset to the home and property and to the countryside that only time and nature and man's handiwork can develop. You remember it when you get home again, and at times when you think of ideal farm surroundings. That red brick house nestling behind its high hedge, down on the lower ground below the Bensfort Bridge is a landmark in South Monaghan.

And so it happened the other day that Alderman McCannan introduced a reporter to Stanley Robinson, identified as a South Monaghan farmer from around Bensfort.

In the course of conversation, the reporter said to Mr. Robinson: 'Do you know the man who lives on the farm that has that cedar hedge around it. On the left side of the road as you go on toward the lake."

And the reporter added that he had always felt inclined to drive in to the farm and say hello and get a look at the man who fashioned that hedge.

"You're not the only one," Mr. Robinson said. "Every summer we have Americans and also Canadians who come along our road and drive in the lane and ask us if they can take pictures of the hedge and the place. It seemed a little odd to us at first, but we've got used to them. There is one thing about those visits, they never let us forget that we've got that hedge. It doesn't get common, and when people come in and want to talk about it you just naturally prize it all the more."

The Robinson hedge suggests a homey place, and the realization of the owner that time can be made a handmaiden in weaving beauty around it, as many of the farmers of Peterborough county have done, each in his own way, and in contrast with other farmsteads that are left treeless, unattractive and ininspiring.

"Come in and see us the next time you are down our way," Mr. Robinson invited. "Don't drive by again."

Autos May Be Impounded Under Several Charges

There is a great deal about the legal impounding of automobiles concerning which the public knows little or nothing.

The most common charge under which the impounding of a motor vehicle for three months follows a conviction is that of driving while intoxicated, but that is by no means the only charge in which a conviction means that the car involved is tied up for three months.

Such a penalty follows a conviction under one other section of the criminal code, or under two different sections of the Highway Traffic Act. It also follows a second conviction for failing to remain at the scene of an accident or a third conviction for violation of other sections of the Highway Traffic Act.

A car owner who is convicted of driving while disqualified from doing so by reason of the legal suspension or cancellation of his permit faces the impounding of his machine. So too does the motorist who drives a car, the license for which is suspended or the other offender who is convicted of applying for or procuring the issue of a new permit while the old one is suspended.

The unlucky man who is convicted twice of the offence that the public calls hit-and-run driving or three times of driving without a chauffeur's license or operator's permit, or driving an unlicensed car, or driving carelessly or racing another machine on the highway, etc., is also confronted with the impounding of his car.

The law provides that if the car the offender is driving is registered in his name or in that of his wife, or parent or dependent child, and he is convicted under the circumstances mentioned, the vehicle shall be stored in a garage or other place named by the authorities for three months and the costs involved shall be a lien on the machine.

It is provided, however, that if the convicted motorist puts up a bond satisfactory to the authorities to the effect that his car will not be driven by any one during the three month period it may be kept at his home and thus avoid the cost of storage. In either case the impounded car is not to be driven at all until the three months time has elapsed.

Sentiment In Otonabee Quite Favorable To Union School Area After First Year

Roland R. Dixon and Ambrose Doris were re-elected by acclamation trustees of the Otonabee school area comprising the five former sections which entered upon the union of administration a year ago.

The original board remains in charge of the area, as follows: Roy Porter, R. R. Dixon, A. Doris, Fred Nelson and Frank Graystock. It is understood that meetings may be held at Zion and Providence schools simply for the purpose of explaining the year's work to the ratepayers of those sections.

The trustees closed their first year with a balance of approximately $150, and from all accounts laid a solid foundation for the change that is aiming at improved facilities for the school children of the area and also provided within the area.

Sentiment throughout that part of Otonabee is said to be quite favorable to the innovation as a result of the first year's operations, and results are up to expectations of progress at the outset of system that may possibly incorporate all the sections of the township. It was reported of late that the school up the sixth line may be the next one to join the pioneering group, there is no present definite assurance of action.

J. J. Moore secretary, tendered his resignation to the trustees at their recent annual meeting.

Chandos Man Convicted Of Trapping

Robert Kidd, 55, of Paudash, was convicted before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning of having attempted to trap fur-bearing animals in Chandos township on December 12 without a license. He was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail.

Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons prosecuted while Kidd was undefended.

The only witness for the prosecution was Overseer C. Stanley Windsor of Apsley, who testified that he had seen Kidd on a beaver pond in Chandos township fours mile from his home and had watched him go to a trap near a beaver house and afterwards to three other traps placed on top of a beaver dam. Later Kidd walked across the pond and went into the woods about thirty feet where there was a snare of the nature used to catch foxes. When Overseer Windsor spoke to Kidd, the latter had said that he was there to see if there were any mink around.

Kidd had a shot gun with him and a bag in which there were three snares.

The accused denied any knowledge of the traps or snares. He had gone to the pond to ascertain whether or not there were mink around the district.

Magistrate Langley found the accused guilty.

On a second charge of having a firearm for hunting purposes without a license the case was dismissed when the Crown decided not to offer any evidence.

"Dont you think you should thank the officer for his kindness?" asked the magistrate. "I am satisfied from what I have heard in this case that you had a gun and that you were hunting as well as trapping."

Two Days Left To Pay Taxes For Year 1939

Just two more days for those who have been postponing the payment of 1939 taxes! Only two days to get under the wire in time to credit to the 1939 account the taxes quite a number of citizens intend to pay.

Apparently civic loyalty has its limits. A news item in the Examiner a few days ago pointed out that Peterborough's financial position could be strengthened by maintaining the high percentage of paid taxes that placed this city at the top of the list of Ontario cities in its population group. It was thought that ratepayers who have been letting things slide along until they made up their minds to write cheques to S. A. Couper, tax receiver, and square everything with the municipality for this year.

It would be agreeable to all hands to be able to report that this aforementioned item produced a flurry in the tax department at the city hall. The cash registering machines in the Couper office had very little to show in the way of extras and excess of normal inflow as the result of that indirect appeal through the Examiner.

However, there are still Friday and Saturday to wind up the year with longer props under Peterborough's municipal financial structure, a last chance to get in at the top of the list of municipalities for the amount of 1939 taxes actually paid and in the sock.

Hit-and-Run Fighting On Western Front

A French patrol is shown charging through a section of no man's land between the Siegfried and Maginot lines on action that was later described in a terse army communique as "our patrols were active in some sectors last night."

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Frustrated so far in their attempt to seize Finland by their land forces the Russians are increasing their air attacks on Finnish cities.

The bombing of Tammerfors, important Finnish munitions-producing centre, may be the start of a new Russian approach to the problem of subjugating the northern republic.

Should the Russians, with their immense superiority in numbers of aircraft, succeed in putting Finland's important industries out of business the beleaguered country would become more than ever dependent on outside assistance.

That sort of an attack, however, is one which can be resisted with the aid of supplies from other countries and in this it differs from the invasion of overwhelming forces on land.

Had Russian troops smashed through Finnish defences and destroyed the Finnish army all the goodwill and help which other states might offer Finland could not save the country.

But a prolonged campaign of air bombing—and in order to accomplish much such a campaign must be prolonged—would leave the army practically unscathed. The problem for Finland then would be to obtain supplies outside the country to take the place of the normal output of factories destroyed.

Finnish economy would suffer heavily. Many civilian workers would lose their employment, the towns and cities would be evacuated completely but so long as the country could remain in good order and keep roads and transport equipment in reasonable working condition the defence could be kept up with supplies from abroad.

HISTORIC SCENES AS THEIR MAJESTIES TOURED CANADA

As this year draws to a close the greatest Canadian news story of the year still remains the historic visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to these shores—the first time in history that a reigning British monarch ever visited Canada. With the Empire now engaged in a life and death struggle to smash the terroristic reign of Hitler and his government and to restore the rights of smaller and weaker nations, the memories of the graciousness of Their Majesties burn in the hearts of Canadians. Now faced with the difficult task of reigning over an empire engaged in the grim task of fighting a war against a terroristic regime Their Majesties are tirelessly working at self-appointed war tasks which leave them little time for their own personal affairs. These pictures of Their Majesties, made during their visit to this Dominion last summer, were picked at random to depict the various episodes in the history-making tour that once and for all stilled the tongues of those who had said that the senior Dominion was drifting away from the motherland.

Daring Finnish Ski Patrols Smash Red Invaders

One of the Finnish flying columns that have made life anything but pleasant for Soviet invaders in Northern Finland is shown, RIGHT, taking time out from a long ski trek The light machine-gun the man in the foreground carries on his back is standard equipment with the white-clad patrols that swoop down in surprise attacks on the Red troops. These ski troops are credited with the route of the Red forces in Northern Finland this week. White-clad machine-gunners of the Finnish army, LEFT, are shown operating an anti-aircraft gun in the Petsamo region, where the Finnish troops staged an amazing comeback, hurling the invading Russians back on all fronts.

Bride-Elect Is Entertained

HASTINGS, Dec. 28. (ENS) — Miss Helen Jones of Hastings, whose marriage to Mr. Francis A. Green of Kent, Ohio, takes place on Saturday December 30, has been the "Raison-d'-etre" for a number of delightful parties recently. Miss Jones has been a teacher in New Hamburg for about eight years.

The Misses Adelle and Ruth Mason of New Hamburg entertained their bridge club at their apartment. The evening was spent in making dusters, compiling a recipe book and making a presentation of a beautiful Irish linen tablecloth and was followed by a dainty lunch.

On Thursday, December 21, the staff of the New Hamburg Public and Continuation School presented Miss Jones with a lovely silver fruit bowl. The boys of her grade gave her a set of glass bowls and the girls gave her a pretty boudoir lamp.

In Rochester, N.Y., on December 8, Mrs. D. J. Meagher, aunt of the bride-to-be, assisted by her daughters, Mary and Winifred, was hostess at her home on St. Paul Blvd., at a miscellaneous shower and supper party when twelve aunts and cousins of the guest of honor were present.

On December 22, Mrs. C. S. Noble of 18 Manor Rd., Toronto, entertained at a bridge party after which the guests showered Miss Jones with miscellaneous gifts.

The Sodality of Our Lady of Mount Carmel of Hastings parish, of which Miss Jones is a member, also made a presentation. A beautiful statue, that of the Blessed Virgin Mary "The Immaculate Conception" was presented to Miss Jones by the prefect, Miss Angella Gorman and the assistant prefect, Miss Margaret Lynch.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire announce that it has been arranged to collect and store field comforts for the Canadian Army Overseas Division; also that the railways have granted free transportation for the war work of the Order. The War Work committee of the Women's Canadian Club of London, England, has arranged storing and packing rooms in England for distribution of the comforts and is working in co-operation with the I.O.D.E.

The Provincial Chapter of Ontario, I.O.D.E., will be pleased to receive the names of organizations wishing to forward their field comforts (socks, mitts, gloves, sweaters, balaclava caps, pyjamas, housewives and personal belonging bags) overseas through I.O.D.E. facilities. Address all communications to Provincial Headquarters, I.O.D.E., 168 Jackson St., West, Hamilton.

Marion C. Mix Weds E. Higgins

The marriage of Miss Marian Charlotte Mix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mix, to Mr. Edwin George Higgins, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Higgins of Oshawa, will take place at a candle-light service this (Thursday) evening in Cannington United Church. Rev. Ernest Pugsley will officiate. Mrs. N. McPhadden will be at the organ and the soloist will be Master Robert Herring of Oshawa.

The bride's father will give her in marriage. She will wear a period gown of ivory damask brocade with slight train. Her shoulder veil will be caught with lily-of-the-valley and she will carry a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses and valley lilies. Mrs. John Loudenslagel of Bellevue will be her cousin's only attendant, wearing an old-rose faille gown with touches of midnight blue and bustle bow, matching doll hat and carrying white roses. Mr. Robert Dryder of Oshawa is to be groomsman, and Mr. William Edwards, Orillia, and Mr. Sydney Hopkins, Oshawa, will be ushers.

A reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Mix will receive in a gown of black moss crepe with touches of gold, matching hat and corsage of Briarcliff roses. The bridegroom's mother will be gowned in black crepe with black hat and corsage of Joanna Hill roses.

Later the bride and bridegroom will leave on a short motor trip, and will live at 83 Alexandra street, Oshawa, on their return. Mr. and Mrs. Higgins are both graduates of the Peterborough Normal School.

Question: Have you any leaflets suggesting entertainment for Christmas Day at home? I would appreciate any suggestions that you could offer. Mrs. M. R. K.

Answer: Thank you for your letter.

We have no "leaflets" suggesting entertainment, but I have a few ideas to offer you.

Since Christmas is fundamentally a day of giving and good cheer, your guests could have a "cut out" party. Using scissors, paste and colored stiff paper they could make paper toys for children in the orphanage or shutins in your community. Some suggestions are a tent city, sailing boats, paper doll's house furniture, candy baskets, crowns, etc. The kindergarten teachers vow there is nothing that can not be made out of stiff colored paper. The imaginations of your guests will be tested. The one who makes the most ingenious and neatest toy or set of toys of course, wins a prize. And these can be put to good use by delivering them the next day where they will be most appreciated.

A guessing game is often very amusing. "Who Am I?" can be made into a Christmas game. One guests leaves the room. The others decide who he or she is to be: Mary, Joseph, The Three Wise men, The manger, The donkey, a bottle of Frankinsense, etc. If you do not know this game there will be some present who do for it is very popular. The victim has to ask questions that can be answered only by "Yes" or "No." For instance if you decide to make him The Star of Bethlehem: He will ask: "Am I a man?" "Am I a Woman?" "Am I contemporary?" "Am I medieval?" "Am I Animate?" "Am I inanimate?" "Am I Animal?" "Am I plant?" etc.

In this way he narrows down his possibilities. It is surprisingly simple to deduct your identity in this way. Some one who is clever or who has playe dthe game should be the first victim to give the rest a chance to know how to ask questions. Easy people should be given to children.

I might add that in the out out game there should be a prize for children and adults.

We hope these suggestions help you out and that we can give you some recipes some time.

Question: I wonder if any subscriber could give a recipe for making Porter. The doctor has ordered my wife to take Porter and we cannot afford to buy it." A. M. B.

Answer: So sorry to have to tell you that Porter is not a product that can be made at home. The equipment necessary includes a furnace (adapted to this process), a special drink table, and other smaller pieces of equipment.

However since malt is the basic ingredient in porter this may be the ingredient your doctor wants his patient to have.

I have a formula for Iron Malt Beverage that is commonly used medicinally in England. You could show this formula to your doctor, asking him if it complies with his ideas. The ingredients may be purchased at drug and grocery stores.

Iron Malt Beverage.

Extract of malt 16 oz., elixir of beef iron and wine 16 oz., pineapple juice 16 oz., simple sugar syrup 1 quart—made by boiling together 5 minutes 2¾ lbs. sugar with 30 oz. water 5 min. Mix these ingredients together well. It may be seryed as is or diluted with soda water or other charged water or diluted with ice water. Keep cold.

FASHIONS

For a youthful silhouette, choose this background dress with its slimming uplift waistline, and wide double swing skirt. It's dainty and feminine with little bows marching down the front or tailored with buttons and a crisp turnover collar. No youthful wardrobe is complete without this dress. It is just the thing you will put on when you want to look smartly but simply dressed. Dark rayon crepe sets of your bright accessories.

Style No. 2922 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material.

P.C.I. At Home Has Largest Attendance In 29 Years

The largest At Home in 29 years of holiday parties at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School was a brilliant social affair of last night, with well over seven hundred students, graduates and friends attending. Garnet and grey, the traditional colors of P.C.V.S., swung in gay arrangement from the centre of the gymnasium in false ceiling effect over the hundreds of swirling dancers. A P.C.V.S. crest at one end of the room faced the Union Jack, a patriotic touch members of the Students' Council, who plan the parties each year, always like to include in their decorative scheme.

Happy, carefree music was played by Mose Yokum and his orchestra against a background of silver that reflected the lovely frocks of hundreds of pretty girls—the most beautiful display of formal gowns seen in the city for some time. The school colors were again used with striking effect to drape the front of the silver-covered bandstand. A novel idea this year is the three-foot border around the walls of the gymnasium, on which are written names of former P.C.I. students. Spot dances were won by Miss Helen Steer and Mr. Jack Doherty, Miss Betty Allan and Mr. Fraser Bradshaw.

Ray Borland is head of the Students' Council, and working with the members on arrangements were Mr. R. G. Corneil and Mr. H. H. Graham. Miss Marg. Grose was convener of decorations, assisted by Bob Garner. Girls of the social committee, of which Mr. F. E. Johnston is convener, were in charge of decorations for the tea tables, which were centred by Talisman roses, chosen to blend with the color arrangements of the rooms.

Receiving were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Borland, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Corneil, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. H. Melton, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Walker, Dr. and Mrs. A. Moir, Dr. and Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner.

Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. A. S. MacRae, Mr. and Mrs. J. Comstock, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Hall, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. R. McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. L. Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. R. IN MEMORIAM

HAMILTON.—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. William (Marianne) Hamilton who passed away December 28, 1938.

The evening stars shine on the grave
Of one we loved, but could not save;
The call was sudden, the shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
Your last parting wish we would like to have heard
And breathed in your ear our last parting word;
Only those who have lost are able to tell
The pain in the heart at not saying farewell.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.

—Lovingly remembered by Husband daughter Elizabeth.

HAMILTON.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. William Hamilton, who passed away December 28, 1938.

One year has passed and gone
Since the mother we love so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
She bade no one a last farewell,
She said good-bye to none;
Her spirit flew before we knew
That she from us had gone.
In heaven, dear mother, we'll find you
When He calls for us to come,
We'll stand once more beside you
When God's great will is done.

—Ever remembered by daughter Minnie; son-in-law, Bert, and grandson Bertram Howden.

SMITH.—In loving memory of our little darling, Elaine June, who died December 28, 1938.

She was only a sweet little rosebud,
A dear little flower from birth;
God took her home to heaven
Before she was soiled on earth.

—Ever remembered by Mother and Daddy, and little brothers, Herby, Ronnie, Harold, Bobby.

DOROTHY DIX

Start To Train Your Children When They Are In The Cradle And They Will Be Less Of a Problem To You When They Reach The Adolescent Age.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am worried about my 17-year-old daughter. She has always been very popular and until recently has gone about with several boys, but for the last month she has persisted in going steady with just one. When I have forced her to accept invitations from other boys, she has done it against her will and come home surprisingly early. I don't disapprove of the young man she prefers, but I dislike seeing children their age keep such late hours and seemingly get so serious. However, my daughter says she cares no more for him than a dozen others, and that she will keep on seeing him as long as she desires, regardless of what I say. I have considered forbidding her to go with this boy, but when I say anything about it she goes into fits of temper and on a hunger strike that lasts indefinitely and eventually upsets the entire family, and frankly I am afraid to tackle this. What do you suggest? — AN ANXIOUS MOTHER.

ANSWER:

You are asking me seventeen years too late for my advice to do any good. I should have told you then to establish your authority over your daughter while she was still a babe in the cradle. If you had taught her then to obey you and to respect you, and that "Mother knows best" and never to speak to you with anything but deference, you would not now have a girl who at 17 defies you and your opinions and of whom you are afraid.

Nowhere else in the world is it so true that "as we sow so shall we reap" as it is in the rearing of children. If you sow the seeds of disobedience, of self-indulgence, of selfishness, of contempt for all authority in a child, you reap the bitter harvest twenty years later when your child insults you and defies you, and you find yourself powerless to stop it when it takes the wrong road.

But, as Mr. Cleveland said, it is a condition and not a theory that confronts us. The question is now not what you should have done when your girl was a baby, but what you should do now, and that is a problem that Solomon himself could not answer. For at no time in a girl's whole life is she so unamenable to reason as when she is in her adolescence. She has not seen enough of life to know that age brings wisdom, and so she has a profound contempt for everybody, her parents included, who are not in her own age class.

She thinks all of the customs and conventions and ideas of the past are obsolete and not worth considering. Above all, she regards her father and mother as doddering fools who should by rights be in a home for the senile. Having had everything always given her, she has no appreciation of what her parents or any one else does for her.

She is convinced that she is the last word in sophistication; that her taste is perfect, her opinions final, and that she is perfectly capable of running her own life and picking out a husband. Time and experience and sorrow and tears will give her the discipline you should have given her, and it will break your heart to see her take her lesson.

About the only thing you can do for her as regards this boy is simply to let the matter drop. Don't oppose her, because if you do she may assert her own independence by eloping with him. If you will let her alone she will probably tire of him herself. And don't throw other boys at her. The reason she refuses to have anything to do with them is because it annoys you. If you can afford it, send her off to some school where in a different environment she will meet other young people and forget this boy.

But haven't you one single vertebra of backbone left in you that you let this little minx terrorize you with her tempers and her going on hunger strikes? Maybe the temper is real enough, but the hunger strike is a joke, as you would soon find out if you would lock up the icebox and hide the cake. Even a mother must have enough perception to realize that when children refuse to eat at the table they are foraging around somewhere else. I'll bet you don't notice that your daughter acquires any pallor or loses any weight when she is ostensibly doing without food.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am 28 and for the last ten years have been secretary to a prominent and popular business man. I love and admire him very much, although he is a married man with children, and we have been meeting secretly. I think lately he has been seeing other women, but always with such discretion that, as in my case, his wife would never be humiliated. I am capable. I am a valuable assistant to him and he means everything to me, but I am wondering where this will end. I am not marrying now while I have a chance because I cannot bear to leave him, though I do want a home and husband and children as any normal woman does. I am afraid that if I do leave him that I will be more wretched than I am now. What chance for happiness is there for me in this situation?—ELLA.

ANSWER:

None, as you must well know yourself. For you have left yourself not one solid thing in life to which to cling. The things that make for happiness for a woman are, first of all, a clear conscience, being able to look herself in the face and not be ashamed. Then comes love, husband, children, home, security. Then the good opinion of her little world. You have thrown all of these to the wind. No woman can take another woman's husband away from her and not know herself for a criminal. No woman who has been a married man's mistress has a shred of reputation left and her chances of marriage are slim.

In your case the picture is darkened by your having your heart torn by the double jealousy of the man's wife and of the Lady Love who is about to supplant you. Yet you are afraid to leave your faithless lover, lest you be more miserable apart from him than you are with him. But that is the only way you have any chance of having any remnant of your happiness. For you see yourself that he is getting tired of you, that the glamor has worn off of your little romance, and you must realize that unless you beat him to it you will be fired.

You will go the way you have seen so many other women go in offices who fell in love with the boss and who queened it in the office for a little while, then were wafted gently and firmly into the outer air when he grew tired of them.

Egg Flies Through Air With Greatest of Ease

Entertain With Magic Tricks

People like to be fooled—so take 'em up on it!

You'll have a grand time at parties — doing mystifying tricks with such objects as coins, tumblers, cards and cigarettes. And it's much, much easier than it looks.

Place on the table two eggcups—close together with small ends up. As you put an egg in one of the cups say, "Now, this Dissatisfied Egg, which I call Elsie, is like some women. She always wants to be where she isn't! Well, let's humor her!"

Then you blow sharply on the rim of the cup containing the egg, and whoosh! into the other cup Elsie flies. Pocket her, and when a spectator wants to try his skill, produce an egg. It won't budge. Why? Well, maybe you can guess from this clue. Eggs differ—especially with a little help from you!

To learn to do the Dissatisfied Egg and 41 other magic tricks—see our new 32-page booklet. Tells how to make coins melt away, glasses vanish, balloons change color cigarettes rise at your command, do many more seemingly impossible feats which make you a hit at parties.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of PROFESSIONAL TRICKS FOR AMATEUR MAGICIANS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

For Friday, December 29.

Mixed influences, astrologically speaking, predominate on this day. There may be much liveliness and stimulated action, probably in a decisive effort to break up old obstructions and congested conditions. The effort, under the impetus of keen mentality and sharp resources and intuitions, may be best directed toward attacking these static situations to make way for constructive endeavor on entirely new and progressive lines. There may be trial tests and vexatious opposition. Unexpected change of plans, interests and environs is likely.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which a definite effort may be made to break up old crystallizations and obstacles, making way for an entirely new setup, with more progressive objectives and fresh interests. While this endeavor entails man petty vexations and brisk opposition, the mentality will be so keen, resourceful and inspired that it will successfully combat difficulties and advance objectives toward desired goals. All pertaining to writings or publishing is particularly fortified.

Player Saves Teammate's Life

BOSTON, Dec. 28.— (AP).—Arthur Blanchard, Arlington High school hockey player, was credited to-day with probably saving the life of a team-mate, Robert Battis, 18, who was injured seriously in a hockey game at Boston Garden yesterday.

Battis crashed into the boards at the opening face-off of a game against Cambridge Latin School and fell in such a way that his skate severed an artery in his left thigh. Blanchard immediately ripped his jersey in two and wound the pieces around Battis' leg, staunching the flow of blood.

Later a professional tourniquet was applied and Battis was taken to a hospital, where he received two blood transfusions. The game continued, ending in a 1-1 tie.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

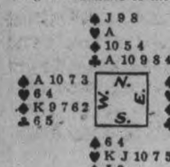
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU KNOW, HE DOESN'T

THERE ARE always facts about your own hand which nobody at the table knows except yourself, regardless of what you have told by your bidding or play. You may be able to see a sure defense against the opponents' contract which your partner cannot be expected to guess. To put that plan in operation sometimes necessitates your overtaking your partner's honor and thereby getting in command of the situation.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

East bid 1-Spade to open this deal. South 2-Hearts. West 2-Spades. North 3-Clubs. East 3-Spades, and then everybody made what seemed like a conservative pass.

As soon as South led the club king, North took stock. Deciding to go for heart ruffs, he plumped his club ace on his partner's king, laid down the heart ace, and returned the club 3 to the queen. South promptly cashed his heart king, then led the jack. If the declarer ruffed this low in the dummy, the Jack could overruff it at once. He trumped with the ace, but that built up the setting trick for North.

Eustache Grubbe Heads Parks In Vancouver

Older residents of Peterborough will learn with interest that a former well known resident of this city half a century ago, Eustache H. Grubbe was elected park commissioner in Vancouver for a two-year term in the recent keenly fought municipal election in which he ran as a candidate of the Non-Partisan League.

Mr. Grubbe whose father was the late R. W. Grubbe, former manager of the Bank of Toronto here and whose brother Harry Grubbe is a well known member of the summer colony of the upper Stoney Lake area, left here in 1893 and has lived in the west ever since, most of the time on the coast.

The Daily Province remarking that his victory was one of the most popular of the campaign, said this of Mr. Grubbe:

His nickname of "Grubbie" among his friends is a testimony to the warmth of feeling in which he is regarded; he himself is appreciative of the friendly cognomen and so happy is he in his associations that none, not even the youngest, feels that he is being presumptuous in hailing "Grubbie."

As a park commissioner Mr. Grubbe has a double advantage: a lover of the outdoors and beauties of Vancouver's scenery; and forty years banking experience in British Columbia, most of it in Vancouver.

Enters Banking.

"It was forty-five years ago that he entered the banking business in the service of the Bank of Montreal at St. Marys, Ontario. After a few years he moved west to Regina and came to Vancouver in 1898. He was in New Denver and Kamloops for a few years and returned to Vancouver to assume the managership of the Main and Hastings branch in 1915, the postion he held at his retirement at the beginning of this year.

"So much for his official career, which brought him a host of friends in Vancouver and the coast districts of the Province. But besides this he earned the gratitude of countless men and women as honorary treasurer of the John Howard Society and for his general interest in welfare activities.

"Grubbie's" eyes still sparkle with the zest of athletic combat; he is strong, vigorous and of athletic carriage, so tha instead of slipping into armchair somnolence at his retirement, he looks round for new activities.

"On the Park Board and in the Rowing Club he has two outlets for his energies. He has been associated with the club for forty years, is a past president, and is a former member of the English Rugby Union.

"His services to the oarsmen's organization could not be tabulated. His steadfast loyalty, his keen sense of sportsmanship, his forthright integrity, and his cheery courage in difficult times have been inestimable in making the Rowing Club the sound institution it is today.

A Good Player.

His sporting activities have not all been executive. In his prime he was one of the best English rugby players in the city, and played on the champion Vancouver side from 1900 to 1905. For years he belonged to the Alpine Club, and has accomplished many of the hard climbs in the district. As a golfer, too, he is well able to hold his end up.

"More than thirty years ago he was one of the leading oarsmen on Coal Harbor, and is one of the most encouraging elders for the youngsters. The high school scholarships awarded by the club last year had his warmest support."

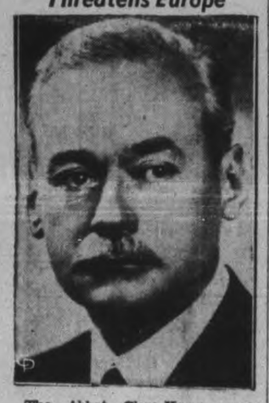
Mystery Greeting

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 28 (AP) —The holiday greeting sent in Gaelic by Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Eire to Mayor Thomas Spellacy has beaten the Irish of Hartford.

A half dozen or more experts were appealed to for a translation, but none could agree.

Finally, City Marshal Daniel B. Coll, the prime minister's cousin, volunteered to write De Valera for a translation.

Threatens Europe



The Abbot Chao-Kung, once known as Ignatius Trebisch-Lincoln, pastor, member of the British House of Commons and international spy, who announced to the world recently that unless governments of European belligerent countries resigned at once, the Tibetan Buddhist supreme masters would eliminate them. This final appeal for peace by the abbot, if ignored, will cause "Tibetan Buddhist supreme masters, without prejudice, predilection or favor, to unchain forces and powers whose very existence are unknown and against whose operations" European leaders are "consequently helpless."

Yule Concert Enjoyed In Havelock

HAVELOCK, Dec. 28—(ENS).—Santa Claus paid his annual visit to the basement of St. John's Anglican Church last Friday evening as the Sunday School held their Christmas entertainment. A splendid program was presented by the children but the concert drew a very poor adult attendance, due to the number of other events taking place the same night.

Santa appeared near the conclusion of the program, accompanied by the happy shouts of the assembled youngsters, and distributed the heap of gifts which lay at the foot of the brightly decorated Christmas tree.

Rev. R. E. Lemon acted as chairman for the program, which included the following numbers: Opening choruses by all classes: "Holy Night," "Away in the Manger," and "Good Christian Men Rejoice"; flag drill, "O Canada"; vocal quartet, "With a Smile and a Song," by Jean and Joan Quinn, Marilyn Clarke and Helen Anderson; recitation, "Why," by Helen Anderson; vocal duet, "Little One Sleep," by Jean and Joan Quinn (Betty Holdcroft, pianist); dialogue, "Modern Mothers," by Marilyn Hutchinson, Betty Davies, Bernice Longmuir; piano solo, Betty Holdcroft; dialogue, "Samuel's Proposed," Shirley Hutchinson, Marguerite Clarke; selection by the Rythm Band under the direction of Mrs. D. J. Holdcroft; dialogue, "Burlington, Change Cars," by the members oif the Church Boys' League; "Jingle Bells," by the Rythm Band.

Alaskan Moose Survives "Lock Of Death" As 4 Men Saw Dying Opponent Free

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 28.—(AP):—From the Kuskokwim River wilderness comes a rare tale of human hands releasing the 'lock of death' in which two powerful bull moose apparently had been batting.

Pilot Don Glass sighted the big animals with locked horns. He flew back to the spot two days later with wild life agent Jack Benson and two other men.

He heard a crack as the younger bull went limp with a broken neck. They rushed in and hogtied both animals. With a small hand saw, Benson severed the entangled antlers of the victorious forest monarch. Released, it trotted away. The younger bull soon died.

Death in bull moose battles is no rarity but wild life authorities said it was the first case in which they had heard of men freeing the combatants. In many instances the victor dies with the vanquished because he can not free his horns.

Fine Old Hamilton Home Swept By Fire

HAMILTON, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Fire gutted one of Hamilton's finest residences early today and caused between $6,000 and $8,000 in damage. The outbreak started in the cellar of the home of W. H. Yates, Wentworth street south, and burned through the drawing room, destroying rugs, pictures and valuable tapestries..

The huge dwelling was one of the oldest in East Hamilton, being the William Bell homestead. It was purchased and remodelled by Mr. Yates some years ago.

Firemen carried women members of the household to safety in a wing of the house.

Marcus, a two-year-old monkey, who was described as being able to "do everything but talk" perished in the basement from suffocation.

South Monaghan Has New Reeve

There is still a Whittington at the head of municipal affairs in South Monaghan. Reg Perrin has come back to the reeveship again, taking the place of Roy Whittington, and getting the honor without having to strive for it. Of the four members of the council Fred Barnard and H. C. Barnard continue the connection with the personnel of this year. Harry Campbell and Jay Whittington are new members.

Jay Whittington is in his early twenties. He is a nephew of the present reeve, and is reported to be one of the youngest men ever to enter the township council. The retiring member of the council who is stepping down with Roy Whittington is Robert Thompson.

The new council was elected by acclamation.

Tells About Stomach Relief After Suffering Long Time

Gas, Indigestion, Cramps, Nausea and Headaches Kept Her in Constant Misery. Got Happy Surprise When Syntona Gave Relief After Everything Else She Tried Had Failed Her.

MRS. JANE PENN

Every day you read in the paper about how other men and women have got grand relief from stomach troubles, weak kidneys, sluggish liver and distressing ailments that follow faulty assimilation and elimination, by taking a treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound. It helped them. Don't you think it will help you, too? Here, for example, is the splendid experience of Mrs. Jane Penn, well-known Hamilton lady, who resides at 124 Robins Ave.

"For years I suffered with indigestion, stomach gas, cramps, and constipation. My appetitet got so poor that the sight of food just made me feel nauseated. I was subject to dizzy, bilious spells and sick headaches and my nerves were so bad I couldn't get my proper sleep. I had tried several different medicines, but I just seemed to be getting steadily worse.

"I had read about Syntona, but I thought it was just like all the other remedies I had tried. So, when I finally did begin taking Syntona, I got a happy surprise. Why, in just a few days I could tell it was helping my stomach. It relieved all that gas and bloating, and that full, heavy feeling in my stomach. I am free of headaches and dizzy spells now, my nerves are relaxed, and I sleep better. I don't know when I felt so well at this season, and I will be glad to have others know about what Syntona has done for me."

If you live in Peterborough or vicinity, go to Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George St., and get yourself a treatment of this pure herbal compound that is being so widely recommended. Remember the name, Syntona, and avoid disappointment. (Advt.)

Vote Quashed On Wine Shop On New Year's

Mr. Justice Urquhart Says That Vote Prohibited Under LCA

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP) — Mr. Justice George A. Urquhart today ruled that electors of Peterborough, Ont., may not vote Monday on the question of whether they favor closing wine shop there.

Mr. Justice Urquhart, in his opinion on the by-law which has been placed before the citizens of Peterborough by the city administration, said it was by implication prohibited under the Liquor Control Act.

The action against inclusion of the by-law in the city election was taken by the Hillrust Wine Co., represented by John R. Cartwright, K.C.

"As the Legislature in its wisdom in regulating the liquor traffic, has authorized certain questions to be submitted," says his Lordship, "it is to be implied that other questions are not to be submitted to the electors which are variations of those questions. Such questions may not be specifically authorized by law to be submitted, but impliedly they are prohibited by the Liquor Control Act from being submitted."

Mr. Justice Urquhart says that it is doubtful as claimed that the by-law is discriminatory. While it affects only one individual, the Liquor Board might conceivably pay no attention to it.

Another ground for the decision is Losing Hope?

London, Dec. 29 (CP)

INFORMATION reaching the National Union of Railwaymen indicates that Nazi leaders are more and more inclined to believe Germany cannot win the war, John Marchbank, general secretary of the union, wrote today in the "Railway Review."

"Remarkable incidents in the sea warfare, marked by the scuttling of the Graf Spee, reflect the defeatist mentality," he said.

"Strain, anxiety and distress are increasingly felt by the German people and, according to reports, there exist disunity and indecision and intrigue and mutual accusation among the Nazi leaders.

30 Alien Experts In U.S. Limit For Bata Plant

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP).—The United States Labor Department informed the Bata Shoe Company that it could use only 10 alien workers at its Belcamp, Md., plant instead of the 100 originally authorized.

James L. Houghteling, immigration commissioner, wrote Jan Bata, president of the company, that an investigation showed that all but a few of the processes at the plant could be performed by American workers.

The company had been told it could import 100 Czechs to work in the Maryland plant one year. The concern had contended that processes used in the factory were so unique that unemployed skilled American workers could not perform them without instruction from Bata-trained men. So far, 72 Czechs have been admitted.

Trooper Drowns, Beat Death Thrice Last War

HAVELOCK, Dec. 29.—A Canadian who came through the last war without a scratch, despite having been buried alive three times by shellfire, became the Dominion's first casualty in the C.A.S.F. before his second great adventure had really started.

Private A. T. Post of the Saskatoon Light Infantry drowned at Glasgow dock after he had been knocked off a troopship when the vessel was brushed by another ship as it was about to drop anchor.

Details of the fatality were revealed yesterday by a brother, Bruce Post of Havelock, a first Great War veteran, who said he had kept up a correspondence with his brother until four years ago, but had not seen him for 14 years.

The first detailed information he received of his brother's death was a terse communication from military officials. It read: "Regret inform Mr. Bruce Post, Havelock, Ont. that his brother, A. T. Post, Saskatoon Light Infantry, missing since unit disembarked. Now report found drowned Glasgow dock. Arrangements being made burial Glasgow. Letter following from commanding officer."

Buried Alive Three Times

"We were both through the last war," said Mr. Post. "I was wounded in 1916 and came home, but my brother, who enlisted in 1915, saw the war through to the finish and came home to Havelock in 1919 without a scratch. He was buried alive from shellfire three times and narrowly escaped being smothered to death on the third time. A chum of his from Havelock, Harry Washburn, rescued him."

Canada's first expeditionary force casualty worked in lumber camps and farmed in Havelock and Brighton district until 15 years ago when he went to Western Canada. Letters came from him at regular intervals until four years ago, the brother said. It was learned indirectly this fall that he was in a small town near Edmonton during the summer. That was the last re-

Mandated Lands Misused Nazis Charge

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Germany, with a special eye on Syria and former German East Africa, has protested to Great Britain and France against use of mandated territories for war purposes.

Authorized quarters said the step, which presumably was made through Sweden, was "logical and of interest to all members of the League of Nations, as these territories were entrusted to Britain and France solely as trustees."

French action in assembling war materials in Syria and the presence of General Maxime Weygand, head of the French Near Eastern forces, in Syria are mentioned as being watched closely by Germany. Close attention is also being given to the possibility that the Allies may use Syria to aid Turkey in event hostilities spread to the Near East.

The German protest was delivered to the governments of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa as well as to Paris and London. It mentioned the mandated territories of Tanganyika, the Cameroons, Togoland, Southwest Africa, New Guinea, Samoa, Palestine and Syria as having been placed by the manda-

Soviet Gunners, Fliers Bomb Reds In Mistake

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 29.—(AP).—With Finns unbowed after a month of attack by Soviet Russia, the Red air force smashed again to-day at Southwestern Finland.

As if in reprisal for a victory claimed by Finland on the eastern front—perhaps actually the winning of a new foothold on Russian soil for a third thrust toward the Murmansk railway—Russian bombing planes attacked railway junctions at Yvinkaa, Riihimaki and Karjaa.

The three thrusts into Russian territory are East of Lieksa, in the Inari sector, northeast of Lieksa, in the Kivivaara sector, and the penetration by Ski troops, reported from the far northern front, in the direction of Kandalaska. This last has not been mentioned in the Helsingfors communiques.

The Finnish telegraph agency meanwhile reported confusion in the Salla sector of the Eastern front as the result of Russian fliers bombing their own lines and Russian Artillery shelling its own troops by mistake.

The Agency reports said these operations were the result of errors and did not indicate any belief they were signs of revolt.

Helsingfors was quiet throughout the day without a single air alarm being sounded.

Guerilla War Winning.

The communique said that the Russians were "foiled" by the guerrilla warfare being waged by the hit-and-run ski forces on Russian soil east of Lieksa and that "the enemy also has been pushed back across the frontier north-east of Lieksa."

There were still no reports of the outcome of a parallel foray toward the railway from the Salla region, about 225 miles north of Lieksa where it curves to within 50 miles of the border. The railway is about 150 miles from the border in the Lieksa region.

(However, despatches reaching Stockholm from the Salla sector told of a new Russian assault there, against Finland at her narrowest point. The Russians, apparently trying to regain 50 miles of ground lost in the past few days to counter-attacking Finns, had brought up hundreds of new, quick-firing field pieces.

Quint Doctor To Resign As Guardian

Ontario Agreeable, Will End Suits; Reunion Is Likely

TORONTO, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Resignation of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe from the Dionne Quintuplet Guardianship Board will be accepted by the Ontario Government, it was learned here to-day. The resignation was announced by his lawyer, Arthur Slaght, in Miami Beach today.

Dr. Dafoe will continue as director of the Dafoe Nursery and as their personal physician. The resignation from the board will relieve him from business responsibilities, but will not affect his control of the famous five-year-olds.

It is learned in Government circles that an agreement which has been considered by Dr. Dafoe and Oliva Dionne, father of the quints, is subject to the approval of the Ontario Government. The agreement would cancel several legal actions brought by Dionne against Dr. Dafoe as a result of their years of disagreement over conduct of the youngsters' affairs.

It could not be learned here whether the agreement has been signed, but Government officials said they knew it had been under consideration for some time.

Under its terms Dr. Dafoe is to recommend to the Government that the quintuplets be reunited with their parents and their seven brothers and sisters. They have lived in the Dafoe Nursery, near the Dionne home, since they were three months old.

Mean New Home.

If the Government agrees to the re-union a home will be built for the family in the Callander district where the quints were born on May 28, 1934. The building of the home might delay the re-union until 1941.

Two years ago the guardians endeavored to effect such a reconciliation with Dionne as would permit a re-union under one roof. The plan fell through, but it did result in a gentleman's agreement between Dr. Dafoe and Dionne which brought Dionne to the guardians' meetings for the first time.

In Callander Dionne to-day said he was pleased that Dr. Dafoe would recommend the re-union "strongl." "The quints' mother and I are happier than we have

6 Guests Escape Kemptville Hotel Blaze

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Dec. 29 — (CP).—Fire swept through the Allen House, Kemptville's leading hostelry, today, virtually destroying it before being brought under control. Damage was estimated at about $20,000.

The Kemptville fire brigade of about 20 men who operated a gasoline pumper and a steam pumper to get water from the Rideau River, brought the blaze under control before extra firefighters, sent from Prescott, Ont., and Ottawa, arrived.

Kemptville is about 35 miles southwest of the Capital, with a population of about 1,300.

The blaze started in a laundry, set up in a frame building adjacent to the three-storey Allen House. Quickly the flames swept through all three floors of the 30-room hotel but no one was reported injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fitzhugh of Cobourg, Ont., guests in the hotel, managed to make their way to safety as did four young men, the only other guests.

Four firemen managed to get some of the furniture from the first and second floors out of the building. Many spectators helped in piling it in the street.

Goods in the adjacent Capital Store were damaged by water.

Two Detectives Dive On Suspected Girl Spy Spoil Break For Freedom In Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—(CP). — Katharines Haidinger, suspected of being a Nazi spy, made a break for freedom to-day as she was being taken from Don Jail to Kingston for internment until the war is over.

In the waiting room of the Union station, just before she was escorted aboard the train, she suddenly slipped out of her overcoat and sprinted across the room. She turned up to the ramp that leads to the station concourse, but was overtaken at the top of the ramp.

One plainclothesman grabbed her. A second dived on top and all three landed in a heap on the floor. Miss Haidinger was taken back and placed aboard the train.

She came into Canada illegally in August, police say. It is reported that the dark-eyed attractive German girl persuaded a fisher woman to row her across the Niagara river at Foft Erie. She had $1,200 in travellers' cheques and $150 cash when arrested.

Following her arrest, she told a variety of stories, one of which stamped her as a spy. One story was that she had to leave Germany because she had been keeping company with a Jewish boy, and Nazi officials were likely to put her into a concentration camp.

There is no internment camp for women in Canada, so she was sent to Kingston penitentiary.

Canada's New Year Morn Paean Of Revelry Expected To Take On Added Zest As Nation Tries To Forget War Few Hours

(By The Canadian Press.)

Somewhat inhibited until the stroke of 12 in eight of the nine provinces, Canada will blow the lid off the New Year in a midnight paean of revelry that will surge acros sthe continent Sunday night, intensified by war conditions.

Because the Eve of 1940 is a Sunday, dancing will not begin in hotels and night clubs of eight provinces until midnight. The exceptio nis Quebec, where dancing is permitted on Sundays.

A survey by The Canadian Press indicated to-day that, with lower prices in most centres owing to the late start of dancing, the number of celebrants will not be reduced from other years. It is likely, too, that in the effort to forget the war for the night at least, the merrymaking will take on an added fervor and continue farther into daylight.

Increased employment due to the industrial acceleration following the war should see more people patronizing the bright spots of the larger centres. Uniformed members of the Canadian Active Service Forces are expected to be present at many of the public celebrations.

In general, hotels and dining and dancing places across the country are offering a dinner with string music until midnight, upon which the dancing and hilarity will be unconfined.

Entrepreneurs of amusement note that this means a change in the curve of celebration. In years when the eve has fallen on weekday, the revelry has started earlier and reached its climax at midnight, after which the intensity has tapered off. This year, they say, there should be a wild burst of hilarity unloosed in waves across the Dominion at the watching hour, with the high point being reached sometime between then and daylight.

Early this week, police heads began issuing warning to motorists to leave their cars at home if they were drinking. Reports from towns and cities from coast to coast show there will be no let-up in police surveillance of traffic for drunk drivers over the New Year's week-end.

In Toronto, prices at the two leading hotels were lowered sharply for the New Year's Eve party. One is charging $6 a couple, with no floor show, while the other is charging $10 a pair, with entertainment. In normal years the rate is $15 a couple, with favors thrown in. These will be missing Sunday night.

A leading Halifax hotel is charging $7.50 a couple and preparing for about 1,200 celebrants. Another large affair will be the dance given by the Saraguay Club, which has a club liquor permit and will be able to serve it before midnight. As in most centres, theatres will open at midnight.

Turk Toll 60,000; Martial Law In Quake Areas

ANKARA, Dec. 29. —(AP)— A mounting death toll in earthquake-stricken Anatolia today lead officials to express belief the total dead might reach 50,000 as starvation, cold and disease created new perils for survivors of the Wednesday catastrophe.

Relief trains rushed food and medical supplies to the shattered quake zone, but wrecked communication facilities and a raging blizzard made it seem certain additional thousands would die of injuries and exposure before help could reach them.

Fears of new tremors, predicted by Turkish seismologists added to the terror of the quake region.

Officials had put the dead and injured in Erzincan province alone at 42,000.

It was said that "numberless thousands" of persons remained buried in the ruins of buildings.

Special trains bearing hundreds of doctors with supplies and medicines managed today to reach some of the ravaged areas isolated since the great tremblors of Wednesday.

They were unable to reach many localities because of blocked roads and collapsed bridges.

More Quakes Expected.

Authorities said more tremors might come in the next 10 days. Director Fatin of the Istanbul Observatory said that geological disturbance apparently occurred 16 miles below the surface and covered a wide area, so that further movements were likely before the strata settled.

As one single item of the tragedy, they reported finding great numbers of stray children in pitiful condition in the mountain woods.

Three additional earth shocks last night added to distress in the ravaged area of East Central Turkey.

Other miserable survivors huddled in the fields, where many froze to death.

Bitter cold, ranging to 22 degrees below zero, hampered efforts to extinguish fires that burned in nearly every village and town.

Martial law was proclaimed, and rifle-bearing soldiers had orders to shoot looters on sight.

In the province, or vilayet, or Erzincan alone, the dead and injured were estimated officially at 42,000, nearly a third of the total population.

Last Minute News Flashes

PARIS.— (CP-Havas)— "France will not lay down her arms without material and positive guarantees," Premier Daladier declared today before the French Senate. Reviewing the war picture to date, the Premier credited the French navy with having destroyed at least nine German submarines and with having seized 360,000 tons of contraband merchandise.

KINGSTON.—(CP)— Accompanied by two officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Katharine Haidinger, suspected of being a Nazi spy, reached here today and was taken to the women's prison at Kingston Penitentiary. She will be interned as an enemy alien for the duration of the war.

Revenue Of CNR Up 13 Million, Big Year Ahead

MONTREAL, Dec. 29—(CP). — President S. J. Hungerford of the Canadian National Railways reported today in a year-end review that 1939 traffic results can be considered "reasonably satisfactory." Preliminary figures indicate C.N.R. gross revenues will exceed $200,000,000 for the first time since 1931.

He said the outlook for 1940 is influenced largely by war conditions.

"The traffic increases which have so far taken place may be expected to continue," Mr. Hungerford said. "This is likely to be true not only as regards the traffic particularly related to the war, but also as regards the industrial activity of the country. Railway operating revenues for 1940 are, therefore, likely to be substantially increased over the earnings of 1939 with continued improvement in financial results."

Net revenue of $20,000,000 is shown in indicated results for 1939. Operating revenues are set at $203,000,000 and operating expenses at $183,000,000. In 1938, net revenue totalled $8,066,410, operating revenues $182,241,723, and operating expenses $176,175,313.

Bigger Demand In 1940.

The C.N.R. was called upon to provide a considerable measure of transportation in connection with Canada's war effort and undoubtedly requirements for such transportation will be increased, the railway head remarked.

He added that the "policy which has been pursued in the past of maintaining the property to a high standard, despite the period of business depression, has been shown to be justified and the country may rest assured that the Canadian National Railways is capable of meeting the extraordinary tasks which it will likely face as a result of the war."

Mr. Hungerford said that during the year the normal process of modernizing equipment was carried out in all fields. When war broke out the equipment situation was re-

I.R.A. Brewing Fresh Coup To Upset All Ulster

DUBLIN, Dec. 29 (CP Cable)— Observers in Dublin are speculating on the possibility of another "bust up" in Ireland, this time in the Ulster area.

The general impression is that the outlawed Irish Republican Army, although pressed by the police in both north and south, is carefully laying the foundations for a new campaign to "expel the British by force" from the northeast corner of this island.

Color is given these theories by the raid last week-end on the magazine fort in Phoenix Park. The principal supply depot for the Eire army. The raid was a repetition of a Sinn Fein feat before the formation nearly 20 years ago of the Irish Free State—the forerunner of the State of Eire.

The raid was so well organized that Dubliners asked whether there was the possibility of collusion from the inside. They held such collusion would not be surprising as the I.R.A. is known to have agents scattered throughout Ireland and Britain.

News of the arms raid followed disclosure of the theft of over $25,000 from mail bags en route to Irish banks. No arrests were made and it was rumored the raid was carried out to replenish the I.R.A. war chest.

Furthermore a fugitive I.R.A. radio station is operating three times weekly and like the "German freedom station," seems to be uncatchable.

Eire's man in the street regards the rumors of strife nervously because he does not want more bloodshed. However, he would be content to look on with equanimity if the trouble were confined to north of the border.

I.R.A. leaders are reported to feel that if they could engineer a coup d'etat within the six Northern counties they would have the sympathy and probably the help of the South.

It is argued this would place Premier Eamon de Valera's government in an awkward spot. However much the administration

U-Boat Holes British Battleship

30,000-Ton Job Hit West Of Scotland, Three Men Are Killed

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(CP).— The Admiralty announced to-day that a German submarine had attacked a British battleship, killing three men and causing "some damage."

The Admiralty issued this communique:

"A torpedo attack has been made on a British battleship by a U-boat. Some damage was caused and three men were killed."

Officials declined to make further comment and gave no indication as to the identity of the battleship involved or when or where she was attacked.

Unofficially, however, it was learned the battleship was safe and was proceeding on her course.

Since the beginning of the war, the Royal Navy has lost one capital ship, the battleship Royal Oak, sunk by a German submarine. Another major loss was the sinking of the aircraft carrier Courageous, 32,500 tons.

Nazi Report.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—(AP)— The Supreme Command claimed to-day that "a German submarine torpedoed a battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class west of Scotland." The Queen Elizabeth class are ships of 30,600 tons.

(The Queen Elizabeth class consists of five battleships commissioned during the First Great War—the Queen Elizabeth, Warspite and Valiant, all of 30,600 tons, and the Barham and Malaya, 31,100 tons. Each carries eight 15-inch guns.

(The ships originally cost about £3,000,000 (13,000,000) each and in recent years have been reconstructed at a cost of from £1,000,000 to £2,000,000 for each ship. All are fitted with anti-torpedo bulges.)

Toronto, Dec. 29.

INCREASED Federal and Provincial income taxes through reducing exemptions were forecast at Queen's Park today. The Ontario Government, it is authoritatively reported, will at the legislature session opening Jan. 10 make provision to parallel any action Ottawa takes in cutting the exemptions.

Reds Place Hero Of Jap Scrap On Finn Front

MOSCOW, Dec. 29. —(AP) —Soviet Russia, whose communiques on the Finnish campaign of late have failed to report any red army successes in recent weeks, has switched generals and renewed rigid censorship of foreign news dispatches.

General G. M. Stern, hero of Russia's "vest pocket" war of 1938 with Japanese Manchoukuoan forces, was reliably reported chosen as chief of the Leningrad military district and of a reinforced red army to fight Finland.

General K. A. Meretskoff, former commander, was said to have been called on the carpet December 22 to explain the lack of impressive successes in the invasion. His dismissal as head of the Finnish drive was said to have followed.

Fats From Coal and Shale Latest In Nazi Dishes

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—(AP.—Germany is prepared to make edible fats from coal and shale. Quite literally, in a pinch butter can be made from coal.

Details of this discovery were given to the American Association for the Advancement of Science to-day by a recently arrived German expatriate, Dr. Willy Lange, of the Basic Science Research Laboratory, University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Lange was an assistant professor in the University of Berlin, and his figures covered developments up to midsummer, shortly before start of the war.

Fats and copper are the two materials which informed scientists here said Germany was most likely to run short of in war. This month there have been news reports that Germany was progressing on the fate problem with new synthetic chemistry.

The coal fats, Dr. Lange said, are made by blowing steam through coal to produce carbon monoxide and hydrogen. This poisonous gas is the starting substance which, with subsequent chemical treatments, becomes first industrial fat, and then edible fat.

Shale, of which Germany has a larger supply than of coal, is another starting material for butter substitutes. The shale is first converted into oil.

Chemists who heard Dr. Lange's paper said it appears that anything which produces a lot of carbon monoxide is good for making edible fats.

Germany's immediate purpose, Dr. Lange said, is to make industrial fats, mostly soaps, which need not be so pure as the edible kind, in order to save natural fats for food.

The method known as the Fischer-Tropsch process, started on large scale fat manufacture two years ago. Last midsummer the first two plants reached a production of 60,000 tons annually. Germany's total industrial fat neds total 230,000 tons.

"Further plants were in construction," said Dr. Lange.

Claim Dafoe Through As Guardian

Ontario To Agree If Quints' Doctor Wishes It

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP)—The Globe and Mail says today it was "learned last night from a reliable source" that Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe has submitted to the Ontario Government his resignation as guardian of the Dionne quintuplets but will continue to act as physician to the children.

In a special despatch from Callander, Ont., home of Dr. Dafoe and near where the quintuplets live, the Globe and Mail says:

"It had been rumored here that counsel for Dr. Dafoe and Oliva Dionne (father of the quints) had reached an agreement regarding the court actions instituted by Dionne. It is said that Dionne was willing to drop his suit provided Dr. Dafoe would resign as a guardian but remain as doctor for the quints.

"Other conditions had been included which were unacceptable to Dr. Dafoe and for this reason Dr. Dafoe had declined to affix his signature to the agreement. The Globe and Mail was informed tonight on good authority at the deadlock had been broken and a basis of understanding had been reached acceptable to Dr. Dafoe."

(At Callander Dr. Dafoe, who has been a guardian since soon after the quints' birth in 1934, intimated that an official announcement on his status might be made within a few days and said: "I cannot say anything until it becomes official."

(Dr. Dafoe said any statement would have to come from his lawyer or from Ontario Government officials. His lawyer, Arthur Slaght, K.C., of Toronto, is holidaying in Florida.

(Dr. Dafoe said Saturday he had been anxious for two years to be relieved of his duties as guardian. The other two members of the board of guardians, Judge J. A. Valin and Percy Wilson, refused to comment last night on the reports of Dr. Dafoe's resignation. Keith Munro, business manager of the quints, said Dr. Dafoe had spoken to him several times in recent months of the possibility of resigning "but hasn't said a word about that lately.)

Farmer Hopeful Price Boost Due During 1940

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—(CP). — In planning their first crop of the Second Great War Canadian farmers wonder if a long hoped for rise in prices is on the way. The First Great War was slow in boosting farm prices but as it drew to a close farmers obtained steadily increasing returns for their products.

The present conflict opened after a long series of low-price years during which farmers were compelled to produce more but obtained a smaller return than at any time in recent memory.

A survey just completed by the economics division, Marketing Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture shows the impact of recently prevailing economic conditions on 21 farms in a fertile area, Kent County, Ontario. The survey compared the returns from operations of the same farmers on the same lands in the years 1921 and 1938.

The average cash income of the 21 farmers dropped from $5,559 in 1921 to $3,823 in 1938, and the total expenses per farm dropped only from $2,250 in 1921, to $2,186 in 1938.

been since our babies were taken from us five years ago," he said. "This is the best news we could ever have."

One of the actions against Dr. Dafoe would drop as a result of the agreement called for an accounting by the physician for all moneys he has received on contracts dealing with the quints. The other was a libel action based on Dr. Dafoe's appearance at the Saint and Sinners Club in New York carrying a bag labelled "Doctor of Litters."

One Nurse to Go

Another of the clauses of the agreement provides for the retirement of one of the present nurses to whom the parents have objected and her replacement by a nurse of whom both the doctor and the Dionnes approve.

The physical, intellectual, moral and religious educaton and social training of the Quintuplets will be under the sole jurisdiction of the Dionnes and the Governess assigned, but subject to the partial regulation of the Ontario Department of Education.

Fifty-six-year-old Allan Roy Dafoe, Madoc-born and in Callander and district country practice since 1907 graduation in Medicine from the University of Toronto, has become a universally known and acclaimed figure since May 28, 1934. In the early morning hours of that day, summoned to the Dionne frame farmhouse by a frantic Oliva Dionne, he officiated at the Quints' birth.

Lawyer Confirms It.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 29. — (AP).— Arthur Slaght, lawyer for Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, confirmed reports to-day that the doctor will retire from his guardianship of the Dionne quintuplets.

Slaght said Dr. Dafoe would continue as personal physician to the children.

The other guardians will continue, with Percy Wilson, government representative on the board of guardians, "remaining as final arbiter of any problem arising as to which the guardians differ or even as to which they agree."

Dr. Dafoe's retirement from the guardianship, Slaght said, will be effective as soon as his reignation is accepted by Premier Mitchell Hepburn's government.

The attorney said no decision has been made as to whether the children will leave their special nursery and return to live with their parents. He added:

"That will be decided in the future, to the satisfaction of all concerned."

Through In January

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (CP)—Henri St. Jacques, lawyer for Oliva Dionne, said today he expected Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe's resignation as a guardian of Callander's famous quintuplets which he helped bring into the world, would take place "about the middle of next month."

He confirmed reports the doctor had agreed to resign as a guardian and devote himself entirely to caring for the health of the children. The agreement was reached "recently" he said.

"This means," said St. Jacques, "that all suits brought by Dionne against Dr. Dafoe will be dropped. Affairs of the quints will be in the hands of Dionne, Judge J. A. Valin of North Bay, Ont., and Percy D. Wilson, as official guardians."

The doctor will continue to be paid for his medical services from a fund belonging to the quints, St. Jacques said.

ExchangeControl Board Shows Boost In Trade

Cycle Patrolmen Provincials Will Be Merged

TORONTO, Dec. 29. — Complete amalgamation of the Ontario Motorcycle Patrol with the Provincial Police, effective from January 1, was announced yesterday by Attorney General Conant.

Under the new scheme the patrol branch will cease to exist as a separate branch of the police force and will be brought directly under the control of the twelve district inspectors of the latter organization. All patrol officers will be transferred directly to the respective districts in which they now are on duty and will be immediately responsible to the inspectors therein located. To assist the inspectors in the most heavily travelled sections of the province, five patrol sergeants will be posted—one to each of the district headquarters at London, Hamilton, Toronto, Belleville and Perth. This will involve reverting two of the present area inspectors to the rank of patrol sergeants. The other three sergeants required for the new establishment have had their appointments for several months.

"The complete amalgamation of what have been hitherto regarded as two branches of the force," said Mr. Conant, "appears to be most logical from every standpoint. I am satisfied that it will result in a considerable saving, increased efficiency in the highway patrol and better law enforcement generally."

Jury Absolves Deloro Firm In Man's Death

MARMORA, Dec. 29.—(ENS) — The following verdict was returned by the jury at the inquest held in Deloro Hall on Thursday afternoon on the death of John Dobrowolski: "That John Dobrowolski came to his death at the General Hospital in the city of Belleville on the 23rd day of December, 1939, through injuries received while employed by Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, Limited on the 20th day of December, 1939. that the question is not a municipal one.

The city is ordered to pay the costs to the applicants.

"Just the First Shot."

"Well, that was just the first step the Council took, and it was a rather fine point the Court had to decide," Alderman Gordon told the Examiner this afternoon. "I mentioned that fact when I proposed the by-law to take the vote on the local wine shop. In the meantime, the Council has gone further. We have asked the Government to pass legislation enabling municipalities to take a vote on the closing of such shops. If that amendment should go into effect, then any city or town in the province that has a wine shop in its borders can go ahead and get the expression of their voters."

Ballots Thrown Out.

The report from Toronto arrived opportunely at the City Hall. Ballots were printed for the wine shop vote, but with the shadow of uncertainty projected from Osgoode Hall across the preparatalons for the elections, the ballot boxes could not be transferred to the deputy returning officers, and they had to be handed over by Saturday with their contents of ballots and other stationery and general instructions.

The effect of the judgment reduced the number of ballots for each voter to two, the one for aldermen, and the other the Council's proposal to borrow $10,000 for the erection of pedestrian bridge across the river above the Quaker Oats Company's dam.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Firm trends on outside markets combined with a disappointing Argentine wheat crop estimate and moderate export sales of Canadian wheat to leave wheat futures prices ¼ lower to ¼ higher after a steady session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. December wheat closed at 83⅜, May 88½, and July 89⅞ to ½ cents.

Flax prices scored new season highs in the coarse grain pit. Prices reacted from the highs, however, presumably because of profit-taking.

At its high point, the price of May flax was less than two cents from the two-dollar mark. In addition to the flax rally, exporters were credited with taking a little barley.

Mr. Hungerford, who is president also of Trans-Canada Air Lines, said the cross-country service, inaugurated in 1937, has been developed rapidly.

"The potential value of the T.C.A. services was emphasized by the inauguration in August of Imperial Airways Trans-Atlantic mail service, when British mail was received in Vancouver only 54 hours after leaving Southampton," Mr. Hungerford said. "The experimental flights of the Trans-Atlantic service have been discontinued for the winter season."

CHAPTER ONE

FOUR HEADS turned gravely, but no one spoke when the girl came into the drawing room. She dropped a tennis racquet on a chair and, untying a silk bandana, dropped it beside the racquet. She ran long, slender fingers through her hair that was the hue and texture of corn silk. With that gesture she lifted it from her shoulders to where it hung framing the oval of her face. She crossed the room in long, easy strides and dropped an elbow on the mantle, facing the others from the hearth.

Her eyes, gray and long-lashed, were amused as they swept the room. They were also a trifle hard. Speaking in a cool detached voice that revealed the sort of finishing schools she had lately attended, she said:

"The curtain rises! It is late afternoon in September. The scene: The drawing room of the Comtesse de Ligne. The characters on stage are the heirs of the late Elihu Willoughby . . ."

Fabienne gave her mother a glance in which pity was not apparent and continued:

"You've always been so proud of your flare for the dramatic, mother. Doesn't this little scene appeal to you?" She covered the room with a gesture that included the two middle-aged people, sitting calmly by the window: her mother, the posed figure of tragedy in the high-backed carved chair; the tall, good-looking boy trying, with no success, to palm a coin as he had seen it done.

The telephone rang and the four heads turned again to the door. Only Fabienne's remained turned to the window. The telephone call was not the one they were waiting for. Fabienne began to speak again:

"So like a stage set. Uncle Mark, looking exactly what he is—the distinguished scholar, and Aunt Edna, practically labeled: Uncle Mark's. And Dick, darling, unable to conceal his impatience to escape this little family party and get back to Cambridge. As for you, mother, you look like the program note: Costumes by Mainbocher." She looked toward the wide door. "Ah, the perfect note! The butler enters!"

Marcus, old and distinguished as any theatrical butler, brought the evening papers in and laid them on a table.

Her son slid the coin he had been playing with into his pocket and came across the room to pick up a paper. He scanned the front page. "Here it is," he told her. "Shall I read it?"

The others nodded.

"'Elihu Willoughby wills entire fortune to charity'," he read. "'The contents of the will of the late Elihu Willoughby, whose death occurred in Paris on July 10, were announced today. The millionaire manufactured bequeathed his entire fortune, estimated at more than five million dollars, to charitable and educational institutions'."

Gertrude said. "Why doesn't Neilson call? He should have kept this ridiculous story out of the newspapers. We'll be the laughing stock . . ."

Fabienne said, "Continue, Dick."

"'The sum of one dollar each is left to the surviving seven members of his family, for whom, the will read ,the millionaire has provided amply'."

Gertrude sniffed loudly.

Her son gave her a short glance and went on, "'With the exception of the old Willoughby mansion—long a landmark in the heart of the Henderson street district—which is left as an outright gift to the Henderson Street Settlement house with the proviso that it is to be known hereafter as Willoughby house, all other gifts are in the form of trust funds,' etc."

"Don't read any more!" Gertrude cried.

"Oh, mother, please, don't be so dramatic," Fabienne said disgustedly. She dropped into a low chair and picked up a magazine as though the bottom of their luxurious world were not about to drop out.

Mark Willoughby fished an old pipe from his pocket, looked at his wife and slipped it back. He said, "Perhaps Edna and I had better be running along. I doubt if Neilson can get any definite word today. It takes a long time to learn if you can break a will."

Gertrude flashed an angry glance at her brother. "It wouldn't matter to you, would it, Mark? You and Edna live quite handsomely on the trust fund our grandfather gave you when you were married. But think of me—and my children's future.

The latter was so obviously an afterthought, her children exchanges glances and Dick said, "We wouldn't be penniless. . . . I'm not sure the old man was being so unkind at that. He had to make his own money and he got some fun out of it. We didn't, and we've always had plenty of it — but what's it got us?"

He didn't qualify the things he said and no one answered him. They all knew how grandfather's money had been squandered. Gertrude, more than any of them, knew how she had squandered her fortune on her two, now deceased, spendthrift husbands.

"I'm thinking of Fab," she said. "She's got to marry. She's been out four years now. With competition what it is, and so few eligible men, and now no money, what chance has she?"

A cynical smile touched the girl's lips. "I have big eyes, a beautiful figure, play the guitar and my friends call me cute," she said sardonically.

Gertrude wasn't listening. She said, "I've trained Fab. . . ."

Fabienne threw her magazine on the floor and sat bolt upright. ". . . . to ride, fence, dance and fly," she finished. "I've been presented at the Court of St. James. I know how to address a dignitary and seat ranking ambassadors. Nothing less than a crown prince should do for little Fab. I wouldn't be of any use to a real man. That's what you've trained me for, mother! Would you like to hear more?"

Gertrude's eyes glittered coldly as she turned to her daughter.

Edna said mildly, "Now, Fab, don't talk to your mother that way. We're all upset. . . ."

Marcus came to the door with a telephone in his hand. "It's Mr. Neilson, madame," he said, plugging it into the wall and giving Gertrude the instrument.

She talked for a moment, and then replacing the instrument in its cradle, she told them, "He says it's hopeless. The will must stand What shall we do now?"

Dick told her. "You can live on your income, Mom. Fab. has five hundred a month and I expect to go to work in June. We're not going to starve."

Gertrude was not listening. She had fixed her eye on her daughter. "Fabienne, you must marry Nicky."

Across the room the girl's hot defiant eyes met those of her mother. And suddenly she knew how she felt about her. Her mother, who, had never been a mother to her, who had sent her to Mark and Edna, and who now looked upon her as a commodity, a piece of marriagable property.

Marry Nicky Bartlett and his millions now? She'd been thinking of it ever since she was sixteen, but now she knew she would not, if only to defeat her mother's hopes. She . . . she's go to work first.

Marcus came to the door once more. "Mr. Bartlett is calling," he announced

Fabienne threw her mother a long, terrible look. "Show him in," she said.

CHAPTER TWO

"Perfect entrance," Fabienne whispered to no one in particular when Nicky Bartlett came into the drawing room.

His smile, beneath his neat mustache, was a blend of anticipation and realized pleasure. His eyes included all of them as he went directly to Gertrude de Ligne and bent over her hand. Rising, he spoke to Edna Willoughby, gave his hand to Mark and then to Dick and came to stand beside Fabienne, as if that were his place.

She said, "Hi, feller, how'd you know this was the psychological moment to arrive?"

He snapped open a paper-thin gold cigarette case and held it out to her. "Something exciting going on?"

Fabienne took a long time over lighting her cigaret from his lighter Then she blew a straight smoky column before she answered:

"We've been cut off without a sou. Or haven't you read the papers to-

CAMPBELLFORD

Factory Reports Increase In Production

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 29. — (ENS)— Prince of Wales Cheese and Butter Company reported a slight increase in production during the current season despite the fact that patrons had dropped from 20 to 19. This was revealed at the annual meeting held on Thursday. The upward price of cheese was reflected in the November statements issued at the meeting. These showed butter fat had brought an average of 40.83 cents per pound for the month which was practically ten cents above the average for the year. An average of 2.72 pounds of cheese per pound of butter fat ranked the factory one of the highest for the season.

Retiring president and secretary Jesse Locke declared the company had had a very good year "ending up much better than we started."

J. D. Mills was elected chairman of the meeting and in his statement for the year said: "During the season there was delivered to the factory 1,434,762 pounds of milk from which were manufactured 117,566 pounds of cheese and whey butter to the value of $598.69. The cheese sold at an average price of 12.76 cents per pound requiring 12.1 pounds of milk per pound of cheese. The average price received per pound of butter fat was 30.71 or with the bouus of $704.26 it was 32.24 cents. The average test was 3.1 and the average yield 2.72 pounds of cheese per pound of fat. The total amount of fat was 43,098 pounds." During the general business a motion to continue the practice of having all whey pasteurized was unanimously passed.

Owner and operator of the factory Grant Anderson thanked patrons for their cooperation in assisting him with different matters during the season. He expressed regret that the cheese did not grade up so well in the spring owing to rancidness. This had been partly compensated for by higher averages during the latter part of the season.

This year a new ten thousand pound vat was installed and he expected that by the coming season more of their difficulties would have been ironed out. Claiming that production costs were mounting he estimated it would cost approximately $250.00 more next year to produce the same amount of cheese as a result of rising labor costs together with increased cost of boxes which had advanced from 18 to 23 cents and of bandages from seven to ten cents. If the price of rennet followed the rise it took the last war it would mean an even further advance in cost. He indicated the present cost was around $2.65 but that it might well advance to four or even eight dollars he felt.

Though Mr. Anderson felt the cost of production should be on a sliding scale based on cheese at thirteen cents and increasing one mill for every one cent increase in price of cheese. The cost of production being placed at 16 cents.

On motion of Lindsay Anderson, it was suggested that next year the campany pay 17 mills and one-half the whey butter to Mr. Grant Anderson to manufacture and furnish. An amendment was added offering to pay 25% of the bonus on all 94 scoring cheese to the cheesemaker Harold Petherick. Mr. Anderson guaranteed 98% first grade cheese.

District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray who is one of the patrons of the factory stated that the guarantee of 98% first grade cheees during the past year had made the patrons price slightly better than in many other factories.

He spoke of the effect of the war on prices and told of how one of the astute salesmen had made as much as $200.00 on two week production by holding the cheese at the start of the war in anticipation of higher prices.

"This year was different from other years. We started off expecting great things from the bonus but we hadn't gone far before we realized we were selling cheese for less money than last year until the end of the season when the war broke out."

Teacher Denies Sadistic Charge

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—A diminutive rural school teacher, in County Magistrate's Court here today, and indignantly denied he was a sadist who delighted in punishing unruly youngsters "because he had a grudge against the world."

Robert Mackey was the teacher involved in a heated school section rumpus which culminated in a charge of common assault, laid by School Trustee Amos Toll of Gloucester Township, on behalf of his 13-year-old son, Orval. The lad, it was alleged, was struck by the teacher on Nov. 27 and 28, aggravating a dislocated collarbone suffered in a truck crash last year. He attends Piperville Public School.

"Did you ever hear of people who were ill or crippled taking it out on other people?" asked S. Rupert Broadfoot, K.C., counsel for the Tolls.

"No,' said Mackey, a hunchback, who has taught at the school since 1932.

"No."

Mackey also disclaimed any knowledge of the term "sadist" and remained calm and unperturbed when the lawyer later hurled the epitaph "sadistic teacher" at him. He denied that the punishment meted out to the Toll boy was severe, branding as false the testimony of six children, classmates of Orval in the one-room, fourteen-pupil school, that the lad was slapped on the face hard enough to make his nose bleed.

The teacher also denied counsel's suggestion he "played around" with the other two trustees in School Section 20, ignoring Trustee Toll.

Upshot of the all-day hearing was that Magistrate A. H. Lieff called into conference with him counsel on both sides, the three trustees and public school Inspector Thomas B. Maxwell of Carleton County.

Half an hour later the magistrate emerged from private chambers, announced "the air has been cleared," and adjourned the case for one month without decision.

In the meantime the trustees and inspector are to co-operate in setting the school's affairs in order.

Christmas Concert Held At Milburn's

Parents and friends assembled Friday afternoon to participate in the annual Christmas concert presented by the pupils of Milburn School under the direction of their teacher, Miss Miriam Purdy and their music supervisor, Mr. W. R. Potter. The program was interesting and varied in spite of the fact that several numbers had to be omitted as the pupils were absent due to illness. The schoolhouse was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a Christmas tree, colored streamers and blackboard drawings, forming a most effective background for the entertainment.

Acting as a very capable chairman, Rev. R. D. Wright called upon the following numbers: Welcome recitation, Marie Anderson; chorus, Merry Christmas; dialogue, Buying Eggs; recitation, Bobbie Sanderson; chorus, While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night; monologue, Roy McQuade; dialogue, How Ben Was Hung; chorus, Christmas Joys; dialogue, Good Bye; guitar selection, John and Marion Edmison; dialogue, Grandmother's Peppermints; recitation, Gerard Blodgett; chorus, Ring Out Sweet Bells of Christmas; recitation, June Blodgett; chorus, Junior girls, Making Pumpkin Pies; dialogue, Over the Telephone; recitation, Mary Milburn; guitar selection, Joyce McQuade; chorus, Junior girls, Away in a Manger; dialogue, Modern Mothers; recitation, Ronald Milburn; pantomime, A Busy Time; recitation ,Bob Ackerman; chorus, Up on the Housetop; dialogue, Harry's Pockets; chorus, Who is Coming.

British-Swedish Trade Deal To Aid Finland

LONDON, Dec. 29—(CP).—A new British-Swedish trade agreement announced last night is expected to benefit Finland by supplying Sweden with goods which eventually will find their way to the Finns.

Such aid to Finland is said to be incidental, however, since negotiations for the pact started long before the Russian invasion of Finland.

A part of Britan's general war plan, the trade agreement is designed to adapt British-Swedish trade arrangements to wartime conditions with a view to maintaining trade between the two countries at a normal level.

It is similar to the recent British-Italian agreement, but it is said, however, to name specific commodities and involve more precise details than the Italian pact. Details of the new agreement were not disclosed immediately.

Britain is said to be extending all possible aid to the Finns which is compatible with the Allies' own war effort. Authoritative quarters indicate that British assistance will be largely in supplying manufactured goods and war supplies such as planes.

Relics Show Man Here Time Of Mastodon

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 29—(AP).—Discovery of relics thought to date back to 20,000 to 25,000 years has added to evidence that man was contemporaneous in North America with the mastodon and other animals now extinct.

Dr. E. H. Sellards of the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology, at the opening session of the Geological Society of America and three associated organizations today announced finding such relics as flint spearheads, hide scrappers and the like.

The relics were found in terraces of a stream in Bee County, Texas, Sellards said. "In the same deposits were found remains of elephant, mastodon and horse."

"The elephant is the Columbian elephant, abundant in that region of Texas in relatively late geologic time; the mastodon is the American variety and the horse is related to the modern animal but became extinct before Europeans came to this continent."

The Lord Mayor's Red Cross and St. John Fund in London has reached a total of $3,500,000.

Quick Relief From STOMACH PAIN

To neglect pain and distress in the stomach, however slight, is to court serious trouble. Such disturbance is usually due to excess acid attacking the delicate stomach lining. At the first hint of pain or distress, take Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Its four properly balanced and potent alkalies neutralize the excess acid, sweeten the stomach, stop pain, aid elimination of fermenting waste and protect the stomach walls against the biting attack of the acid. Get a bottle and keep it handy. Be sure to ask for Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, which is only genuine if the signature "Alex. C. Maclean" appears on bottle and carton. It is not sold loose, but only in bottles in cartons, of powder or tablets—at druggists—75c; family size, $1.75. 137

The Mayor's Appeal

Mayor Hamilton's year-end message pledges sincerity of purpose, and there is something wholesome about that phrase. He anticipates that Peterborough in common with other communities, will have new and serious problems which will grow out of the war, and we believe that is correct.

For the moment we are concerned about the suggestion made by His Worship that voters shall use their right to vote on election day. There are bylaws and there are seats to be filled in Council. Two men of experience have retired, Ald. Juby and Ald. Glover. There are five vacancies to be filled, and if the Ontario Legislature persists in its intention to prevent civic elections during the war, then Peterborough is voting for representatives who will handle our business for that length of time. That is why there is more than usual urgency in the Mayor's appeal that people shall vote.

There is something decidedly personal in casting a vote for municipal candidates, and in using personal we mean just this: The individuals for whom you vote may be elected by your assistance, and they will actually become your personal representatives, and they will attend to business which will affect you personally. So take a long and a careful look at the list of candidates and select men whom you would care to entrust with your personal business.

Another Farm Critic

If farmers really want to know how to run their business we believe they should come to town more frequently. There are always some folk around who could tell them what was wrong and how to put it right.

Some of the town critics have gone beyond the stage of pointing to an implement left out in the open and saying that's what is wrong with farming. They are getting into the finer points of the business.

We encountered one today. Young fellow, active and observant, his business takes him into and through the country a good deal, and he sees things, and when he sees them he remembers. He is convinced some farmers are too careless for their own good, and he had an open and shut case to present. This way:

"Why I recall several days in late fall when the weather was fine having seen stock pasturing in fields of fall wheat. If there is anything more short-sighted or careless than that I'd like to know what it is. I suppose next year we will hear of these same farmers complaining their wheat did not come through the winter well. Just about the same as turning some cows loose in a vegetable garden and then complaining about the damage."

So there you are, farmers. This young fellow has had his eye on you and finds you careless. If he travelled farther in the country and had a chance to inspect more farms from the roadside he might have found more farms where cattle were in the fall wheat, and if he had asked questions he would have found the farmers knew all about it. There are farmers—good ones too—who do not like to see too much growth on their fall wheat when winter comes on, so they allow their stock to do a little grazing over it. The farmers is more concerned over his wheat being smothered by ice in the winter or injured at the root in the freezing and thawing of spring.

The Russian Mentality

A correspondent for a United States paper sending news from Finland would get as near the truth as possible. Probably he would not have much opportunity for going near the front, and would have to receive much of his information from those who had been there. But there is no reason why he should seek to color his material or report things which had not taken place.

A report from the New York Times correspondent at Helsingfors gives details which lead one to wonder what kind of men Russians are. This for example: Finns, dressed in white and using skiis, slid down through the forests toward a large shed where the invaders had stored 2,000 pairs of skiis. They carried tins of gasoline with them, soaked the shed and set it on fire. Seeing the fire the Russians ran toward it and cheered, and stood as close as they could until the flames were entirely through. It had been their one first chance in days to feel warmth and that is what appealed to them above all else. The loss of 2,000 pairs of skiis which would be essential to their future movements or safety appeared to be a secondary consideration.

A number of Russian prisoners were being brought along in cattle trucks and at first opportunity the soldiers saw to it that they had disposed of an officer, the reason being that when the soldiers advanced to attack the officers sometimes remained behind and shot at them to make certain they would go ahead.

Perhaps those are small incidents in a war in which hundreds of thousands are engaged, but small as they are they portray a mentality which is more like that of a child than a matured man bent on war in the service of his country.

We read also that when Russian mechanized units get stalled they do not seem to know what to do with them. They are not mechanics and become helpless. When Russia started on its various five-year plans it was necessary to bring skilled men from the world over to supervise and instruct. Whether Russia has better men to send to the front we do not know, but at the moment it seems correct to say they lack discipline, they are helpless in emergency. And on top of that it must be admitted that it can be extremely and dangerously uncomfortable having to remain in 20 below zero without shelter for 24 hours a day.

Hitler At The Front!

There was quite a play made of the report from Berlin telling how Adolf Hitler slipped away from some other functions and went on Christmas to the Westwall, and how he actually made his way to visit some advanced post which was actually on French territory! It was considered an achievement, and interpreted by some as showing that Hitler had nothing to fear from France. Berlin published it as quite an accomplishment; the big man had actually gone to the front under cover of night and when there was a lull in the barking of guns.

If we recall correctly events of recent months Hitler was not so secretive about his intention of going to the front. When he made his final address before the invasion of Poland he declared with all the dramatic power at his command that he was donning the uniform of a soldier and was off to battle. He was so insistent about it that he mentioned he might not return, and therefore named the man to succeed him. It was a great speech and intended to fire the heart and soul and feet and gun-fingers of the Germans. Clearly a case of follow your brave leader.

The nearest Hitler has been to the front was on this secret trip to well-fortified positions along the Westwall. He was a visitor bearing gifts to those who were at the front. He wasn't leading any person; he was actually following along where others had gone and where it was considered quite safe at Christmas. Having in mind his brave bit of oratorical outburst at the start of the war against Poland the Berlin story of his visit to the Westwall appears tame and colorless.

How The Rule Works

Windsor Board of Education has made a ruling that if any employe of the Board has a statement for publication, then such statement must first be approved by the chairman.

That may be right enough—perhaps—and it may also be wrong. The ruling, as we understand it, grew out of a recent situation where 16 vocational school teachers announced their opposition to compulsory contribution to a patriotic fund. The majority of the teachers voted for making the contribution, but these 16 considered it was a matter where the individual should be permitted to decide the amount to be given.

And if 16 teachers felt that way about it why should they not say so? Apparently it was the desire of those in authority to make it appear that the decision to accept the compulsory method of contribution had been agreed upon by all. Whereas such was not the case. In such a situation it is better for the minority to speak up and tell the truth.

Some Repairs Needed?

If reports coming from Toronto are correct, then it seems some person must have stubbed a toe during the time when changes to Succession Duty Act of the province were being put through at the special session of the Legislature called for that purpose.

The statement is made that the altered document is not right and will not perform according to specifications. It was fashioned in the hope it would be a collector extraordinary, and the intention that taxation of estates could not be avoided.

Meantime Col. Drew sits back in the chair and quietly makes use of that fine old phrase "I told you so." And if the defects are as stated he seems to have the right this time to indulge that old hack of a saying. He did object, and he did suggest that the matter be referred to a committee of experts because he did not believe members of the assembly knew exactly what they were voting on and he was certain the legal men of the Government were not entirely clear. It is difficult of course to have a legal man admit any such impeachment. We are informed there will have to be some repairs made to the instrument of collection before it will produce the revenue for which purpose it was designed, corrected, altered and sent on its way with the blessing of the department of revenue.

Back To Work At 70

Coal miners of military age have left the pits in England, and coal and more coal is called for because the Government has need of it. It takes experience to make a good and a safe-working miner, and that is why the "Grandpa Gang" has come into existence.

Men who are in many cases nearing their 70 mark in point of years have put on their clogs and gone back to the pits from which they retired after years of service.

Ordinarily they were through with such work. It is hard and not exactly what a man of three score years and ten might select. But it is also something which needs doing and the "Grandpa Gang" are going to see it through. There is something in that which can be called spirit, love of country and determination that it shall survive.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Since the war began the Allies have seized 870,000 tons of merchandise consigned to Germany. And there are still 2,000 pounds in a ton.

A new railway line is going to join Germany and Russia, but it does not appear clear at the moment who is going to blow the whistle and set the switches.

Voters in this city have already received cards from the city clerk telling them where and when to vote. This is the one chance voters have to manage their own business.

It is recorded that 150 persons attended an egg-nogg party in Toronto. Now what is there in gulping down an egg-nogg that has suddenly become so popular?

Port Stanley fishermen have been discussing the prospects for weather. J. Brown says it will be cold, while Charles Locke looks for moderate weather and much sunshine. That's just about the way we had it figured out.

Car driver who appeared in court at Guelph for leaving the scene of an accident said "he felt lousy" over the whole thing. Whether the fine of $25 and costs would help to delouse him is something on which we have no information.

A. Klein of San Diego, Cal., was fined $2 and told to drive no more for five days, and all because he was driving too slowly. Guess there's no place in the world today for the man who does not go ahead with sufficient speed and steam to cause a good smash.

Firm in California is making planes for Britain which will travel 400 miles an hour. If we were going to fly that is exactly the sort of plane we'd select. If things got too bad it would be nice to feel one could hurry for home in great haste.

A charge of being drunk was laid against a resident of the city. He was found guilty and fined. Then there was a second charge of having consumed liquor while on the interdicted list, and that was dismissed or dropped as the police offered no evidence. What more evidence would be needed? The man was drunk, and he was on the Indian list, and in order to get drunk he must have consumed liquor.

RESOLUTIONS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra always starts, to tear his life and ways in parts, he fears he's in a groove; when every year comes near its end, 'tis then my cousin starts to mend, he feels he should improve.

¶ He'll sit down for an hour or so, and then he'll write things plain and slow, you couldn't make him talk; when Ezra's in a spell like that, you might as well just leave him flat, for he is taking stock.

¶ He does not publish what he writes, just trying to put himself to rights, his resolutions grow; he realizes plain enough, his habits have been rather tough, on some new course he'll go.

¶ He'll be a better man at home, won't let his wife sit there alone, he'll spade the garden too; he'll put storm windows on upstairs, tell to his wife all his affairs, like what he ought to do.

¶ He'll act just like an upright man, make life as pleasant as he can, and Ezra means it too; he's going to change just over night, and be a bright and shining light, a man as good as new.

¶ My cousin Ezra finds one flaw, which makes him sort of drop his jaw, and leaves a little blur; the dainty widow just next door, can't he go on just like before—and make some eyes at her?

Court Ponders Is He Criminal Or A Genius?

THE MAGISTRATE at Hamilton has an unusual case before him, and also an unusual lad of 16 years, Alex Zolomy. He escaped from the Reformatory at Guelph a few weeks ago, and made straight for Hamilton, where he was found to have access to a number of explosives and fire-arms. After hearing the evidence the Magistrate admitted the prisoner had almost a genius for working with explosives.

One of the most unusual features of the case is the statement submitted by the accused in his own defence. It is given here:

"Regarding the high compression model I was making and the nitro-glycerine: I was trying to connect high explosives with gasoline for a new type of fuel for a high compression engine.

"I found out that nitro-glycerine mixes with ether perfectly, and in turn mixes with gasoline readily.

"I was going to use a high compression engine for developing my experiments. I intended to mix nitro-glycerine in such a small quantity with ether and gasoline that it would not be too powerful....

"With regard to the detonating caps, I used the fulminite from them for a new type of bullet, which I loaded with a mixture of fulminite and (secret formulate). The bullet would have the appearance of an ordinary bullet, since I had constructed a mould to seal the end when the explosive was injected in the bullet.

"Such a bullet is capable of doing great damage. On striking an object, such as a deer, it would penetrate an inch or so and then blow about a foot hole inside, most of the pressure being exerted forward and doing great damage internally. When striking other objects, such as the wing of an aeroplane, great damage would be done because of its shattering powers. It could be manufactured for any calibre of rifle or revolver. In hitting the gas tank, it would ignite the gasoline inside. The explosion of the bullet would naturally explode the gasoline....

LOADED BULLET

"So far I have only loaded one .303 bullet which I have not as yet tested. I have loaded several hundred .22 calibre bullets and have tested them in many ways. One such bullet would completely shatter a whole house brick, while an ordinary bullet would only chip it. I was only working on an invention for a new type of high velocity, small calibre automatic rifle.

"Not having funds for necessary equipment to carry out my experiments, I resorted to illegal methods in obtaining rifles, ammunition and other materials.

"Regarding the charge of having a bomb in my possession, I do not consider that the article referred to is a bomb. I made this of a steel outer shell, three sixteenths of an inch thick—the approximate size about two and one half inches in length and one and three quarter inches in width. Into an opening of one quarter inch, which I left at one end, I inserted a tube containing exactly 24 grains of mercury fulminite. My intention was to complete my experiment, to find out in regard to the pressure of fulminite of mercury. I wished to see if it would exert enough pressure to shatter the steel, and if it did, then I could calculate the ratio of pressure to a grain of fulminite. This being necessary in connection with another of my inventions.

"Regarding the nitro-glycerine left in my home and now in the possession of the police: The capsules contained a type of nitro-glycerine which I manufactured before the outbreak of war, and presume to have outstanding qualities in comparison with the regular nitro-glycerine. The formulae being of my own invention is being withheld.

"The outstanding qualities are that it has a lower freezing point than the average nitro-glycerine, and I think it is more sensitive to shock and is much stronger than the average nitro-glycerine.

"The only other nitro-glycerine which was in the basement along with the other stuff, was a very small quantity of ordinary C. P. nitro-glycerine which had not undergone my process of treatment.

"In one of my experiments, I invented a new type of bullet, which contains my type of explosive in the projectile. Some of these are now in the possession of the police."

(Signed) Alex Zolomy.

REALLY NOT PENNIES

A MILLION United States "pennies" were reported shipped to Toronto to make up the Christmas cent-shortage here. The happy relations existing between the two countries find an illustration in this free circulation of small coins which everyone accepts without question. But they cease to be called "pennies" when they enter Canada. To Canadians a penny is still two cents, not one, although our own pennies are nearly all out of circulation now, and have not been coined for many, many years.—Toronto Star Weekly.

POOR MECHANICS

The Finns are probably correct in their contention that, while the Russian army has expensive equipment, it does not know how to use it. The Russians are on the whole poor mechanics. They have had to import experts to show them how to do almost everything under their successive "plans." But still they make a poor job of running their enterprises especially those in which mechanical skill is required.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

• The Nazi Changes His Mind

WHEN the Nazis seized power over the German Reich, one of their first decrees was to "domesticate" women. Trained and educated women were prohibited from entering professions, and jobs formerly held by them were turned over to men whom the Nazis favored. All women, regardless of age, health and other conditions, recalls the Toronto Star, were bidden to turn to "kuche, kinder and kirche" (kitchen, children and church). Herr Goebbels' propaganda machine for several years shrieked at full blast that woman's duty lies behind the threshold of her home where there is much for her to do.

But events are now forcing Herr Goebbels to contradict himself. The Nazi ideology concerning women has been completely upset by the Allied economic blockade. Housekeeping is being routed and housewives are now being told that it is their duty to seek work outside their homes.

Not much or satisfactory housekeeping can be done when the materials for it are lacking. Housewives cannot get enough soap for laundering, flour, fats or sugar for baking, clothing for sewing, yarn for knitting. Even bed-making and dish-washing, which, according to Herr Goebbels, should be women's prime occupations, are also interfered with. Over the Berlin radio recently the women were advised not to use pillow cases so as to save laundry soap, nor to dry dishes so as to dispense with the washing of dish towels. To take the place of the soapy bath, "air-bathing" was advised, and so the housewife's special Saturday night job of bathing the family is also restricted.

But that is not all. Women are now being called out of their homes and put to work at all types of industrial, professional and even military occupations. They are told it is their duty to do a "man-sized" job at work for which they were formerly considered unfitted by nature.

So in their policies affecting women, as in all of the others, events are forcing the Nazis into a snare of contradictions and reversals. This is because they based them not on knowledge and reason, but on prejudice.

• Church And The Newspapers

SOME TIME AGO the Presbytery of Dundas-Grenville of the United Church of Canada set up a special committee to study the contents of the various newspapers which circulate within that area. As The Ottawa Journal is one of them a copy of the committee's report has been sent to this paper by Rev. G. H. Smith of Morrisburg, secretary of the Presbytery.

Obviously this inquiry was not undertaken in any spirit of fault-finding and shallow criticism, but rather to consider in a broad way the place the newspapers occupy, or might occupy, as an agency for the improvement of mankind. And the committee's conclusions ought to be helpful towards a better general understanding of the newspaper's proper functions and the reader's proper expectations.

The inquiry seems to have been a thorough one:

"In some of the papers we have found strong and constructive editorials which should create interest in the questions of our day and stimulate thought upon the pressing problems of society. In a few of them are educational and inspirational features which should be of immense value to all serious-minded readers. The features cover the fields of humor, domestic science, household problems, agriculture, music, literature, poetry, psychology, health, sport, philosophy and religion."

The committee recognizes freely "the potential value of the modern newspaper as an educational, cultural and inspirational force and as the logical ally" of the church "in the propagation of righteousness and truth." And it continues:

"We believe that reading does quite as much as example to influence character in people who have reached the age of responsibility. It is therefore just as important to have good literature in our homes as it is to have good company. We suggest that ministers preach occasionally upon the spiritual values of good literature, and in so doing point out to their congregations the features in local publications which might contribute to the enrichment of spiritual life."

Readers are urged to be "both tolerant and discriminating" in their choice of periodicals, and it is declared that Christian people

".... should give encouragement and whole-hearted support to those newspapers whose policies give due recognition to spiritual principles and the place of religion in the life of man."

For its part The Journal welcomes this display of interest by the Dundas-Grenville Presbytery in its contents and its general policy. The newspaper is so intimately a part of personal and family life, so profoundly affects public knowledge and the currents of public thought, that those concerned with the spiritual life of the community have the most complete warrant for giving thought to its tendencies and the nature of its influence.—Ottawa Journal.

BOOT LICKER

ONE of the most dangerous of all the Nazis is Joachim von Ribbentrop, the former champagne salesman of Germany. He is now one of Hitler's inner ring of consultants.

Even Germans close to the Hitler group don't trust him. They explain that if the monarchy were restored in Germany, Ribbentrop would be crawling around the foot of the throne looking for the spoils. Or, if Communism started in the Reich, the same Ribbentrop would be found as a Commissar leading the revolution.

The judgment may seem harsh, but Germans explain that a few years ago, when Ribbentrop was a beer and wine salesman, wealthy Jews were among his best customers. When he entertained, he always had many Jewish guests in his home. They bought his wares and he fawned on them.

Then, when persecution of the Jews meant getting in right with Hitler, Ribbentrop proceeded to bait the Jews for all he was worth.

Something of the champion boot licker of all time in Germany, Ribbentrop is interested in only one enterprise. That is the personal advancement of Ribbentrop.—Windsor Star.

NO PEACE WITH LIARS

We stand for rendering support to nations which have fallen prey to aggression and are fighting for their independence.

Little Finland nearly 20 years ago wrested her independence from the Bolsheviks. Since then she has developed a fine, democratic government. Stalin sent his Red forces against the Finns. That's "aggression" against "independence." Stalin is just as much to be believed as was Hitler at Munich. Talk of peace is idle with liars of this type.—Lethbridge Herald.

GERMAN BLUNDER

It was a blunder of German strategy prior to 1914 to assume that the fabric of the British Empire would crumble beneath the stresses of war. And the Germans, whether their emblem be the imperial eagle or the wrongly-placed swastika, evidently learn few lessons. It was a promise of Hitler's present plan that the outbreak of conflict would split the British Commonwealth of Nations, whereas it has served to cement it more strongly than before.—Brantford Expositor.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

After these things the word of the Lord came unto Abram in a vision, saying, Fear not, Abram: I am thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward....And he brought him forth abroad, and said, Look now toward heaven, and tell the stars, if thou be able to number them: and he said unto him, So shall thy seed be. And he believed in the Lord; and he counted it to him for righteousness. And he said unto him, I am the Lord that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land to inherit it....In the same day the Lord made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the River Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates. —Gen. xv, 1, 5-7, 18.

A Bit Of Nonsense

On the Safe Side

Little Tommy entered his father's den.

"Daddy," he said, will you please give me some money."

"What do you want money for?" asked his father, guardedly.

"Well, Daddy, I have been thinking," went on the boy, "supposing a robber was to hold me up, and say 'Your money or your life,' and I didn't have any?"

THE USE OF ADVERSITY

(Kitchener Record)

Adversity is sometimes hard on a man. But for one who can stand prosperity, there are a hundred that will stand adversity.

The Mayor's Message

It is my desire to convey to the citizens of Peterborough my appreciation of their continued support to me as Mayor.

As I begin my third term in office, I realize that you require at this time only sincerity of purpose and the best efforts of your Mayor and Council. I intend that you shall have these.

The war will add stress to our common problems as citizens of Peterborough and as Canadians. However, I am confident that individually and as a city we will meet these difficulties with the same resourcefulness and courage as in the previous war strain and with final victory.

I hope every citizen will use his ballot on New Year's Day and keep in mind the seriousness of his duty at this particular time. Peterborough's affairs must continue to move forward.

I wish every citizen a Happy New Year complete with Prosperity and Good Health.

Yours sincerely,
JAMES HAMILTON,
Mayor

Havelock Man Is Guilty Of Having Muskrats

Remarking that the defence witnesses had given a remarkable explanation and that he did not believe their story, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Thursday afternoon registered a conviction against George Harrington, Havelock, on a charge of having been illegally in possession of six muskrat pelts in Methuen township on December 11.

Harrington was fined $2 for each pelt, along with $2.50 costs, making a total penalty of $14.50 with the alternative of ten days in jail.

At a night session of the police court Harrington's brother-in-law, Oscar Spinks, pleaded guilty to having had possession of a rifle in the vicinity of a lumber camp without a license and was fined $10 and 75 cents costs.

Visted Lumber Camp.

The charges followed a visit of Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons of Peterborough and Overseer John Shannon of Marmora to Woods' lumber camp in Methuen township on December 11. Harrington and Spinks are working at that camp and when the officers discovered the muskrate pelts and the rifle the two men were charged.

In police court the two officers told of visiting the camp and of finding the six pelts in a room off Harrington's living quarters, the only door to which was from Harrington's home. The skins were described as this fall's rats. Harrington was absent at the time and Spinks and Mrs. Harrington told the officers they knew nothing about the pelts.

However on the following day Harrington and his wife and Spinks came to see Overseer Lyons in Peterborough, that official testified, and stated that the muskrat skins really belonged to Spinks.

The Defence Story.

"I don't know anything more about trapping than the traps know about me," said Harrington in giving evidence. "I never trapped in my life."

Accused said that a week or ten days before the visit of the officers he, his wife and Spinks were driving along the road some miles from the camp when they saw a bag beside the road. Spinks had got out and investigated and found the bag contained six dead muskrates. He had thrown the bag into the car and when they got to camp had left it outside Harrington's home. Spinks told Harrington, according to the witness, that the law required that the rats shou'd be skinned and the pelts turned over to the game authorities. Harrington declared that he did not know what had become of the pelts afterward nor that Spinks had put them in the unused portion of the building occupied by the Harringtons.

Spinks and Mrs. Harrington corroborated Harrington's story as to the finding of the dead muskrats.

Announcing that he did not believe the defence story Magistrate Langley found Harrington guilty.

Janetville Friends Honor Grier Earle

JANETVILLE, Dec. 29—(ENS).—A memorable event took place on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Earle in honour of their elder son, Gunner Grier Earle of the 14th Field Battery, Cobourg, when the members and adherents of the Presbyterian church assembled for a pleasant evening together while Grier was home on Christmas leave.

The evening was concluded with games and contests and later lunch was served.

Grier is one of Janetville's most popular young men and he will be greatly missed in all community activities ,particularly in the dramatic club of his church.

The entire district joins most sincerely in wishing him good luck, good health and a safe return.

Cafe Dancer, 17 Found Stabbed

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 — (AP). The nude body of a pretty, 17-year-old cafe entertainer was tossed into an abandoned coal yard early yesterday, and today police hunted the person who had stabbed her so brutally a four-inch knife blade was embedded in her shoulder.

The victim was identified, hours after the body was found, as Alice (Jerry) Burns, wife of L. C. Burns, former railway employee.

Peggy Clark, 18, and Jack Cody, 20, said they had gone with Mrs. Burns to a show and afterward to a cafe where a "strange man bought Jerry a drink, and she left with him at 4.30 a.m."

An hour and a half later Refugio Ramirez, a butcher, stumbled upon the woman's unclothed body, slashed in the face and stabbed six times in the back and shoulders.

Patrons Refuse To Allow Directors To Quit

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 29 (ENS)—To be a director of a company is almost a tradition at least among patrons of the Crow Bay Cheese and Butter Company. This fact was revealed at the annual patrons' meeting when retiring directors tried vainly to hand over their seats to younger patrons. "I've been a director since 1912," declared J. A. M. Thompson, who proceeded to name two or three members who he felt could adequately fill the post. William Petherick said he had been a director for the past thirty years but despite his protests he was given a unanimous vote to continue in office along with William Wright, Harry Barnum and John A. Thompson.

J. D. Mills of Campbellford was chairman of the meeting which was called to order by President Hector Arnold. It was president Arnold who introduced to patrons their new cheesemaker, William Gray, who for the past two years has been engaged at the Daisy Factory in the Madoc district.

The financial statement for the year showed patrons had received an average of 12.57 cents per pound, not including bonus of $509.62, for a total of 159,321 pounds of cheese. The thirty-six patrons delivered a total of 1,867,913 pounds of milk to the factory, making an average of one pound of cheese for every 11.7 pounds of milk. Average price received per pound of butterfat was 30.36 cents, and the average test was 2.69. The total amount received from the sale of cheese was $20,028.65, of which patrons received $17,945.61. For 3,721 pounds of whey butter patrons were paid $919.95, according to the report of Secretary-Treasurer Ray H. Thomson.

During the general business session a motion to have the factory painted was passed authorizing the directors to take the matter in their hands. It was decided that next year the company would follow the practice of paying only once instead of twice each month. When Mr. Arnold pointed out that it would cost patrons an extra mill to have all of the whey pasteurized a motion urging that such action be taken was dropped for the present year. It was he who on behalf of the company paid tribute to Sherwin Runnells, the retiring maker, who had been employed by the company for the past fifteen years.

Delivering the only address of the afternoon the chairman, Mr. Mills, asserted that though Canada was far removed from the actual scene of the combat it had a great obligation to fulfill. "I think we are going to see activity in this country on a scale never seen before," he declared.

Other officers elected for the coming year were: President, Hector Arnold; Secretary-Treasurer, Ray H. Thomson, and Auditor, W. R. Atkinson.

To The Citizens Of Peterborough—

Unhampered by excessive taxation and having other natural advantages, every step should be taken to make it widely known that our city is a place where new industries are encouraged and favourably treated. It is an industrial centre and the future of the welfare of our young men looking for employment and older men out of work is dependent upon our industrial expansion and the maintenance of our present industries. Something tangible can be done by engaging representatives on a retaining fee to secure industries and to advertise our city. Other municipalities, less favourably situated from many points of view, are expanding industrially.

Lack of parking facilities constitutes a perpetual problem. Imposition of fines or further restrictions will not help the situation. We should not inconvenience our own citizens or discourage farmers in the surrounding district or tourists from doing business with our merchants. Providing increased parking areas is the only solution.

Industrial expansion and parking facilities are two of the major problems with which I am concerned. I was continuously in business in Peterborough for over twenty-five years and am now free to devote my time, if elected, and to work actively for the welfare of our city.

Trusting that the New Year will bring you Happiness and prosperity.

C. J. SNIDER.

To the Electors of Peterborough

If accorded your confidence to act as Alderman please accept this sincere assurance that, to the best of my ability, I will endeavour to further the interests of this progressive city and to guard with integrity its enviable financial standing.

JUNIOR COLTS' TEAM PICKED TEMPORARILY FOR OPENING GAME

Squad Selected To Start At Port Hope

A temporary team of Peterborough Colts has been picked by Coach Archie Weir and Manager Hap Wilgar for the locals' opening O.H.A. Junior "B" game in Port Hope next Tuesday. The squad was chosen after a good workout last night at the Brock Street arena. Both the coach and manager insisted that this team was not the final choice, but it was necessary to select a squad in a hurry so the team could have a few practises together before their first game.

After the Tuesday game in Port Hope, the Colts will resume practises on Wednesday night, and all positions will again be thrown open for several workouts to prospective junior puck-chasers. Some of the players are in good shape now, but others are two weeks behind in conditioning—owing to lack of ice here till the last few days.

The team chosen for Tuesday includes Cec. Cournyea and Agnew for goal; Cournyea looked extra good in the nets last night for both the juniors and intermediates. Defencemen selected for the present are Bill Beggs, Mason, Bob Parnell and Bob Strickland. One forward line consists of Cal Nichols, Nels Foster and Duce Vitarelli; the other comprises Joe Rochetta, Sid Craig and Bucko MacDonald; extra forwards are Dutch Pammett and Farmer Connelly.

Some Monarchs

Of the above list, Beggs, Vitarelli, Rochetta, Connelly and Nichols all played with the junior "C" Monarchs in O.H.A. competition last year. Pammett, Cournyea, Parnell, Strickland, Foster Craig and MacDonald were all with the junior "B" Colts last winter. Mason is a graduate of St. Peter's juveniles and of the Southend League, while Agnew also comes from the Southend loop. Several other puckists, such as Wade, DeCarlo, and others, are being considered.

The Colts this year average about 18 years of age, most of them having another year in junior company after this season. With but a few exceptions, they are husky boys—averaging some 160 pounds. A lot of speed and a fair amount of hockey experience is wrapped up in the outfit, and they have an experienced O.H.A. coach in Archie Weir. The team is grouped with Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay and Lakefield, the schedule opening tonight in two centres—but the Colts not starting their campaign till Tuesday. Their first home game will be next Friday, when Cobourg comes here.

Hockey "Hat-Tricker"

Second three goals in a game feat of the current National league season was recorded by Porky Dumart, ABOVE, left wing on Boston Bruins' ace "Kraut line", who turned the trick as the Bruins downed Chicago, 6-3. One of his goals was a penalty shot, second such to score this season. Last year only one was banged home and the party on the shooting end was Dumart.

McGowan At 36 Gets Better

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Dec. 29 —(CP)— Like time and the brook and hockey itself, old Gooney McGowan goes on and one in the game he loves best. His mother christened him Muir but he was dubbed Gooney so long ago in his sport career he doesn't remember why.

The Ontario Hockey Association senior series wouldn't be the same without the spindle-legged centre of Port Colborne Sailors who is 36 years old and father of three children.

His scoring average is soaring—he picked up eight points in two recent games—and yet quiet, unassuming Gooney says this is his last season.

"I play hockey because I love the game and always will," he said while resting his 140 pounds after a winning effort against the mighty Toronto Goodyears. "When I was at my peak around 1929 I had professional offers from New York Americans and Springfield Indians. I didn't want to make the jump."

From a gangling kid who batted a tin can around a pond in Renfrew, Ont., Gooney became one of the trickiest exponents of the game. His blazing speed is gone but there is no craftier player in Canada.

Known as "the little man who wasn't there" by burly bodycheckers, Gooney is deadly around the net. In his third season with the Ports the wizardry of old No. 7 is a major reason why the team is tied for the league leadership.

Gooney recalls the time he was teammate of Syl Apps, Toronto Maple Leafs' centre, and Toe Blake, Montreal Canadien's wingman, during a nine-year sojourn with the famed Hamilton Tigers. That was before he came here as a mechanic.

But there always will be a soft spot in his heart for the Renfrew town league where in 1922 he nervously played his first organized hockey. Later he graduated to Renfrew Intermediates and Grimsby Peach Kings.

MURPH CHAMBERLAIN

(By Central Press Canadian.)

Most fans remember who wins the Calder Trophy, awarded to the National League's outstanding rookie each year, but few remember those who trailed. When the 1937 - 38 season ended, Cully Dahlstrom of Chicago was voted the best newcomer, and in second place was Murph Chamberlain, centre with Toronto Maple Leafs, making this campaign the third in the major league for the popular "Hard Rock." When he signed a Leaf contract, after helping Sudbury win an Allan Cup, it was expected he would be farmed out for a year, but his great work in training warranted his retention, and his play since then has justified the move. Not a spectacular player, Murph is the "plugging" type, a great checker, and a player who hasn't backed up from an opponent yet. And most of them scale better than his 160 or so pounds. Born in Shawville, Quebec, 25 years ago come February, actually his name is Erwin, but he acquired his Irish tag from his grandfather who raised him. Murphy was his grandad's name. Attracted the eye of Frank Finnigan, former Ottawa and Toronto star when playing around home. Later played with Ottawa Primrose and South Porcupine. Got four goals, 16 points, in his first N.H.L. season; 10 goals, 26 points last year, plus a two-year total of 83 minutes in penalties.

HAWKESBURY, Ont., Dec. 29.—(CP)—Gonze Neveu, 32, of Ripon, Que., was killed instantly here last night when he was pinned under a large piece of pulp wood which fell from a truck in the Canadian International Paper Company yards. His helper, Sylvio Cadieux of Duhamel, Que., suffered a crushed nose. Coroner H. H. Kirby adjourned his inquest until January 15.

Geo. Robertson Rolls 412 For Loop High

With George Robertson in the limelight, Jay's Cigars rolled off another 3772 pins last night in the City League to chalk up a 4-0 win over the Duffus team, and at the same time bust a second-place tie with the Capitol Grill who were dropping one game to the Grafton five. Robertson had a great night when he banged off an 869 total including the league's new high single for the year, 412. Up for the eleventh time in the second game with ten strikes marked on the score sheet George threw the bad ball. He hit the foul line rubber and picked the head pin.

Grant's lost three points to the leading Gordon squad, but had the distinction of being the second team to take a game this year from the Winnipeg-owned outfit. Freddie Martin's 836 in Gordon's 3511 was one up on his 835 of a week ago. C.G.E. counted 3344 to down the Lock Works 4-0. During the evening big singles fell in five different places: Bill Tugby hit 351, Mel Anthony 345, Frank McCormick 337, Fred Martin 330, and Len Anthony 310.

Jay's team-game total of 1509 for their second game is the highest rolled in the city this year and comes close to the C.B.A. single-game high.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Just as a token of respect to this good old year we will hold a farewell bonspiel on Saturday afternoon commencing at 1:45 sharp. The small fee 25 cents per player will be charged and it is suggested the boys be out on time. It looks like a sell-out.

The ladies' section held their meeting on Wednesday and they anticipate a big season. Several of their members were down practising yesterday afternoon.

Another nice crowd was out last evening. All ices going. We noticed many of the chaps were holding their backs and walking a little lame. Its funny what a little exercise will do to some.

Several members of the Tankard and District Cup teams held a light workout last evening.

It might be interesting to the players to read the new rule regarding a player who forgets to play his second stone.

Christmas Greeting

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 29 — (AP) —Harry Liebhardt telephoned from Denver, Colo., at a cost of $3, to ask what he had done. He was told to read more carefully the "summons" Sheriff Al Feeney had sent his friends on subpoena forms. It read: "Report to a Marion County Judge with proper authority if you fail to have a Very Merry Christmas and Prosperous New Year."

Takes 13,200 Volts

DOVER, N.H., Dec. 29 — (AP). —Irving Young, a power company inspector, came in contact with 13,200 volts of electricity yesterday and lived. Officials were unable to explain how he escaped only with badly burned hands and wrists.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

All is in readiness for tonight's tilt at the Brock to open the O.H.A. intermediate "A" series for what the Petes hope will be a championship campaign—a march right to a provincial crown along in March. Belleville Redmen pry off the lid against the Petes and it shapes up as a fine hockey contest between the old ice rivals. Skipper Ed Thomas has a good team including Watt, St. Louis, Fillion, C. Jackson, W. Jackson, Windsor, Hastie, Gow, W. Storms, M. Storms, Yates and Pownal. And Coach Frank Buckland picks his starting lineup from Harding, McNabb, F. Jopling, Crowe, Gardner, Ellis, Burton, Tompkins, Kingdon, Blewett, Starr, Coughlin, Heal, Cadd and J. Jopling. The referee this e'en. Secretary Hewitt has promised, will be either Hap Day or Army Armstrong. Tussle begins at 8.30.

* * * * * *

This game will mark the return to local puck wars of several Peterborough players. Drake Jopling will be back tonight after several years' absence—when he did his stuff for N'Yawk Rovers and up north. Jim Ellis returns after a fling at Florida hockey last winter, and he won't see any orange blossoms waving around the Rue Brock. Les Burton moseyed out to Lakefield to play last semester but is back once more. Joe Blewett saw O.H.A. service here a few years ago, though a native of Lakefield. Art Heal was a good local junior, but did his stuff with the Aces in Omemee last season. Cliff Cadd quit the game a year or two ago and is making a comeback now. And Jack Jopling wore a St. Mike's uniform last winter.

* * * * * *

To Middle Aisle It

By the way, Honey Tomkins is getting married on the morrow and the quiet but most effective forward has the good wishes of his buddies and no doubt the fans, too. Robert is his right monicker, but he was always regarded as a honey on skates when down around Deseronto and Belleville, and when he starts zooming goalward with the little black biscuit on his stick—well, it's a pretty sight to see, unless you're cheering for the other team. Tompkins should team up well with Kingdon and Blewett on one line; while the other trio of Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin and Art Heal is a flashy set, also. Lots of good defensive material this year and okay net guardians. The Petes at this early date look promising to us.

* * * * * *

And so hockey commences here again. A grand opening match and it should pack in the fans. The flying Petes—with oodles of speed now—will demonstrate hockey as it should be played in intermediate "A" or senior "B" company. They're twice group champs and went into the provincial round-robin finals last year. Hockey is a grand sport, full of piled-up thrills, breath-taking speed, bumps, brainy plays on the dead run, wonderful saves, and all the rest of this colorful winter competition. It's no wonder that Canada's national sport is catching on so enthusiastically all over the world. After all, it's the greatest game in the world. And it takes a very speedy team playing wide-open hockey—as the Petes do—to thoroughly demonstrate its fine points and arouse the crowd to fever pitch.

* * * * * *

Raised To Captain

And just at this point, Manager Jackson has phoned to state Eddie Starr has been named captain of the squad for this season—and it will be a popular move. Bill adds that Jack Jopling has a cold and will be out of action tonight, with Blewett a doubtful starter. Which would leave Harding in goal; Ellis, Gardner, Jopling and Crowe on defence; Starr, Coughlin and Heal on one front line; and maybe Kingdon, Tompkins and Burton on the other. And possibly Gardner moved up as an extra forward. Oh, well, we'll see this eve. And here's a hot hunk of news: Oshawa Generals—the Dominion junior "A" champs—will be here next Tuesday night to play the Petes an exhibition game; better speak up now for your ducats as this tussle will pack 'em in tighter than a Berlin resident's belt!

* * * * * *

Lakefield junior "B" squad held its final workout last p.m. in preparation for its O.H.A. opening at home tonight, Lindsay Midgets being the visitors. T. W. Chaplin and Dr. Morin have chosen tonight's teams like this: Goal, Morrison; defence, Johnston, Birch, Kendall and Stabler; forwards, J. Stewart, Jewell, Bullock, Calhoun, Graham, Watt and A. Stewart. The game will be officially opened by G. K. Fraser who is honorary president of the club, at 8.15 o'clock. Oshawa is at Cobourg tonight, whilst the local Colts open in Port Hope on Tuesday.

C.G.E. Enters Team

C.G.E. entered the Industrial Hockey League at a meeting in Duffus' last gloaming, which makes it a neat eight-team circuit. Other teams are Quakers, Westclox, Outboard Marines, Brintons, Canada Packers, Raybestos and Watercraft. The loop will play on Wednesday or Thursday nights—it isn't definite yet—and will get going about Jan. 10th at the Brock St. rink. Schedule will be released when the rink dates are decided. This new circuit is still looking for an experienced referee or two.

* * * * * *

Southend Puck Loop now has 12 entries, four in each section like this: Bantams—St. Peter's, King Edward School, Canucks and Beavers; midgets—Royals, Canucks, St. Peter's and Eagles; juveniles—Grads, Canucks, St. Peter's and the Aces. This latter bunch—a new entry run by Gerald Fleming—will hold an open workout at the Sacred Heart rink Tuesday night at eight. And the juvenile Canucks have a drill there Tuesday p.m. at six. The juvenile series in this fine league will likely start play next week and the other two southend sections shortly afterward. No schedules out as yet.

Grab-bag: O.H.A. bulletin this morn says Hay Day is tonight's referee here....Colts had another good workout last p.m. and that squad will do okay this semester....George Robertson, rolling for Jay's team in the City Bowling Loop at Duffus' last night, chalked up 412 with 10 straight strikes ere he picked a head pin....And Ches Grant, rolling for turkeys at Xmas, hit 441; the highest of the year....Dutch Harwood, former bulky defenceman in that town, is managing the junior Port Hopers now....O.H.A. sent R. M. Glover four dozen or so hockey sticks for minor puckists and Bill Prindible distributed them, half to the Southend League and half to the Church Loop....Royals midgets have an open drill at seven tonight at the Sacred Heart rink....Just heard that Bill Dineen—we mentioned him here recently—had his right arm busted in a car crash in Syracuse....Fliers play Belleville next Friday as the Petes are idle....Little or no hockey info coming out of Belleville these days; dunno if they lost Hastie and Gow or not....There is no anti-noise law along the Rue Brock, so youse fans can pull out all stops and blast away at tonight's tilt—yassuh!

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By ROBERT MYERS,
Associated Press Sports Writer
(Sitting in for Eddie Brietz)

LOS ANGELS, Dec. 29.—(AP) — Today's boldest prediction: the 1941 Rose Bowl will be between Washington Huskies and the winner of the Texas-Texas A. M. and M. war at Austin.

Tidbits, odd and otherwise: Kayak II is the solid horse to win the $100,000 Santi Anita handicap, but Seabiscuit is still the people's sentimental favorite....The pro footballers are drilling quietly for thei rannual pro-bowl game here January 7, Green Bay Packers going against the National League All-Stars in the affair....Green Bay and Washington were voted the most colorful pro clubs ever to show here .... Red Grange was the oneman riot...

The golfing pros go into the 1940 merry-go-round next week in the Los Angeles open. Watch out that an amateur doesn't win the event. His name is Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash.

Today's guest star: Jack Troy of the Atlanta constitution—U. S. C. had better quit worrying whether George Cafego's knee is good or bad and think about this boy Johnny Butler. He's the young man who really carried Tennessee into the Rose Bowl, and he's liable to carry S. C. out of it—feet first.

Speedy Forward

EDDIE STARR

Sparking one of the Petes' front lines tonight against Belleville here will be Eddie Starr (above) one of the fastest skaters on the local squad. He is the Petes' captain this year.

Grads Glad To Tackle Rochester Filarets

EDMONTON, Dec. 29 — (CP). —J. Percy Page, coach of Edmonton Grads, world's women's basketball champions, last night announced the Grads will be glad to meet Rochester Filarets, claimants to the world's title, or any other United States team filing an official challenge for the Underwood International Trophy.

"If the Rochester team meets the conditions as outlined in the rules, we are prepared to bring them here," said Page, but "no special concessions will be made to the New York aspirants for the Grads' world's title."

Remember When—

National League baseball records for 1937, published two years ago today, named Joe Medwick, St. Louis versatile outfielder, the league's most valuable player. Medwick led the batting average with a percentage of .374; the fielding honors with an average of .9883; counted most runs with 111 to his credit; collecting most hits, with a tally of 237; amassed greatest total of bases, 406; and led the two-bagger list with 56.

New Hockey Setup C.A.H.A. Plans May Result In Competition Between Classes A, B Over Canada

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—(CP)— The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association intends to complete investigation between now and next season into the state of senior hockey throughout the Dominion with a view to revising the present set-up.

Senior problems were discussed yesterday by delegates to the semi-annual meeting of the eastern branches of the C.A.H.A. after Vice-president George Dudley of Midland Ont. said that senior hockey throughout Canada was in a somewhat confused state.

Some angles and obstacles were considered but major discussion was left to the central committee and the various branches. The investigation may result in class "A" and class "B" senior competition throughout Canada, said Prof. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton, president of the C.A.H.A. because at present the majority of the outstanding amateurs gravitate to a few clubs, making for uneven competition.

Dr. Hardy will occupy the chair again today when unfinished business is to be completed at the final session. The annual meeting of the Association will be held in Montreal next April 13 when an invitation from the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to the C.A.H.A. to renew affiliation will be discussed.

The meeting yesterday decided to recommend to the annual meeting that reaffiliation be not considered. Renewal of the grant by the C.A.H.A. to the A.A.U. of C. was left over to the finance committee for a report.

Pro Pact Renewed

Dr. Hardy announced that the Association had renewed its agreement with professional leagues for another season with the agreement in effect until next June.

It was announced that Allan Cup finals will be played in the east this year and will start between April 12 and 16. Finals of the Memorial Cup, emblem of junior supremacy, will be played in the west and must be free to start April 13.

Motions from western branches concerning junior players were discussed with final decision to be made at the annual gathering. One suggestion would prevent a junior obtaining a branch to branch transfer to play senior hockey, and another would bar junior clubs from accepting sponsorship by professional clubs.

Dr. Hardy suggested the four eastern branches hold a playdown series to determine an intermediate "A" champion. He said such a series had operated in Western Canada for four years and that it would be reasonable to believe that the Ontario Hockey Association, Ottawa District, Quebec and Maritimes could arrange such a series. The Dominion body would guarantee each provincial champion $200 for expenses if the gates did not provide sufficient finances.

Dr. Hardy said there would be no Canadian playoff between the eastern and western intermediate "A" champions because of expenses. Protest against imposing by the provincial government of a proposed amusement tax on hockey was made. Amendments were suggested and will be presented to government officials.

The C.A.H.A. delegates were guests last night at a banquet tendered by the O.H.A.

ROOKIES NET PAIR IN TORONTO LEAFS' WIN OVER CANADIENS

Leafs Win 6 to 4 In Montreal; Hard On Clancy

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Take it from Frank (King) Clancy, the times can be more hectic as a referee in the National Hockey League than those in the days not so long ago when the great little defenceman used to trade bumps with the big fellows in the same circuit.

Clancy, who has been referred to of late as the best official in the league, had just about everything happen to him last night as Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Montreal Canadiens 6-4 before 9,000 fans to go into sole possession of second [illegible] in the standing.

[illegible] called back two goals by Canadiens, the second one leading to he and Ernest Savard, president of Canadiens, coming to grips along the boards; he got tripped on the lead by Johnny Gagnon's stick; he stepped in to stop a fight between Hector (Toe) Blake and Bob Davidson; and he was called [illegible] down by Goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs because the netminder thought that one of Canadiens' goals shouldn't have been allowed.

It was the fifth straight defeat for the Flying Frenchmen, who fought back from a 4-0 deficit and looked for a goodly part of the third period as if they were going to knot the score at 4-4. Canadiens have lost seven and won only one in their last eight games.

The Toronto Scorers.

The Toronto goals went to Gordie Drillon, who scored twice, Bob Davidson, Pete Langelle, Wally Stanowski and Dave (Sweeney) Schriner. Montreal tallies were earned by Marty Barry, Charlie Sands, George Mantha and Louis Trudel. The disallowed goals were scored by Ray Getliffe and Mantha.

George Mantha

Mantha's disallowed goal came in the first period while Leafs were leading 2-0 on the scores by Davidson and Langelle. Leafs, in attempting to relieve the pressure from a Canadiens' gang attack, fired the puck up the ice. Defenceman Cliff Goupille lifted his stick in the air and by luck, batted the disc to the ice. He passed up to Mantha, who was standing at the goalmouth, and Mantha shoved it home. But Clancy already had blown the whistle because of Goupille's stick-above-the shoulder infraction.

The score stood at 4-1 in the late stages of the second period when Getliffe shot the puck home from a scramble in front of the Toronto net. But just as he shot the whistle went again, because the officials had believed that Broda was holding the puck although the disc was loose. The calling back of this goal led to the Savard-Clancy doings at the Canadiens bench.

Karakas Beaten 4-1 In New Loop

(By The Canadian Press.)

Mike Karakas, the goal-tender Chicago Black Hawks didn't want, has had his first taste of international-American League hockey and doesn't know whether it is any easier than in the National League.

Ousted from his Chicago job because too many pucks were entering his net, Karakas tended goal for Providence Reds last night and his team was beaten 4-1 by Indianapolis Capitals. In another game Hershey Bears beat Pittsburg Hornets, 1-0.

Indianapolis built up an early lead on first period goals by Syd Abel and Glen Brydson, the latter playing his first game since loaned to the Capitals by New Haven. Hub Wilson's second period counter whittled this lead down and the Reds had hopes of evening the score.

With this in mind, Manager Bun Cook took Karakas out of the nets and replaced him with a forward 74 seconds before the end of the game. Capitals promptly retaliated by firing two more goals into the empty cage, one by Ronnie Hudson and the other by Kenny Kilrea.

N.H.L. STARS

(By The Canadian Press.)

Bob Davidson and Wally Stanowski, Toronto—each picked up a goal and an assist and were generally effective in a 6-4 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Charlie Sands, Canadiens—scored one goal and aided in two others as Montreal lost to the Maple Leafs.

The 1939 Parade Of Joe Louis' Victims Passes In Review

By Central Press Canadian

Now is the time for all good men to look back on the past year and see who did what and how, something the various press associations don't let us forget at this time of year. Here's a pictorial flashback on an unprecedented feat—four successful defences of the world's heavyweight championship by Joe Louis. The opposition in most scarcely constituted a threat, but it was the best available and the champ took care of it in his customary manner. Jan. 25 saw John Henry Lewis topple backward through Madison Square Garden's ropes, TOP LEFT, a first round K.O. victim. April 17 saw Jack Roper go to the canvas, TOP RIGHT, also in the first round, this time in Los Angeles. On June 28 the referee saved Tony Galento from further punishment in the fourth round of his New York stand against the Bomber, LOWER LEFT. Last for 1939 came Bob Pastor, who made a comparatively good showing to last until the 11th round before the end came for him, LOWER RIGHT. Detroit was the scene, Sept. 20, the date. And now the champ, seen in the last dressing room picture taken of him, is ready for 1940 and Arturo Godoy and whatever comes after.

Winnipeg Bomber Victory Is Voted Thrill Of Year

TORONTO, Dec. 29. — (CP) — Greatness was written all over Winnipeg Blue Bombers today as sports writers of the Dominion hailed the achievements of the national senior football champions.

It was agreed in the last of the year-end ballots conducted by the Canadian Press that the Bombers supplied the sports thrill of the year in the fineal minute of their 8-7 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders in the Canadian final.

The announcement of the vote on the year's biggest thrill, made last night, followed on selection of the Winnipeg machine as the team of the year and of Fritz Hanson of the Bombers as the athlete of the year. The football champions' class seems to be pretty well established.

All the things the Blue and Gold had been aiming for all season came up to a tremendous climax in that final minute in the snow at Ottawa.

The teams reached the dying seconds of the game tied 7-7, as the cold breeze became a wind over Lansdowne Park and dusk began to settle. Then Orville Burke of Ottawa fumbled a punt at his 43-yard line and Winnipeg's chance had arrived.

One Minute To Go

Bud Marquardt picked up the ball and struggled to the 33. Andy Bieber plunged 10 more and the flag went up to designate the last minute of play.

Art Stevenson dropped back into kick formation and lifted a ball that Burke caught on the run and returned out of bounds at his eight-yard line in a last effort to redeem his error. The Bombers lined up again and Stevenson lashed the ball to the deadline for a point. The ball game was broken up.

No other thrill of the year got more than one vote, though 1939 was full of them. Gordon Drillon scored an overtime goal against Detroit last spring by dashing the length of the ice to send Toronto Maple Leafs into the Stanley Cup finals, but that wasn't rated by the writers in a class with the football minute.

Belleville Here To Play Locals Tonight

A fine sheet of ice at the Brock Street Areana awaits the opening of the O. H. A. intermediate "A" schedule here tonight when Belleville Redmen clash with the Petes. The weather is ideal and a big crowd of city and district fans is expected out for the opener. The Petes' team is made up of players of the immediate district this year, mostly Peterborough with Bridgenorth and Lakefield also represented on the squad. With several newcomers on the Belleville lineup, not much can be gauged of this team, but the fact that they are in the Van Horne Cup semi-finals at Kingston now indicates they must have considerable ability.

It promises to be an oldtime scrap between these hockey rivals of other years, and should be a first-class tilt to view. The Petes' starting lineup is uncertain, due to colds among some of the players, but Harding will be in goal, and Crowe, Ellis, F. Jopling and Gardner on defence. Forwards will be from Tompkins, Kingdon, Blewett, Starr, Coughlin, Heal, Cadd and J. Jopling.

12 Grid Deaths, Drop For Year

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 29.—(AP)— Substantial strides in the reduction of football fatalities were reported today by Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood of Purdue University in the ninth annual survey presented to the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The report for the past season disclosed it had been the safest since the surveys were started in 1931. Twelve deaths were ascribed directly to football, representing a 63.6 per cent from last season.

Of the twelve due directly to football, seven occurred in High Schools, three in Colleges and Universities, one on the sandlots, and one in athletic club competition. In 1931 there were 33 deaths directly caused by football.

Reds Fire on Own Troops.

(The despatches added that lack of knowledge of the terrain in that section of Finland's snowy frontier just above the Arctic Circle, hampered the attackers. Artillery commanders, in fact, were said to have become so confused that at one time they poured murderous fire on to their own Red troops.

(In the extreme north, near Petsamo, the Reds were said to have ended a five-day, 50-mile withdrawal toward the Arctic Ocean and had started digging trenches for a war of position.

(The Finnish command was reported to have shown correspondents the diary of a slain Russian officer in which it was written that the war on Finland was not popular with Russian soldiery.)

The Finnish air force, steadily gaining power with arrival of Italian and other fighting planes, reported silencing with bombs at least one long-range gun which had been blasting Viipuri, Finland's second city, 25 miles from the eastern end of the Karelian Isthmus front.

Viipuri, largely abandoned by its 74,000 inhabitants, had been under almost constant aerial and land bombardment for a week. Helsingfors had an air raid alarm for 40 minutes yesterday, but no planes were sighted.

(British reports from Helsingfors said 2,000 Italian volunteers, together with Italian planes, had arrived at Tornio, Finnish port at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia.)

BLINDMAN'S BLACKOUT

CROYDON, England—(CP). — A blind man summoned for showing a light during a blackout was excused, but warned to make arrangements whereby a neighbor would inform him when his house showed lights.

Mona Friedlander, beautiful 25-year-old British woman flier, who was selected among the eight women pilots who will ferry new army planes from factories to military airdromes and thus relieving male pilots for combat duty. The women, most of whom have had more than 1,000 hours in the air, were appointed as members of the Air Transport Auxiliary. Miss Friedlander was the first woman to do "army co-operation flying" last summer, when she piloted planes for training searchlight crews.

Exchange Control

As an indication that regulations imposed by the Board have not adversely affected trade with the United States, it was noted that imports from that country during the first three months of the war, in terms of United States dollars, have been 40 per cent higher than for the same period in 1938.

Created as a war-time measure, the Board has protected the value of investments in Canada by preventing, through the machinery of foreign exchange control, sudden and heavy withdrawals of capital out of Canadian markets, the statement said.

As the Finance Department has already announced, the government will find it necessary to borrow in the domestic market to meet the margin of difference between taxation revenues and war-time expenditures.

Hysteria Always Costly

Any disorganization of markets due to war hysteria would increase the cost of financing and limit the ability of Canadian people in making their maximum contribution to the voluntary effort on the economic front.

Foreign exchange control in Canada differs radically from forms of control enacted in other countries as peace time measures, said the statement.

"The Foreign Exchange Control Board exercises effective, though benevolent control over all capital movements as a means of correlating the war effort on the economic front.

"As the board functions primarily for the conservation of wealth within Canada it supervises and licenses movements out of the country. Movements of capital into the country are, of course, still welcomed."

Foreign exchange is readily provided to meet legitimate Canadian public and private debts payable abroad, thus ensuring maintenance of Canada's reputation of always meeting its obligations according to contract.

The board has power to establish rates of exchange from time to time and thus prevent undue disturbance in a country largely dependent upon its foreign trade.

It is notable that while these rates are subject to change the Board since its inception, has bought and sold United States dollars, respectively, at a premium in Canada of 10 and 11 per cent.

Apart from ensuring normal trade movements the Board has had to protect foreign investments in Canada of about $6,700,000,000 of which $3,900,000,000 are owned in the United States.

By preventing undue depreciation of Canadian Exchange the Board's operations have enabled American holders of Canadian dollar investments to obtain higher income than would have been possible in open market.

The statement reiterated earlier assurances that United States tourist travel in Canada will not be in any way hindered by the Board's regulations.

"Max didn't say very much about his plans, but when he learned of Tice's death, he announced that he was determined to go overseas," said Bruce.

Enlisted September 8.

"All Up To The Doctor."

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Dec. 29. — Premier Mitchell Hepburn said last night that if Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe "really wishes" to resign as guardian to the Dionne quintuplets, the Ontario Government will accept the resignation.

Mr. Hepburn, spending the holiday season at his home near here, said he had not been in touch with affairs at Toronto during the past few days, when asked if there had been any realignment in the personnel of the Quints' board of guardians. The other guardians are Percy Wilson of Toronto and Judge J. A. Valin of North Bay.

"It is a matter entirely up to Dr. Dafoe," the Premier said. "But as long as the present Government is in office, he will continue to be personal physician to the quints. That is one thing certain.

"The Dionne babies would have died in infancy had it not been for Dr. Dafoe and this should not be forgotten. He is, and will continue to be, physician to the quints. I cannot too highly evaluate his marvellous work."

Premier Hepburn said he had no information that an agreement had been reached between Oliva Dionne, the Quint's father, and Dr. Dafoe. As far as he knew, he said, the quints were not going back to live with their parents unless Dr. Dafoe recommended such a course.

"Even then we would have to consider such a course. Final responsibility for the welfare of the children rests with the Government," Mr. Hepburn declared. "The Government as I have said before, has complete direction over them. We appoint the guardians and can replace them at any time if they are not satisfactory."

despite an increase in crop acres per farm from 86.5 in 1921 to 108.7 in 1938, and an increase in the number of livestock kept in the farms and sold each year.

Despite the decline in cash return the farmers reported upon apparently improved their properties. Thus all 21 farms installed electricity during the 17-year period. In 1938 all 21 farmers owned motor cars whereas three were without them in 1921. In 1938, 11 owned tractors, against five in 1921.

In an effort to overcome the effect of lower prices all farmers seemed to devote more attention to livestock, dairy and poultry production at the expense of grain production. Cash returns from dairy products and eggs were slightly higher in 1938, returns from livestock sales were about the same, and crop sales were about half of the 1921 figures.

Farther north, where the 10,000-foot peaks of the Janik mountains meet the Black Sea, entire villages were buried as steep cliffs tumbled down.

The sea, on which there was a violent storm two days before the earthquake, was driven by a high wind that sent it pounding against the shore. Ships were smashed against buildings and seaside homes were carried away with their occupants.

In some place the earth split into huge crevices; in others it bulged. Water and fuel mains were ripped apart like soda straws.

In the Sivas Vilayet, the village of Zara had 1,500 dead and their homes destroyed. Bayburt, Hafik, Susehri, Sharkishla, Kuyuluhissar, Terdcan, Trabzon, Machke, Vakfikebir, Krasun, Samsun and Ordu were among the communities reported almost wiped out.

motorcycle patrol than has heretofore obtained, because the responsible officers will have smaller groups under their jurisdiction than is now the case.

A survey of the quarters occupied by the motorcycle patrol is being made, and where separate offices are occupied by the two branches of the force in any one centre, one office will be discontinued, with resultant savings. It is also expected that, after the reorganization is completed, the personnel of the clerical staff may be reduced.

The motorcycle patrol first made its bow to the highways of Ontario in May, 1919, with its present head, Inspector J. A. Grant, doing all the work. In 1920 a second officer was added. With the rapid increase in highway mileage the patrol strength also grew year by year until in 1928 it numbered 70 officers. Up to 1930 the branch operated under the jurisdiction of the Department of Highways. In 1930, however, it was taken over by the Provincial Police. Then the Province was divided into three areas, with an area inspector in charge of each section. In 1937 the patrol was increased to 106, and the following year ten more men were added. The present effective organization of the patrol comprises one staff inspector, three area inspectors, three sergeants, and 106 constables on active duty.

Mrs. G. Preston Of Lakefield Passes Aged 90

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29 (ENS) — Death today came to Mrs. Gavin Preston, 91, of Lakefield, and completed the record she and her husband had made of being the village's longest-married couple. They celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on December 9 of this year, at a total combined age of 181 years.

Mrs. Preston had fallen down the back stairs of her home early this winter, but had escaped without breaking any bones, and seemed to have made a complete recovery. Death came to her early this morning, after a stroke she had suffered two days before.

The funeral will be on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. James Young of Lakefield Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment will be at Lakefield cemetery.

She and her husband had lived in the vicinity of Lakefield all their lives. Mrs. Preston's married name was the same as her maiden name, for she was a daughter of the late George Preston, a half-brother of her husband's father. She was born in Smith township, where her parents were pioneer settlers who operated the farm where now stands the House of Refuge.

After her marriage, Mrs. Preston lived with her husband on a farm in Smith until they retired to Lakefield in 1914. She was fond of recalling the early days of their farming, and could tell of binding grain after her husband as he old the cradling. At 90 she could still demonstrate the method by which a sheaf should be bound so that it would not fall apart when it dropped to the ground.

She was the last surviving member of a family of eight children, and leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, two children, Mrs. Ernest Turk of Lakefield and Walter Preston of Smith. One son, Alexander, served overseas with a Vancouver regiment and died in 1924, partly as a result of war service.

Some Advice

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP) DR. S. J. VON HIRSCH, 103 years old, has this recipe for longevity:

"Plenty of walking; a cold bath every day; a good nip of liquor now and then; kiss the girls whenever you get a chance; and smoke all you like." Dr. Von Hirsch was conductor of the New York Metropolitan Opera Orchestra until influenza impaired his hearing in the late '90's.

Hotel Lobby Redecorated

The Empress Hotel is all ready to start the New Year. For some time the downstairs portion of the hotel has been in the hands of interior decorators and the firm of Boreham and Morrison has effected a striking transformation in the appearance of the rooms that have been treated. A golden-hued wall paper has been used very effectively in the lobby, ladies' reception room and the club dining room, matching that placed on the walls of the main dining room previously. Window frames have been painted a rich brown and the ceilings done in glistening white while a green and white effect introduced in the decoration of the main stairway forms an important part in the change that has been made in the downstair portion of the hotel.

Lytle Baby Has Lost One Eye

Probably within three weeks Helen Lytle, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lytle of Dummer township, only surviving victim of a fire that cost three children their lives in November, will be able to leave hospital to complete her recovery at her parents' makeshift home near the scene of the tragedy, her physician, Dr. A. Moir, believed today.

The child will face life without the fingers of her left hand and with only one or two of her right hand. Besides these horrible injuries, she has lost the sight of one eye, which will probably have to be removed.

Street Parking Is Denied Lock Company

Instead of a splash of the "old oil," the stuff that ingratiates and lubricates personal relations, E. H. Howson, general manager of the Peterborough Lock Company, tinctured with something that may have tasted like vinegar a letter to the council the other night.

"That's just trying to be smart," Alderman Gordon commented in a tone of resentment. "You ought to receive it," he suggested, and as none of the other members seemed inclined to do anything else about the Howson communication, Mayor Hamilton said "received," and that, of course, means that the communication was pushed into the discard of some well-stuffed file of correspondence.

Mr. Howson had written the council some time ago asking for a parking space on the north side of Simcoe Street in front of Peterborough's lock factory, for general convenience, especially for travellers and others coming here on business, and also because other factories had been granted this concession. He pointed out that the factory was beyond the radius of the congested central business section, and that no other rights would be infringed, and that the permission would be appreciated.

The council's reply advised Mr. Howson that there was a vacant lot across the street from the factory, affording ample room for parking of cars, locally owned or otherwise.

And Mr. Howson's rejoinder was as follows:

"We have yours of the 5th with extract from resolution of the legal committee concerning a recent letter of ours:

"For the guidance of the committee would report that we did not ask for information regarding the location of a free parking space.

"Furthermore there is not a free parking space opposite our property and it would seem to us that the Legal Committee would be well advised to get the correct facts before passing a resolution as the above.

"Our property is outside the congested centre and we are under the impression that we are the only factory in the city where parking is prohibited.

"In conclusion would say that in our opinion the appearance of this part of the city would be improved with a few cars showing in the offing as at present it looks like a deserted village.

"Trusting that some arrangement will be made at a later date to take care of our request. We are,

"Yours truly,

"E. H. Howson."

It was said during the meeting that the lot adjoining the W. R. Turner and Sons' building on the south side of Simcoe street was formerly free for parking, but that latterly a charge was made.

LAKEFIELD

Prizes To Be Given For Church Attendance

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29 (ENS). — Suitable prizes as encouragement for church attendance for 1940 for children and young people sixteen years and under, is one of the objectives of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Lakefield, as planned at the regular meeting this week.

Mrs. Charles Lee, Fellowship convener, called on Rev. J. M. Young to give the topic, "Fellowship with God." He urged the young people to come into closer relationship with God in their everyday life, not leaving this fellowship until God is called upon in some sudden, critical crisis.

"Fellowship with the World" was discussed by the convener. She told the story of a Jewish family who came to Canada from an area invaded by the Nazis in Europe, and of their welcome in this land of freedom. Thus showing Canada's fellowship for her less fortunate brothers.

The meeting was brought to a close with contests and refreshments in charge of the Social Committee.

Children Risking Lives On Thin Ice

While there is excellent skating in safe places around the city and district there are youngsters who continue to risk their lives by frequenting spots where the ice is thin.

Thursday afternoon there were several small boys on the ice near the Hunter Street bridge where because of the swift current the conditions are decidedly dangerous. Constable G. J. McGillen noticed the risk the youngsters were taking and ordered them ashore. Some of them were apparently endeavoring to see how close they could get to the edge of the ice without getting into open water.

Parents would be well advised to check on where their children are doing their skating these days and to warn them in time to prevent a tragedy.

Candidate For Deputy-Reeve Of Monaghan Is Presented With Owl For Christmas

Alex Archibald was presented with a stuffed owl around Christmas time. It was an exceedingly informal and casual affair. This wasn't one of those big sleepy eyed owls that are reputed to snooze in the day time and range abroad at night preying on the little bits of life whose destiny if they don't walk circumspectly seems to be eventual fare for hungry owls. It was just a small owl, about the size of an adult robin. Some one said its appellation in species was cat owl. That, however, is a mere detail of unessential identification.

The Archibald owl as it may now be designated apparently had been a wall piece in the office of Roy Dixon, adjoining the Archibald-Richmond plumbing shop on Water street, for so long that Mr. Dixon got fed up with its fixed and blank poise and appearance of wisdom. So, when Harold Fry dropped into the office a few days ago Mr. Dixon said: "I wish some one would take that damn thing out of here" or words to that effect, and without further ceremony Mr. Fry picked it off the place where it had rested so long and so inoffensively, and transferred it and its tiny pedestal to a convenient nail in the Archibald shop.

Possibly, Mr. Archibald doesn't know yet about the presentation. However, this announcement of the incident should introduce him to the Fry-Dixon gift, an expression of goodwill and that sort of thing. In the meantime, Mr. Archibald has become a candidate for the deputy-reeveship of North Monaghan, pitted against his fellow councillor, John Barnes, and presumably that little owl had better find itself in the presence of the deputy-reeve of the township next Tuesday morning, if it wishes to stay around the plumbing shop. Otherwise, it may be passed on to some other neighbor in the block, City Solicitor Huycke, or down the street to Vince Eastwood's insurance office.

In fact it might land in the ash can and end up in the incinerator. Its present tenure may be precarious, although the friends of Mr. Archibald couldn't imagine him tossing that wee bit of an owl to the garbage collector.

BED TIME INSPIRATION

Fred Tuggey believes in the value of inspiration that often comes when sleep is about to descend. Some persons take a chance on remembering these stray ideas, but usually the former alderman refuses to trust to mere cerebration. He makes a note of them. "The change we made in having the relief tax rate applied to all fixed assessments, thereby getting extra revenue to meet an emergent demand, came to me one night when I had gone to bed after a council meeting. If you leave those things to memory you are likely to forget all about them the next day."

War Is Fought For Rights Of Citizenship

Today, for the first time in world history, an attempt is being made to extend the ideals of the classical conceptions of law, citizenship, and political freedom to the entire western world, so that every man and woman will possess the full rights of citizenship and take a more or less active part in political life. Such was the aim of the democracies' war against totalitarianism, as expressed by Rev. R. T. F. Brain of St. John's Anglican Church in a luncheon address to the Kiwanis club at the Empress hotel today. This democratic ideal is making itself felt in every part of the world, he continued. It has its roots in the Christian tradition of citizenship and in the humanitarian ideal.

Opening his address, he declared that people are taking far too lightly the value and meaning of western culture, and set out to define four main spiritual traditions that have gone into the making of western culture. It was well to examine the principles at the root of western civilization "at the crimson closing of a year and the crimson opening of another," he believed. These four traditions, so blended, have made a culture entirely different from every other in history, he maintained. He defined them as the Christian tradition, the humanitarian tradition, the scientific tradition, and the political tradition.

Christianity, he said, has not only given the western world its religious beliefs and spiritual ideals, but has been the actual force that has created western culture. It fused the peoples of the barbaric west into the social unity of Christendom. "But it is a Christendom divided, secularized, and weakened by the intellectual and moral disorder. Yet it has inspired the moral and social ideals of our world and a complete break with the Christian tradition would mean "not only the loss of our specifically religious ideal, but a fundamental change in the whole spirit of our western world and culture."

He saw the humanitarian ideal as a by-produce of the Christian ideal, which inspired the social reforms of the 19th century. He claimed that humanitarianism has been returning its mother Christianity since 1930, after a break following the Great War. "It is intimately related to the Christian tradition because it is based on the Christian idea of the spiritual value of the individual personality and the Christian ideals of altruism and devotion to the service of the poor and oppressed."

In the scientific tradition he saw nothing that was unalterably opposto Christian religion, indeed that "science is the handmaiden of Christianity," and that Christianity is recognizing the rightful place of science in the service of man. "We cannot be sure the world which science has made will be so productive of science as was the world which made science," he warned. "Is Germany producing scientists, is Russia?"

It was in the political tradition that he outlined the rightful aim of the Allies in World War II. Only it is justified if the traditions outlined are kept and amplified at its conclusion, he declared. While it was a dreadful thing to think of the outbreak of war once again. "It would be far more dreadful if we were to lose these main traditions," he declared. He asked for 1940 that his audience pledge themselves "to downright honest thinking and downright honest prayer."

Rev. Mr. Brain was introduced to the club by Dr. C. M. Scott and John Comstock moved a vote of thanks.

Robertson—Anderson

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28. — A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, December 23rd, at 2 o'clock at the parsonage of the Rev. S. S. O'Brien in Campbellford, when Helen Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Anderson of Port Hope, became the bride of Mr. Clifford Robertson, son of Mr. A. S. Robertson and the late Mrs Robertson of Havelock. The bride wore a gown of twilight blue velvet finished on princess lines and trimmed with lace and silver buttons, with matching hat and accessories. Mrs. L. O'Brien, who attended the bride, chose fuschia wool crepe with fitted bodice and bustle back skirt, and a matching hat.

The groom was assisted by his brother, Arthur Robertson. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left on a motor trip to Toronto and western points. FASHIONS

The school crowd likes to dress as much like their older sisters as possible. Here is a basque frock that has all the style points of grown-up fashions but that retains the charm of youth. The smoothly fitted bodice with its nicely curved waistline, buttons down the back in the new manner. A tie sash may be added in the back to give the bustle silhouette. A nicely cut flared skirt is youthful and gives the effect of the corseted waistline. Little bows trim the front and a young face is framed becomingly by a white collar.

Style No. 3083 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 39-inch material, with ⅜ yard of contrasting.

Do You Know?

Buttermilk is an excellent remedy for clearing a muddy complexion. If one would drink a quart a day, a decided change would be noticed in the complexion after a few weeks.

For something "new," mix equal parts of shrimp or crabmeat with grapefruit segments, add a little diced celery and seasoning and serve with French dressing.

Vegetables belonging to the cabbage family exude less odor when cooked uncovered. Overcooking, too, is a fault which strengthens the odor and taste of these vegetables and ruins their natural color.

We Noticed

. . . If your hands look a bit weary and worn from the extra work of the pre-Christmas and holiday season, let's hope Santa was modern enough to tuck some hand creams into your stocking toe.

. . . The old gentleman was very good to us—his special Christmas package contained three Peggy Sage creams and a pair of gloves to be worn at night, thus keeping the cream on the hands and off the bed linen.

. . . The gleaming silver covers (topped by a handsome scarlet monogram, by the way), unscrew to reveal a snowy hand, smoother and softener cream to help replenish natural oils; a non-greasy day time cream, and a hand mask cream which in itself is a complete beauty treatment—one that would magically transform busy hands into a perfect setting for gift jewelry.

With The Girl Guides

WITH THE GIRL GUIDES.

As there have been no meetings this week, there is no news other than to remind every Protestant Guide and Brownie to attend church parade at Salvation Army Temple on Sunday, 10.45—an excellent way to end our year. As we are guests of 4th S.A.G.'s, 1st and 3rd Companies will not carry colors.

I would like to use our space this week for a little poem sent in by one of our Guides which seems very appropriate.

THE SCRIBE.

THE OLD YEAR SPEAKS.

"I am tired and wear and old," he said.
"And my heart is heavy and sad,
And with sorrow I bear the cares of the world
With a spirit that once was glad.
"I come with courage and hope of youth
To a world, that to me, was fair;
A King for a year—now I leave behind
Malice, and hate, and despair.
"Your task will be long and hard, New Year,
But your efforts must never cease
Til you heal the wounds of this war-torn land,
And bring to its people, peace."

Fruit Malt Beverage.

Malt extract 12 oz., raspberry syrup 2 oz., rose syrup 2 oz., cinnamon syrup 2 oz., orange flower water 2 drams., orange syrup 12 oz. Serve this with or without phosphate. Ingredients may be purchased at soda fountain and drug store.

We hope one of these proves satisfactory and that we may have the privilege of helping you again.

Question: Would you kindly send me a recipe for making walnut roll like one buys at the confectionery. It has the white centre covered in a sort of coffee and rolled in walnuts. Thanking you. (Mrs). H. M. McR.

Answer: Thank you for your letter.

To make the roll you mention you first make fondant, let it cool, then make cream taffy (pulled), and have chopped nuts ready.

Mrs. Middleton's Soft Cream Foundant.

Four cups sugar, 2 cups cream. Stir and heat slowly till dissolved; then, without stirring, boil slowly to 235 deg. Fahr. no longer. Without scraping the pan, gently pour syrup onto buttered slab and leave until perfectly cold before handling. Now knead the candy—the more it is kneaded the finer grained the finished product will be. Then roll into about 6 inch lengths 1 inch in diameter. Do not let stand more than 1 day before covering, as this fondant becomes soft after coating.

Cream Taffy

Two cups sugar, ½ cup corn syrup, ½ cup cream, 1 cup water, ¼ cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-16 teaspoon soda. Mix together, put over heat and boil to 290 deg. Fahr. without stirring. Cool and pull until of right consistency to press into sheet about ¼ inch thick by 6 inches long and any width. Cut it off in just wide enough widths to surround rolls of fondant.

Immediately roll around fondant and dip into chopped nuts. Wrap in waxed paper to chill; but do not leave in cold room.

We hope this method suits your purpose and that we may help you again.

Question—Would you please send me some recipes for dainty cakes, cookies and pastries? I would like some suitable for bridge and tea parties, and something different than the date and walnut squares and macaroons.

A few days ago I was at a tea party where we were served a most delicious white velvety cake—some tiny cake batter muffins with a creamy filling, also some squares which seemed to be made with a non-sweet pastry base topped with a filling similar to that on walnut squares. If you have any recipes similar to above I will be ever so grateful to you if you will send them to me. Thanking you, Mrs. M. R.

Answer—Thanks for your letter.

Orange Custard Cup Cakes

One-half cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, grated rind of 1 orange, 1 cup milk, 2½ cups cake flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder. Cream the butter with half the sugar, and beat the egg yolks with the rest. When both mixtures are light and delicate, combine them, add the orange rind, then alternate the milk and flour sifted with the salt and baking power, beat well and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, and bake in tiny slightly flaring muffin tins well buttered. When cool cut off tops, scooping out as much as possible, then fill with an orange custard (see below), replace the cap. Top with a thick boiled frosting put on roughly and decorate with chopped orange peel or candied orange peel.

Orange Custard

Beat 1 egg well, then add 1 tablespoon soft butter, ¾ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and ½ cup milk. Then add the grated rind of ½ orange and the juice of the whole orange. Cook over boiling water till thick, then cool before using. Double this amount if all the cup cakes are to be filled.

Betty's Toffee Bar Cookies

First Layer — ½ cup butter, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup flour. Soften butter, beat in sugar, then add flour and spread mixture over bottom of ungreased 9-inch pan. Bake about 20 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Slightly cool and spread next layer on top and finishing baking.

Second layer—Two eggs, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped nuts (toasted almonds prefered), 1 cup shredded cocoanut. Beat eggs well, add sugar and vanilla. Add flour, baking powder and salt softed together, then add nuts, and cocoanut (this may be omitted) and spread over warm first layer. Bake at 340 deg. Fahr. about 30 minutes. Before cooling, cut into 27 bars (1 x 3 inches).

Pecan Tarts

Three-quarters cup of sugar or honey or maple syrup or brown sugar, 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, 3 tablespoons coffee (when brewed), 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ cup warm milk or water, ½ cup raisins or dates, 2-3 cup pecans, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and ground cloves, 2 eggs, yolks and whites separated. Mix in order given. Fill unbaked tart shells 2-3 full and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. This filling may be poured into unbaked pie shell. It is rich and delicious.

Here Are Simple Tips for Charming Letters

Write Notes That Win Friends

Letters that make a pleasing impression—you do so want to write them!

There's the new admirer—will he keep your letter or toss it carelessly away? And Mr. Employer, will he pick yours from dozens of others?

Good letters are just made up of little things—all easily learned Writing to a friend, remember it's not so much what you say, but how you say it. Unflattering is "I've been too busy to write before this." But warmly complimentary is "At last, at last I have a chance to chat with you!"

Picking topics, clever to choose those in which your friend can share. "I have been skating lots lately. Remember your trials in teaching me?" And sparkle with lively words — "rollicking," "enchanting," "dramatic!"

But avoid careless mistakes like "he don't" for "he doesn't," "these kind" for "these kinds."

In a business letter best to be brief. Arrange your sentences in short paragraphs. Don't use abbreviations like "ad" for "advertisement."

Learn from our 32-page booklet how to write correct, effective letters for many occasions. Includes thank-you, sympathy notes, many others. Has tips on vocabulary letter etiquette.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of GOOD LETTER-WRITING MADE EASY to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, December 30.

A very interesting and intriguing day is read from the lunar transits. The strong point is in dealing with employers, superiors or those in high places, whose support and preferment may be needed for desired promotion, honors or security of position. These perhaps may best be attained by means of finesse, stratagem and suavity rather than a direct or aggressive approach. It is a fortuitous time for asking favors.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of progress and promotion, which tokens of confidence, preferment and esteem to be won from those in high places through the velvet approach rather than by obvious and strenuous pressure. Use discretion and finesse when seeking favors.

A child born on this day may be talented, ambitious, astute and versatile, as well as diplomatic and subtle. It should attain good position in life.

IN MEMORIAM

WARD. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George Ward, who died December 29, 1937.

More and more each day we miss you,
Some may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.

—Lovingly remembered by Wife, Daughter and Sons.

MAY.—In loving memory of Arnold May.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

—Ever remembered by the Family.

Husbands And Wives Have Their Own Perplexing And Trying Problems When Away From Each Other, And Should Not Air Them To Each Other In Their Homes.

A JUDGE recently ruled that a man was entitled to use rude and abusive language to his wife, provided he did it in the privacy of their home. Probably this represents the unofficial attitude of the great majority of husbands and wives toward matrimony. Their conception of home is a place where one can dispense with all of the amenities of civilization, and they hold that husbands and wives are the only people in the world to whom one does not have to be even decently polite.

Of course, no one will admit it, but it is not to be denied that in most houses courtesy and consideration and diplomacy are not considered everyday dishes for family consumption. They are saved, like the caviar and filet mignon, to be served to strangers whom we wish to impress. Anything is good enough for home folks and, if they don't like it, they know where they can go. Which is only too often to Reno.

But right here in this naive belief that so many husbands and wives entertain that marriage automatically gives them the privilege of being disagreeable and insulting to each other, so long as they do not bawl each other out in public, is the answer to the whole terrible domestic muddle that fills the world with woe. For the real reason—below all other reasons—why marriage is a failure; why husbands philander and wives take to cults or gigolos; why homes are broken up and children orphaned, and divorce grows more and more common, is the lack of politeness in the home; husbands and wives saying things to each other they would not have said to their worst enemies.

Being married does not, after all, make us cease to be human, or to have natural human reactions to the way we are treated. It does not kill our vanity and make us enjoy having our faults and weaknesses pointed out to us. It does not cause us to find delight in having our opinions derided, our tastes scoffed at, and to be told that we are getting fat and homely, dull and boresome.

Yet such is the staple of conversation in only too many homes. The husband comes home tired and grouchy and merely grunts when his wife tries to welcome him. He growls over the dinner and, if she essays to make table talk, he tells her to shut up, that she doesn't know what she is talking about. And often enough the wife is no more civil to her husband than he is to her. Her idea of a pleasant evening's entertainment for a tired man is a long string of reproaches and complaints about how she is tied down by the children, and why can't she have a new car, and why can't he make money like other men. And if he tries to tell her that business is bad she bursts into tears and wails that she is a poor, neglected wife.

Yet neither one of these people would dream of inflicting their personal grievances on strangers or making them listen to their hard-luck tales. No man would tell his dinner partner that she looked like a figure of fun in her new dress, or to lay off the mayonnaise because she weighed too much by fifty pounds. Nor would he tell her when she expressed her political views that they were all wet. On the contrary, he would pay her a few deft compliments and listen when she spoke as if to an oracle.

Nor would any woman tell a man with whom she wishes to ingratiate herself that he was getting three chins, or that he danced like a performing elephant, or that he made himself ridiculous running after young girls at his age. Nor would she interrupt him in the midst of his pet story by telling him to look how cute the kitten was acting. On the contrary, she would waft him hot air until he swelled up like a balloon. It would be only her husband whom she would deflate with a sharp jab of her tongue.

It makes no real difference to the husband and wife whether they make themselves agreeable to strangers or not, but their whole well being, their happiness, their keeping their family together depends on their speaking each other "pretty," as children say. Yet how few of them do it. They think it doesn't matter what they say to each other, but every cruel word deals a wound in the heart that never heals, and that finally bleeds love to death.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My husband and I have been happily married for nearly four years. He is very considerate, has never been drunk, never gambled or had affairs with other women. About six months ago he started to go out with some of the men where he works to stag parties or smokers He has never come home drunk or caused me any complaint, but I feel that if he goes out with these men he will lose his love for me. He says that I should not feel that way because he loves me just as much as ever. Do you think I should insist on his not going to these affairs or should his past behavior be my guide?—Mrs. D. H.

ANSWER:

I should think his past behavior would prove to you what kind of a man he is and that you can trust him. Besides, what right has a wife to forbid her husband having a little innocent diversion in which she is not included? Your husband will be a lot more likely to keep on loving you if you give him a little personal liberty than he will if you keep him tied too tightly to your apron string.

DOROTHY DIX.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

day?"

"Oh, THAT." Yes, Nicky did things well. Nicky did things in the good taste that Gertrude talked so much about, without always being quite sure of what she meant. Gertrude often got form mixed up with taste.

"We can't believe it, Nicky," Gertrude said pathetically.

"Should I offer condolences?" His question was for Gertrude, but his glance was to Fablenne.

"Not at all," she answered before her mother could speak. "We're all going to make something of ourselves. A nice fresh start with no filthy lucre to tie us down. We're going to work. Dick and me."

"Isn't she droll, Nicky? Darling, it's getting on toward seven. Hadn't you better dress for dinner?"

"Why, mother! Poor folk don't dress for diner. However, I'll get cleaned up. Played some good tennis today, Nicky, with Sue Auchincloss." Fablenne aimed neatly at the hearth with her cigaret and made it. "I'll put on something dance-ish if you'll take me to the Petite Taborine tonight, Nicky."

"Last flare before she becomes one of the working masses," Dick explained.

"Of course not. She's piqued with me because I'm solicitous about her. I want her to get married, Nicky, and I know she wants to. I think the child's romantic. I think she wants to be swept off her feet." Gertrude paused for a moment and then abruptly said something about the day's polo. She hoped that Nicky had taken the hint she had put rather baldly.

After all, it was time that Nicky stopped allowing Fablenne to twist him around her finger. He had been courting Fablenne for—Gertrude calculated hastily—twelve year. Ever since the summer she had taken the child to Maryland to visit her dead father's parents. They were only twelve and sixteen then, but already Nicky had been brow-beaten by her own wilful daughter.

Marcus came in with a tray of cocktails.

"Nicky, do you know the Prochets? They gave a most amusing party on Monday.." Gertrude chatted amiably as if she had not spent the past seven hours in storms of tears and anger. Now that Nicky was there everything would be quite all right.

Yes, Nicky would know the Prochets. He knew all the right people, the right tailors, the most dependable brokers, the rating of every club worth while. To know and do the right things was Nicky's whole life. He had never done a day's work in all his twenty-eight years. But there had been no need of it; he was the heir to the Bartlett tobacco millions.

Fablenne was a fool not to grab him. "My daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Bartlett," the Countess de Ligne would say in the drawing rooms of London and Paris that still knew her.

Fablenne came in wearing something sleek in ice-blue satin that made her look a head taller than Nicky.

"Doesn't she look sweet?" her mother said fondly.

"An awfully good buy, Nicky. Reduced today," Fablenne said, and her voice took on a hard edge that was like the hard light in her eyes earlier.

"Cocktail, dear? We'll have dinner in a few minutes."

"No, thanks. Nicky's taking me out to dinner." She didn't want to stay another minute. She knew all the things her mother would say for Nicky's benefit. Accumulated anger gathered in her breast.

She said goodby to them all, kissed her uncle and aunt and said to her brother, "Give my best to John Harvard and come and see me when I take a walk-up."

Nicky had a car that was, as one might suppose, long and sleek and as expensive as possible. Which was hardly the basis of any objection to Fablenne Seymour who preferred the luxurious.

Fablenne belonged in that car, she thought approvingly. She looked the part. Her slippers had cost thirty dollars; her gown, simple and arresting as an exclamation point, was a French original and her short jacket of perfectly matched sables had been last year's Christmas present to herself from herself with love.

Nicky looked as if he belonged in that car, too. But then Nicky always looked right—at the tiller of his sailboat, in his pink coat at the Hunt Breakfast, riding steeplechase, playing fast polo, flying his speed plane.

She could have this car, and a town car, and a plane of her own if she wished. She'd always look right amid the possessions that Nicky could give her, and Nicky was waiting for her to say that she'd take them—and him.

Why didn't she say it? Her mother was right. There was nothing else for her but marriage. She'd loathe working. Besides, what could she do? She couldn't sing in a night club. She wouldn't sell things. She was utterly useless as far as earning any money went. And she'd have to have money. Five hundred a month would be little better than nothing after Gertrude closed the apartment and went back to Paris. She'd have to taken on an apartment for herself.

Nicky said, "What's all this about 'making something of yourself'?"

"Oh, so you think it's amusing, do you?" She said it sharply, her resentment against everything finding its expression against luckless Nicky.

"Ridiculous, not amusing," he corrected, unfortunately choosing the one word that was a red flag to her.

"Well, you know my views about such things. We've discussed them before—if you remember."

He ducked as if her words were blows. "Are you going to start that line about my going to work again? Because if you are, my girl, I'll bore you by saying the same things over again. I've got plenty of money and plenty of time and plenty to do with both. Would you want me to take a job that some poor guy needs?"

"Couldn't you find a job to make for yourself? Make something useful of yourself instead of being a ...a playboy?"

"I might do social work," he said laughingly.

It was the way he laughed that added fuel to the fire kindled by her mother. It blazed, and suddenly she thought she knew a way to make her mother know how deep her resentment was.

The idea was born. Fablenne gloated over it gleefully.

"Look, Nicky," she said in a tone that indicated her annoyance with him was forgotten. "I've got an idea playing around in the back of my mind. I want to scare mother. Will you drive me down to Willoughy house in the morning?"

Fablenne little knew what a sweeping tide that wavelet of an idea was to prove.

HOCKEY FOR TROOPS?

ALDERSHOT, England, Dec. 29—(CP Cable)—Consideration is being given to a letter written to the authorities at Canadian headquarters here by J. F. Ahearne, secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association, suggesting that a hockey league be organized within the Canadian Active Service Force.

It will be some time before it is possible to ascertain what talent is available and, if organized, practices and games likely will be held during week-end leaves.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MANY WAYS TO SLIP

GRAND SLAMS are tickliah propositions. There are so many ways to lose a trick in the play that even the most air-tight appearing contracts frequently fail. For that reason many fine players have an almost unbreakable rule against bidding more than a small slam. When they do violate that rule, they always feel that they are taking a chance.

	♠ A Q J 10 6 ♥ A Q 4 ♦ 8 3 ♣ 9 5 2
♠ None ♥ J 10 8 3 ♦ Q J 9 6 2 ♣ 8 7 3	W. N. E. S.	♠ 9 ♥ K 9 7 6 2 ♦ 10 7 5 4 ♣ 10 6 4
	♠ K 8 7 5 4 3 2 ♥ 5 ♦ A K ♣ A K J

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South bid 1-Spade here and, after hearing his partner's 3-Spades, visualized the likelihood of a grand slam. Since the pair were using the Culbertson 4-5 No Trump convention, South now bid 4-No Trumps to show two aces and the king of a bid suit. When North responded with 5-No Trumps, South knew the side had all the aces and consequently bid 7-Spades.

Though the side held all of the aces, three of the kings, all the trumps except the 9 and an extra queen and jack in side suits, the contract was impossible because both the club queen and the heart king were placed unfortunately.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ K 9 5 4 3 ♥ K 8 6 2 ♦ A 10 4 ♣ A
♠ Q J 10 2 ♥ A J 9 ♦ K Q 8 7 ♣ 6 7	W. N. E. S.	♠ A 7 6 ♥ Q 10 7 4 3 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ 9 6
	♠ 8 ♥ 5 ♦ J 3 ♣ K Q J 10 8 5 4 3 2

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Whitfield's School Has Jolly Program

MILLBROOK, Dec. 29—(EOS).—The red schoolhouse at Whitfield's was a-glow with lights on Friday evening for the annual Christmas concert and tree, the chair being taken by Rev. A. L. Sisco, B. D., and parents and friends being present in large numbers.

The program opened with a group of seasonable choruses, "Bells of Christmas"; "Under the Star," and "The Coming of Santa."

A play in which practically all the scholars participated, "Poor Teacher," was well received and was followed by a song by Lynn Hannah, and a second play "Midnight Excursion." Selections on the harmonica were given by Bertha Hannah, and a recitation by Marian Rowe, after which Act 1 of the play, "Star of the East," was presented, and a sale of homemade candy took place.

The two-part song, "Silent Night" led up to Act II of the play, and a stocking drill was found particularly attractive, excitement reaching its highest peak with the distribution of gifts from the tree by jolly St. Nicholas himself, assisted by the popular teacher, Miss Della Mae Sisco for whom many parcels were found on the laden tree.

Candy was given all the pupils, and the National Anthem brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

Season Of Jig And Folk-Song In Full Swing Along French-Canada's Back Concessions

QUEBEC, Dec. 29 — (CP). — They've dusted of fthe fiddle and rolled back the parlor rug in French-Canadian homes in the back concessions, for it's the season of jig and folk-song.

The Quebec farmer's merry-making season by tradition is the last week of the Old Year and the first week of the New, when winter has brought a lull in his hard work of squeezing a living from the soil.

Troubles are forgotten in the gay business of singing the songs as old as his people and as quaint as their ways, stepping about a brightly-painted floor and toasting what was good in the Old Year and what the New may bring.

Though the period is one of gaiety in the remote, snow-bound villages, always it starts with solemn celebration of midnight mass in the parish church on Christmas Eve.

Every resident of every parish turns out for the mass with its blazing candles, the Christmas hymns and the sermon of the cure, in the little stone church that is the hub of rural French-Canadian life.

To attend the colorful ceremony the farmers in big fur coats over their best Sunday clothes travel along lonely roads, their sleigh-bells scattering shrill tunes through the night.

The revelry starts after mass, once the farm folk have returned to their home sand piled wood high in shiny black stoves. There"s the dancing and singing, little glassfuls, and good things to eat from lade nkitchen tables.

But in the village homes no presents are given on Christmas Day. That's reserved for New Year's. And all the gifts are useful—a new fur cap for the husband, a coat for the wife, blue suits for the sons and dresses for the daughters.

The farmer's holiday ends with a round of visiting and family gatherings on the Feast of the Epiphany. After that it's back to work—time to start threshing grain sheaves stacked in the barns since the autumn.

Stranded Mother Freezes But Saves Baby As Husband Treks 26 Miles For Aid

ESCALANTE, Utah., Dec. 29 (AP) — A mother who froze to death while protecting her infant child was listed today as the first casualty directly attributable to the wintry weather that has gripped the Intermountain region since the Christmas week-end.

Mrs. Asenith Alvey, 17, of Escalante froze to death on a mountain side where she sought shelter for herself and her four-month-old daughter while her husband, Philo Alvey, sought help after his automobile stalled.

The infant, shielded beneath the mother's body, apparently was unharmed.

The death occurred Christmas Day.

Alvey reached help by walking 26 miles from the spot. A relief party set out immediately but the woman was dead when help reached her.

Finn Ski Troops Ask More Snow

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 29—(AP).—Finns looked to dark skies to-day for more snow and cold to aid their fleet ski forces in lightning stabs against the ponderous Russian forces.

The ski troops have been given the credit for many gains in the Salla region—on the eastern front just above the Arctic Circle—and the far northern fighting.

But they have been extremely active also on the Karelian front where the war is largely a series of artillery exchanges and frequent Russian surprise attacks led by tanks.

There the skis are used mainly for scouting expeditions and skirmishing.

Finns tell proudly of one scout who was able to slip through the Russian lines one night, but a chalk mark on a Russian cannon and return with the exact position for Finnish artillery.

For most Finns skis are as natural a piece of footwear as a pair of boots. On country roads Finnish youngsters—five or six years old—can be seen shoving themselves along with ski-poles.

Take Back Trails.

The great advantage to the Finns in the northern guerrilla fighting is that with the ski they can hit obscure trails in the woods and surprise Russians trying to make their way over narrow, winding roads.

Ski troopers carry packs weighing 40 to 50 pounds and can cover 30 to 35 miles a day under proper conditions. Some carry light machine guns and two men frequently can draw a small field piece or anti-tank gun also mounted on skis.

A special ski glove made of reindeer hide is used by the troops to aid in surmounting steep slopes.

Small, sturdy Finnish horses accustomed to the severe weather often are used to pull two or three men on skis when the snow is not too deep.

The troops, wearing white capes and trousers over their regulation uniforms, become a part of the landscape at a short distance, especially if the snow is blowing.

War Fails To Hit Canadian Air Mine Trade

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29—(CP)—Fears that the outbreak of war would seriously cripple commercial air transportation business in the mining areas of Canada's vast Northwest have proved groundless so far, according to commercial airmen.

When the war clouds broke over Europe early in September hard-rock miners predicted that many promising mines would be forced to suspend operations because of increased operating costs. Air transportation companies, majority of which rely on mining interests for their payloads, tightened their belts and waited for the drop in revenue.

But the anticipated depression has failed to materialize, say officials of Canadian Airways, Wings Limited and Starrat Airways and Transportation, Ltd., whose airplanes drone to the far stretches of the Arctic circle in Northern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba and to lonely James Bay points in Northwestern Ontario.

"The war hasn't interfered with our business at all so far," they declared.

Major Producers Pep Up.

Service mining gangs and prospecting parties have deserted the field in many districts, the bush fliers admitted, but this has been offset by increased activities in the major producing mines.

In some areas passenger service has improved with hostilities as Canada's military forces are augmented by rugged Northern miners. This now source of revenue works both ways because new employees must be flown into the mines to replace those who have enlisted.

The call of the Royal Canadian Air Force, with its promise of new adventure in the air, has been answered by a number of bush pilots and aircraftsmen. But this depletion in the ranks of experienced airmen has not impaired the efficiency of the bush companies, sa ytheir customers in the wilds of north of steel.

Instead, the vacancies have allowed many youthful air aspirants to become full-fledged pilots and air engineers—positions which had eluded many of them in peacetime.

LET OFF WITH FINE

Happy New Year!

Ilona Massey, the blonde beauty from Budapest, who is causing such a stir in Hollywood, waves a New Year's greeting to the world from the film capital.

When a New Year Comes

Editorial

ONLY A FEW days ago people were greeting friends — shaking hands and wishing each other a "Merry Christmas," and the gesture of friendship is about to be repeated, only this time they will say "Happy New Year!"

The world has had the habit for a long time of blocking out what it calls a year, separating it into months, dividing the months into weeks, weeks into days and days into hours and hours into minutes. We still do that, so when we come to the end of one of those blocked-out periods we say the old year is dead and we hail the coming of another.

That custom is so firmly fixed we could not topple it over if we so desired. Right now the Old Year is close to the end of its journey; we're just filling in the few words at the bottom of the last page. Then we will be done with it. In welcoming the New Year we probably forget the old one. What we might call the expulsive desire of a new affection will cause us to cling to the new and forget the old. We feel that the New Year is something we have, while the Old Year is something we had but have no longer.

SOME PEOPLE take quite seriously the business of making what they term their New Year resolutions, while others look upon the custom — if custom it remains — as something about which to pass light remarks.

But there is something right enough about the individual who looks out upon the New Year with a desire to make it a better one than the Old Year. We might even call it wholesome because it at least gives evidence that the individual has not been blind to his own defects.

As a rule it's remarkably easy to see what's wrong with other people. We can spot it at once, and we may even cuddle or nourish the feeling we'd like to step out of line and set matters right—in some other person.

The breathing place — if there is one — between the Old and the New seems to be just the right spot for a little introspection; or if you prefer it in simpler form: self examination. The man who decides to do better in 1940 than he did in 1939 can't do it by merely making some resolutions. There's got to be something done to the man himself because he is the individual who has to put into effect these new resolutions.

It is something like the man we heard complaining that the gardener was not making a good job of cutting the lawn. He spoke about it and the gardener explained if he wanted better work he would have to have the lawn mower sharpened. Possibly that is simple as an illustration and rather homely, but if you are going to make more out of 1940 than you did out of 1939 you will have to be a better man or you will bungle all the good resolutions you could write in a week.

IT IS A GOOD TIME to cease from looking at the world and telling what is wrong with it; to quit looking at other people and applying our limited powers to diagnosis. Much more profitable, we submit, to consider yourself. And probe deep enough when you are doing it, even if it hurts.

Train Victims Include High Officers

Troop And Passenger Collision Laid To Faulty Switch

NAPLES, Dec. 30 — (AP). — Rescuers reported today the recovery of 40 bodies from the wreckage of a passenger train and a troop train which collided at a station in Torse Annunziata, 18 miles south of were.

Approximately 150 injured were taken to hospitals.

Struck Troop Train

The fast passenger train plunged into the rear of the train carrying soldiers, which was standing on a siding at the station.

The passenger train had the right of way, investigators said, and was to have passed, but a switch apparently failed to function.

The express plunged onto the siding and ploughed into the cars, full of troops, including high ranking officers.

Rescue Hampered

Two inches of snow and intense cold hampered rescue work.

Automobiles, trucks and horse drawn carriages were pressed into service to transport the injured to hospital. Some of the injured were brought to Naples.

Both trains were coming from Calabria in southern Italy.

Canadians Prefer Identity Disc

OTTAWA, Dec. 30—(CP). Modern as they are Canada's armed forces nevertheless still cling to the method of the first Great War for identifications of personnel — the identity disk—in preference to fingerprinting, a scientific and surer system.

So just as they did 25 years ago, Canada's fighting men today carry around their neck a small chain supporting a metal disk bearing the soldier's name and regimental number. In addition, birth marks and scars are recorded when recruits pass their medical examinations.

Although facilities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police's fingerprinting department are theirs for the asking, officials of the National Defence Department said today that fingerprinting was considered undesirable "because of Canada's form of voluntary enlistment." They admitted however that the system had its merits.

There have been suggestions in other quarters that prospective recruits might not be so willing to enroll if it meant opening up their past to inspection through their prints. Then there is

King Grants Right That May See Men Up To 29 Out

LONDON, Dec. 30 — (CP). — The King will give authority to the Ministry of Labor and a national service to call up for military service additional men between the ages of 18 and 41, it was learned authoritatively to-day.

The proclamation, it was said, will be issued early in the New Year, conferring on the ministry a power which was reserved to the Crown in three previous calls for men.

Purpose of the change was understood to be to enable the ministry to fix registration dates for several age groups within a short period without having to await a royal proclamation for each one.

The Evening News said the summons to service for the last group registered— 23-year-olds— probably would be issued in January.

It added that registration of groups up to 29-year-olds was probable in the following month, although only one age group at a time would be called to register.

Spirit of Free Men to Win.

LONDON, Dec. 30 — (CP). — Confidence that the spirit of free men will prevail and that conclusive evidence of this may appear in 1940 was voiced to-day by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir John Simon, in a New Year's message to the Spen Valley constituency, which he represents in Parliament.

"I know how ardently men and women of all parties long for established peace," he said, "and how they never could have approved of our entering into war if it had not been necessary for us to help to preserve for Europe and ourselves that liberty which alone can make life worth living.

"War was forced upon us because the rulers of Germany were resolved to continue their course of aggression. Everything that has happened since, including the monstrous invasion of Finland, shows that the country's instinct was right and that what Mr. Chamberlain calls 'evil things' must be overthrown.

"It will involve great sacrifices—greater indeed than some of us may yet realize—but there is something in the spirit of free men and women which is not dreamed of in the

French Patrols Grab 2 Nazi Officers

PARIS, Dec. 30—(AP).—French patrols tracking German units through Western front snows, penetrated German lines in forays east of the Moselle River today, military sources reported.

Opposing patrols engaged in brief clashes resulting in the capture of at least one German officer and one non-commissioned officer, the reports said, as the French learned new details of the German strength and equipment.

Sharp cold, near the zero mark, hindered other military activity on the ground, but clearing skies after the snowstorms brought the aerial forces of both sides into reconnaissance action. The general staff said no air battles had been reported.

The sinking of a German submarine by the combined efforts of a French warship and British bombing plane was reported today. Date of the sinking was not given.

Informed sources said the warship was escorting a merchant convoy when it detected a plane overhead but was unable to read the craft's wireless signals. Finally the plane dropped smoke bombs.

Racing to the spot where the bombs fell, the ship dropped depth charges. A few seconds later the account said, a disabled submarine rose to the surface but went down again "obviously beyond repair."

The capture of some prisoners in the Vosges Forest region on the Western front was reported in the general staff communique last night.

On the home front, parliament completed the war budget with the Senate approval of 55,034,000,000 francs ($1,210,748,000) for military expenses for the first three months of the Minister And Labor Leaders Plan To Make Canada Fit Homeland For Heroes

McLarty, Moore, Mosher, Burford Hopeful Of Improvement In Coming Year, Lay Foundation For After-War Conditions

OTTAWA, Dec. 30—(CP).—Organized labor in Canada was quick to respond with offers of complete co-operation with the Dominion Government in furthering the national war effort, Labor Minister McLarty declared today in a New Year's message addressed to labor and industry in the Dominion.

"But while our major thoughts must necessarily be directed to the effective prosecution of the war," the Labor Minister said, "there are two peacetime problems which will require careful and continuous consideration.

"The first of these is the problem of unemployment. While it is doubtless true that this problem will be less acute during the wartime period, those who thought that in the advent of war the problems would be immediately and automatically solved were mistaken. There has, it is true, been some reduction. But even when industry has been keyed to the high tempo produced by war activity, there will still remain a substantial number who will depend from time to time upon the state for their support.

"The second of these is the problem of the aftermath of war. It is not too early to be giving this our earnest consideration and our most careful thought. The situation which will be created when our forces on the land, the sea and in the air are required to return to peacetime activities, and when the artificial stimulation of industrial activity created by the scourge of war has been removed, will be a most serious one.

Aim To End Disputes.

"But the extent of our postwar dislocation will be largely governed by the forethought and careful planning that is given to meeting of this inevitable occurrence— by the avoidance of industrial disputes, by steps taken now to avoid undue inflation, by measures calculated to build up a back long against the emergency, by the sense of confidence we can instill into our Canadian people, by a vigorous and honest prosecution of the war, and by the extent to which we can succeed in marshalling the vast recources of Canada with a view to banishing hardship, priyation and despair from every home."

Realization of organized labor of the necessity for preservation of democratic government for the general welfare of the workers was expressed in messages from three

Raiders Mark Up Lean Week, 5 British Ships

(By The Canadian Press.)

German raiders preying on merchant shipping had their leanest week of the war in the seven days ending Dec. 29.

Britain lost only five ships during the week, four of them fishing vessels of little more than 200 tons apiece. Total British tonnage lost was 3,387 tons.

Scandinavian ships were the only other victims of German submarines and mines, their losses totalling 4,706 tons. Of this total Sweden lost more than half.

The Germans, who in the previous week had lost twice as much tonnage as the Allies, apparently reverted to their policy of keeping their merchant ships in refuge in neutral ports, for the only German ships to come within range of British naval patrols was the 2,680-ton Glucksburg which was successful in CARRYING a .38 calibre revolver as he tried to enlist in the Canadian Active Service Force, Alfred H. Slaght, 25, was arrested at Queen's Park military camp this morning on an armed robbery warrant for Port Huron, Mich. police.

The gun was unloaded, police said, but the cylinder had been stuffed with cigarette stubs, which gave it the appearance from the front of being loaded.

Quakes Continue As Turkey Rallies Relief

ANKARA, Dec. 30 — (AP). — New violent earth tremors in the vicinity of Tokat in Northern Anatolia brought fears to-day of an additional disaster as officials reported direct from Erzincan Province that deaths there would total at least 40,000.

The new quakes were accompanied by deep underground rumblings, but the extent of damage was not determined immediately.

The first trainload of injured from the great earthquake of Wednesday was en route to Ankara. The victims, all in need of surgical attention, included a number of high ranking Turkish officers and one general.

Military planes flew over Erzincan, dropping bundles of food and clothing to survivors who huddled half-naked in snow-covered fields.

Digging Victims Out.

General Kiazim Orbay was in charge of aiding survivors and digging victims from ruined buildings.

Rescue of many persons in the isolated districts appeared hopeless as snow continued to block highway and rail communications. Officials said children and women particularly were falling victims to the continued bitter cold 25 and 30 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

The entire Turkish nation was mobilized for relief, and help was sent from other countries. It was announced that Great Britain contributed £100,000 ($445,000).

Developing reports from the stricken districts of Anatolia portrayed tragic losses which will take at least many months to remedy.

Skippers Of Freighter Fleet Keep Blood Flowing Through The Empire's Veins

Somewhere on Canada's East Coast, Dec. 30 (CP)—It is the skipper of the humble-appearing, often rusty, freighters, tankers and other cargo boats who are keeping the blood flowing through the veins of the British Empire in these days of war.

This wreath of greatness was bestowed by a captain of His Majesty's fleet—a sea dog whose breast is decorated with the Victoria Cross and the Distinguished Service Order.

He spoke of them with a deference that was surprising to the uninitiated — surprising to a man brought up to regard the battle fleet as the main reason there is an empire, the merchant marine as something lesser. And he spoke to them with deference.

He spoke at a secret meeting of convoy captains at which the writer was privileged to sit in. The morning after the conference the skippers of the merchant ships were leaving this port with the supplies necessary to conduct the war—aviation fuel and molasses, lead and wheat. The naval captain who spoke to them and of them was in command of the ships of war that were to escort the convoy.

It was a dramatic conference. Yet the men who were discussing their tasks—tasks vital if the enemy is to be beaten—were as matter-of-fact as though plotting a peaceful weekend dinghy cruise.

All the skippers were middle-aged or older. They had the placidity and the wind-reddened faces of men who roam the seas.

The naval captain was different in appearance as it is possible for a man of the sea to be. He had finely chiselled features. He was of the same mould as Nelson and his long, grey sideburns smacked of the pre-Victorian era.

Complete Understanding.

But when they spoke to each other there was complete understanding.

The captain addressed the skippers on the duties he was to perform in providing the escort. He told them briefly what was expected of them if the convoy was to be kept safe, its cargoes delivered. But there was nothing instructional about it. Each man knew his job and their faces said they were anxious to get about it.

The naval man told the skippers what must be done in the event of an enemy attack. He reminded them in one short sentence of the circumstances under which they might have to worry about themselves, ther boat, cargo and the lives of their crew.

Germany's Most Decisive Year Lies Ahead Hitler States Of 'War Forced Upon Us'

BERLIN, Dec. 30 — (AP). — Adolf Hitler cancelled to-day the usual New Year's receptions at the Chancellery for the Diplomatic Corps, German Cabinet, defence forces, the Nazi Party, and other officials because of the war.

An authorized source said that, instead, well-wishers might enter their names in a special visitors' book.

In messages to the army and the Nazi Party, Hitler declared that ahead of the Germans lay "the most serious struggle for existence or non-existence."

"Soldiers:

"The year 1939 was the year of a proud test for the great German army. You victoriously used the weapons entrusted to you by the German people in the struggle forced upon us. It was possible in hardly 18 days through the co-operation of everyone to re-establish the security of the Reich in the East and to set aside the Versailles injustice.

"At the end of this historic year let us remember the comrades who sealed their faithfulness to the people and the Reich with their blood.

"For the ensuing year we want to ask the Almighty Who, during the past, so visibly took us under His protection again to vouchsafe His blessings to us and strengthen us in fulfilment of our duty. For ahead of us lies the most serious struggle for existence or non-existence of the German people.

"With proud confidence I and the whole nation look upon you, for with such soldiers Germany must win."

In a message to the Nazi Party, Hitler said: "We enter upon the most decisive year in German history."

He asserted that "80,000,000 people cannot in the long run be kept from participating in the world's wealth.

"All the measures we have taken hitherto neither robbed nor in any way harmed the rest of the world.

Christmas Week Quietest In 17 In War On Nazis

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Cable Editor.)

A Christmas lull made the 17th week of the war with Germany the quietest since hostilities began. But in Finland, the land associated with reindeer and sleighs and other incidentals of Christmas, the fighting went on with increasing fury.

The Bolshevists do not observe Christmas. The resourceful Finns, routing the invaders in some sectors and denying them gains in others, penetrated Russian territory with a foray by ski troops against the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad, which serves as a supply line for the Red forces.

The measure of success attending this 75-mile stab across the snow-covered lakes and forests of the enemy was not clear. But an indication of the way the Kremlin feels about the general progress of the invasion was given in reliable reports that the Russian high command had been changed and new troops from as far away as Siberia summoned to participate in the campaign.

Troops better experienced in winter warfare were said to have been requisitioned. Reports from Finland told of Russian formations advancing across the open spaces of frozen lakes, affording the concealed Finns the opportunity of shooting them down by the hundreds.

Finns On Verge Of First Major Battle

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 30.—(AP). —The war's first major battle was imminent to-day, many military experts believed, as veteran Red troops replaced conscripts under cover of a continuous artillery bombardment of Finland's Karelian Isthmus defences.

With Russian cannon raking the woods in front of the Mannerheim Line, Finnish officers said experienced soldiers were relieving in some sections the youngsters whom the Finns have beaten back since the war started Nov. 30.

Belief Russia was preparing for a general drive was bolstered by re-

Judge Gives In

Detroit, Dec. 30 (CP)

TRAFFIC JUDGE George T. Murphy just let the two-day sentence stand when Mrs. Otha Harris told him "You can't do that to my husband or you'll have to take care of our six children." She explained he would lose his job if he had to stay in jail two days.

A few hours later Mrs. Harris flopped a baby down on the judge's bench and found chairs for the other five. Then she marched out. Sergeant Gordon Rosenberger, court clerk, got in touch with the judge who said "sentence commuted to one day. Let the prisoner out."

The father retrieved the children.

Prowling Desert Cure For Trouble Makers Says 'Death Valley' With World Abuzzin'

DEATH VALLEY, Calif., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Death Valley Scotty thinks the world's trouble makers ought to get out in the rocks of the desert for a while.

So he told a few of his old pals who came early for the customary gathering with him at the castle for the New Year week-end feast.

Scotty, and his partner, A. M. Johnson, will be seated tonight at opposing ends of the great table in the castle's banquet hall, each carving a turkey.

Scotty greeted those from Los Angeles with questions about the war and politics. Then he gave them a bit of his desert philosophy.

"They tell me thuh world's abuzzin 'again," he said. "Wall, thuh fellers what's making trouble oughta come out in thuh rocks and prowl around fer themselves fer awhile. They might begin to see things a little different.

"When you size it all up, looks like it's gold that's at thuh bottom of thuh mess."

The mystery prospector's sharp blue eyes peered at distant mountain ranges. He knows about gold. He has been a gold mystery for more than 35 years. Within a hundred miles of his $2,381,000 castle more than $300,000,000 in gold has been mined. He says he has spent some $8,000,000 himself.

"Gold!" he mused. "It makes bankers commit suicide, good women go wrong, and turns the world into a mad scramble. Yes. It would do them trouble-makers good if they came out fer awhile in thuh rocks whar thuh gold comes from."

6 Ontario Cities Go To Polls New Year's Day

(By The Canadian Press.)

Voters in man Ontario municipalities will go to the polls on Monday to elect civic officials for 1940 and probably longer.

Ready for submission to the Ontario Legislature next month is a Bill whereby electoral candidates will hold office for two years in the interests of wartime economy. Some municipalities have obtained expressions of opinion on the question of whether terms are to be extended beyond one year, but Premier Hepburn has said that, no matter what the results of these referendums the legislation will be submitted anyway.

Hon. Eric Cross, Provincial Minister of Municipal Affairs, said in an interview yesterday that some centres had missed the intent of the legislation in the manner in which they presented the question to the voters. Ottawa, Kitchener, Hamilton, and Forest Hill voted on the proper intent, he said, when they voted on whether officials should hold office for two years, while other municipalities asked whether elections should be suspended during the war.

Toronto, St. Catharines, Owen Sound, Peterborough, Sault Ste. Marie and Port Arthur are the cities which will hold elections on New Year's Day. Scores of towns, villages and townships will also vote.

Mayor Ralph Day is being opposed at Toronto for the second straight year by Lewis Duncan, K. C., more interest has been aroused, though, by the attempt of Stewart Smith, Communist alderman, to gain election to the four-man Board of Control in a field which includes his chief antagonist on the Council, Alderman David Balford, as well as the present controllers, Fred Hamilton, Dr. Fred Conboy, William Wadsworth, and J. D. McNish, K.C.

Last year Tim Buck, secretary of the Communist Party of Canada, made a strong bid for a controllership in one of Toronto's most heated campaigns. Smith was re-elected to the Council while four other Communist candidates for various offices were defeated.

Acclamations have been tendered Mayor Charles Daley at St. Catharines, Mayor W. J. McMeekin at Sault Ste. Marie, and Mayor James Hamilton of Peterborough. Elections will be held, however, for other civic offices.

When he had finished the commander of the escort wished the homespun captains of the convoy "God speed and a safe voyage." Then all adjourned to a ward room where the sea dog, twice decorated for feats of naval bravery in the First Great War, placed the accolade of greatness on the merchant branch of the sea.

A remark that this great sea fighter had seemed to speak to the men of the merchant marine with a touch of humbleness brought this reply:

"We of the fleet merely keep open the sea lanes; these are the men who keep flowing the lifeblood of the Empire."

With the absence of fighting, Britons everywhere celebrated the holidays as joyfully as the circumstances of war permitted. The King in a Christmas Day broadcast, spoke of the unity of the peoples of the Empire and said, "we feel in our hearts that we are fighting against wickedness."

Lindsay Man Is Injured Crossing Street

John King, 56, Lindsay, is in Nicholls Hospital, suffering from head injuries and a cut on his right hand, as the result of a traffic accident on Charlotte street at 4.40 o'clock Friday.

According to J. B. Lillico, 515 Hunter street, driver of the car, the Lindsay man walked out from behind a parked car on the south side of Charlotte street and started across the street. In doing so Lillico said the injured man walked into the right front fender and bumper of the automobile which was travelling east and was knocked down.

He was carried into Boriand's drug store and later, after medical examination, was ordered to hospital. He was still conscious although in a dazed condition after the accident.

Car Breaks Off Gasoline Pump

Driving down Reid street hill Friday afternoon George Dwyer, 23, of Haliburton turned into Dawson's service station at the corner of Reid and McDonnel street to buy some gas. Unfortunately for the owner of the place and for himself the Haliburton man was unable to stop his car and it ploughed itn a gas pump, breaking it off and doing $700 damage. A number of bottles of oil were also knocked over and broken.

Dwyer appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to driving without adequate brakes.

"You should know better than to come into town with a car that could not be driven properly," Magisrate Langley told the driver. "You might have killed some person."

Dwyer was fined $15 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail and told the court that he would have to go to jail as he had no money to pay the fine.

His car escaped with a dollar damage from the crash with the gas pump.

Dr. T. F. Rutherford Named To Hospital

A signal honor has come to an old Peterborough boy, Dr. Thomas Francis Rutherford, son of Mrs. C. J. Rutherford, 328 Louis street. Announcement has been made of his appointment as head of the eye, ear, nose and throat division of Hotel Dieu in Kingston.

Dr. Rutherford succeeds the late Dr. O'Connor, who made the hospital's name continent-wide in that branch of the medical profession. Dr. O'Connor was rated as one of the most able specialists in his line in the world, and was on the staff of Queen's University.

The post is doubly an honour to Dr. Rutherford, for he is a former pupil of Dr. O'Connor—while at Queen's—and a former associate on the staff of Hotel Dieu. He left the hospital to spend four years in post graduate studies in New York city and is now returning to head the department. He will also lecture at Queen's.

Dr. Rutherford received public and high school education here. Besides his mother, he has in this city one sister, Mrs. Fred Overend, and two brothers, John Rutherford, a teacher on the staff of P.C.I. and George Rutherford.

Poultry Prices Slightly Higher

Turkeys that escaped the axe during Christmas week were offered for New Year's fare on the local market this morning opening at 27 cents for the choicest hens, with others at 24 to 26 cents, and gobblers at 20 to 22 cents.

Geese at ten o'clock were 20 and 22 cents, and chickens 18 to 21 cents; eggs, 22 to 27 cents, and also 25 to 30 cents to the early customers; and butter 28 to 30 cents.

The prices of poultry were all slightly higher than a week ago, but from buyers' accounts there were no bargains on the Christmas Saturday market. The quality of fowl this morning seemed almost on a level with a week ago, but the peak for the holiday season was the Wednesday preceding Christmas.

Leap Year Glows Promising For Soaring Marriages War Aiding Lassies' Wiles

(By the Canadian Press.)

Cultivation by the male sex of that "demned elusive" art of wariness will need to be at a high pitch to keep marriage statistics within bounds the next 12 months.

Adequate protection against feminine Leap Year wiles is still a minus quantity judging from 1936 results, when marriages in Canada showed an increase of five-and-a-half per cent. over 1935.

Next year gives even greater promise of soaring figures. With so many gallant lads leaving for the smoke and din of battle on the other side of the Atlantic, resistance to the fair sex is likely to be at a lower-than-average ebb.

On the other hand, since the modern alternative to Leap-Year marriage is a gown of the lassie's choice, the unresponsive male will not get off Scotfree. Some bits of feminine fluff may be destined to end the year with a decidedly large wardrobe.

First observed in Scotland in 1288, this custom of women openly usurping male prerogatives one year out of every four has a definite legal status.

The 700-year-old Scottish decree reads:

"For ilk yeare knowne and Lepe Yeare, ilk mayden ladye of both high and lowe estait shall hae liberte to bespeak ye man she likes, albeit he refuses to talk hir to be his lawful wyfe, he shall be mulcted in ye sum ane pundis or less, as his estait may be; except and awis gif he can make it appeare that he is betrothit ane ither woman he shall then be free."

France and Genoa passed a similar law a few years later, with Florence following suit in the 15th century.

Slip On Ice Fatal As Gun Goes Off

CARLETON PLACE, Dec. 30.—(CP)—Kenneth C. Findlay, 28-year-old Almonte, Ont., businessman and member of the well-known manufacturing family of this Eastern Ontario town, was killed accidentally here last night as a revolver he was carrying fired when he slipped on some ice.

Findlay, the Ottawa and district golf champion, was walking on the sidewalk at the rear of his mother's home following his wife to their car when the accident occurred.

Police said he was in the habit of carrying the automatic revolver, and it went off as he skidded on the snow-covered ice on the walk. No inquest will be held.

His wife, the former Betty Stewart of Montreal whom he married eighteen months ago, ran into the house to get aid but her husband died instantly.

Uruguay To Give Tacoma Day To Get Out

MONTEVIDEO, Dc. 30—(AP).—A Uruguayan ultimatum that the German merchantman Tacoma get out of Montevideo harbor in 24 hours, or be interned, was expected momentarily to-day.

The alternative order was reported decided upon by President Alfredo Baldomir on grounds that the Tacoma had served as an auxiliary for the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, now a dynamited mass of wreckage in the silt of the River Plata estuary.

The commander of the Graf Spee, confronted by a similar order, chose the middle course between internment and facing British warships which had driven the Graf Spee, heavily damaged by gunfire, into Montevideo harbor.

At least one factor in the reported decision that the Tacoma acted as a warship auxiliary—thus becoming ineligible for refuge rights accorded merchant ships of belligerent nations—was that the Tacoma picked up crewmen from the scuttled battleship.

President Baldomir decided upon the ultimatum, it was learned, after a conference with Foreign Minister Alberto Guian. The Tacoma, meanwhile, lay at anchor.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Firm trends on outside markets combined with a disappointing Argentine wheat crop estimate and moderate export sales of Canadian wheat to leave wheat futures prices ⅛ lower to ¼ higher after a steady session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. December wheat closed at 83¾, May 88½, and July 89⅝ to ½ cents.

Flax prices scored new season highs in the coarse grain pit. Prices reacted from the highs, however, presumably because of profit-taking.

At its high point, the price of May flax was less than two cents from the two-dollar mark. In addition to the flax rally, exporters were credited with taking a little barley.

Canada Stronger Than In 1914

MONTREAL, Dec. 30— (CP). — Canada in the present war is a vastly stronger and far more resourceful country than she was in 1914 and "its people have a stronger consciousness of their heritage and of their responsibilities," Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said in a year-end statement.

His annual review of Canada's economic position released here last night said there has been definite business improvement during 1939 and "it was, on the whole, a favorable situation in which Canada found herself when war broke out."

"The opening phase of the war also has progressed in an unexpectedly helpful way. Instead of being plunged at almost a moment's notice into the heights of violent battle effort, we this time have had opportunity to bring to bear on the whole matter of our national war action a calm deliberation together with constructive planning such as we had neither the wisdom nor opportunity to apply to a similar conflict 25 years ago.

Sir Edward said that no one can tell what will be the ultimate effect of the war upon Canadian life and economic development and it is perhaps hardly the time to consider that question.

"No sacrifice is too great for the winning of the war and we now have no knowledge as to the extent to which our resources will be called upon. Conservation for the war effort is a primary duty."

Decide Bridges No Communist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. —(AP)— A finding that Harry Bridges was "energetically radical" in his aim but was not a member of nor affiliated with the Communist part opened the way today for the Wes coast leader of the Congress of In dustrial organizations to escape de portation to his native Australia.

The finding was submitted t Labor Secretary Frances Perkins j James Landis; Harvard law schoo dean, appointed by the Secretary t conduct a hearing to determin whether Bridges was liable for de portation.

His finding was expected to carr great weight with Secretary Perkin in her final determination of wheth er Bridges can remain in the Unite States.

Labor Department counsel sai that approval of the Landis repor by Miss Perkins would mean th cancellation of the deportation war rant issued against Bridges March, 1938.

In a voluminous report, Land said that testimony failed to estab lish that Bridges had joined or a filiated with the Communist part

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES TO-MORROW

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James

THE APPEAL TO MANHOOD

The Lord said unto me; Son of man, stand upon thy feet and I will speak unto thee. Ezekiel 2:1.

More than two thousand five hundred years ago it happened. The vision came to Ezekiel, a Jew, a priest, an exile in the land of Babylonia. He is in very low spirits and this is his inspiration. God does not call him by name. It is not enough the gloom is too great. "Son of man" is startling, arousing. He is man made in the image of God.

Your little son crawls around the floor. One evening your wife with joy in her voice says: "Sonny stood up today for the first time." It is a red letter day; a sign of his manhood—that he is different from the animal creation. He stands upon his feet.

God is calling His servant Ezekiel to stand upon his feet, to overcome his despondency. He is a man to whom God can speak; he is God conscious. He is to deliver an unpleasant message. It will arouse bitter opposition. Yet he cannot forbear. "The burden of the Lord is upon him." That mysterious urge which came upon those inspired men.

Ezekiel had an important contribution to make. Through him God revealed the wider and more important truth that the individual is important. The national life had ceased. The "City had been smitten"; the daily sacrifice had ceased. Lest religion might die a new teaching is revealed that the individual is important.

Ancient thought valued the nation and not the individual. The family was the unit; the nation a larger unit. Achan and his whole family was put to death for his sin. It was the accepted justice of that day and for centuries after.

Twenty-five centuries later we have the totalitarian idea of teaching that the state is divine and the individual matters little. He must not criticise the state. It is strange that political thought has taken a step backward in this age of the radio and the marvels of science.

The same Lord speaks to you:—"Son of man, stand upon thy feet and I will speak unto thee." As a man made in the image of God two thoughts should be upon your mind as you face the coming year.

1. You will have to face temptations. They will come to you because you are made in the image of God with a sense of responsibility and the gift of choice. These tests and temptations are necessary for the development of your moral character. The Master Himself was tempted and tested in all points. Therefore He knows the pain of temptation. As Man His heart of sympathy goes out to you. Ponder upon this promise from Paul's experience. "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man; but God is faithful, Who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way of escape, that ye may be able to bear it." 1 Cor. 10:13. Remember that "underneath are the everlasting Arms." They are the arms of the God-Man, Jesus Christ, and He whispers:—"Be strong and very courageous. Lo, I am with you all the days."

2. As a man you are given the sense of Moral Indignation. There is an unbalanced Christian teaching that a man should never be angry. When you see the poor trodden down; the strong triumphing over the weak and your heart does not burn with indignation there is something wrong in your spiritual life. Read St. Matthew 23:23 to end and remember that it is the loving Lord Christ Who utters these terrible woes against the most religious classes of His nation. The writer met a young university man infected with this teaching. He asked him to read these verses with imagination. "No wonder they crucified Him" he exclaimed.

Moral indignation is an essential part of Christian character especially in this awful age. A Christian man stands in great spiritual peril and is deceiving himself when his heart does not burn at the horrors that are happening to the weak and defenceless. He is losing his spiritual sensitiveness. Think of "the wrath of the Lamb."

Will you offer this ancient, moving prayer as you enter the coming year:—

"O Almighty God, Who alone canst order the unruly wills and affections of sinful men; Grant unto Thy people, that they may love the thing which Thou commandest, and desire that which Thou dost promise; that so, among the sundry and manifold changes of the world, our hearts may surely there be fixed, where true joys are to be found; through Jesus Christ Our Lord."

Minister To Give Review Of Year

The minister of St. Andrew's Church will give a review of the year 1939 at the evening service on next Sunday.

The past year was a momentous one for the world, probably one of the most eventful in history. Lowell Thomas said when announcing the Russo-German pact in August last that this announcement dealt with an event that would affect the future hisory of mankind. When we look over the year, however, we find that there were several such events We are too near them at present to appraise them at their true value. It is a salutary exercise however to look at them even now in the House of God.

The ruthlessness of war has been let lose in 1939, but there have been other events which in ordinary times would have awakened our attention, and commanded our sympathy. In January last an earthquake in Chile in South America claimed 30,000 lives, and laid waste a large part of the South American Republic.

Pope Pius XII was elected to the Papacy on March 12, to succeed Pope Pius XI who died on February 10.

The Munich pact was broken when Chancellor Hitler ordered his legions into Bohemia and Moravia to complete the occupation of Czecho-Slovakia.

The first reigning British sovereigns to set foot upon Canadian soil were King George and Queen Elizabeth who arrived at Wolfe's Cove, Quebec City, on May 17.

These earlier happenings of the year are now almost forgotten amidst the whirl of excitement caused by the great European war.

We stand amazed at the history of one brief year, we hardly know how to assess it, it has been a year of destruction, of ruthless and inhuman cruelty in many places. What does God think about it? He is a wise and beneficient being. He loves the world still nothwithstanding its madness and hatred.

Emergency control measures have drastically curtailed industrial activity in Greece since the outbreak of the European war.

Leg Of A Bear

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 30. — (AP).—District Attorney Owen Hoban admitted to-day that a leg—at first believed to be that of a 'teenage girl—found on a Holden farm Dec. 19 was actually the hind leg of a bear. Police had searched widely for other parts of the believed slain girl. The leg was first pronounced that of a young human, probably a girl, with a "deformed foot" by medical authorities.

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

FRIENDS AND FOES OF THE KINGDOM

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for December 31 is Matthew 13:54 to 16:12, the Golden Text being John 15:14, "Ye are My friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.")

When Jesus went to His own home town of Nazareth to visit and preach, the people—his old friends and neighbors—had heard of the wonders He had performed elsewhere. They, however, refused to believe that there could be anything unusual about Him. Why, they had known Him from babyhood. He was the son of Joseph the carpenter. His brothers and sisters all lived in Nazareth and there was nothing remarkable about them. Jesus Himself had lived there nearly 30 years, so why think He was other than an ordinary man?

Even when the Lord went to the synagogue and preached to them they refused to take Him seriously. They were astonished at His words, and said among themselves, "Whence hath this man this wisdom, and these mighty words? Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not His mother called Mary?" And they were offended with Him. Jesus understood, however, and said: "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and in his own house." The account says that "He did not many mighty works there because of their unbelief." We of today honor our "native sons" who make good, as a general thing, do we not?

Think Jesus Is John

Herod, king under the Romans, heard of Jesus and superstitiously thought He was John the Baptist, risen from the dead. John had been executed in prison some time before this. He had had the courage to tell Herod he had done wrong in divorcing his wife and marrying his brother Philip's wife, taking her away from Philip. Herod had thrown John into prison and would gladly have killed him then, but he knew the people considered him a great prophet, and also that they were offended at their king when he divorced his lawful wife and married Herodias, so he did not dare kill John at that time.

However on Herod's birthday he gave a great feast, and Herodias' daughter, Salome, danced before him and so pleased him that he rashly promised her anything she wished for, "even to the half of his kingdom." Coached by her mother, Herodias, Salome asked that the head of John the Baptist be brought to her on a charger Herod was sorry, but he had sworn to give her whatever she asked for, so John was beheaded and his head brought to Salome. The disciples heard the news and told Jesus. When He heard of John's death, He went away in a ship to a desert place, but the people followed Him on foot out of the city. And when Jesus saw the great multitude that had followed Him, He "was moved to compassion toward them, and He healed their sick."

Feeds the Multitude

When the evening came the disciples called Jesus' attention to the fact that it wa stime to sup, and as they were in the desert there was no way to obtain food for themselves and the multitude. Jesus said "give ye them to eat." But, said the disciples, they had only five loaves and two fishes, and they wanted to send the multitude away. But Jesus commanded that the loaves and fishes be brought to Him and He blessed them and handed them to the disciples to pass among the crowd, and not only were all fed, but there remained 12 basketsful.

Jesus then told His disciples to get into a ship and He went up in a mountain to pray. He was there alone, and when evening was come He went down to the beach and saw the ship carrying His disciples in the midst of the sea, "tossed with waves." Jesus went toward the ship, walking on the waves, and the disciples cried out, for they thought He was a spirit. He reassured them and Peter wanted to walk on the water, too. He tried, but lost faith and began to sink and cried to Jesus to save him. Jesus did so, and reproved him for lack of faith.

Many other miracles did Jesus at this time, including healing of the daughter of a woman who called out to Him in the crowd, and whom the disciples would have sent away. Her persistence and faith touched Jesus and He gave her her wish.

All this time the Sadducees and Pharisees were working against Jesus, finding fault with Him, arguing with Him, and always losing the arguments. These were the foes of the kingdom. The multitudes that followed Him everywhere and their faith, were among its friends. And faith still is what we all need—faith in the triumph of Right, no matter what happens.

Friends and Foes of the Kingdom — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 13:54 to 16:12

When Jesus preached in the synagogue in His home town, the people marveled how Joseph, the carpenter's son, could be so wise; and Jesus said, "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house."

Herod thought Jesus was John the Baptist risen from the dead, for John had been beheaded at the request of Salome, daughter of the king's wife, who danced before him and so pleased him that he promised her anything she wished.

When Jesus heard of John the Baptist's death He went by ship to a desert place, but the multitude followed him and when He saw them He was moved to compassion toward them and He healed their sick.

Later Jesus went to a high mountain and again great multitudes followed and brought Him their lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and when He healed them all, they wondered and glorified God.

These Rumors Persist

The Examiner has frequently stated that it cannot guarantee the truth of some of the reports which are coming from Europe. Exactly the same feeling applies to the story telling of the strained relations between Adolf Hitler and Hermann Goering, head of the German air force. The report says that in the last eight weeks they have not been in conference and have spoken only a few words. It is also asserted Goering spends most of his time away from Berlin.

Reading these reports one finds that Goering has several times indulged in violent outbursts against Hitler. It is known that Goering has friends and supporters among the wealthy industrialists of Germany, and this group is known to have been consistently hostile to the move which brought Russia in as a partner. Von Ribbentrop, although the Foreign Minister, is frequently passed by when neutral diplomats have business to transact. It is claimed they prefer to see Goering, and to do so have to journey out of the capital to Schorfheide in order to do so.

Goering of course was in charge of Germany's four-year plan, and had previously delivered many addresses regarding it. Within recent times there is no available record to show that he has been making public appearances or having anything to say on any subject. For a long time it has been taken for granted by the world that no one in Germany was able to criticize Hitler publicly or privately. If it were done publicly it would be heard; if it were done privately it would be reported. But Goering is in a particularly strong position and Hitler would have difficulty inflicting discipline upon him. When Hitler in a moment of braggadocio told about going to the war in Poland he publicly named Goering as the man to succeed him in office in case he fell in battle. So that puts Goering in a preferred position in case he seeks to become critical of Hitler. We cannot guarantee the truth of any of these rumors, but we do know they are persistently circulated in sources which are not inspired or directed by the Allies.

The Wine Shop Vote

The Examiner said plainly some days ago that the City Council was in error in seeking to submit a vote to the electors asking if they were in favor of closing the wine shop. We are not at all interested in the affairs of this particular place of business, nor do we consider it an asset to the city, but the law governing the matter is plainly stated, and according to that law there was no provision made for taking a vote as proposed.

Provision is made for taking a vote at the expiry of any three-year period on whether a municipality desires to remain "wet" or "dry," but such a vote refers to all places selling beer and wine and to government stores. There is no way in which one establishment can be singled out, and it was there that the Examiner was certain an error was being made.

Mr. Justice Urquhart has passed upon the question, and his opinion is that the vote cannot be taken, so that settles it. The Council has wisely taken the ground that it will not take an appeal from the decision. It would mean involving the city in added costs of litigation were such a step taken. It is much better as a rule for a municipal council to stick closely to the business of administering the affairs of its community. Pressing for the existence of new bylaws is not desirable as we have a great deal of law in existence at the moment and some of it none too well observed.

Sensible Thing To Do

With the United States government acting as the go-between the governments of Britain, France and Germany have agreed to exchange interned civilian subjects and transfers from London to Berlin and from Berlin to London have already taken place.

That seems like the sensible thing to do. The transfers will not apply to men of military age, and for present purposes that age is regarded as from 17 to 65, a finding which seems to be rather severe at both ends.

The argument has often been presented that a person who has been living in Germany since the outbreak of war would be a valuable source of information if return to Britain. But no more valuable than one being sent from Britain to Germany. We doubt if the average person would be able to impart a great deal of information which would be of any great value of the war aims of their country. It would be possible for one to live in London and know little enough, and such an individual would at all times be more or less under supervision and would have to report to the authorities at stated intervals.

The general idea of sending as many of these people home is plain good business. They will be for the most part women and children and no good purpose would be served in any land by keeping them in camps or under supervision as alien enemies.

Ald. Dutton—Stand Up

Some person told the Examiner a few days ago that Ald. James Dutton was a rather gruff individual, and our belief is that such a view existed because the individual did not know Mr. Dutton.

We are not bent at the moment on discussing this point but rather in saying something about the work this gentleman has been doing while a member of the City Council and in charge of Relief. Looking over the municipal history of a number of places it has been found that the chairman of Relief finds it hard enough to secure re-election. People seem to group into two camps, those who believe relief is given too generously and those who are certain the restraining hand is too vigorously applied, and neither group is apt to be any too friendly to the chairman of Relief

Of course there is a well-managed organization set up to attend to the business of investigation and distribution, but the endless work of reviewing cases and making decisions comes to the Relief Committee and to its chairman. It takes whole hours of time and it needs the ability to make decisions which are fair and then the will to abide by them. It calls for a bit of firmness as well and the constant application of the principle that it is better for a man to be on the lookout always for something by which he can support himself. That kind of work is separate and apart from anything which an alderman of a few years ago had to do. Relief has to be adequate and there must at the same time be consideration for the people who have to pay the bills. We would probably be in trouble with the gentleman himself if we set up Ald. James Dutton as a model for Relief committees elsewhere, so we compromise by saying he has for a number of years turned in a mighty fine bit of work. And in fairness to the man it is something which should be said.

Better Remain Silent

Magistrate Burbidge of Hamilton had a transient before him, and remarked, "Some of you would make good fighters, but the army will not accept you." That in a general way at least seems to have been the gist of the remark, and whether a magistrate is called upon to make such comment is another matter.

That remark was picked up and finally reached Germany, and in turn it comes back from Germany in the form of news which was furnished to the German people. It was very cleverly interpreted as meaning that the magistrate at Hamilton had suggested that a battalion of men with criminal records should be organized to go and fight against the Germans.

The German propaganda department is admittedly rather apt at the business of making news reports say exactly what they want to have said. Possibly one excellent method of meeting such a situation is to cease from furnishing them with the raw material with which to work. When a transient appears in court we can see no connection between such appearance and the Canadian army.

Almost a Dead Language

Rev. Norman MacKay, minister of Mt. Zion Presbyterian church in Ridgetown, is leaving that charge to become the minister of the Presbyterian church in Mitchell, Perth Co.

Reference is made to Mr. MacKay having been born on the Isle of Lewis, Scotland, "and as well as being a master of English he is a Gaelic speaker of note." There may be a few folk in his new congregation to whom he can speak in the Gaelic tongue, but they would be very few. His greatest opportunity to find a gathering which could understand that language would probably be in Cape Breton.

There was a time when Gaelic was quite commonly spoken in many sections of Ontario. There were towns and villages where it was considered well to have a clerk on the premises who rould speak both Gaelic and English. We recall one village where the older ladies of one section of the place met in the summer afternoons and sat along the edge of the plank sidewalk in the shade of a great elm tree. They attended to their knitting and did their gossiping in Gaelic. But they are there no more. The next generation may have heard Gaelic at home but they heard nothing but English at school and in the outside world generally, and they forgot the Gaelic. So while it may be an accomplishment to be a Gaelic speaker of note a good deal of the attaching fame evaporates when one considers that the overwhelming majority of listeners would have not the foggiest idea of what it was all about. We are not suggesting Mr. MacKay does not realize this, as it is likely he found it out long ago.

Domestic Defence

There are means and implements of protection in many homes which are seldom employed when premises are invaded by some mug bent on mischief. It may be we have learned to depend much on the telephone and the police to deal with such people.

To illustrate: Miss Esther Cohen living on Ulster street in Toronto, had a caller at the home who came saying he was going to read the Hydro metre. He is reported as having forced his way into the hall, and that was the signal for trouble as people who read metres can readily identify themselves.

There was somewhat of a scuffle in the hall and Esther was struck on the head with a heavy flashlight. Then it was she brought the domestic implement into action. She had on the stove a kettle of boiling water and she promptly swung into action and dumped the contents on the intruder. He departed.

Difficult at the moment to think of anything more effective. Far better than screaming, and quite superior to going into a faint.

NOTE AND COMMENT

State officials of Michigan declare foreign agents have been at work on sabotage in large plants at Detroit. Come to think of it, Detroit is just across the river from Canada.

Farmers are drawing water from Lake Erie and selling it to other farmers who have none. Wonder if that situation has anything to do with having cut down too many trees in the past?

The Nazi power admits that so far it has no British prisoners of war. Britain has so many prisoners from Germany tucked away in the Falkland Islands that it is becoming somewhat of a problem to know what to do with them.

Henry Doherty who died the other day had holdings in gas and oil which neared the billion mark, and it is recorded he started out to work as a news boy. It's a good place to start but of course there is no guarantee of a billion being attained.

There is always something new about which to worry. Poles in the German section of what was once Poland now fear Germany may be defeated and then Russia will march in on them. But we were told recently that Germans and Russians were like brothers-in-arms.

The U.S. navy is maintaining a patrol in what is claimed to be 300 miles of neutral water off-shore. So far its chief function has been gathering up the crews from vessels which have been sunk by the enemy or which have been scuttled by their commanders.

Lost and found department of the Montreal Street Railway was stacked with Christmas presents which people neglected and left on street cars. Strange. Didn't they have the reindeer sled delivering everything there on Christmas Eve?

J. B. Priestley British author and playwright, brought a new show to New York, and the critic of the Times described it as having been "casually scribbled." That critic should hasten away to the war front where his services would be in demand as a sharp shooter.

HOW OLD?

(By A.R.K.)

¶ When I was but a lad of ten, I used to gaze at older men, and thought them ripe with age; a man at twenty-five was old, I knew that much without being told, plain written on the page.

¶ But when I came to twenty-five, I felt so very much alive, I raised the limit then; when one was thirty-five or so, why then he'd start to travel slow, and move with aged men.

¶ But thirty came and thirty-five, and still I felt so much alive, I knew that I'd been wrong; at thirty-five a man's not old, no matter what I had been told, he stands erect and strong.

¶ Yes, forty-five would be the time, when I'd be slipping from my prime, I'd feel a touch of pain; I'd have no hair upon my head, I'd linger many hours in bed, then hobble on a cane.

¶ But forty-five had come and gone, and I was feeling well and strong, I walked like other men; they were wrong notions that I had, when I was but a little lad, with years that numbered ten.

¶ Just when a man is really old, can't just so readily be told, it seems that way with me; for Uncle Eben's lank and lean, his spine as straight as any beam—and he is eighty-three.

STRONG MEN

HOW STRONG was Julius Ceasar, Napoleon, Czar Nicholas, Francis Joseph, Don Pedro of Brazil? And how did these and many others of their kind play the final role of their careers but in an anti-climax sorrowful, humiliating and tragic?

How strong is the strong man? Hitler and Mussolini are said to be closely guarded at all times in their homes and offices and when they appear in public; and Stalin is reported to be afraid even of his own physician so that several doctors are called to examine several "Stalins."

The strong man is strong only so long as his people are whole-heartedly with him, and so long as his arms remain victorious. Otherwise he is as weak as the other "strong men" who have gone before through the many centuries of recorded history. Memory is challenged to find a dictator who did not "come to a cropper" before he passed out of the picture.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

What Have We Done Today ?

We shall do so much in the years to come,
But what have we done today?
We shall give our gold in a princely sum,
But what did we give today?
We shall lift the heart and dry the tear,
We shall plant a hope in the place of fear,
We shall speak the words of love and cheer;
But what did we speak today?

We shall be so kind in the afterwhile,
But what have we been today?
We shall bring each lonely life a smile,
But what have we brought today?
We shall give to truth a grander birth,
And to steadfast faith a deeper worth,
We shall feed the hungering souls of earth;
But whom have we fed today?

We shall reap such joys in the by-and-by,
But what have we sown today?
We shall build us mansions in the sky,
But what have we built today?
'Tis sweet in idle dreams to bask,
But here and now do we do our task?
Yes, this is the thing our souls must ask,
"What have we done today?"

• About the Skating Rink At Keene

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—Regarding Keene skating rink and John Farrow's letter of December 27, Keene had a very good skating and curling rink for a long time. The depression came, and the roof of the building was done.

The shareholders felt they had done a lot to provide a rink for Keene. No John Farrows or others now so ardent came forward with some money to help make it go on. Five years ago the shareholders had got tired and offered it to the council.

No member of the council gave any evidence that I could discern that he wanted the township in the rink business. For four years the public made no demand for a rink.

One year ago a paper with a lot of young people's names written by themselves or some one else was put in my possession.

Council made no move to do anything. Perhaps it was too late for that year. In September, 1939, a builder was asked by the council to make an estimate of the cost of a new roof and other repairs to the old building.

Council called a public meeting to arrange for canvassers to try and get the required money to repair the rink. There was a fairly good turnout, but in five minutes it was plain that there would be no repairs. A new rebuilt building in a different location was wanted.

A committee was set up to get money for the new building. Committee stalled; no careful estimate; no plan; no money subscribed. The old rink was listed in the 1939 land tax sale for $18.25 taxes due the township. No buyer at the sale on October 3.

At an adjourned sale the building was bought by the township and paid for, to clear the county treasurer's books. Then there was a demand for an open air rink, and a meeting was called, and decided not to take down so good a building.

Another meeting, and a committee formed to provide skating facilities! Committee not in any way connected with the township, although two of the five were members of the council.

The committee prepared a document for the old shareholders to sign over to committee of five their shares in rink. Condition — Old shareholders to be liable for anything that might happen until the rink was taken down and dismantled.

The shareholders by that time had no responsibility. Their property, the rink building, had been sold at the township's tax sale.

The committee started to make ice, and were prepared to make certain repairs. On December 15 one member of the committee of five was offered the rink by the township, who then owned it, for the sum of one dollar. The offer was declined. They would not take the risk as a committee of five. They said the committee would operate the rink if the old shareholders would take the risk, and likely would have done so, if the township had been willing to assume the risks.

Certain funds were said to be available for rink purposes five years ago. The holders have not come forward with their funds. If it is to be under the Community Halls Act all property shall be vested in the municipal corporation.

A bylaw may be passed by the council and a committee of seven appointed by council to manage same. If all the ardent John Farrows will drop in a $20 bill each in time there might be a new rink, but I am afraid the young people will be old people before there is a covered rink of any kind if there is nothing more to it than there has been during the last three or four months.

• Did Hitler Want To Fight ?

JOHN WHITAKER reported in the Daily News the other day that Nazi newspapermen in Geneva were busy urging upon neutrals that the war in the west be called off, so that Germany, Britain and France could turn upon Russia. Such talk is highly significant.

Nazi newspapermen are government agents. They speak and write as they are told. They would not dare do otherwise. And it is safe to assume that what they want is what Hitler's main ambition is now what it has always been—expansion to the east, at Russia's expense.

The fact that he has a pact with Russia proves nothing. Before he re-occupied the Rhineland, he made deals with Italy and Austria. Before he took Austria, he made deals with Italy and Czecho-Slovakia.

Before he took Czecho-Slovakia, he reaffirmed his deal with Poland. And it was before he took Poland that he made his deal with Russia. By this logic, it seems clear that he had intended Russia to be his next victim.

Hitler never wanted to fight France and Britain. He was advised that they would not really declare war for Poland, or that, if they did, they would quickly call off the war. That they have twice refused his peace offers must anger him mightily. Can they not see that his real object, in destroying Poland and making a deal with Stalin, was to open the way for an attack on Russia?

Hitler was never really afraid of Russia. His anti-Communist outcries were mere propaganda to cloak his aims of conquest. German officers for years trained the Red Army, or tried to, in the days of the Russo-German alliance. These same officers must have known well, what Finland has now revealed to all the world, that this famous Red Army could not compare for a moment with any well-trained, well-disciplined and well-equipped European troops.

Hitler, informed of this, felt sure, no doubt, that he could do about as he liked, when he liked, with the Russians. Indeed, it seems entirely possible that his main purpose, in giving Stalin a free hand, and allowing the Russians to advance on the Baltic and in the Balkans, was to frighten the timid capitalists of Paris and London, so that they would make peace with him from fear of Russia.

He could then keep all his present conquests, and add to them, eventually, part of what is now Russia.

But the French and British are not much afraid of Russia, either—not since Finland has so courageously pricked the Russian bubble.

They, too, are quite satisfied to see Russia expand a little westward, confident that this expansion, sooner or later, will bring Hitler and Stalin into direct conflict. What the French and British fear is not Russia, but Germany. And unless there is some major change in the general military situation, they will continue to insist, we assume, on the restoration of Austria, Bohemia and Poland as a necessary prerequisite to peace negotiations.

Meanwhile, the broad hints from the Nazis in Geneva that what his friend Hitler desires is peace in the west, in order to attack in the east, must make interesting reading for the tyrant in the Kremlin.—Chicago Daily News.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea .... And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and he their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful. And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son.—Rev. xxi, 1, 3-7.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGES

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Your editorial item December 27 issue stating that the Bell Telephone Company had handled 799 long distance calls on Christmas Day was very interesting.

Your readers might be further interested to know that Canadian National Telegraphs' patrons exchanged Christmas greetings the same day by telegraph with 127 different centres in Canada and the United States. With many of these cities of course many telegrams were exchanged, such as Toronto, Chicago, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver, New York, etc. etc.

This does not include cablegrams which even the war did not prevent, although it did stop cabling to belligerent countries of course. One previous year we supplied the Examiner with the information that cablegrams containing greeting messages had been exchanged with England, Scotland, Ireland, New Zealand, South Africa, Australia, France, Spain, Germany, Italy, Russia, Sweden, Straits Settlements, the Philippines, China and Japan, which we thought a very interesting commentary on modern life. Who would imagine that there were people from Peterborough in sixteen different countries of the world? Happy New Year to you.

Canadian National Telegraphs,
A. F. BOOMER,
Manager.

SPEE PROFIT AND LOSS

THE dictated destruction of the Graf Spee justifies the British in saying that at the cost of fewer casualities than occurred in the recent accidental sinking of a British destroyer they have put out of commission one of the three German pocket battleships and have as decisively defeated it as if they had sunk it in combat. The German contention that the Graf Spee had fulfilled her mission as a commerce raider makes difficult reading. It is obviously unprofitable to exchange an $18,000,000 warship for the eight or nine merchant vessels that the Graf Spee apparently sent to the bottom.—New York Sun.

Hostess Club Talks On Afternoon Tea

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30—(ENS).—The Junior Hostess Club was entertained for its mid-week Christmas meeting, on Wednesday at 3 p.m., at the home of Mrs. E. J. Powell, with a full attendance of members, and the president, Martha Belch, in the chair.

The roll was answered "One duty of a hostess toward her guests," and as this holiday week is to have two meetings, the one on Friday to be at the home of Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke, the roll then will be answered with "My favorite sandwich filling."

The leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, took the main part of the meeting, the service of afternoon tea, formally and informally, the food to be served, the making of the tea, and other details being presented in practical manner.

A letter from Miss Florence Eadie, departmental girls' secretary, was read, regarding the program which the girls are taking up, and the service of home meals, in a variety of detail, was taken up, the home assignment for Friday being "Practical Table Setting and its Service."

Suggestions for parties and games were heard, and each member having brought her favorite sandwich, these were passed around, recipes given, and friendly criticism followed. Ethel Belch provided the cocoa paste from which cups of delicious chocolate were made and served, the hostess adding Christmas cake and candy. The vote of thanks was sponsored by Margaret Smith and Mary Dawson, before the happy gathering was brought to a close.

Ship Dodges 3 Torpedoes, Makes Nazis Mad So Skipper Shells British Craft Under

LONDON, Dec. 30 — (CP). — Story of a British freighter that played tag with three torpedoes, so enraging a German submarine commander that he finally sank the ship with shell fire, was related to-day in an official report which said the submarine probably was sunk later by a rescue ship.

The freighter was the Uskmouth, 2,843 tons, sunk Nov. 28 in the Bay of Biscay. The night was so clear, the British account said, that the deck officers saw the wake of an approaching torpedo and threw the helm hard over to dodge the projectile. He did the same with two others.

The submarine then came up to within 30 yards of the Uskmouth and shelled her.

A French warship 65 miles away received an SOS, sped to the scene, and "by a miracle found the boatswain," who had been thrown into the sea. Dropping him a raft, the French attacked the submarine, and the report said "there is every reason to believe," the raider was sunk.

The Uskmouth's lifeboat, missed by the French ship, sailed nearly 120 miles and was in sight of land when picked up by the Italian motorship Juventus.

Two of the Uskmouth's crew of 25 were missing.

RUM RUNNER.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 30 — (CP). — As the result of being stopped on December 16 by police and 14 gallons of alcohol found cached in a special compartment in the rear of the front seat of his car, Frank Depedro, 49, pleaded guilty to-day to a charge under the Excise Act. A fine of $400, or six months in jail, was imposed.

F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., Hurt

WINCHESTER, Va., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the United States President, and Mrs. Roosevelt were injured in an automobile accident early today near here.

The two were brought to a Winchester hospital, where they were admitted for treatment of head lacerations.

13 Nazi Vessels Held In Orient

SHANGHAI, Dec. 30 — (AP). — With British warships on the alert to prevent escape, 13 German merchant ships with a total complement of about 910 men, are idle in Chinese and Japanese ports.

One is at Shanghai, seven at Kobe and five at Dairen. The largest is the 18,184-ton North German Lloyd liner Scharnhorst, which is at Kobe.

The crews find time drags because keeping their ships in order takes only part of a day. Some spend hours listening to radio broadcasts from Germany, while others have taken up soccer and occasionally play local teams.

The men of all the ships at Kobe, German reports said, would prefer to go home for active service but they are being kept at their posts so as to be ready to sail their ships.

Vote For and Elect Clarence J. SNIDER For Alderman

To The Citizens Of Peterborough—

Unhampered by excessive taxation and having other natural advantages, every step should be taken to make it widely known that our city is a place where new industries are encouraged and favourably treated. It is an industrial centre and the future of the welfare of our young men looking for employment and older men out of work is dependent upon our industrial expansion and the maintenance of our present industries. Something tangible can be done by engaging representatives on a retaining fee to secure industries and to advertise our city. Other municipalities, less favourably situated from many points of view, are expanding industrially.

Lack of parking facilities constitutes a perpetual problem. Imposition of fines or further restrictions will not help the situation. We should not inconvenience our own citizens or discourage farmers in the surrounding district or tourists from doing business with our merchants. Providing increased parking areas is the only solution.

Industrial expansion and parking facilities are two of the major problems with which I am concerned. I was continuously in business in Peterborough for over twenty-five years and am now free to devote my time, if elected, and to work actively for the welfare of our city.

Trusting that the New Year will bring you Happiness and prosperity.

C. J. SNIDER.

G. N. GORDON SAYS

My three years of effort in the Council, with litigation and representations to members and supporters of the Ontario Government brought forth in 1939 an amendment to the Municipal Act as follows:—

"No by-law shall be passed granting a fixed assessment in respect of a business which has at any time theretofore enjoyed a fixed assessment of the same property."

This means that the well-to-do, privately-owned companies, which send their dividends to their shareholders in the United States will now pay their taxes before the dividends are sent home; the same as any individual in the City requires to pay his taxes, and this will save the City ratepayers, at the end of 1942, with the debentures that have matured by that time, approximately $150,000.00 annually.

The City Trust has approximately $350,000.00 surplus of the ratepayers' money which they refused to use in the reduction of the City Trust's annual requisition upon the Council for a levy to pay interest, sinking fund and principal of City debentures maturing in that year.

Resulting from the efforts made to compel the City Trust to pay the ratepayers' money to them, the Ontario Government passed legislation requiring the City Trust to reduce the amount of its annual demand upon the City to the extent of the amounts fixed by the Ontario Municipal Board upon an application made by the City, so that all of this $350,000.00 of the surplus will eventually come back to the ratepayers of the City, and will not be held in suspense until the end of Eternity.

An airport and training school will likely be established in Peterborough if the proper active support is given to it by the Council and energetic negotiations are carried on to share with the Dominion Government and the City the proper proportion of costs.

Passing resolutions will have little effect, compared to a convincing discussion of the City's possibilities with the members of the Government, and an airport and training school would be a valuable addition to Peterborough's industrial life, as well as put her in the position of being an outstanding competitor with the other Canadian cities.

The London Street foot bridge should be built to satisfy a debt of honour, because the Council that constructed the Hunter Street bridge spent the monies that were voted to build the London Street foot bridge, on the Hunter Street bridge, so that the Ashburnham people did not receive the bridge they voted the money to build. Building this bridge at London Street would serve a vast area of persons in Ashburnham, who require to send their children to the Collegiate and St. Peter's High School, and who use the bridge to come across the river to work, instead of being forced to go North to Smith Street or South to Hunter Street in Winter weather.

With many years of experience as City Solicitor and as an alderman I can serve the City by further reducing the tax rate, which encourages people to come to live in Peterborough and brings industries desiring to obtain the benefit of a lower tax rate.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season,

I remain,

G. N. GORDON.

City Still Tops In Athletics For Its Population As 1939 Sports Picture Shows

The past year saw the sports picture in Peterborough packed with athletic action. From New Year's Day of 1939 to the start of 1940, girls and boys, women and men, participated in the numerous outdoor and indoor games offered locally to sports-loving folk.

In such an athletic whirl, it is difficult to pick out features of the past twelvemouth. A glance back recalls a hectic hockey season, a new baseball setup, packed crowds at lacrosse games, an overflowing Ashburnham Bowl for girls' and men's softball, big crowds at senior O.R.F.U. contests—not to mention all the indoor competitions staged in every season.

Literally thousands of Peterborough's population—besides hundreds throughout the surrounding district—compete in various games in the course of a year.. More thousands follow sports as spectators or some merely as readers of the sports pages. Aside from the sad lack of an artificial ice arena, this city (for its size) is well equipped with rinks, ball fields, soccer fields, lacrosse arena, cricket grounds, tennis courts, golf links, gridiron and any number of indoor gyms and courts. It is generally considered one of the leading sports centres in Ontario—only a few of the real big cities surpassing it.

Many Sports

While hockey, football, baseball, lacrosse and a few more major sports lead the list, local athletics only commence with these. There is bowling in the alleys and on the lawns, carpetball, basketball, volleyball, all sorts of gym games, tennis, golf, soccer, cricket, softball, water sports, races, boxing, wrestling, curling and many more. Women and girls take part in many of these games as well as the men and boys.

Last year, the Petes again won their O.H.A. senior "B" grouping and made a good showing in the provincial round-robin finals—after eliminating Kingston—before Niagara Falls won out. The local junior "B" team fell before Oshawa in group playoffs, but also supplied some neat scraps before the finish. The junior "C" squad was an added entry and dished up plenty of lively hockey before losing to Lindsay. The intermediate "B" Aces, playing most of the season in Omemee, made an excellent showing in playdowns before being eliminated. Church Hockey League, Southend Loop, School Circuit, Shop Leagues and other minor setups—numbering some 60 teams in the city—enjoyed a succesful season, and big crowds saw plenty of good hockey played here.

A New Setup

When the C.O.B.L. folded last spring, the local senior ballsters were admited to a large Inter-City League, operating out of Toronto. The locals made a fine showing all season but injuries knocked them out of competition in the playoffs. A minor loop was run in successful manner in the Exhibition Grounds and prospects of a comeback for baseball in Peterborough in the near future are good.

While the lacrossers didn't repeat their provincial senior "B" championship of 1938, nevertheless they enjoyed a fairly successful season last summer. In a compact Central Ontario grouping, they made a good showing and drew large crowds. With a little building up—and already they are making plans—the hustling officers of the Lacrosse Club will have a big 1940 campaign.

The Orfums failed to win a senior O.R.F.U. game in 1939—the second of their three-year grid plan—though they came mighty close in half of their contests. The crowds at home fixtures was a cheering note in the winless season, and nothing at present is known of the 1940 O.R.F.U. plans. P.C.I. seniors won their group, beat the Bay of Quinte group winners but lost out in C.O.S.S.A. semi-finals by a close count in Toronto. The junior P.C.I. squad did not go far.

Good Cards

Boxing and wrestling were active at times here throughout the year, several excellent mitt shows being staged in the Brock St. arena before fair patronage. Wrestling didn't draw so well, the sport obviously being on the down-grade throughout the country. Horse races were held at the Exhibition Grounds again; and as usual water regattas around the district drew well. Basketball had a big season and this indoor sport for girls and boys is becoming bigger and better locally each year. Ambitious cage plans are afoot for the present season. Softball also enjoyed one of its best seasons.

All the other games had their turn, providing fun, social contacts and competition for participants and for the fans. This article is but a brief reminder—and does not attempt to go into detail or even to touch upon all sports in Peterborough—of some of the games played here the past year. It is written merely to again emphasize the fact that Peterborough has no superior among cities of its size anywhere when it comes to sports. Which is a pleasant thought to have as the old year vanishes and the New Year arrives.

"The Champ" Gets a Pleasant Hawaiian Reception

Like everywhere else he goes a rousing reception awaited Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion when he arrived in Honolulu, Hawaii, recently, on his way to the Philippine Islands, where he refereed the Garcia-Lee New York world's middleweight championship fight. Here's the Manassa Mauler with Duke Kahanamoku, most famous of the Pacific isle's athletes, who many times represented United States at the Olympics, and a bevy of feminine admirers. FRONT LEFT is Minerva Carroll, who will reign over the New Year's Day Pineapple Bowl football game between Hawaii University and Oregon State College. Needless to say, they're drinking the toast in pineapple juice.

Big Moments In Sports During Year Of Activity

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(CP)—Moments in a year along the sports front....Watching three of the best senior amateur hockey teams in years gunning along the road towards the Allan Cup....But Montreal Royals, Toronto Goodyears and Kirkland Lake Blue Devils never suspected the power of Port Arthur Bearcats until the Cats licked the Royals in the finals.

The easy confidence and grace of 16-year-old Mary Rose Thacker, who beat the would-be Sonja Henies of the United States in the North American figure skating championships....and then said she didn't want to be a Sonja Henie.

The breath-taking end-to-end rush by Gordon Drillon that lifted Toronto Maple Leafs into hockey's world series with an overtime goal against Detroit.....And a few nights later the cry of "we want Shore" from the multitude in Boston after the Bruins had taken the Maple Leafs in the fifth game of the finals.

St. Catharine's Athletics, developing the short-passing science to a new peak in lacrosse and appearing more and more nearly unbeatable—until they went west and were hammered for three straight losses in the Dominion finals by New Westminster Adanacs.

A nip in the air as the University of Western Ontario throws the prettiest line in Intercollegiate football against the University of Toronto and the backs go dancing through—What? Weren't all those western linemen all-stars?

Snow on the ground at Ottawa and Fritz Hanson Frisks over the frozen ground to keep Winnipeg within shooting distance of Ottawa Rough Riders....Then Orville Burke fumbles tragically and the Bombers win the Dominion football championship in the last frenzied minute on Art Stevenson's kick to the deadline.

Death duties on estates of deceased persons in Australia have been increased.

Sunocos Blank Norwood 4-0 In Trent Opener

HAVELOCK, Dec. 30— (ENS) — Plenty of action was packed into the opening tussle of the Trent Valley Hockey League schedule, last night at the Norwood arena, when the Campbellford "Sunocos", starting the season with a bang handed the Norwood "Hornets" a 4 to 0 drubbing. The visitors were paced to victory by Owen Hendy, the spark-plug on their line-up, who scored one and figured in two other goals, and altogether turned in an outstanding performance, both defensively and on the attack. Ralph Turner, resuming his place in the Sunoco goal for another season, earned his shut-out with a fine display of netminding.

The Norwood squad were by no means, however, as inferior as the count would indicate. In fact it was a toss-up for the first two stanzas, as to which team would gain the upper hand. The initial period went scoreless, and eighteen minutes had passed in the second before a passing attack engineered by Hendy resulted in the first Campbellford goal, Robinson getting this one. The Hornets still had plenty of chance after Free scored for the visitors, at the five-minute mark in the last period, but their hopes were blown when Roddy Webb and Gordie Puffer drew simultaneous penalties, to give the Sunocos, a two-man advantage. Two quick counters by Blake and Hendy sewed it up.

The teams:

Campbellford: goal, Turner; defense, Wilkes, Tucker; centre, Robinson; wings, Hendy, Blake; alternates, Atkinson, Jarvis, Free.

Norwood:- goal, McMaster; defense, Webb, Weir; centre, G. Puffer; wings, Rogers, W. Webb; alternates, Rothwell, O'Leary, B. Puffer, Brady, Richardson.

Referee: R. Ennis, Norwood.

Goodyears Drop Game 3-1 To St. Catharines

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Goodyears, Eastern Canada finalists last season, probably will make the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior "A" playoffs come Spring, but it's going to be mighty tough from there on.

The Goodies just can't beat St. Catharines Saints and the Saints proved it last night in the new St. Kitts' Arena. They outplayed the Toronto outfit for a 3-1 victory.

Port Colborne Sailors edged Hamilton Dominions 6-4 in Canal Town in a struggle that ended in a free-for-all. At Galt, Niagara Falls Cataracts defeated the winless Galt Moosemen 2-0.

The results left Port Colborne and St. Kitts tied for the league leadership with 22 points each.

Ran Forder was the outstanding star of the St. Catharines' battle with a brilliant display of netminding. Following a scoreless first period, Pete Backor and Jack Buell, who played with Perth last season, each scored a goal on combination efforts in the second.

Eddie King put Toronto back in the hunt early in the final session when the Goodyears ganged Saint territory repeatedly, but Backor scored the clinching goal when he broke loose two minutes from the finish.

A fist-swinging melee broke out among players of both team at Port Colborne one minute from the end of the game and Mac McKelvie of the Ports and Johnny Barlow of Dominions drew major penalties. Hamilton repeatedly protested decisions of Referee Stan Jackson.

Earl Laroche with two goals; Tommy Thompson, Allan, Fitzgerald and Gooney McGowan, each with one, were the Sailor marksmen. The 36-year-old McGowan also snared three assists for the third successive games in which he has counted four scoring points.

It's a Great Sport

Publicity, yes—but such a pleasant type! Miss Marilyn Merrick recently won a "perfect figure" contest in California and then was crowned "Snow Queen" at a certain Lake Arrowhead, where it's cold enough for skiing, but not too cold for comfort. Need we say? Oh, yes, she got a movie contract, too.

Rangers Down Boston 4-0 For 13th Win

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

This age of the machine and mass production has left its trade mark on New York Rangers. The mechanical men of Manhattan. Around the National Hockey League circuit, the boys are beginning to wonder when some one will be able to toss a monkey-wrench into the machanism of the robot Rangers.

For 13 games the Rangers have gone unbeaten. They hit the so-called number last night by defeating the league-leading Boston Bruins 4-0 at New York in the only game of the night.

The Rangers have won eight and tied five in their last 13 contests.

In 10 contests this season the Rangers, behind the spectacular goaling of Davie Kerr, have allowed only 26 pucks to pass into their net.

The Rangers used this great goaltending by Kerr and a first period goal by Aley Shibicky to bring them victory over Bruins, by whom they were ousted last Spring in a torrid Stanley Cup series set-to. Kerr carried on with his fine work right to the end and the Rangers added scores late in the third period by Lynn Patrick, Neil Colville and Kilby Macdonald.

The victory also put an end to an unbeaten streak of seven games for the Bruins and left the Rangers deadlocked with Leafs for second place in the standing, two points behind Boston.

The teams had 16,000 fans roaring from the start with fast skating and heavy bumping. The burly Bruins came out better in the bumping but Rangers took all the body checks and were still piling in for shots at Brimsek at the end.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

JOHNNY GAGNON
Canadiens.

(By Central Press Canadian.)

Most fans, when the name Johnny Gagnon is mentioned, will think of two things—"Black Cat of Chicoutimi" the somewhat sinister appellation he acquired early in his career, and the famous Morenz-Joliat-Gagnon line of which he was the right wing. Johnny, a 10-year man in the N.H.L., joined his former famous line-mates in 1930-31 to assist in winning Canadiens' second successive Stanley Cup. He had first played pro with Quebec Beavers four years previous, leading the old Canadian-American circuit in scoring, then moving to Providence Reds, for three seasons. In his first four campaigns with the Flying Frenchmen he trailed only his renowned line partners in gaining scoring points for his club. Best seasons were his second, when he scored 19 goals and posted a point total of 37, and 1936-37 when he beat opposing goalies 20 times and was credited with 36 points. That was the season the Morenz-Joliat-Gagnon trio was re-united after a few seasons of separation. Johnny himself has been a member of Canadiens continuously except for a short time during the 1934-35 season when he went to Boston, only to be brought back. Thirty-four years old—around 150 pounds.

Oshawa Generals Will Play The Petes Here

Oshawa Generals will be here to play the Petes an exhibition hockey game at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the Brock St. arena. It is a return engagement, the Generals nosing out a decision over the locals in Oshawa two weeks ago. The Generals are Memorial Cup holders, winning the Dominion junior "A" championship last season, and beginning this season where they left off in the spring. They are big, fast and clever—and a hand-picked team 90 per cent imports from all over Eastern Canada. Tracy Shaw's team is generally regarded as the club to beat for the Canadian title this year.

While the Petes lost to the Generals before, they feel they can reverse the decision this time. They are in better shape now and will be on home ice. They point out that the Generals were behind opening the third period but superior condition at that time enabled the Motor City stars to cop the nod in the last 10 minutes of heated action. It will be the hockey tid-bit of the winter and should draw a huge crowd of fans Tuesday night here.

DENVER, Dec. 30.—(AP) — Two of the greatest cage outfits in this basketball-batty nation will polish the city auditorium boards Monday night.... The national champion Denver Nuggets will tie into their fiercest rivals, the Bartlesville, Okla. Phillips, in a Missouri Valley A. A. U. league contest .... Just to show you how tough this A. A. U. circuit can be, Don Shields, a big star with Temple's national Intercollegiate champions in 1938 and now in his second year with Phillips, failed to land among the league's top 16 scorers last season....

Just a-wishin': says coach Doug Fessenden of Montana U.: All I want, and I hope to die, is a full schedule in the Pacific Coast Conference, restoration to full membership therein, and the sweetest squad of freshman football material of all the schools in the loop"....

PETES SWAMP BELLEVILLE IN OPENING GAME OF HOCKEY SEASON

Locals Plaster 14-4 Shellacking On Luckless Quinte Crew In One-Sided Puck Tussle Here

The Petes paraded through the Belleville Reamen here last night for a 14-4 O.H.A. Intermediate A victory to open their season before a thousand fans in the Brock Street Arena. After a tight 2-2 first frame, the homesters broke loose to sweep to an easy victory, having a 6-1 edge in the second heat and another 6-1 margin in the third.

Flashing a well-balanced squad, with plenty of speed and condition, the Petes—despite some disorganized play the first half of the game—gave promise of protecting their group championship with a good showing last night. They looked impressive the last two periods, both front lines appearing equal in strength, while the defensive end of the game was well taken care of by back-checking forwards, steady defencemen, and a good goalie.

The Redmen battled hard, making it close for nearly half the tussle, but faded and were practically skated into the ice the last period. It was a fairly interesting game, though too one-sided to get fans very excited, with plenty of speed shown for so early in the season. The game was clean enough, the Petes drawing five of the eight penalties meted out by Referee Happy Day.

An Easy Night.

Harding gave a fine demonstration of goal-tending in the initial inning, but he had a comparatively easy time the rest of the route. His defence checked well and appears well-balanced this year with Ellis, Gardner, Crowe, and Jopling all showing up good. Gardner was in on three goals and Ellis two. Both forward lines worked in fine fashion going both ways. They had speed and, after a wobbly first frame, used it to real advantage with a neat passing attack. There was little to choose between the lines. Kingdon was in on seven goals, Coughlin five and Burton four, with Tompkins, Starr and Heal also effective.

Early in the first, Ellis was chased for interference and Harding had to step lively to keep out the pressing Redmen. C. Jackson was gated for slashing and the Petes put on the power play, Coughlin notching the first goal in close. Later, McCreary went off for tripping and Goalie Watt took 15 minutes out to have his skate repaired. The locals made it 2-0 half-way through when Gardner banged in a passout from Kingdon. Play was fast but disorganized, and the ice was getting a bit sticky. Coughlin was penalized for chopping and St. Louis tallied in close on C. Jackson's passout. A Starr-Coughlin rush came close but just before the bell, Belleville tide it up when Windsor notched one on a pass from Filion, sifting through the defence.

Tied Up Again.

Tompkins tallied early in the second on Gardiner's neat pass. Prevost again evened it up with a hard angle shot as he rounded defence. Play moved up and down fast and the Petes began to click better. Starr shoved home a nifty, aided by Coughlin and Heal, and the latter was robbed a minute later by Watt. McCreary went off with a cut on the forehead, and Coughlin counted on Starr's passout in front of the net. Tompkins came out of the corner to score a picture goal with nice stickwork, and Burton missed in close. Tompkins got another on Kingdon's passout. Tompkins was waved aside for chopping, but Belleville failed to cash in. A Starr-Crowe rush nearly netted one, and Burton counted on Kingdon's pass to make it 8-3 seconds before the gong.

The Petes started strong again in the third, Ellis scoring in one minute on Kingdon's pass with an angle shot, and Kingdon tallying a few seconds later on Burton's assist. Kingdon bulged the hemp once more, with Burton and Gardner aiding as Watt was shelled from all sides. Ellis got the finger for interference and Belleville pressed a bit. Yates slipped a shot from the blue line by Harding, and, when Jopling was gated for boarding, the Petes were shy two men and had to toil hard to hold off the raging Redmen. Starr nearly counted on a breakaway and, with everyone back, Burton tallied in a close-in scramble. C. Jackson went off for tripping and Tompkins (before leaving the game a few minutes early) tried to tangle with him. Coughlin scored the last two goals of the game, Kingdon aiding on one and Ellis on the other, on two smart plays, the final count being 14-4.

The teams:

Belleville — Goal, Watt; defence, St. Louis and McCreary; centre, C. Jackson; wings, Windsor and W. Jackson; alternates, Cournyea, Prevost, Storms, Ronski, Yates and Filion.

Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, Gardner and Ellis; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and Burton; alternates, F. Jopling, Crowe, Starr, Heal and Coughlin.

Bantam Entries Close January 20

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30—(ENS)—The closing date for entries in the Ontario Bantam and Midget Hockey Association is only three weeks away. The last day for entries is January 20, according to Harold Dunk, the eastern representative on the executive. Already teams from Havelock, Lindsay, Hastings and Campbellford have been entered, said Mr. Dunk, who is very anxious to line up as many school teams as possible for the playoffs. The Bantam or Midget entry fee is $2 and the age limit for Bantam is under 14 years January 1, 1940, and for Midgets under 16, January 1. A team may sign 15 players and use 12 in any game according to the regulations set out by the association. "Anyone who is interested in entering a team in either section can write or phone me at Campbellford and I'll glady give them full information. I'd certainly like to see a championship for either the Bantam or Midget sections come to Eastern Ontario in 1940," declared Mr. Dunk.

French Civilization courses for foreigners are being resumed in Paris.

THANK YOU!
To the Citizens of Peterborough and District, who have accorded us such a fine reception since we started in business in our new premises "opposite the Market" two months ago, we extend our sincere appreciation.

Tales Of Pirate Woe

Frankie Frisch, new manager of Pittsburgh Pirates, doesn't appear to be greatly interested as Pie Traynor, who was deposed in favor of the former Giant and Cardinal star, expounds a point or two. Maybe Pie was reciting the weak spots in the disappointing Pittsburgh team of last season. If nothing else, the Bucaneers will be colorful next season. Frisch has arranged for a new set of uniforms of a comparatively gaudy hue for major league diamond wear.

Lakefield Lose 7-1 Game To Lindsay

Lindsay Midgets opened their O.H.A. junior "B" schedule in Lakefield last night by copping a 7-1 victory over the home crew. Lakefield got off to a bad start when Jewell's goal in the early minutes of play was called back. It was fast and fairly close the first two frames, with Lindsay having a little edge, but developed into shinny in the third period.

Owen and Ellis starred for the visitors, scoring nearly all the goals between them, as Jim Stewart notched the lone counter for the losers. Nicholls also played a fine game in the nets, with Bullock and Morrison going good for the home team. The Lindsay team appeared in better shape than their rivals and cashed in more on chances, while their goalie kicked out a flock of hot thrusts. The game was officially started by G. K. Fraser, who later treated both teams to a dinner in the hotel. The teams:

Lindsay—Goal, Nicholls; defence, Sharpe and Warrian; centre, Owen; wings, Ellis and McCallum; subs, Clarke, Brandon, Junkin, Logan, McDonald and Scott.

Lakefield — Goal, Morrison; defence, Birch and Stabler; centre, Bullock; wings, J. Stewart and Jewell; subs, Johnston, Tendall, A. Stewart, Watts, Graham and Calhoun.

Referee, Lou LeBarr, Peterborough.

Sumary:

First Period—

Lindsay—Clarke	9.30
Lindsay—Ellis	15.00

No penalties.

Second Period—

Lindsay—Owen	3.30
Lindsay—Ellis	15.00
Lakefield—J. Stewart (Jewell)	18.00

Penalties—Stabler, Warrian.

Third Period—

Lindsay—Ellis	10.00
Lindsay—Owen	11.30
Lindsay—Owen	16.00

Penalties—Owen, J. Stewart, McCallum.

City Carpetball

Only one result has been received to date this week, no doubt several games have been postponed through the holiday festivities. All such games will be re-scheduled as early as possible.

A meeting of the skips will be called for some evening next week, when the discussion regarding plays for the president's cup will be brought forth and the possibility of another tournament discussed.

One of the outstanding games of the holiday was when the Southend Wanderers nailed up the first whitewash of the season by trimming the Fighting Parsons in their own back yard by the score of 22-0 and the Wanderers report that those sporting Parsons went out smiling. Just another game to them.

We are pleased to say that no bad complaints have been received to date and it is hoped that we can go through another season without a protest. So for 1940 we wish everyone good health and straight shooting.

Schedule for the week:

Wednesday, Jan. 3—St. Luke's No. 1 vs Bonnerworth No. 13; St. Luke's No. 2 vs St. George's No. 10; SOE No. 3 vs LOL No. 6.

Thursday, Jan. 4—BESL No. 9 vs PFD No. 15.

Open Date—LOL No. 5 vs Trinity No. 12.

Wednesday, Jan. 3—PFD No. 16 vs St. Andrew's No. 11.

The following game should be played at the earliest possible date as it is long overdue—SOE No. 4 vs Trinity No. 12.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

May we be permitted at this time of the year, on behalf of the officers and directors of the two sports that we are affiliated with, lawn bowling and curling, to express for them a New Year's message:

"Instead of making New Year resolutions for ourselves this year, we are sending our friends this message of congratulation and thanks—congratulation on the evident successes that have come to them during the past year; thanks for their friendship and for everything which they have shared with us. And the best that we can hope or wish for you during the coming year is three hundred and sixty-five happy days, and the joy of seeing your fondest dreams come true."

And just in conclusion of the year 1939, we would like to quote Robert W. Service:

"My pipe is out, my glass is dry;
My fire is almost ashes, too;
But once again, before you go,
And I prepare to meet the new;
Old Year! a parting word that's true,
For we've been comrades, you and I,
I thank God for each day of you;
There! Bless you now! Old Year, good-bye!"

Church Puck Loop Starts Next Week

The Church Hockey League starts its schedule next Tuesday night at All Saints' rink with these games: Knox vs. Trinity Bantams at six, St. John's vs. Mark St. Juveniles at seven, Park St. vs. St. James' juniors at eight, Mark St. vs St. Paul's juniors at nine; on Wednesday night, St. John's play George St. Bantams at six, and Trinity meets St. Andrew's Juveniles at seven. Thursday's games have not all been settled yet, St. Paul's playing All Saints' Bantams at six, while at nine Murray St. Seniors clash with All Saints. The full schedule will be published early next week.

Junior teams are reminded that last year's O.H.A. players are ineligible in the Church League. However, if a player has signed with this year's junior O.H.A. team, he is eligible to play in the Church League until he has played in an O.H.A. contest.

The two dozen hockey sticks received from the O.H.A. will be distributed among the 12 teams in the juvenile and bantam series.

Mark St. Juniors are worried about losing Al Mason and Fred Agnew to the junior O.H.A. team. Three other players on this team, Cal Nichols, Sid Craig and Bob Strickland are also Mark St. graduates. The league would still welcome a fourth senior entry. In fact, there is room for more teams in any section, with all the league executive open for receiving entries or to give out information.

Remember When—

Big Bill Tilden, who cleaned up every worth-while tennis title in the world during his career, announced his retirement as an amateur nine years ago today. He made his professional debut at New York, Feb. 18, 1931, after heading the United States ranking amateur list for 10 years.

TENNYSON SALE

NEWPORT, Isle of Wight—(CP)—The estate of Alfred, Lord Tennyson, Victorian poet, bought with the proceeds from the sale of "Maud," has been put up for sale by the trustees of his son, a famous cricketer.

DAYTIME BLACKOUT

SOUTH MIMMS, England—(CP)—Neon lights in the daytime are banned here, and Arthur Bignell, garage owner, was fined five shillings (1.11) for lighting a 25-foot neon sign at midday.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

And as a wobbly old 1939 staggers off the stage, and a pink-cheeked 1940 lurks in the wings, let's wish local and district athletes and sports followers the very best for the coming year. Health, happiness, prosperity and a whale of a lot of fun. Plus plenty of good sports competition. And a successful ending to the war. Let's look for a few provincial championships in athletics during the coming twelvemonth. Old '39 saw plenty of athletic activity around Peter Robinson's borough—with hundreds of girls and guys playing various games and thousands more enjoying the competitions as spectators. We're still about tops in sports for cities this size—and who wants to argue about it?—and prospects are bright in the world of sports the coming year. So let's all form a circle, bump the goblets together, bellow "Auld Lang Syne," and shout: "Happy New Year!"

* * * * * *

And right smack the day after New Year's, a four-star hockey attraction is offered here. Oshawa Generals, the Dominion junior "A" champs, will play the Petes in the Brock St. rink on Tuesday eve, an exhibition tilt. These streamlined Generals are starting to roll now toward another Canadian championship, and puck fans of this area shouldn't pass up a chance to see 'em in action. Especially as we firmly believe the Petes can beat them. The Generals are a packed team—loaded with prize imports—and they are big husky youths with speed to burn, smart plays and lots of color. But we believe the locals will trim 'em here Tuesday—and you can paste that prediction inside the winter chapeau. Don't forget to keep Tuesday eve open for this grand game; it ought to pack the rink to the rafters.

South Of The Border

Ned Vitarelli is home from Baltimore for a few holidays. The peppery forward of Pick Hines' Orioles in the U.S. eastern amachoor loop looks okay, despite a cut on the forehead as a souvenir of the hockey wars this season. He said Bill Calladine, who is going great and well up in the scoring race, also has a cut near the eye. "It's not only rough hockey," said Ned, "but downright dirty hockey—as bad as canal shinny at times. Referees are letting dirty tactics go and players are getting hurt." He figured the Orioles would be well up in the league race before long, and remarked that they were still packing in the fans. Roy Covert—another former local player—is going fine with Washington this winter, Ned told us.

* * * * * *

Lindsay Midgets opened their O.H.A. junior "B" schedule last twilight in Lakefield and copped a 7-1 victory. Though some of the Lakefield folks feel it should have been 7-2, but Jewell's counter in the first heat was not allowed. A pretty fair tussle, we're told, but the Scugog squad had a little too much oomph or push or something and clicked in rather okay manner for so early in the season. They're gonna be strong again this semester, but the hustling Lakefield lads will improve, too. Owen sparked the victors to their margin and Jim Stewart counted the only goal for the losers. Gordon Fraser threw a party in the hotel for the gang afterward.

* * * * * *

The Reds Are Routed

That victory for the Petes over Belleville here last night is one the Buckland bunch won't have to worry about later. In a short little runty schedule, every win is important—and a decisive 14-4 decision leaves little room for doubt as to one squad's superiority over another. Minus Hastie and Gow — who were told by the O.H.A. to play with Gananoque—the Redmen didn't look any better than last year, despite two imports from Prescott. They put up a game showing and held their own for half the game, but the scarlet O'Haras (if we may be permitted!) faded like cheap print blousing in the wash. They were skated into the ice in the last heat and looking rather punchy ere the finish. Goalie Watt saw more rubber than a tire manufacturer and he may be a bit shell-shocked for a few days.

* * * * * *

Now, it wasn't a brilliant game by any means. Too one-sided in the first place, rather disorganized a good part of the route, and the ice gradually becoming sticky. But the Petes did look impressive for their first showing here this season. They'll rub off the rough edges in another week or so and then they'll really fly. They've got speed galore and appear better balanced all around than a year ago. We have been impressed with 'em all along and feel vindicated with that 14-4 opener. (But we dassent think out loud of an Ontario intermediate "A" title yet, by golly!) It's going to be mighty interesting to see how the highly-touted Oshawa Generals will go against the Petes here Tuesday; yeah, mighty, mighty interesting.

* * * * * *

A Promising Pack

While Blewett and Jack Jopling were out with colds, the rest of the gang showed a lot of promise. It was nice to see Jimmy Ellis—one swell skater and bumper—back at the blue line again, alongside the husky Drake Jopling. With Jack Gardner again showing he is a scoring defenceman, and Don Crowe working his head off. They'll round into a potent rearguard. With Ray Harding—who had a fairly easy eve—turning handsprings in front of the cord citadel when occasion demanded. Up front, the Kingdon-Tompkins-Burton line got clicking the last half and was dynamite to the Redmen. And the Starr-Heal-Coughlin trio was equally good going both ways. No strong line nor weak one; they're on a par.

* * * * * *

A pretty fair flock of fans viewed the opener and, though they no doubt would have liked a tighter tilt, seemed impressed with the Petes at this early date. Game started on time but Goalie Watt held up proceedings when he pulled the rivets out of his skate. McCreary got a three-stitch cut on the head accidentally, and Honey Tompkins—waiting for the wedding bells today—got a minor cut when tripped, so he left the game a bit before the finish. Referee Hap Day handled the tussle okay. Aside from their game Tuesday, the Petes are idle next week — while Fliers and Belleville clash next Friday on Quinte ice.

Hither and Yawn: An intermediate puck loop is being formed at Omemee again this season and they'd like a local entry; Lindsay and Omemee are in and a Fenelon Falls-Bobcaygeon entry is expected.... Maybe Williams' Aces would like another crack at Omemee competition ....Some Church Loop dope in elsewhere tonight....If we missed giving any of the Petes an assist or two last p.m., it was unintentional and excusable with such a score....The Oshawa junior "B" team defeated Cobourg 4-2 on the latter's ice....Colts will drill Monday if ice is available before the Petes practice; prospects might check on the time of this work-out....Owen Sound (with Red Creighton aboard) did a 17-0 intermediate "A" job on Midland last p.m.....Probably Shorty Roberts—signed as a spare goalie with the Petes—will be in the net for the locals here Tuesday e'en....Canuck juveniles have an open workout at six Tuesday night at the Sacred Heart rink; and the Aces juvenile team has an open drill there at eight Tuesday eve....Canada's "Snow Bowl" grid game betwixt Chatham and Tilbury will be staged at Chatham on New Year's Day....Our junior Colts journey to Port Hope on Tuesday to start their schedule....Hockey Club put out a neat program which was given away at last night's contest....Once again, a happy New Year, folks!

Patrick Places His 1939 Club Ahead Of Cooks, Boucher Team

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(CP)—Lester Patrick, who usually looks twice before jumping, came out today with the opinion the 1939 edition of New York Rangers is the best club he's handled since the National Hockey League allowed 15 players to a team.

"This is a better team than our Stanley Cup champions of 1933," said Patrick, who has been around hockey teams long enough to know of what he speaks. "This is a club with great power, so evenly distributed that every line is a threat."

When Patrick compares the 1939 stream-liners to the club of '33, he's staking them against such famous names as the Cook brothers, Bun and Bill; Frank Boucher and Murray Murdoch. Yet he makes the comparion without hesitation, backed by the team's record of 13 straight games without defeat.

Starting slowly the Rangers have come with a terrific rush from the bottom to second place, tied with Toronto only two points behind the league-leading Boston Bruins. Offensively their record is 13 goals better than that of any other club.

No First Line

"We've got the same amount of confidence in each line—there's no first, second or third stringers," explains Patrick. It's that ability of any line to come through that makes him so positive about this being the best Ranger club in 10 years.

Not so long ago the Colvilles, Neil and Mac, and Alex Shibicky carried most of the Ranger mail. Suddenly this season the others—Phil Watson at centre for Dutch Hiller and Bryan Hextall and Clint Smith between Lyn Patrick and Kilby MacDonald—started scoring as often. Alf Pike fitted exactly as the spare man.

Are they the best team in the league? Will they win the Stanley Cup? The old Patrick caution returned.

"Art Ross still says his Boston Bruins are the best team in the league, though we've beaten them twice this season. Toronto is strong, even stronger than the 1933 team we licked for the cup. So I won't say we're the best in the league. That's what we're playing 48 games to find out."

Not Original, But Good

Yes, yes, you've seen pictures like this before, but when they keep them coming in as attractive as this we hate to miss passing them along. This fair miss was crowned queen of winter sports in southern California, thus reigning over an annual affair staged around Los Angeles at the end of January.

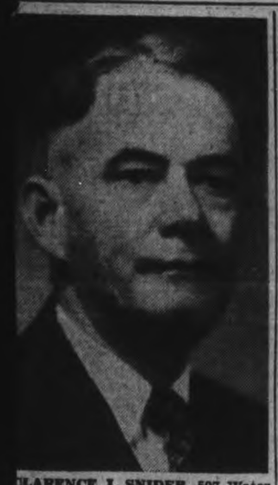
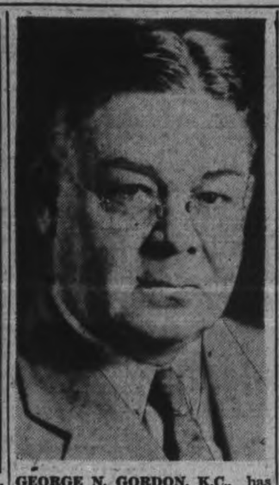
WHO'S WHO IN PETERBOROUGH'S 1939 ALDERMANIC CONTEST



CLARENCE J. SNIDER, 597 Water street, is a new candidate for the city council. He was engaged in business in Peterborough for more than 25 years as a custom tailor on Water street, but retired seven years ago. He has both the time and desire to devote himself to the administration of Peterborough and its municipal problems. Mr. Snider was five years old when his family left Warkworth, where he was born, for Warsaw. In the Dummer township community his father opened a tailor shop and remained in business there for 40 years.



GEORGE N. GORDON, K.C., has been a member of the council for the last three years following a retirement after an earlier service including his experience as City Solicitor at that time. He took the position of chairman of the Legal and Claims Committee two years ago, but last year requested that this responsibility be given to Alderman Bradburn because of his special qualifications as a graduate of the Ontario law school at Osgoode Hall. He has been conspicuously active in obtaining legislation making surplus City Trust funds available to the ratepayers with the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board, and also in securing a new law limiting fixed assessments to one term of years and prohibiting renewals. Alderman Gordon was at one time chairman of the manufacturers committee of the council and is widely known as a lawyer throughout Ontario.

WILLIAM GEORGE (BILL) OVENS, 32, of 444 Monaghan Road, was born in Peterborough of Irish-Scotch descent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Ovens, and moved to Cobourg with his parents when he was a year and a half old. He returned to Peterborough in 1927 as teller in the Bank of Toronto branch here, resigning to accept a position with Campbell's Dairy in 1929. He is now manager of the firm. Married, he has one daughter, Jane, aged 1 year and 11 months. He is a member of the Kawartha Golf and Country club, of the Kiwanis club, and of the Masonic order. Mr. Ovens is the youngest candidate who is seeking office in the aldermanic contest.

WALTER STOCKER has been a member of the city council for 20 years, and has been chairman of the Parks Committee for 17 years. The leadership he has given that department is well known to all citizens. It has brought about a development in civic beauty that has won the admiration of hosts of visitors. Alderman Stocker was also chairman of the property committee of the Children's Aid Society, and for 12 years has been a member of the Board of Health of which he has been chairman about 10 years. The economies effected in that branch of the community's service to its citizens has been not the least of Alderman Stocker's contribution to the public welfare.

FRED L. ROY— A name that is new so far as the field of municipal service is concerned but is an old and highly respected one in local business and general circles is that of Fred L. Roy, candidate for the council. The Roy name has been known in Peterborough since Mr. Roy's father, the late R. M. Roy entered the field of photography and established the local business in 1896. Fred L. Roy has been associated with that business almost ever since. He was born in Belleville, but came to Peterborough as a small boy, received his education here and has lived practically all his life in this city, giving his support to many movements in the public interest. He is a charter member and was the first president of the Peterborough Rotary Club, a past president of the Peterborough Boy Scouts' Association and of the Ontario Society of Photographers and a past master of Corinthian Lodge, A.F. & A.M.

ROBERT S. COTTON presents to the ratepayers again their investment of 14 years' service in him as a member of the council. He has been chairman of the finance committee for the last two years, and previously chairman of the fire, water and light committee six years and the legal and claims committee three years. As finance chairman he has spent during the last two years an average of an hour and a half a day at the city hall and two night a week examining cheques before they are signed and also signing them, a contribution of municipal work entirely apart from the meetings of committees and council. He is a Justice of the Peace and Deputy Police Magistrate, emergency positions reflecting the trust that is placed in him. Alderman Cotton is electric superintendent of the power department of the Canadian General Electric Company. He is especially interested in continuing the reduction of taxes effected during the last few years.

JAMES H. MATTHEWS—Bringing again into the municipal field a name that has been prominent in Peterborough for many years and has been synonymous for good service, James H. Matthews is one of the younger candidates for the council. Mr. Matthews is a grandson of the late Geo. Matthews who founded the packing business that now forms the local plant of Canada Packers. His father T. F. Matthews, now a resident of Toronto, served this community faithfully for many years as a member of the Water Commission and later as chairman of the Utilities Commission. The candidate's brother, Gordon S. Matthews, succeeded his father and has been carrying on successfully as chairman of the Commission. James H. Matthews is owner and manager of the Sunshine Dairy and is well known throughout the city and district.

FRED T. TUGGEY—No stranger to the realm of municipal politics is Fred T. Tuggey who is again offering his services to the public in Monday's election. Mr. Tuggey was first elected as a member of council 10 years ago and he has had the benefit of some seven years' experience as an alderman, during the course of which he held two important chairmanships. One involved the responsibility of heading the first relief committee, at a time when the situation was at its worst and when a heavy load was placed on the shoulders of the committee chairman. He also acted as chairman of the property committee and was noted for the attention he paid to the duties of the position. Mr. Tuggey has been a resident of Peterborough for 35 years and all his interests are here.

CHARLES HOLLAND, 50, of 85 Hunter street west, was born in Belfast, Ireland, and came to Canada 15 years ago. He was employed by the Bell Telephone company before coming to Peterborough and was foreman of the Montreal Cotton company of Valleyfield, Quebec. He has resided in Peterborough for the past 11 years. He has held various positions since coming to Peterborough. Mr. Holland was proprietor of a business in England before coming to Canada.

Canada Fighting Adverse Tourist Rumors

OTTAWA, Dec. 30—(CP). — For some months past there has been reason to believe the Nazi propaganda machine has been turned on full blast against the Canadian tourist industry and steps have been taken to meet this menace, D. Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian Tourist Bureau, said last night.

Numerous inquiries to the bureau from potential tourists regarding wild rumors as to treatment of tourists in Canada have given rise to the belief adverse propaganda efforts have been made.

"That is the only way to account for a flood of silly rumors designed to hurt this Canadian business," said Mr. Dolan. "The inquiries come from as close to home as Buffalo.

"They range all the way from questions relating to seizure in Canada of all tourists' goods, including such things as automobiles and money, to immediate conscription of tourists for armed service as soon as they enter Canada."

On the outbreak of war Canada's tourist trade with the United States declined sharply. This was taken by officials to be nothing more than natural apprehension. Then came the inquiries as to travel conditions and the flood of adverse rumors.

"Since then," said Mr. Dolan, "we have about caught up with these reports by circularizing all agencies in the United States. Now, with first rate snow conditions in the Laurentians, indications are the winter tourist trade among sports enthusiasts will be larger than ever."

At the same time the government tourist bureau has called on Canadians to co-operate in helping to maintain the trade by giving tourists the standard rate of exchange on their currency as set forth by the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

JAPS HONOR WAR DEAD

In honor of 10,379 newly-enshrined war dead a special festival was held in the Yasukumi Shrine in Japan during which the Emperor offered a branch of the sacred sakaki tree to the guardian spirits.

Bonarlaw School Trustees Named

BONARLAW, Dec. 30.—(ENS)—At the annual school meeting of S.S. No. 5 held in the school house at Bonarlaw on Wednesday evening the following trustees were elected: Thomas H. Prest (3 years), G. E. Eastwood (2 years) and M. R. Neal (1 year).

The auditors' report was presented by Mr. Archie Haslett and showed a substantial balance on hand. A hearty vote of appreciation was extended to Mr. Haslett who resigned as auditor after 25 years' service. Mr. G. T. Webb was elected as auditor in his stead.

It was decided to subscribe for two farm magazines and a weekly paper for the use of the school and a number of new books will be added to the library. The school inspector's report showed 35 pupils enrolled and everything in a satisfactory condition.

Mr. Lindsay Mumby presided over the meeting and Mr. J. F. Baker acted as secretary.

Jovial Havelock Citizen J. Adair 87 On New Year's

HAVELOCK, Dec. 30—(ENS). — Born in Wigtonshire, Scotland, on New Year's Day, 1853, Mr. John Adair of Havelock is preparing to celebrate the 87th anniversary of his birthday this coming Monday. Remarkably active and fond of travelling, he intends to journey to Oshawa to visit his son, Thomas Adair, over the holiday.

Mr. Adair came to Canada in 1881, shortly after his marriage to Mary Hyslop. The morning after they arrived in this country, he began work on the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and remained as an employee of this company for 41 years. He served for about 30 years as a foreman on the Maintenance of Way department, and was retired on a pension in 1918.

When John Adair and his wife first came to Canada, they settled at Perth, the place he still refers to as his old home town. In 1901 he moved to Claremont and then in 1910 to Agincourt. Since the passing of his wife three years ago last summer, Mr. Adair has resided mostly with his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Hill of Havelock.

Speaking with a distinct Scotch accent, and always with a pleasant good humor, Mr. Adair has become a popular resident of this village, in which he is now quite a familiar figure. He has been a member of the Presbyterian Church throughout his lifetime.

His family includes, two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Hill of Havelock, and Mrs. M. Pringle of Toronto, and four sons, George of Trenton, Alec of Newcastle, Thomas of Oshawa, and John of Manitoba. There are also 22 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

NAZI WAR MOVES

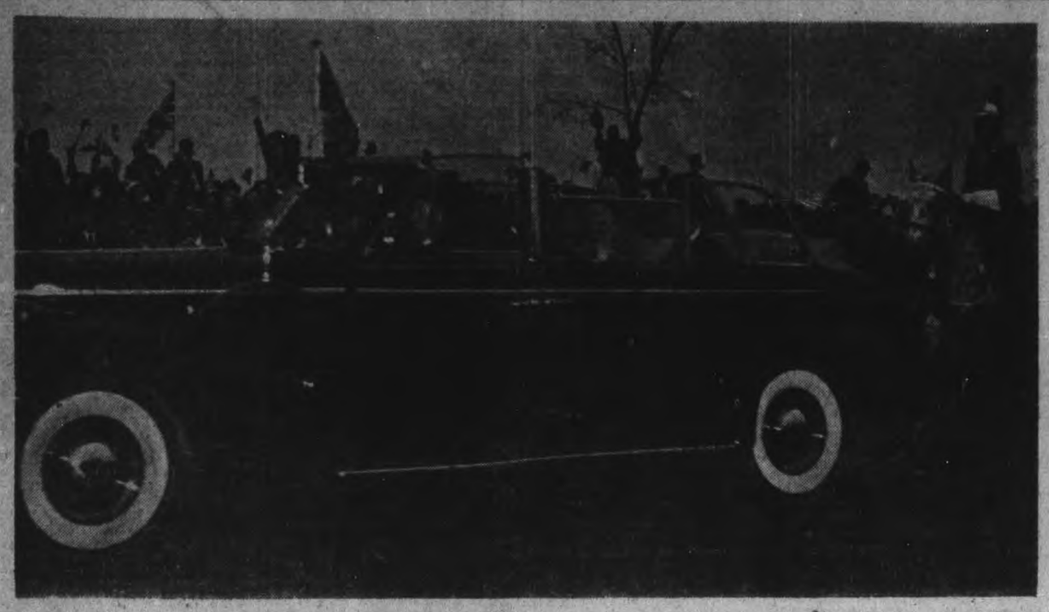
PICTORIAL REVIEW OF 1939 AS RECORDED BY EXAMINER CAMERA



HIGHLIGHT IN THE LIVES of many a Peterborough youngster was at this moment, when the King and Queen passed by them and greeted them at Exhibition Park in Toronto.

FIRST PETERBOROUGH man to see action in France in World War II is Donald Clark of the Scots Guards. He was educated at Peterborough Collegiate and joined the unit before the war broke out. It was one of the first to go over. His father was killed in Word War I.

VETERAN JOHN MALONE of the Spanish loyalists' famed international brigade returned to Peterborough on February 5, bearing two wounds.

FIVE WERE DROWNED in this car when it careened into th hydro reach at Lakefield in May, the most to be killed in on accident in this district in 1939.

CLIMAXING A WILD NIGHT chase by police, Lloyd McPherson, 18, was arrested and brought to Peterborough on December 13. He and two campanions are alleged to have held up a service station at Welcome and kidnapped the driver.

JULY 25 WAS A BAD LUCK DAY for flying in this district for it saw the Peterborough Air Service's plane crash into a field in Ennismore and bring to a halt all flying instruction here.

LOON LAKE was swept by the worst hurricane in its history in August. Here Alpine McNab surveys the debris about his cottage.

WITH SNOWPLOUGHS idle so far this year and roads near free of snow at the close of 1939, it seems difficult to believe that this picture was taken in 1939. Couple Celebrates 59th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Richardson, of Robina Avenue, Toronto, recalled experience of their long, eventful lives, and spoke hopefully of the diamond anniversary next year, when they marked their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary on Friday.

Fifty-nine years is a long time to look forward to—but not long to look back upon, especially when the years have rolled along smoothly and happily, remarked the little, blue-eyed lady, whose brisk step and erect bearing made her seem younger than the four-score which she claimed.

"It was a day such as this that we were married, sunny, clear and crisp — and our wedded life has been just that way," she observed. "Of course, it was in the country, Bailieboro, near Peterborough, and there was plenty of sonw and ice about, and very few buildings." But she likes city life with its electricity and conveniences and the friendly neighbors in the apartment houses. She enjoys shopping along St. Clair Avenue, "where there are good stores," and being Presbyterians, they attend Davenport church at the foot of the hill.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Richardson lived at Bailieboro, at the family homestead, where she, Mary E. Batson, was "born and married." Mr. Richardson, born in Scotland, while very young settled near Peterborough. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson lived in Midland for thirty-eight years, during part of which time they conducted a lighthouse on Georgian Bay. His business took them to Niagara-on-the Lake, and later to Newmarket, where they lived ten years, coming to Toronto three years ago.

Their only surviving daughter is Mrs. W. H. Bishopric, mother of their three granddaughters, with whom the couple spent Christmas. "And we are having them here for New Year's," she, gleefully announced. The daughter, granddaughters and "neighbors" who mean much in the lives of the elderly couple, made up the cheerful, friendly party which celebrated the anniversary last evening.

VENISON SAUSAGE

DOROTHY DIX

Girls Dislike Boys Who Criticize Their Dress, Who Are "Check Dodgers," Who Tell Risque Stories, Who Are Careless In Their Appearance And Who Kiss And Tell.

DEAR MISS DIX—We girls were greatly interested in the letter you had from some boys telling what things they disliked in girls. Maybe they would like to know what we girls dislike in boys, so here goes:

We dislike boys who are careless of their personal appearance and who look as if they had slept in their clothes and never had a hair cut or took a bath except on Saturday nights. We doll ourselves up when we go out with boys so that they can be proud of us, and we don't like to go out with one who looks like something that had been fished out of the rag bag and whom we have to apologize for by saying he has high moral principles and is good to his mother. We dislike boys who patronize us and who throw an invitation to us with as contemptuous an air as if they were throwing a bone to a hungry dog. Of course, we have to swallow our pride and take 'em if we haven't got any other dates, but we are hopping mad inside.

We dislike boys who criticize the way we do our hair or the way we are dressed. No matter what we think, we don't tell them what we think of their neckties and the way they let their socks flop over their feet. We dislike boys who stand girls up on dates. They don't have to ask a girl to go places, and it is a lowdown trick to tie a girl up so she can't go with any one else and then leave her waiting at the church.

We loathe boys who are forever bragging about themselves and telling how wonderful they are and how no girl has ever been able to resist them. And we doubly loathe the boy who kisses and tells and is always referring to every popular girl as 'my old girl." We dislike the tightwad boy who always has plenty of money to spend on himself but never on a girl; who will come and eat her mother's good dinners and use the girl's car and go to shows when she has the tickets, but who doesn't thing that she rates even a bunch of violets or a ham sandwich if he has to pay for them.

We dislike the boys who are check dodgers and when they take a girl out with a crowd always let somebody else pay the bill. We dislike the boys who take us for granted and assume we are always dying to see them or will jump to go with them somewhere, even if they ask us at the last minute. We would like for them at least to show us the courtesy of pretending to believe that we are difficult to get. We hate boys who tell dirty stories and who expect us to think their obscene jokes are funny. We dislike boys who have rough and uncouth manners and who think they show they are he-men by not observing any of the conventions of good society.

We dislike boys who make us pay for every attention they show us by staging necking parties. We dislike boys who make love to every girl they see and who hand her the shop-worn line about "where have you been all of my life, etc." And last, but not least, we dislike boys who try to show off on a dance floor by doing steps they know their partners can't do.—A GROUP OF HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS.

ANSWER:

These are very valid objections to boys that the youngsters might well take into consideration.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 18. I entered college this past fall and hate it. I don't study and I don't like school and never did, and I want to quit at the end of the semester because it is a waste of time and money for me to continue. My mother is a widow with little money and it is a great sacrifice for her to send me to college, but she was determined to do it. Don't you think I should quit before I flunk out? I am not interested in what I am taking and I want to go to a school where I can take a course in merchandising or interior decorating. What shall I do? — BOBBE.

ANSWER:

You are certainly right in thinking that it is a waste of time and money for you to continue in college when you hate it and are not studying and taking advantage of any of the opportunities it offers you.

Your mother should realize the truth of the old adage about one being able to lead a horse to water but not to make him drink, and that it is foolish to try to force on you the kind of education that you do not crave. She should withdraw you at once from college and let you take up the line of study that you wish and in which you will probably make a success.

Y.W.C.A. Club Formal Party Is Delightful Holiday Event

The first formal dance to be held in the Y.W.C.A. for many years took place Friday evening in the handsome new gymnasium, and was one of the most delightful social events of Peterborough's holiday season. Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

End Of Year Sees Harry L. Beal Retiring After 50 Years Of Service In Supplying Of Gas

Harry L. Beal, manger of the gas department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, retires on superannuation today from public service with which he has been associated for fifty years.

When Mr. Beal began work with the old Peterborough Gas Campany in the fall of 1889 the streets of the town were lighted with gas. William Druary, then superintendent of the plant, used to drive around on a two wheeled gig lighting the gas lamps at dark, and at midnight he made the round again turning them off.

"Black outs" in those days before the first carbon arc electric lamps came into use was the common experience of the community except on nights when the moon was at the full.

The progress in electric illumination of cities since that time can only be realized by the older generation in whose memories the old gas lamps still feebly shine.

The Gas Company.

The Peterborough Gas Company was formed by bylaw 235 of the town of Peterborough, signed by W. H. Scott, Mayor, and James Edwards, Town Clerk, on September 27, 1869, The original shareholders were Robert Romaine, John Carnegie, jr., Stephen Balmer and William E. Sherwood, all of Peterborough, and James Perry of Ottawa.

Robert Romaine is recalled as a manufacturer of bricks in the factory which he built on the site now occupied by Alderman E. R. Wilson's Peterborough Machine and Lubricator Company at the east of end of Dalhouse street. He lived at the southwest corner of Simcoe and Stewart streets. John Carnegie was at one time Member of Parliament for West Peterborough, president of the Review Printing Company, and one of the old town's most prominent citizens.

W. E. Sherwood is described as a gentleman of means and leisure whose home was on the property now occupied by Mount St. Joseph.

The organization of the company was confirmed by letter patent under the Ontario Companies Act of 1874. It was amalgamated with the Peterborough Electric Company in November 1890 under the name of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. At that time the company had approximately 350 customers using gas for lighting purposes, mostly in offices, stores and larger buildings, and in some residences.

The office of the company was in the south half of the building at 370 Water street which is now part of the Pentecostal Assembly church. After the amalgamation the office was moved to 417 Water street in Dennistoun and Stevenson's law office, with Colonel Arthur Stevenson as manager. By 1900 with the invention of electricty extending into the smaller communities the lighting business of the gas department had practically disappeared, but the number of customers who used gas for cooking had increased from none to about 400.

First Gas Stove.

The three first gas stoves were imported from Chicago, because they were not manufactured in Canada at that time. They were introduced by the local company for advertising purposes and presented to R. S. Davidson, Frank H. Dobbin and James Stevenson. Nowaday most houses are equipped with gas or electric stoves for cooking, and electric lighting has long been of universal utility in urban homes and is rapidly reaching out into country sections with the additional conveniences that lessen labor both indoors and out.

In 1896 the Peterborough Light and Power Company transferred its office to 444 George street, on the east side of north of Brock street, and about that time they began supplying alternating current for lighting purposes. In 1901 or 1902 the Quaker Oats Company acquired control, and J. H. Larmouth was appointed manager. About the same time the Peterborough Radial Railway was revived and extended as a subsidiary of the company.

Utilities Are Sold.

In 1910 the Electric Power Company bought the power and railway utilities from the Quaker Oats Company. The head office was moved to Toronto, and the local office was moved to 287-289 George street, north of King street, with W. H. Munro as manager. Mr. Munro resigned in the spring of 1915 to volunteer for service overseas, and the Otonabee Power Company, which was also controlled by the Electric Power Company, was amalgamated with the Peterborough Light and Power Company. The Otonbee Company's office on Simcoe street, immediately east of the Peterborough Lock Company's factory, was closed, and its manager, William G. Fergusson became manager of the Peterborough Light and Power Company and the Radial Railway Company.

Public Ownership.

About that time the question of public ownership had become a local municipal issue engaging the attention of most citizens. In the fall of 1914 the city acquired the electric branch of the company, and in the spring of 1916 the Hydro-Electric Power Commission purchased from the Electric Power Company the radial railway, the gas plant and other assets.

In January, 1925, Mr. Ferguson retired, and the railway and gas departments were separated, Mr. Clifford coming here from Toronto to take charge of the street railway, and Mr. Beal being appointed manager of the gas department. The gas office was moved to its present location on Simcoe street, and continued under the Hydro-Electric Power Commission until 1929 when it was taken over by the city.

Began As Clark.

When Mr. Beal first joined the Peterborough Gas Company in 1889, his employment was to be for three months to do some extra office work and collecting. However, he continued with the company until he rose to the position of accountant. Then when the head office of the Peterborough Light and Power Company was moved to Toronto, Mr. Beal spent considerable time in the Toronto office. Owing to the fact that the gas department was not paying its way, Mr. Beal in 1912 was placed in charge as superintendent and sent back to Peterborough with instructions to put the business on a paying basis.

By 1920 a noperating deficit had been changed to quite a large surplus, gradually increasing until 1925 when a substantial decrease was made in the selling price of gas to consumers. In the same period, the number of customers had increased from 1,100 to 2,300, and now stands at approximately 2,800. Keen electric competition in recent years tended to reduce the revenue from the gas branch of this municipally owned utility.

A Striking Contrast.

Some idea of the strides made by the electric department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission can be formed from the fact that at the time of the amalgamation of the gas and electric companies in 1890, the Electric Company had in use about twenty arc lamps on the streets, and around twenty private customers using electricity for store lighting, which consisted of arc and series lamps.

Such is a mere outline of the development of this city's lighting and also heating systems during the long period of Mr. Beal's employment with the gas branch of this service in that fall of 1899 when he entered the office of the Peterborough Gas Company as a clerk. Of Mr. Beal it can be said that he was not only a faithful and capable employee and ultimately manager, but also a man of quiet and retiring disposition whose work and duties have largely occupied his life, a good citizen of many friendships. One of his public interests for years was his active support of the Peterborough Horticultural Society of which he was for some years president.

Couple In Madoc Escape Fire In Night Attire As Home Burned

TWEED, Dec. 30 (ENS)—Trapped when a blazing staircase blocked their escape from their burning home shortly after one o'clock on Friday morning, at Madoc, Mr. and Mrs. English, occupants of a fine frame house managed to escape in their night attire down a back stairway before flames enveloped the building.

The house and contents were totally destroyed. The loss, it is understood, is partially covered by insurance.

The volunteer fire department of the village raced to the scene of the blaze, but they were unable to prevent a total loss of building and contents.

Suspected Grain Thieves

Provincial Police nets thrown out in the district for some time in an effort to check serious thefts of grain tightened today with the result that five men are now in the county jail, four of whom are charged with breaking, entering and theft, and the remaining one with theft.

Culminating a series of quiet investigations, police struck swiftly to-day in Tyendinaga township and arrested four residents of the Indian reserve, Albert Culbertson, Robert and Garnet Lewis and Donald Brant. The quartette is charged with breaking and entering the grain storehouse at the Council House on the Indian Reserve, and with theft of fourteen bags of grain.

Simultaneously police operating in Sidney Township, took James Dunlay, farm laborer in the employ of Emerson Hough, Sidney township farmer, into custody. He is charged with theft in connection with disappearance of grain, and and has been remanded for a week.

Aftermath of the arrest of five alleged grain thieves by members of the Ontario Provincial Police, came with the apprehension of Gordon Craig, Thurlow farmer, who has been charged with receiving grain.

Charges have been preferred against four residents of the district, in connection with the theft of turkeys from the farm of Fred Taylor, Tyendinaga breeder. Two of the men will face charges of theft and the remaining two, charges of receiving.

Buffalo And Elk Are Available For Peterborough Officials Told

The possibility of securing a number of elk of buffalo or both for Peterborough district is being investigated by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association and Charles Kingan president of the Association has received a letter from W. J. F. Pratt, secretary to the Minister of Mines and Resources in regard to the matter.

"In reply I may say", writes Mr. Pratt "that we have already heard from Mr. Duffus, M.P. whose name you mention and we will be glad to make the animals available from Elk Island National Park on the usual understanding that all expenses will be paid by your association. I might say that we take it for granted that the animals would be released in a fenced area. If this is not the case we would require the province to take full responsibility as the province has done in at least one other instance.

"When buffalo are donated for zoological purposes a bond of $300 for each animal is demanded by the Department guaranteeing the proper care and return of the animals and their progeny, if ever required."

Mr. Pratt submits a rough estimate of the expenditure, with the exception of railway transportation, in connection with the shipment of one pair of buffalo and one pair of elk from Elk Island National Park, Lamont, Alberta to Peterborough. It includes $130 for crates, $85 to cover the expenses of a park warden accompanying the shipment and other expenses totalling $340.

South Africa may adopt an excess profits tax to stop profiteering.

New Assessment For Hastings Recommended

HASTINGS, Dec. 30 (ENS). — Addressing the inaugural meeting of Town Council here on Friday morning when members were sworn in, Reeve Lewis Kelley said he believed theer should be an equalized assessment among Hastings homes since many dwellings were assessed too low, while others were not high enough. His suggested plan would be to appoint an assistant assessor along with the regular assessor to revalue the homes and assess them for 70 per cent. of their total value. Many cases were cited where homes were assessed far below their actual value. The Reeve explained this was, as yet, just a suggestion, but he told members of the Council to give the suggested move some consideration and discuss it at a later meeting.

"I would not advocate penalizing anyone because they have added improvements to their properties in recent years, although it might make a difference in some cases in assessing them," the Reeve said. "There is bound to be a controversy in cases where the assessments are raised, but I think it is only fair to all the people of this municipality to have an equalized assessment periodically," he added.

He also suggested a discussion take place among members of the Council regarding the changing of nomination hours. At present, nominations are held from 12 o'clock noon until one o'clock. The Reeve said he believed the hour should be changed to from seven to eight o'clock in the evening, and hold the nomination discussions immediately following. "This would give everyone a better opportunity to attend," he said.

Howard G. Fairman was commended by the Reeve on being acclaimed to the Hydro Commission for two years. "There is a great deal to learn about Hydro affairs. I have been on the board for two years, and it seems the more I learned the more there was to learn," he said. "Mr. Fairman, as a member of the board for about four years, has shown other members of the Commission that he is fairly well conversant in Hydro affairs, and I am happy to see him fill that post again for the ensuing term."

All members of the Council were present, with the exception of William McEachnie, who was confined to his home with a cold. J. M. Baker, chairman of the meeting, read the oath of office.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

YESTERDAY: Fabienne persuades Nicky to drive her to Willoughby house, the old Willoughby mansion which her grandfather has left as a settlement house.

CHAPTER THREE

MARCUS brought Fabienne's tray in and laid it across her knees. Annabelle slipped a cape of pale blue eiderdown across her shoulders. Her mother's maid, in maroon taffeta that was twin to Annabelle's, passed the door with clothes draped over her arm.

Fabienne stretched deliciously and said, "Somebody going some place?"

"Madame is having her trunks packed, Miss Fabienne," the butler told her and removed the silver tops of the breakfast dishes.

Fabienne inspected the dishes hungrily. There were rosy melon balls in ice, an egg with a fragrant brown sauce still sizzling in a minute baking dish, tiny sweet rolls toasted, and a pot of coffee.

There were also the morning newspapers and two piles of mail.

Marcus poured coffee and went out with the dish covers.

Fabienne settled back in her pillows and opened her mail. She gobbled the melon balls while she read the bills. Then she turned to the invitations, the little notes with foreign post-marks while she ate the rest of her breakfast.

There wasn't a crumb left when she finished.

Sheer curtains, like lingerie petticoats, billowed lazily in the sunny, September breeze that blew in her windows. In the room beyond she could hear Annabelle's movements as she prepared her bath.

Oh, what a lovely morning, she thought. For what? For golf? For shopping? She ran through her mail. Helene Carrington wanted her to serve on a committee for some sort of refugee work. Heavens, no!

Gertrude came to her door. "I've decided to sail on the Normandie, Fab. The Derwents are going to take the apartment. Are you coming with me? I do think you ought to stay here. Edna and Mark would like to have you, but of course—"

"I'll let you know later, mother. You really mean that you think I ought to stay here until Nicky proposes again, don't you?"

Nicky! She'd forgotten that she'd told Nicky to call for her at eleven. What for? Oh, yes, she was going to make him drive her down to the slums. To Henderson street to see Willoughby house.

She regretted that impulse. To waste a beautiful morning drive down through the slums to appease an anger she had completely forgotten was silly.

Her mother's exasperated voice recalled her:

"Fabienne Seymour, you've got a disposition just like your . . . your father. What are you going to do today?"

Fabienne grinned. She looked strangely like the old man then, old Elihu. "Nicky and I are going down to look over the family mansion."

"Oh, Fab!"

"Don't worry. I won't do anything but look it over."

"What is there to see?"

That was what Nicky wanted to know, too. Privately, Fabienne agreed with both of them that the expedition was a stupid one. There were so many more pleasant things to do on a bright September morning. But perversity was a strong trait in Miss Seymour and she was persistent about driving down to Henderson street.

"What is it anyway?" Nicky plagued her.

"It's a settlement house, darling. A place where children and . . . oh, I don't know any more than you. Only it is some kind of a neighborhood club where earnest young women teach people things they don't want to know. Grandfather Willoughby met some angel of mercy—some completely impossible Good Woman—named Ellen Chapman—who is supposed to be a miracle worker in the cause of charity. And she sold him on the idea of lending the house to make the Henderson Street Settlement house. Then, as you know, he left the whole works to them as a memorial to his mother."

Nicky chortled. "She must have been some persuader. I thought the old man loved that place."

Fabienne said, "Humph!" She settled down glumly.

"Ever see her?"

"Who? Chapman? No. But can't you see her? Nice broad bosom and a lamp in her eyes. A spinster of fifty mothering all the dear unwashed."

Nicky turned the car off Seventh avenue and drove through a maze of crooked crowded streets. In an astonishingly short time they had left the neighborhood of neat apartments and now they drove more slowly through knots of screaming urchins who scampered through the streets. Bed clothing hung from the windows of the tenements that lined the narrow streets and pushcarts forced them to progress at a snail's pace.

"Want to turn back?" Nicky asked when they had narrowly avoided running over a baby carriage pushed into their path.

"When I slum, I slum. Push on," Fabienne answered, wrinkling her nose with distaste for the smells that assaulted it. "After all, this is where he built his great mansion for his mother sixty years ago."

It was before them then. A mass of grey stone, with neat curtains in every window. There were patches of green grass between the iron paling of the fence and the building at the front. Back of it, they could see a playground. The sound of singing children's voices came from one of the opened upstairs windows.

Over the fan-door that was open there was a new plate. On it, WILLOUGHBY HOUSE was written in black on a field of gold.

It was very clean and cool and spacious, that house sitting there in the midst of a city's squalor.

"Well, there it is. Now do we drive on?"

Fabienne was looking at the house. "No, not yet. I think I'll look around." She got out. "It might be amusing. But you stay here."

Out of the open doorway a slim, dark girl dressed in navy blue, was leading a file of children almost as tall as herself.

Fabienne walked to the foot of the flight of steps and looked upwards and in.

"Wouldn't you like to go in?"

It was the dark girl who asked her.

"I don't think so. I was just looking around." She looked up at the black-and-gold sign above her. "We put it up this morning." It was the girl speaking again.

"Did you?" Fabienne said distantly, aware of her stiffness, unable to think of anything else to say.

"And inside we have another, one to which we are all devoted. It's in memory of your great-great grandmother, who made all this possible, Miss Seymour."

"You seem to know me?" Fabienne said, turning a glance of surprise on her guide.

The other girl smiled and nodded. "I recognized you from your photographs. Won't you come inside and let me show you?" Not waiting for Fabienne to say she would, the girl dismissed the children and went to the door.

Fabienne did not want to go on. She didn't know how not to. She said, "Thank you . . . but perhaps . . . some other day"

Nicky was watching the little play from back of the wheel a few feet away

Fabienne looked at him, hoping he'd catch her cue and call to her to hurry, but Nicky was grinning Nicky was tremendously amused! For some strange reason, she felt piqued.

She turned to the other girl with a broad smile. "All right," she said. "Let's go. This might have been my house, you know. I'd like to see it. I never have, Miss——"

"I'm glad to have the privilege of showing it to you. May I introduce myself? My name is Ellen Chapman." She held out a small hand that was surprisingly firm and strong for such a slip of a girl.

Good Practice

London, Dec. 30 (CP)

THIS WAR has one consolation for the men in lighthouses on Britain's rocky coasts. Men of the Royal Air Force coastal command drop newspapers, magazines and books as they fly over on their daily patrols.

The fliers started supplying reading matter because the lighthouse keepers always gave a cheery wave as the aircraft passed.

Before dropping his package, the pilot flies low over the "target," with engine throttled back, while the navigator waits at the open window with gifts. When the pilot shouts "now," the parcel is dropped.

Sometimes packages slide off the rock into the sea and the lighthouse men fish them out. One keeper has a minute garden on which the pilots take pride in scoring a "direct hit."

Cobourg Man Drives Off Dock, Drowns

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 30—(CP). —Driving his car off the end of Ferry Dock last night near midnight, Walter Telford, 60, of Cobourg, was drowned in Cobourg harbor. Not until three hours later when the car was hauled out of the lake was it possible to learn identity of the driver.

Peter Russell and James Russell, night watchmen, heard a crash and a splash and the car went over the end and through the ice.

Police were notified and grappling irons were lowered through the hole in the ice and the car was located in a short time. Several efforts to get the car to the surface failed when cables tore loose. A tow truck finally hauled the car out of the water. Telford's body was taken to the undertaking parlors pending an inquest.

Telford was employed as a caretaker. His wife died two years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. George Mitchell, New Toronto, and a daughter, Mary, at home.

Sullivan Is Denied Royal Commission

TORONTO, Dec. 30 — (CP). — A statement from the office of the Ontario Attorney General today rejected the demand of Patrick Sullivan for a Royal Commission to inquire into the deaths of Gertrude Small and her husband, Warren G. Bell.

The sister of Ambrose Small, long-missing millionaire theatre owner, and Bell were drowned less than a day after their marriage when their car ran into the Nottawasaga river several weeks ago.

Patrick Sullivan, friend and advisor of Miss Florence Small, sister of Gertrude, yesterday made known his demand for a Royal Commission to investigate the drownings.

The Attorney General's Department said full scope will be given to every aspect of the case at the inquest at Collingwood Jan. 4. More than 30 witnesses will be called.

Provincial Police have investigated the case thoroughly and come to the conclusion there was no criminal action involved.

Grace Fields Escapes Royal Air Force, Lips Bruised From Mistletoe Crush

With the Royal Air Force in France, Dec. 30 (CP-Reuters). — Gracie Fields motored out of the Royal Air Force zone today happy but just a little tired.

"I have spent the busiest Christmas of my life singing to our airmen here three times a day since Sunday, but at that, it's been worth it," the British stage and screen star said.

Her voice was still husky from her final concert before a packed audience Wednesday night. Fingering a bruised lower lip, she gave a wry smile.

"There was a bit of a crush under the mistletoe after my Christmas night broadcast," she remarked. "The boys, bless them, embraced me real hearty. But—c'est la guerre."

Her last autograph was given to a smiling army driver, her last kiss to a bushing air force officer—an old friend who in peacetime made some of her gramophone records.

Then, with a few of the men in service blue to wave her goodbye on behalf of the thousands of grateful airmen now back on duty after a real song treat, she was on her way.

"Have I been happy? I should say so," were Gracie's parting words. "They say you are only really happy when you are giving—and I have been giving them all I've got. They love it so you have simply got to do it."

Eire Calls Dail To Handle I.R.A.

DUBLIN, Dec. 30—(CP Cable).—The Eire government decided today to summon the Dail (Parliament) to meet next Wednesday to pass on a request for special powers to deal with activities of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Soldiers and police announced they had recovered 50,000 to 80,000 of the 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition looted from the Phoenix Park army arsenal Saturday by a band police said was composed of I.R.A. members.

Discovery of several caches had been announced previously and 20 suspects have been jailed.

There has been no response yet to the government's offer of £1,000 ($4,450) for information leading to recovery of the remainder of the booty.

Dublin to-day was still encircled by troops and the search of neighboring counties was intensified. Low-flying planes of the Irish Army Corps cooperated with armed guards and motorized units on the roads.

Bell, George Foster; tyler, Alf. Townsend.

The election was conducted by Past Master Mell Dunlop, and was followed by the installation of the new officers by John Edgar, Worshipful District Master, City of Peterborough District No. 3. The Lodge members then adjourned to the dining hall where toasts and speeches were the high lights of a much enjoyed banquet concluding the evening's work.

ONTARIO

PURSUANT TO the provisions of The Mining Tax Act (Chap. 28, R.S.O. 1937), the following list is published of mining locations, mining claims, and mining rights, in respect of which taxes imposed by the said Act are more than two years in default, and notice is hereby given that unless the amount due as shown on the said list shall have been paid on or before June 30th, 1940, the property in respect of which the taxes so remain unpaid shall on the day following the above date become forfeited to and revested in the Crown.

In the arrangement of the list, lands are given in the judicial district in which they are situated, commencing from the west, and in each district the lots in townships are placed first and in alphabetical order, according to the townships; then follow the locations or claims not originally in surveyed territory, also alphabetically arranged and in sequence. Owners of property thus advertised are advised that extra costs are incurred if payment is delayed beyond February 29, 1940, as the Act requires an additional notice to owners of claims on which the taxes have not been paid by this time for which there is a statutory charge.

Communications regarding this matter should be addressed to A. C. Young, Mine Assessor, Department of Mines, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

There is no way in which so much money is so foolishly wasted as by parents gratifying their own pride by sending children to college who are not college material.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — After working my way half through college, because I am ambitious and desired a college education, I gave it up and went to work to earn money because I had fallen in love with a girl. This girl has no desire for knowledge or interest in it. She is very vain, always bragging of her admirers and how beautiful she is when, in reality, she is only moderately good-looking and entirely too fat. She is jealous and suspicious of me, accuses me of being unfaithful every time I have to stay downtown at night to work. Doesn't trust me for a moment when I am out of her sight. I see her faults with an open mind and have decided to call quits to all romance until I find a girl whose faults I don't see. What do you think? — VERY OLD TWENTY-THREE.

ANSWER:

I think either a man or a woman is lacking intelligence when he or she takes a mate who is jealous and suspicious. All married happiness is built on faith.

DOROTHY DIX.

Readers writing Dorothy Dix are asked to enclose a self-addressed envelope and also a three-cent stamp.

At the conclusion a vote of thanks was moved to the teacher by Chairman E. Stephenson and pupils then presented Mr. Bates with a shaving set and billfold.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, December 31.

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries of many adverse or conflicting situations; there may be many opportunities for making the wrong decisions or doing the undesirable thing. This may be due to an inclination to resort to expediency rather than principle when critical matters come up for honest adjustment. It would be well to guard the health, especially in regard to mental or emotional strain.

Those whose birthday it is may find that they have to adjust some difficult, critical or menacing predicaments during the year. Matters may possibly be complicated or instigated by a tendency to handle affairs in the easiest way rather than on a basis of integrity and straightforwardness. Mental and emotional reactions for such stress may affect the health.

A child born on this day, while having stable qualities, may be prone to attain its objectives by easy rather than high-principled methods. It should be given early enlightenment and proper discipline.

For Monday, January 1.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a rather conflicting state of affairs, with customary engagements set aside for the happy indulgences of the hectic New Year's celebration. There are signs of social, domestic, romantic and emotional excitement, with all such functions under pleasant direction.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the social, domestic, affectional and romantic interests are accented, with affairs in other directions moving in routine grooves.

A child born on this day may be gentle, affable, friendly and sentimental. Its talents may lie in the direction of art, music, poetry, or entertainment.

Amateur Hour Given At Providence School

KEENE, Dec. 30.—(ENS) — Over sixty people assembled at Providence School, S. S. No. 14, Otonabee, on Wednesday evening, to enjoy the annual Christmas concert. The interest of the audience was held for well over two hours by a varied programme which was very skillfully presented by the pupils under the direction of their teacher, Donald G. Clysdale. The young people of the community helped out by supplying two musical numbers, which were greatly appreciated, and an amateur hour which produced shouts of approval from the audience. William Henderson acted as chairman and pianists for the evening were Mrs. W. Henderson and Mr. Clysdale.

The entire programme was as follows:—Opening Chorus, "The Winter Time is Here", "Welcome", a recitation by Shirley Manley; An Action song, "Christmas Stockings" by six boys; dialogue, "Jelly for the Minister"; recitation by Willie Porter; song and tap dance by Betty and Billy Henderson; dialogue, "A Minister's Mistake"; recitation by Billy Henderson; a play in three scenes, "Santa's Helpers"; school chorus, "Sing a Song for Santa Claus"; recitation by Betty Henderson; violin selection by Jack Starke and Pat O'Burns with piano accompaniment by Miss Audrey Miller; dialogue, "The Train to Loontown"; vocal duet, "School Days" by Betty and Billy Henderson; recitation by Jean Hunter; Christmas Star drill by four girls and four boys; recitation by Phyllis Manley; guitar duet, by Lloyd Webster and Bill Bartlett; play, "The Five-Fifteen"; amateur hour by the young people of the community; pantomine, "Silent Night" by five girls; closing chorus, "Good-Night People."

At this point a vote of thanks was tendered to the pupils, the teacher, and all those, who in any way helped to make the concert a success.

Santa Claus arrived to the lively tune of "Jingle Bells" and proceeded to distribute the gifts from the well-laden tree.

The National Anthem concluded the programme.

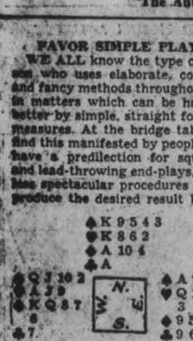
FAVOR SIMPLE PLAYS

WE ALL know the type of person who uses elaborate, complex and fancy methods throughout life in matters which can be handled better by simple, straight forward measures. At the bridge table we find this manifested by people who have a predilection for squeezes and lead-throwing end-plays, when less spectacular procedures would produce the desired result better.



(Dealer: South. North-South Submerable.)

The South players at two tables of a duplicate game opened this deal with 4-Clubs as a shut-out effort and the Norths took it to 5-Clubs which each West doubled. The Spade queen was led at both tables.

At one, the king lost to the ace and the return was ruffed. South then ran all of his clubs, hoping for a squeeze and holding two cards of each red suit in the dummy. There was no squeeze, however, because West held two diamonds, his heart ace and the spade jack, so beat the contract.

At the other table the spade queen was ducked, then the jack was laid down and ruffed by south. A club to the ace was followed by a third spade ruff, dropping the ace. Then came the rest of the clubs, South's losing diamond later being discarded on the spade king.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

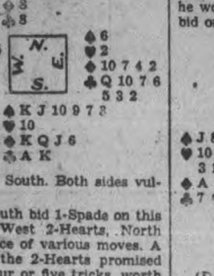
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONVENTIONS VITAL

WHETHER we like them or not, we are all obliged to admit the value of ace-showing conventions as an aid to bidding grand slams. A pair that depends entirely upon natural bidding may reach small slams with soundness, but seldom is able to contract for all of the tricks without making a pure gamble. On many an occasion, one player cannot find out whether his partner's bidding was based on possession of a vital ace, or of the king-queen.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After South bid 1-Spade on this deal and West 2-Hearts, North had a choice of various moves. A double of the 2-Hearts promised a set of four or five tricks, worth 1,100 or 1,400 points. A small slam seemed certain at spades, for a score of 1,430 points at duplicate. Perhaps 3-Spades as a force, or a cue-bid of the hostile suit, 3-Hearts, might have been conservative.

North was not conservative, however. He reckoned that his partner probably had the two minor aces for his bid, so took a chance on 7-Spades. West did not double, but merely laid down his diamond ace, setting the contract.

If North and South had been using either the Blackwood convention or the Culbertson 4-5-No Trump convention, North could have learned easily that South lacked one ace, and so could have signed off accurately at 6-Spades. With no such convention in use, he would have been wiser to have bid only small slam.

Tomorrow's Problem

If West had rebid hearts, what is the correct defense on this deal against North's 3-Spades?

Hopkins today, on a charge of perjury in connection with the sworn statement that she gave on Oct. 31, to obtain her marriage license. She was remanded in custody of the Children's Aid until Jan. 4.

My record on the Council is your guarantee of efficient and business-like administration.

Alex. Archibald.

To the Electors of North Monaghan

Having served nine years on School Board, three as chairman of School Section No. 2, and two years as Councillor, this experience should merit your support.

Wishing one and all a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

ELECT A. J. ARNOTT
COUNCILLOR FOR 1940

Otonabee Electors

I am retiring from the office of deputy-reeve in accordance with a promise made some time ago, and now I solicit your vote and support for election as Reeve. My record on the council of Otonabee as councillor for 9 years and deputy-reeve for 5 years is known to all.

HARRY R. REID

Otonabee Ratepayers

Support PERCY DAVIDSON, Indian River, for the office of Deputy-Reeve of Otonabee.

He is a man with a long and valuable record, not only in township affairs but also as a former member of the County Council.

Electors of Otonabee

For almost 31 years W. A. ANDERSON has served Otonabee township. His record as a public servant is an enviable one.

Your vote and support to re-elect him Reeve is requested.

Vote GRADY For Councillor

TO THE ELECTORS OF NORTH MONAGHAN:

During the two years in which I have had the honor of serving as one of your councillors six of our streets have been paved, leaving little or no maintenance cost for years to come.

Better observance of law and order is provided by the employment of a township constable. The convenience of paying taxes in two instalments has been established.

And your tax rate is about 3.1 mills lower than in 1938.

I am therefore soliciting your support for another year and will do the best I can to keep up the high standard of our township.

Wishing all the ratepayers a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

WILLIAM J. GRADY.

national labor leaders. Messages were issued here by Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada; A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor; and W. T. Burford, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Federation of Labor.

"While recognizing that first attention must be given to those things essential to winning the war," said Mr. Moore's message, "labor does not lose sight of the necessity of protecting the "home front." Unfortunately, the advent of 1940 finds Canada still with several hundred thousand of its citizens dependent upon public aid for their existence.

"Because of this, it is necessary that labor's program of social reform must continue to be vigorously pressed. It is of equal importance that the democractic liberties of freedom of speech, press and assembly be maintained and only such restrictions imposed as are shown to be absolutely necessary to the safety of the country. The tendency towards making wartime requirements an excuse to esablish bureaucractic supervision over all expressions of opinion and reasonable criticism is one that must be checked."

Not on Supply Board.

Mr. Moore recalled that labor had offered immediate co-operation to the Government, but he regretted that organized labor was not represented on the war supply board, though a labor appointee had sat on the peacetime defence purchasing board.

"Only when the nations of the world have united in a common effort to provide economic security on a basis of justice and democracy will the evil spirit of war be exercised," said A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor.

"The task of reconstruction must therefore be threefold: The establishment of machinery for the adjustment of international disputes and the promotion of human welfare in the widest sense; the perfecting of democratic institutions in every nation, and the provision of economic security within and between the nations," said Mr. Mosher.

"In due course we shall be discussing how we may make Canada a land fit for heroes to live in," said the message from W. T. Burford, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Federation of Labor.

"That might be a proper resolution to make for the New Year. If we could banish the spectre of want that haunts the homes of many Canadians, particularly at the year-end season of good cheer for the more fortunate, we could provide the best possible incentive for heroic deeds in defence of the homeland."

World Conditions Challenge To Church

KEENE, Dec. 30 — (ENS). — The Christmas services held at Keene United Church were a decided success in every way. At the morning service the music by the choir and soloist was well rendered, the singing by the large congregation of familiar Christmas hymns added much to the service. During the course of the sermon, "The joy which Christ has brought to mankind," the Rev. Mr. Murray said that "Present world conditions is a challenge to the Christian church to spread forth the good tidings of great joy."

In the evening the candlelight Christmas Carol service was very impressive. A processional of fifty members of the Young People's Society with lighted candles entered the church singing "O Come All Ye Faithful." During the evening there were solos, readings and hymns which portrayed the Birth of Christ. A large white candle represented Christ as the light of the world. From this candle the eight readers and four angels relighted their candles and they in turn passed on the light to the other candles held by the carollers. A short address was given by the minister on "The Song of the Angels." Many of the great events of history have been heralded by song and there has been no greater event than the birth of Christ.

Next Sunday being the last Sunday of the year the sermon at the United Church will be "What Has 1939 To Say To Us." The music will be in keeping with this topic for the morning service at 10:45. In the evening under the auspices of the Y.P.S. a Watch Night service will be held. Fuller announcements of this service at church on Sunday morning. Come and let us worship! An invitation is extended to all in the community to share in these services.

ZOO CHIMPANZEE DEAD

Koko, London zoo chimpanzee who could blow half a pint of water and hit a spectator at 10 feet, has died at the age of 15.

Lady War Bird

Here is Miss Pauline Gower, daughter of Sir Robert Gower, member of the British parliament, who is the administrative head of the Air Transport Auxiliary, the women's corps recently formed to fly planes from factories to airdromes and military supply depots. The flying ladies will relieve male pilots, who will be more valuable in patrol and combat flying.

2 Former Ennismore Residents Pass On

ENNISMORE, Dec. 30—(ENS)—Word was received here during the Christmas season of the death of two former Ennismore residents and also of the bereavement sustained by another Ennismore boy in the death of his wife.

William Perdue, who was born in Ennismore and who had resided here the greater part of his life previous to making his home with his two surviving sons, Charles and John in Chatham, Ont., passed away in that city, with interment at Windsor, Ont. Mrs. Eliza Murray and Mrs. John Gannon of Ennismore are sisters.

At Chippawa Falls, Mich., the death occurred of John Sullivan, who was also born in Ennismore, but who has resided in Michigan for some years. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Josie Sullivan, of Ennismore.

Mrs. Philip Crough, whose husband is a former Ennismore boy who went to Detroit some years ago, passed away in that city, where her funeral was held during the Christmas week-end.

Christmas Treat Is Given Children

HASTINGS, Dec. 30—(ENS). — A real Christmas treat was afforded the children and congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening, when the Ladies' Aid and Sunday School served a delightful supper in the Sunday School rooms.

Over ninety people sat down at the long tables made attractive with the Christmas decorations. The menu was in keeping with the season.

Following the repast, all joined in singing the Christmas carols.

Rev. D. K. Perrie addressed the children and expressed his appreciation of the help that had been attained through the junior congregation.

Trustees Resign From School Board

DOWNEYVILLE, Dec. 30—(ENS)—The annual meeting of S.S. No. 6, Emily, was held in the school on Wednesday morning. Alvin Perdue was chairman. The retiring trustee, Thomas Morrissey, resigned and Joseph Guiry was appointed in his place. The trustees are: John Winn, Joseph Flynn, and Joseph Guiry. The caretaking was given to Claude Perdue and Joseph Winn will put in the hardwood and Albert O'Neill the cedar. Vincent Perdue is the secretarytreasurer.

At the annual meeting of S.S. No. 16 the retiring trustee, John Guiry resigned, and Emmet O'Neill was appointed in his place. The trustees for the year are John McLaughlin, Thomas Murtha, and Emmet O'Neill.

When A New Year

The surest way you can do your share of curing what's wrong with the world is by curing yourself. Perhaps you are known as a "good fellow" at home? Are you as pleasant to all the people with whom you deal as you are to your customers? Are you ready to forgive a wrong and forget a grievance? Do you know how to give to some needy human or to some worthy cause until it hurts Are the people who may happen to be under your control receiving justice and fair treatment? If you want to make resolutions then do so, but be certain you are strong enough to put them into effect. ports that General K. A. Meretskoff had been removed as commander of the campaign against Finland.

(Apparently the Finns had not yet heard Moscow reports of Thursday that General G. M. Stern, one of Russia's most illustrious military men, had been pitted against them, succeeding Meretskoff.)

Use of captive observation balloons in an attempt to learn the Finnish positions on the Isthmus was reported for the first time today.

Viipuri Still Under Fire.

Viipuri (Viborg), largest city on the Isthmus and the second largest in Finland, continued to undergo artillery fire. Normally of 55,000 population, it now is almost empty save for the most necessary residents.

The coastal base of Kivovisto also was bombarded heavily, and active fighting was noted along the Leningrad-Viipuri railway in further support of the theory that Russia was massing strength for an attempted break-through on the Isthmus.

(Reports in Copenhagen said Finnish ski scouts had cut off 10,000 Russian troops from communications with their base near Salla, on the eastern front.

No air raids were reported last night, although the reports were not complete.

(In Moscow, the Red army reported, "Soviet aviation carried out successful bombings in a number of districts.")

In urging passage of the budget, Premier Daladier told the Senate:

"German lies will have no effect on French-British solidarity. Our virile determination to pursue the fight to the finish requires heavy sacrifices by all."

At the same time he said the Franco-British alliance is open to all nations wanting to establish a peaceful permanent world order.

Actinolite Drivers Meet In Collision

TWEED, Dec. 30—(ENS). — Oakley Turcott of Actinolite collided with a vehicle driven by Wesley Wood of the same place on Highway No. 37. Upon investigation by Chief J. Clair Hayes, it was established that icy roads were responsible and no charges were laid.

Crashes Through Hedge.

A car driven by Fred Keene of Queensboro crashed through the hedge and broke off a hydro pole at the C. P. R. station coming to rest on the lawn. Keene was unable to explain the cause and is being charged with careless driving.

Another 4 Years.

On August 31, Walter Lasher passed a worthless cheque for $130 on Ernest Marsh of Actinolite. Two months later, he was arrested and after having been dealt with by the courts of Cobourg, was charged with the offence against Mr. Marsh, for which he was sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary. Lasher pleaded guilty to the count and it was noted that when his criminal record was read and he has already spent 21 years and 5 months in prison. The investigation and prosecution of the local case was conducted by Chief J. Clair Hayes.

Heart Disease Leads Canada's Death Toll

OTTAWA, Dec. 30—(CP).—Heart diseases were death's greatest ally in Canada during the first six months of 1939, according to figures released today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Of the 57,949 deaths during the period compared with 55,726 in the corresponding period of 1938, heart diseases caused 9,780.

Deaths as the result of specified causes, with figures for the corresponding period of last year in brackets follow: heart diseases 9,780 (9,172); cancer 6,119 (5,868); automobile accidents 488 (549); other violent deaths 1,954 (2,152); diseases of the arteries 5,785 (5,183); tuberculosis 3,225 (3,272); influenza 3,241 (1,633); pneumonia 4,213 (4,485); nephritis 3,528 (3,490); suicide 479 (496); homicide 53 (74).

WANT BIGGER WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—(AP).—Convincing indications were forthcoming today that the United States navy favors a congressional committee proposal for 65,000-ton battleships, larger than any fighting craft ever built.

Champions of the super-battleship scheme are believed ready to contend that at least four should be started in the next few years. Combining gunpower, armor protection, speed and cruising radius to a maximum degree, such vessels would outclass any prospective foe, they argued.

ANOTHER WEEK.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 30—(CP).—An additional remand of one week was given Alex Zolomy, young amateur scientist who claimed that he turned to illegal practices to obtain materials to carry on experiments in the field of ballistics. He appeared before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge in court to-day for sentence on four charges.

"This matter will take more thinking before we make a regular disposition of it," observed the magistrate. "I will get in touch with the Guelph authorities before whom you are to appear for escaping from the reformatory. I do not want the two of us working at cross-purposes in the matter of sentence."

Reds Broadcast Peace Proposals

LONDON, Dec. 30 — (AP).—Peace proposals to the Finnish people were reported by London listeners to have been broadcast today by a Russian station over the wave length of the Finnish Lahti Station which temporarily went out of action during an air raid.

The announcer said Russians wanted to end the hostilities as much as the Finns and that if a truce were reached the Karelian area would be returned to Finland, all Finnish workers would be given holidays with pay and large estates would be liquidated.

(In the negotiations which preceded the war Moscow offered to cede Karelian territory in return for Finnish concessions.)

Finnish circles in London said the proposals were rediculous, that Finns already had paid holidays and that most of the land was owned by peasants.

Cotton Heads Polls With Roy Second

Three Old Members Are Returned In Small Vote Cast

Aldermen Elected
R. S. Cotton	2,396
Fred L. Roy	2,238
Walter Stocker	2,143
G. N. Gordon	2,027
W. G. Ovens	2,000
Defeated
Fred T. Tuggey	1,417
Clarence Snider	1,360
James H. Matthews	994
M. E. Ketcheson	468
Charles Holland	351

Peterborough electors plumped solidly for experience, municipal and business, in Monday's far-from-exciting municipal election. In a light vote, one of the smallest in years, they returned to office the three old members of council who offered themselves for re-election, Ald. R. S. Cotton, Walter Stocker and G. N. Gordon, selected two business men, Fred L. Roy and Wm. G. Ovens from the field of seven other aspirants and called it a day.

Ald. Cotton, veteran of fourteen years service in the city's service, rode triumphantly to the head of the polls with a total vote of 2,396. In racing parlance he took the lead from the lifting of the barrier and made every post a winning one. One of the new men, Fred L. Roy, widely known to the electorate, followed the veteran alderman home and in third position was the dean of the council, Ald. Walter Stocker, perpetual head of the parks committee and first elected to the aldermanic circle more than twenty years ago. G. N. Gordon, who headed the polls exactly two decades ago and repeated the feat several years ago was returned in fourth place with 2027 votes, just 27 ahead of William G. Ovens, manager of Campbell's Dairy and the last of the five successful candidates, who had an even 2,000 vote for his first dash in municipal politics.

The contest was really divided into two. The five aldermen-elect fought it out for positions at the top with less than 400 votes between first and fifth and the unsuccessful five had a battle of their own in the lower bracket with a gap of 583 votes between the veteran campaigner Fred Tuggey at the top of the defeated list and Alderman-elect Ovens. Duce's Envoy Quits Moscow, Stirring Rumor Italy Preparing For Balkan Defence In Face Of Brewing Red Drive In Spring

By CHARLES NICHOLS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Diplomatic moves in the Balkans today focussed world attention on that trouble-fretted peninsula.

The widespread, almost fatalistic expectation among southeastern European nations that war will come to their territory with the spring was heightened by a Rumanian declaration that King Carol's army is preparing to defend its territory "to the last man."

The declaration came from Rumania's poet-premier, George Tatarescu. And specifically named the provinces of Bessarabia and Bucovina as areas in which any incursion would be resisted bitterly.

Reference to Bucovina, not previously among the danger points mentioned by Rumanian leaders, brought speculation as to whether fears had arisen that the former Austrian territory was coveted by Russia. Russia's ambition to regain Bessarabia, lost after the last war, never has been doubted.

Meanwhile widespread suspicion that the Red army might turn south when the 1940 spring thaws the snowy barrier separating it from the Balkans was given support by the return of the Italian ambassador from Moscow. While there was no official explanation for the return of Augusto Rosso to Rome, some observers saw in it a tacit warning that Italy would associate herself with any countermeasures if Red army troops marched southward.

Italian support for Finland already has been made clear by officially approved anti-Soviet demonstrations —' demonstrations which led to the recall to Moscow of the Soviet Ambassador. Italian observers would not be surprised if neither envoy return to his post.

While Italy assertedly has aban-

Ski Patrols Cut Off 16,000 Russians, Major Scrap Looms

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 2—(AP)—The capture of a Russian army base and the smashing of an all-day tank-supported red army attack at two points on the Eastern front were reported today in a Finnish army communique.

The Russian base at Aittajoki "passed from hand to hand during the day" before the Finns finally took it, the communique said adding that three machine guns, a field kitchen and 400 overcoats fell into their hands.

Near Lake Lavajaervi the Russians were said to have attacked the whole day with tanks supporting the infantry only to be repulsed with the loss of a tank destroyed.

Gains northeast of Lake Ladoga and the Suomussalmi region in the north, scene of the weekend triumph over the Russian 163rd division, also were reported.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 2.—(AP) — Finnish ski patrols in the central Salla sector were reported today to be threatening a division of 16,000 Soviet Russian troops with encirclement, attacking its flanks after cutting off communications in the rear.

It was believed a major engagement was shap up—similar to the virtual destruction of the 163rd Division of 15,000 Soviet troops in an engagement near Suomussalmi, as reported Sunday by the Finnish high command.

On the Arctic front, reports reaching here said the Finns had advanced within 26 miles of Petsamo, strategic port city.

Idea For Federation Of European States To Follow Conclusion Of The War Finds Great Favor In French Press, Radio

PARIS, Jan. 2 —(AP). — The idea of a Federation of European States as an outgrowth of the war was set forth in authorized French cirlces today. This was a development of the subject broached by Premier Daladier in a speech to the Senate December 29.

A campaign for such a system; which would be along the lines of the present wartime collaboration between Great Britain and France, has been started by the French press and radio.

The point was stressed that "political quarters" regarded present British- French relations as typical of those that should exist in peace between nations that would form the European Federation.

The present cooperation between Britain and France provides for:

1. Interchange of products with manufacture and free flow between the countries of goods of which one or the other is short.

2. Removal or alteration of tariffs where they would interfere with such a free flow.

3. Direct exchanges of currency at a fixed relative value without involving gold operations.

4. In wartime, full cooperation with a single command for armies and for the navies.

It has been agreed that the British-French cooperation plan will continue for six months after the war ends.

It also has been opened to other nations; and French spokesmen Rener to the recent French-Belgian and British-Swedish commercial accords as "signs of evolution" toward the federation system in Europe.

The system is described as "one of freely determined collaboration, leaving each country its complete independence and individual physiognomy."

Royal Proclamation Calls 2,000,000 More Britons; 3,500,000 In Army By 1941

New Order Hits All From 19 To 27 Years; Expect 750,000 To Be Mobilized In January To Reinforce French Front

LONDON Jan. 2—(CP). — A royal proclamation calling about 2,000,000 more men to the colors gives Great Britain a potential army of at least 3,500,000 men.

It is expected all will be in service by the end of the year.

The proclamation, signed by the King last night after his return from a holiday at Sandringham, requires that all male Britons between 19 and 27 years old register for service.

Previous conscription orders affected only men 20, 21 and 22 years old—a total of 1,500,000 men under arms or technically mobilized.

Meanwhile, the Allied forces were swelled still further by arrival of the second contingent of the Canadian active service force The first contingent arrived just a fortnight before.

(It was disclosed in Ottawa yesterday that 16,000 Canadians, making up the entire first division, now are in England).

The rate at which new conscripts are to be called will depend on events. It is expected generally that action on the western front will intensify with the coming of spring.

750,000 Reinforcements.

Neutral military observers here believe that possibly as many as 750,000 men will be called before the end of this month to strengthen the British Expeditionary Force —an army of about 210,000 men now —and the vital middle east command which guards the Empire's lifeline to the east.

In three previous calls under the conscription laws, about 750,000 men were registered. The last of these groups is expected to be absorbed by the army by the end of February.

But with factories tuned to their highest pitch for turning out arms, munitions and equipment, the job may be done sooner.

The biggest need fronting the Imperial General staff now is not manpower but officers to train recruits, many of whom have had no military experience.

Newspapers generally agreed on the necessity of the King's action, taken through the Privy Council, calling it evidence of the nation's "will to war."

A dissenter, however, was Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which asked editorially, "What for? To please the French?"

No Need for Big Army.

"The Daily Express has very great admiration and esteem for the part played by the French nation in this war," the paper said, "but we do not hesitate to oppose the creation of a vast British army. For many reasons;

"1—There is no need for such a big army. The Maginot Line is already sufficiently armed and manned. Indeed, there are more troops in it than are required.

"2—At sea, and in the air, Britain is already taking her part in the war to an immense degree. We should concentrate on these two spheres. For Britain to imitate the big French Army is as foolish as for the French to build as big a navy as Britain.

"3—Britain's financial and economic strength is of the utmost value in the prosecution of the war. A large army will damage our manufactures and general business irreparably.

"4 —France is much better off than Britain, because she has a prosperous agriculture.

"We are in desperate need of recruits for the land. What is to happen? All is not lost. The will of the people can prevail. Let the public show their determination to resist the proposal to build up this enormous army. Then registration may take place, but calling up will be postponed."

A Goebbels' Lie

"One of the more unfortunate lies of Dr. Joseph Goebbels (German Propaganda Minister) is that Great Britain is willing to fight to the last Frenchman." said The Daily Mail.

"The Nazis, like their predecessors, are learning that when Britain goes to war there is no limit to her effort—and no end to the war until she secures victory.

Lad 8, Saves Baby As Slayers Kill Parents

FORT TOWSON, Okla., Jan. 2—(AP)—A prison camp cook was arrested today for questioning concerning the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rogers and their four-year-old son, Dean, whose charred bodies were found in the ashes of their farm home Sunday night.

County Attorney Norman Horton said the arrest followed discovery of footprints of two men near the burned home.

James Glenn Rogers, eight, told officers two strangers shot his parents and set fire to their three-room home.

The suspect, who was taken to McAlester prison for safe keeping, was serving 30 years for murder.

At the coroner's inquest, Jimmy testified two men killed his father with a shot through a window and then felled his mother when she ran outside. As the two men poured coal oil about the house and ignited it, he fled with his baby brother, seeking help.

With the baby in his arms, the lad arrived in Fort Towson, a mile from his home, and spread the news.

Woman Is Killed When Car Struck By Train

MARMORA, Jan. 2 — (ENS). — The C.N.R. crossing about 1½ miles east of Marmora village on No. 7 Highway was the scene of a shocking accident at 12.50 p.m. on Monday, in which a Peterborough woman was killed and her daughter critically injured, while two others were hurut.

A car owned and driven by Geoffrey Feeley, 267 Perry street, Peterborough, and with Mrs. Kate Feeley, 70, the driver's mother; Miss Bellesmere Feeley, his sister, and Margaret Payne, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Payne, was on its way to Tweed, where the Feeley's were to celebrate the New Year with relatives.

At the crossing, the car collided with the north-bound C.N.R. train. The car was dragged for a distance of about 80 feet to become a complete mass of twisted metal.

Mrs. Feeley was instantly killed in the crash and her daughter, Belesmere, was found to be suffering from severe head injuries, and the other two occupants less seriously hurt.

Traffic Officer J. H. Hatch, who investigated, said it was a miracle that all passengers were not killed. Though severely injured little Margaret Payne showed great fortitude, maintaining she was all right and "her daddy's girl." The driver was found to be suffering from chest injuries and shock.

The remains of Mrs. Feeley were conveyed to F. N. Marett's Undertaking Parlors after an inquest had been opened by Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson and adjourned for a week. In the meanwhile the injured were rushed St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough. The ambulance, while hastening to the scene of the accident, sideswiped a car owned and driven by John Terrion of Deloro. However, it was able to proceed on its way and only slight damage resulted to the Terrion car.

Life-long Resident

Mrs. Feeley, who lived at 271 Romaine street, had been a resident of Peterborough for many years and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She was 70 years of

Toronto Returns Mayor Day; Snubs 3 Reds

TORONTO, Jan. 2 (CP).—Voters in Ontario municipalities looked forward expectantly today to presentation of details of the Ontario Government's proposed wartime election machinery.

Elections were held in many centres of the province yesterday and in the largest, Toronto, opposition was expressed to any change from annual municipal voting. By about four to one Toronto voters said they did not want municipal elections suspended for the duration of the war and by 72,433 to 29,072 they voted against the principle of elections every two years.

Hon. Eric Cross has said that the bill for keeping elected men in office for longer terms, in the interest of wartime economy, is ready for presentation to the legislature this month. No expression of the voters will make a difference, he has declared.

Ralph C. Day was re-elected mayor of Toronto, but by a greatly reduced margin over that by which he beat the same opponent last year. He obtained 61,480 votes to 58,011 for Lewis Duncan, K.C., who acted as post-war administrator of the Germany city of Bonn for the Allies.

The entire 1939 Toronto Board of Control was re-elected and three Communist candidates were defeated. Stewart Smith, secretary of the Ontario Communist party, ran sixth in the field for the four-man Board of Control, obtaining only slightly more than one-quarter as many votes as the leader, Controller Dr. F. J. Conboy, J. S. Salsberg and Fred Collins, other Communist party members, were defeated in the aldermanic race.

Favor Seware Plant

Toronto voted 34,767 in favor of a new sewage disposal system but opposed 25,365 to 21,364 a proposal for two new traffic arteries from downtown Toronto. Cost of each of the projects was estimated at $5,600,000.

Snow and cold weather greeted voters all over the province but they turned out in large, sometimes record, numbers.

Nazis Keeping Close Watch On Aid To Finns

BERLIN, Jan. 2—(AP). — Germany, according to authoritative sources, is keeping a close watch on what kind of aid Great Britain gives Finland.

Germany desires to stay out of the Russian-Finnish conflict, these sources indicated today, and understands that the Soviet Union wishes to settle scores with Finland alone.

If British soldiers were to appear on Finnish soil, however, or if munitions deliveries from Britain were to reach decisive proportions, there seems little doubt Germany would support Russia actively.

(Britain yesterday informed the League of Nations that she would give Finland all asisstance possible, as the league had suggested when expelling Russia from league membership.

(Prime Minister Chamberlain told Parliament December 15 that "In addition to air supplies to Finland, the government intends similarly to release other materials which will be of assistance to the Finnish Government.")

Turkish Storms, Floods Take New Toll Of 1,200

ANKARA, Jan. 2 — (AP). — Floodwaters and storms have taken at least 1,200 lives in Turkey, still staggering from last week's earthquake catastrophe.

Officials estimated the following casualties within the past week:

Earthquake.—45,000 dead, 100,000 injured, and 500,000 homeless.

Storms and floods.—500 dead and 25,000 homeless.

Inhabitants of 20 villages in Western Turkey fled from flooded areas, and hundreds of others were marooned.

Dams collapsed near Kamalpasha. Streams overflowed in the Symrna region near the Turkish naval base, in the Brusa region and the Adrianopjle area of European Turkey.

Storms along the Black Sea caused great shipping damage. The 700-ton Turkish freighter Turkian sank with her crew of 20. It was feared other vessels had capsized.

Capital officials said the disasters were a severe blow to the national defence, due chiefly to the disruption of communications.

Waters Continue to Rise.

Torrential rains caused new havoc to-day, swelling flood waters through the stricken country.

Whole villages of the Brusa region in western Turkey were reported swept up by the torrents and carried into the sea of Marmora.

Some new quakes were felt in the north-eastern region which suffered devastation last week, but because of shattered communication lines it was impossible to determine whether there had been new damage.

Alberta Tragedy Kills 3 Miners New Year's Eve

CADMONIN, Alta., Jan. 2.—(CP) —This little mining village 180 miles west of Edmonton had a gloomy greeting for the New Year as three of its miner-citizens lay dead following the worst mine accident here in many years.

Rescuers recovered the bodies of Jimmy Maddams, jr., 26, John Burnside, 41, and Dan Spinazzi, 48, asphyxiated when a mine crew was trapped Saturday night in No. 5 panel of the Cadomin Coal Company's mine on the eve of the last working shift of 1939.

Fire boss Peter Nicholson, hero of an attempt to rescue members of the crew, was injured. Six miners escaped.

Nicholson suffered face and body lacerations and back injuries when he fell down a 150-foot coal shute while dragging to safety miner Hugh Docherty, who had been overcome by the gas.

Canada's Flying Aces Soon To Be In Action

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 2 — (CP). — It won't be long before Canada hears about the exploits of her daredevil native sons selected to form the first all-Canadian squadron of the Royal Air Force.

In this unnamed spot, amid the quiet and beauty of rural England, these clean-cut, eager, efficient young men are now undergoing a course of advanced training before being launched upon their active service careers to pit their skill against the foe. Every member of the squadron is a qualified pilot already, but theirs will be a job for which only the ablest are chosen. And despite their impatience to come to grips with the enemy there are certain technical detail and aerial tricks they must learn and master.

Elected After 22 Unsuccessful Attempts Candidate Dies In Hamilton Township

HARWOOD, Jan. 2.—(ENS)— Death snatched the savor of the sweetness of long deferred municipal success from A. P. Bray who collapsed and died of a heart attack in his home New Year's evening shortly after a telephone call informed him that he had been elected at the head of the council poll in Hamilton township for which he had been an unsuccessful candidate for twenty-two years.

The township election this year set out to be a contest for the reeveship between Harry L. Brisbin, who has been reeve for several years, and Charles E. Burrison, who has been Deputy-reeve for about the same time or a little longer.

And then, as an anti-climax swiftly accentuated, A. P. Bray stepped into the local spot light by heading the council poll, and while his friends were acclaiming his success at Coldsprings, the community centre of Hamilton township, came the news of his sudden death.

Wilbur Cole was elected Deputy-reeve by acclamation, a new man taking his seat in the counties council for the first time, and the results for the three council seats were:

A. P. Bray	645
Leslie Carruthers	526
J. H. Minifie	487
Herbert E. Moore	453
Merwin J. Greer	385

It was reported at Coldsprings in the evening that Mr. Bray had suffered a heart attack during the afternoon but his condition was not considered serious. His home is about one mile west of the picturesque village of Baltimore. The report of his election at the council poll was followed in less than an hour by news of his sudden death.

Friends recalled that Mr. Bray had offered himself as a candidate for the township council for twenty-two years without ever attaining the honor of election, and also that he had said that if he failed this year it would be his last.

Mr. Bray is survived by his widow and four sons and one daughter all at home.

Historic Finn Port Of Turku Badly Damaged In Red Air Raid That Misses Vital Rail Lines

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 2.—(AP) —Large sections of Turku, historic port of Southwestern Finland, lay in smoking ruins today, levelled by yesterday's Soviet Russian aerial attack.

Turko Castle, dating from the 13th century and housing one of Finland's finest museums, still was in flames. Many objects of art were removed during the raid of more than 20 planes.

The waterfront district was reported devastated.

A government spokesman said the damage was "very great," but that only two persons were reported killed and four injured.

With Soviet land forces reported stalled on the Mannerheim Line on the Karelian Isthmus, Red bombing raids were seen as reprisals for the reversals.

Turku (Abo), a city of 20,000, is the terminus for shipments of war materials from Scandinavian neighbors. Despite the bombings, the railway lines were reported undamaged.

Finns were "tightening their belts" for a prolonged winter campaign. The Smorgasboard—table of delicacies—was banished from restaurants by official decree today and it was announced that hot water would be provided for baths in homes and apartments only twice a month.

Government leaders emphasized the country was greatly in need of anti-aircraft guns and more fighting planes. They added that troop replacements also were needed.

The attack on Turku came as the Finnish army reported the destruction of a Russia motorized column of 12 cars in the Salla region just above the Arctic circle.

The town of Jyvaskyla, another railway centre about 170 miles north of Helsingfors, was bombed and 17 civilians were killed by Red army raiders, the Finns reported, and at Vaasa, action continued against remnants of the 163rd Red army division, the communique said, with more war prizes taken in the Suomussalmi region where 15,000 Soviet troops were reported virtually destroyed last week.

Seizure Of Mails Protested In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(AP).— The United States formally protested to the British government today against seizure of mail from the United States destined to Germany.

The United States government, a note to Great Britain said, "cannot admit the right of the British authorities to interefere with American mails on American or other neutral ships on the high seas nor can it admit the right of the British government to censor mail on ships which have involuntarily entered British ports."

The State Department cited four specific cases of British authorities taking around 1,250 sacks of mail and parcel post from American or neutral ships.

2nd Canadian Contingent Over Safely

"Happy New Year" Shout Troops Arriving Saturday

ALDERSHOT, Jan. 2 (CP) — In the waning hours of the old year Canada landed its second contingent on British soil and today they were "digging in" with their brothers-in-arms who preceded them by exactly a fortnight.

Unheralded, the camouflaged transports appeared out of the mists in Saturday's chill gray dawn to dock at a west coast port, and it was again Canada's day in the Mother Country.

"Happy New Year," the boys shouted. Little more than a week had elapsed since they had turned their mist-dimmed eyes eastward after watching native shores hide in winter fog.

"Happy-landing, Canada," came a greeting shout of welcome.

Amid the military formality of the landing there were informal notes as well. Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden stopped Corporal Earl Lee of the Signal Corps, Ottawa.

Corporal Lee didn't recognize Mr. Eden but he was glad to answer questions put by the welcoming Englishman.

"There seems to be a lot of big shots around here," the corporal told Mr. Eden. "I wish we could get going."

Mr. Eden smiled. "We'll do just that," he said.

Corporal Lee scratched his head later when he discovered he had been chatting with the former foreign secretary. "What a fine break that was," he commented.

Mr. Eden's voice rang out as he spoke words of welcome to the troops:—

"A nation of the new world is offering its help to challenge tyranny in the old. Your example is a guarantee of final victory, but it has been more than that. It is an inspiration to freedom-loving peoples everywhere."

Happy to Serve

Major-General A. G. K. McNaughton, commander of Canada's troops, responded:

"We are happy to be serving with you again."

Of the boys' happiness there was evidence even before the ships, escorted across the Atlantic by British and French convoys, had dock-

TORONTO—(CP) Relatives sang patriotic songs as a group of 14 Finnish residents of Canada left here by train last night to aid Finland in the fight against Russia.

"It is not hard to lead a group like this," said Johnani Kalske, unanimously chosen leader of the volunteers. "We are going because we want to and feel it is our duty. No person summoned us."

SALZBURG, Germany — (AP). — Walter Funk, president of the Reichsbank and economics minister, declared to day that Great Britain "is fighting against the principle that the workers are to share as far as possible in life's comforts."

Addressing the Reichsbank's local branch, Funk charged that Britain already is buying up much greater quantities of raw materials than are needed in the expectation that with these reserves she will be able after the war to dictate world prices.

LONDON—(CP)— Motor car sales in Great Britain have dropped two thirds since war began, figures published today by the transport ministry revealed. Only 10,070 new motor vehicles were licensed for the first time during last November, the ministry's figures showed, compared to 33,833 in November, 1938.

KIRKENES, Norway, (Near the Finnish border)—(AP) — Transporting of Russian troops southward along the Arctic highway from Finland's Petsamo region continued today, but there were no indications of fighting apparently because of subzero temperatures.

A search failed to reveal any Russian bombs yesterday's Helsingfors communique said had been dropped in Norway.

Isaac Anderson Is Belmont Reeve For 1940

HAVELOCK, Jan. 2.— (ENS)—Reeve Isaac Anderson was accorded a second term in Belmont and Methuen townships, when the municipal elections were held yesterday. Anderson scored a decisive victory over his two opponents in the spirited contest for the reeveship. With only one small poll, at Lasswade, yet to be heard from last night, he led by a substantial majority both ex-Reeve William E. Griffith and Councillor Donald Plunkett. The results received from seven polls gave Anderson a total of 288 votes, over one hundred more than Griffith with 172. Plunkett trailed with but 146.

Heading the field of seven council candidates, W. A. Floyd Steenburgh was re-elected to a second term by the largest individual vote of the day (327). Councillor Carl Purdy following closely with 320 votes to his credit, was also returned. A newcomer to municipal affairs, George Newton, was definitely conceded third place on the council, but the fourth seat was undecided with but six votes separat-welcome for the ship and crew. She will be under command of Rear Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, who directed the battle against the Graf Spee.

In the harbor Uruguay's miniature navy stood guard against a possible break for freedom by the 8,268-ton Tacoma, while officials prepared to intern her crew and dispose of the cargo of oranges, grape fruit and nuts. One possibility discussed was that the freighter would be beached.

Captain Yields Ship.

Captain Hans Know submitted yesterday to internment of his ship at expiration of a Uruguayan ultimatum which had confronted the Tacoma with a choice of taking to sea in face of British warships or becoming a prisoner for duration of the war.

The port tug boat Le Valleja with 20 naval seamen aboard laid alongside the Tacoma through the night and a naval officer kept watch aboard to see that the Tacoma's engines remained silent. With him on the ship were the captain and crew of 60.

The Acoma's wireless equipment was dismantled as a further guarantee against a break for the open sea.

The Tacoma was "interned yesterday morning on the grounds that she acted as an auxiliary for the scuttled German pocket battleship Graf Spee during an "act of war."

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The German minister to Uruguay has protested on behalf of the Reich against internment of the German steamship Tacoma by Uruguay, it was announced today.

In the German view, the Tacoma merely offered aid to the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee when the latter was scuttled—the Nazis say "shipwrecked"—and this fact does not make her a war vessel.

Only 15,400,000 People Seen In Canada By '71

HAMILTON, Jan. 2 — (CP). — A population of 15,400,000 is in prospect for Canada by 1971, providing present basic trends continue without too much interference.

Ever since the turn of the century the population has risen by a progressively slower rate. In the first decade of the century the increase was about 35 per cent. In this decade, it is a bit more than 11 per cent., and the underlying trend is likely to be downward for some time, Prof. W. B. Hurd of McMaster University says.

What strengthens Prof. Hurd's 1971 figure is the fact he gets about the same answer two different ways —either by projecting the population on a self-contained basis or including both immigration and emigration. That, he observes, suggests that the net immigration of foreign-born has been "much smaller than is commonly supposed."

Prof. Hurd's population projection, appearing in the current issue of the Canadian Journal of Economics and political science, also indicates the extent of the steady shift in age distribution. Where children under 20 were 41.64 per cent. of the population in 1931 they will be only 34 per cent. in 1971 and persons over 50 will be 25.16 per cent. compared to 16.64 per cent. in 1931.

This gradual retarding of population growth means the adaptation of an economic structure geared to rapid population expansion, Prof. Hurd points out. Business may find fewer opportunities for profitable investment. The relative importance of the capital goods industries will decline.

New Year's Toll Sees 16 Die Across Canada

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—(CP).— Sixteen violent deaths were reported in Canada during the long New Year's week-end. Nine deaths occurred in Ontario where three persons were killed in one automobile accident. Three men lost their lives in a mining tragedy in Alberta and Nova Scotia and Quebec each reported two violent deaths.

The major Ontario fatality was the death of Joseph Laronde, 48-year-old member of a prominent Sudbury family, and his twin sisters, Mrs. James Gregg, 55, of Sudbury, and Mrs. Thomas J. Lawlor, 59, of Timmins.

They were struck by an automobile driven by William Thompson of Sudbury as they stepped from their machine after it had skidded into a ditch 18 miles west of Sudbury early yesterday. Thompson was charged by Provincial Police with manslaughter.

doned any hope sof establishing a "peace bloc" in South-eastern Europe, she reportedly is doing her utmost through diplomatic channels to keep irridentist nations from taking advantage of any Russian invasion as an opportunity to grab territories on which they have a claim.

The outright declaration by Premier Tatarescu that Rumania was prepared to fight for Bessarabia coincided with reports that troops had been sent back to the province. Earlier the withdrawal of army units from the territory led to the belief that Rumania would not make any effort to hold back a Russian incursion until it reached the River Pruth.

Failure of the Red army to make any impressive progress against the Finns is believed to have been a major factor in this change of attitude. Rumanians now are of the opinion that they could hold back a Russian attack providing they had some outside assistance—munitions from Italy, for instance.

But the Rumanians are not preparing only for Russian action. Germany still has troops at their western border, and some feel that Berlin might make a stab toward Rumania's oil fields rather than risk their falling into Russian hands.

In spite of the Russo-German pact, there is belief that mutual trust between the two nations is not sufficiently strong to permit either to embark alone in any adventure in the Balkan area. Germany, with a predominant economic position in that region, would risk losing a valuable part of "living space" if the Soviet should make a successful invasion.

Turkey also stepped up defence preparations as speedily as possible in the face of devastation of large Anatolian areas by floods and earth shocks. There were unconfirmed reports from Belgrade that the Kremlin had hinted Russia would like some border rectification.

According to thi areport. Turkey has sent six army corps to posts near the border.

German Shakeup?

Paris, Jan. 2 (CP-Havas) THE newspaper Le Petit Parisien in a dispatch from Rome today said Field Marshal Herman Goering may soon replace Adolf Hitler in a German government shake-up which would be the first move in a German peace program.

Hitler would move into the honorary post of president of the Reich according to this report, and left wing Nazi officials would be thrown overboard in favor of men acceptable to the western powers.

The re-establishment of small Polish and Czech nations would be allowed under arbitration by a "great personage." Germany would abandon autoarchy and build up its commercial relations with France and Great Britain, and Russia would be kept at a certain distance."

Governor Greets 400 Troopers At Annual Levee

OTTAWA, Jan. 2—(CP)— The capital resumed its wartime routine today after a short holiday diversion and started preparing for a strenuous session of parliament opening three weeks from this Thursday.

The New Year's week-end was marked by the one official social function of the year-end holidays—the Governor General's annual levee in the hall of fame at the Parliament Buildings.

The legation receptions and the Prime Minister's "At Home" at Laurier House, usually a feature of New Year's day, were cancelled due to the war but the levee was held as usual and 900 men shook hands with Lord Tweedsmuir.

About 400 members of the defence forces were given the honor of being the first group to greet His Excellency and officers of the army, navy and air force in uniform filed

The most turbulent rivers were the Surlu, Sindshan and Adranos, which flow northward across a broad coastal plan into the sea of Marmora. At some points the flooded river spread out for 10 miles.

Some small river-bank hamlets and their inhabitants were reported to have been carried away in their entirety.

"The rivers are stretching out arms like an octopus, seizing victims," said a Turkish officer who flew over the region. In some cases the rivers seemed to have changed their courses.

Only 70 bodies have been recovered thus far.

At Kamalpasha 400 houses were swept away as most of the inhabitants perished.

All the pedigreed stallions and bulls of the famous Haras stables at Karadjabay were drowned. Thousands of cattle, sheep and goats were carried away in the flood waters of the Smyrna region on the Aegean.

The flood zone in European Turkey, near Adrianople, was still large, but rains moderated and the rise was checked.

Smith Township supplied the feature of the county elections on New Year's Day, with contests for all its municipal offices that brought an exceptionally large vote in favorable weather conditions.

Two of last year's councillors sought the Deputy-Reeve's post which went to Gilbert McIlmoyle with a majority of 407 over Wilbert Rosborough.

Eric Pearson of the Seventeenth Concession surprised the electorate by coming in as a new man for Council and rolling up 710 to lead that field, with Ernie A. Scott in second place, and Gordon Hancock third.

Four of the seevn sub-divisions gave majorities to Reeve Mann. They were Bridgenorth, his own neighborhood, Selwyn, the School at the 16th Concession, and the polling place at the service station west of Lakefield. The other three went to Mr. Fowler, Milburn's School, Young's Point, and Queen Elizabeth School just north of the city.

Trustees Fail To Attend School Meeting

DOURO, Jan. 2 — Annual chool meetings were held on Wednesday in local schools. At S.S. No. 1 James Foley was re-elected trustee, other members of the board being John Collins and Joseph Sheehan and William O'Brien, secretary-treasurer.

S.S. No. 4 probably made history or a record of some sort when all three trustees failed to attend the meeting, only four persons were on hand, hence the meeting could not be held. The 1939 board were Alphonsus Condon, James Moher and John W. Condon, the latter being the trustee whose term had expired. Edward Allen is secretary-treasurer.

At S.S. No. 5 attendance was small and the 1939 board were returned as follows: John D. Sullivan, Wilfred Kennedy and Jeremiah Mahoney, the latter being secretary-treasurer.

At S.S. No. 8, John Towns was re-elected, the other members being Joseph Maloney and Albert Moher, the latter is secretary-treasurer.

OBITUARY

MRS. HENRY RUSH

The death of Mary Bouskill, widow of the late Henry Rush, who was mayor of Peterborough about thirty years ago, occurred Sunday night at her home on McDonnel street after a short illness.

Mrs. Rush was born in Port Hope, and was in her eighty-fourth year. On October 26, 1881, she was married to Henry Rush, who is remembered not only as a former mayor of this city, but also as district manager of the Confederation Life Assurance Company for many years.

There are three members of their family surviving, one son Harry Rush, formerly manager of the Dominion Bank in Windsor, Mrs. Marion Sawers, wife of the Reverend Canon Fred J. Sawers, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Toronto, and Miss Maude Rush at home.

Mrs. Rush was a most interested member of St. John's Church and was for many years president of its Chancel Guild. Her activities were also directed toward the Red Cross Society, 57th Chapter of the I.O. D.E., and the Art Association. The funeral took place this afternoon from the family residence, 162 McDonnel street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Canon Robertson conducted the services at the home and at the grave.

MRS. GAVIN PRESTON.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 2 (ENS). — Well known in Lakefield and Smith Township where she had resided all her life, Jane Preston, wife of Gavin Preston, died at her home on Bridge Street, Lakefield early on Friday morning. A heart condition resulting from a fall some weeks ago caused her death.

Born on the farm which is now the County House of Refuge farm, nearly ninety-one years ago, Mrs. Preston had made a host of friends during her life in the community. On December 9, 1939, Mr. and Mrs. Preston observed their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The funeral, which was held from her late residence on Bridge Street was largely attended, and was in charge of Rev. J. M. Young of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of which the deceased was a member, although unable to attend regular service during the past few years.

Surviving besides her husband and one daughter Vina (Mrs. Ernest Turk) at home, is one son Walter of Smith, another son Alexander died some years ago in Vancouver.

Pall-bearers were six nephews — James Preston, Andrew Miller, Bruce Fitzgerald, Gordon Fitzgerald, Edward Preston, and Bruce Pretston.

Interment took place in Lakefield Cemetery.

Mills were credited with fairly good purchases of oats and exporters bought a little barley in an otherwise quiet coarse grain pit. Cash wheat operations were slow.

More than 30,000 women in England have volunteered for service on land.

Fenelon Brigade Hits Triple Jinx

COBOCONK, Ont., Jan. 2—(CP)—It took a triple mishap to put Fenelon Falls fire brigade out of action and complete a chain of difficulties in a $4,000 fire here Sunday.

Their truck finally got here, only to have their foot feed freeze and their hose blow out. By that time, it was too late for a bucket brigade to save a pool hall, ignited by a cigarette butt.

While the fire raged, Dr. Millyard, owner of a menaced drug store next door, suffered a severe heart attack. His building was saved.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bull of Warkworth, who recently celebrated their golden wedding at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. George Bull. (Examiner Correspondent's Photo.)

Golden Wedding Observed By Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bull

WARKWORTH, Jan. 2.—(ENS)—A happy event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bull Wednesday when they entertained about forty relatives, the occasion being the fiftieth wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bull. The honored parents were entirely taken by surprise when they learned the gathering was to celebrate their golden wedding. Christmas decorations were much in evidence. The three-storey wedding cake was beautifully decorated by their youngest daughter, Mrs. Walter Covert.

Mrs. Bull, who before her marriage was Elsie Forsyth, was one of eight children of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Forsyth and was born January 29, 1873, in Haldimand Township, near Grafton, when a child she moved with her parents to Cobourg, later coming back to Haldimand settling near Burnley. One brother, Thomas Forsyth, Havelock, is the only other member of her family that is living.

Mr. Bull is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bull and was born in Cramahe Township, November 23, 1856. At the age of twenty-six he moved to Alnwick Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Bull were married December 27, 1889, in Norwood by Rev. Carmichael, the Presbyterian minister. There were no attendants. It was a fine day and the roads were good. They travelled by horse and cutter.

Following their marriage they went to Haldimand Township where they lived for eleven years, then they moved to Bracebridge where for four years Mr. Bull worked in a saw mill. After that they came to Percy Township where Mr. Bull carried on a successful farming business. The past twelve years they have lived in Warkworth.

Eggs 10 Cents A Dozen

Mrs. Bull says that times are much different today than they were fifty years ago. She recalls selling eggs for ten cents a dozen, buying butter for a York shilling a pound and good flour for two dollars a hundred.

Mr. Bull said he received $1.60 a day and for overtime, if he worked an hour, he received a quarter day's pay and for two and three-quarter hours he received a half day's pay. A good pair of work boots could be bought for $1.50. With provisions and clothing at such low prices, they could have money on such wages.

Mr. and Mrs. Bull are among the mostly highly respected citizens of this vicinity. They are active members of the Free Methodist Church and they have always enjoyed good health.

From this union there were eight children, seven of whom are living: George, Mrs. Bruce King and Charles of Percy township, Mrs. Allan Ferguson, Mrs. Elmer Harnden and Mrs. Bruce Birney of Haldimand Township, and Mrs. Walter Covert, Warkworth.

They have nineteen grandchildren and one great grandchild, Murray King.

Mr. and Mrs. Bull were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts as well as telephone calls and many expressions of congratulations and best wishes for continued health and many more years of happiness.

Peterborough Scots Mark Coming Of The New Year

Once again local Scots celebrated the coming in of the New Year in the good old Scottish custom. Under the auspices of the Caledonian Club, about one hundred met in the Moose Hall on Hogmanay Night and spent a most enjoyable time. As this fell on Sunday night a sacred song service under the direction of A. D. Clark, with Mrs. A. H. Radford at the piano, was held from 9 to 11 p.m. Refreshments of tea, sandwiches, shortbread and cake were then served by the committee. All was then in readiness to welcome in the New Year. Before twelve o'clock the entire company rose and joined hands and, led by R. Hendry, sang "Auld Lang Syne." At twelve o'clock this refrain changed to "A Guid New Year tae ane an' a," after which the company circles the hall, wishing each other "A Happy New Year."

Dancing was then engaged in to good music supplied by the Caledonian Orchestra, and with A. Milne on the bagpipes for the reels. Favors worn by the dancers lent a bright not to the dancing, which went without a hitch under the capable management of W. Petrie, who acted as master of ceremonies. Spot dances were won by Mrs. O. Sugden and R. Welsh and Mrs. A. Jackson and P. Hutton. E. B. Julian was the lucky door-prize winner.

The following was the song service program:

"Old Hundred" and "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," by the company; solo, "Promise of Peace," by Mrs. A. H. Radford; solo, "Sweet Mystery of Life," by Miss V. Sexsmith; solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," by John Smith; reading, "Cottar's Saturday Night," by Alex. Milne; solo, "He Wipes the Tear," by R. Hendry; duet, "Sun of My Soul," by Mrs. O. Sugden and Mrs. C. Garside; solo, "My Ain Countree," by W. May. The company joined in singing several old Scotch hymns during the program. A most interesting short talk was given by the president, W. May, on Hogmanay customs and the origin of such in the Old Land. The National Anthem ended this part of the celebration. Mrs. Radford and W. Petrie, Jr., acted as accompanists on the piano.

The following were among those present: Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. W. Petrie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wyllie, Mr. and Mrs. R. Welsh (of London), Mr. and Mrs. O. Sugden, Mr. and Mrs. K. Parr of George Street United Church officiated, and Mrs. Burritt E. Kelly of Bobcaygeon, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music.

The bride's uncle, Mr. W. Smith Kelly of Toronto, gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of Chinese gold corn lace, made with a high neck line with motifs of lace, and a full skirt flowing gracefully from a moulded waistline. The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 2

WHILE this may be a particularly lively and eventful day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects, here are signs that may be read as quite dubious and unpropitious. Surprising angles may develop which may signify fluctuating fortunes and adverse experiences. It will be difficult to predict where to place trust under certain treacherous circumstances, so in all be discreet and vigilant. Social, domestic and emotional matters may flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of uncertain and fluctuating fortunes, with unpredictable events or adventures having doubtful bearing on the favorable trend of affairs. There are signs of intrigue and duplicity, so it might be wise to take all proffers of friendship with a "grain of salt." Circumspect and prudent conduct is admonished in affairs generally, although in social, domestic and sentimental relations there are signs of gratification and happiness.

A child born on this day may be many-sided, studious and resource-

Made a Wise Selection

Being in a municipal council and thus identified with public life is generally an asset at election time; not only here but elsewhere. Ald. Cotton has been "in" for a long time and he was first selection; Ald Stocker and Ald. G. N. Gordon are back. The new members are Fred Roy and W. G. Ovens, and in both cases the voters made good choice. The new men are exactly the type of citizen which should be in council.

The passing of the bylaw for the issuing of debentures for the construction of the London Street bridge can be regarded as the first step in cleaning up a situation which has been shoved about for too long. The money for that bridge was actually provided years ago, but it eventually found its way into the construction of the Hunter Street bridge. There was an obligation there and we hope it will soon be set right. The Municipal Board will still have to give its sanction, and there is no reason to believe such sanction will be denied.

Actually there was nothing which could be termed an "issue" before the electors. It was regarded as a routine matter of electing five aldermen, and such a condition is one which will cause people who should vote to stay at home and allow those who will to go forth and render the decision.

In 1936 there was a mayoralty contest on, and that year R. M. Glover polled 4,717 as the high aldermanic score. This year the high vote was for Ald. Cotton with 2,396.

After going through the 1940 civic election and seeing to what a minor extent it disturbed the city, one cannot but wonder again what ground provincial authorities have for claiming municipal elections should now cease until the end of the war. Certainly there was not a thing in the contest in this city on Monday which would have interfered with the war effort of the city, the province or the Dominion. If the Provincial authorities are well advised they will drop their strange idea and allow municipalities to attend to their own affairs.

It Is Freedom's Battle

The use of many maps today makes it easier to understand just what is going on in the war zone. Arrows point to where an attack is being made, and other arrows can just as readily point to where an attack has been repulsed.

When it was stated that Russia was sending a division to try and cut through the "waist" of Finland that was all explained by maps. Like trying to drive straight across the middle of the country so that supplies could not be brought in from the north. Possibly the Russians considered that would be a good plan to follow. There are roughly 50 times more Russians than Finns, so it looked as though the thing could be done. But is wasn't. The Russians were badly beaten and much equipment was taken by the Finns and the troops were killed in large numbers. It was an utter failure.

The world looks on and wonders how it could be done. Perhaps it is well to look elsewhere for the explanation. We have noticed several despatches from points in Canada and United States and they have all told the same thing. Finns were quitting their jobs and they were taking the first boat which would bring them close to their home. These men are not reservists who are being called up, but they are mightily interested in Finland. Most of them have relatives there; their parents may still be living, and above all they speak of the independence which Finland gained a few years ago as being something which they consider to be the greatest thing in the world. So they pack up and leave and friends provide assistance for their passage.

We have yet to read of one case where a son of Russia has been doing anything of that nature. Nor do we learn of Russian bodies expressing hope that their native land may be successful in the conquest of Finland or any other place. They are peculiarly quiet. Even the Communists are not evenly mildly vocative.

It must be that what is taking place outside of Finland—in Canada and United States and elsewhere—explains what is taking place in Finland today. The people of Russia cannot feel toward Russia as the people of Finland feel toward Finland. The Finns appear to love their country, and they are going of their own free will to defend it and if necessary to die for it. The people in Russia do not feel that way about it. Not at all. They march off to the front because they have to and not because they want to.

How long Finland can keep up this terrific struggle against such tremendous adverse odds in strength we do not know. But at the moment one of the most noble of all world epics is being written in Finland. If democracy and the future of a free people is to continue in existence, then the stage is set right there for the decisive encounter. If the world—and that includes Canada—can do anything to assist Finland in the struggle against Russia—then it is an investment in freedom. We believe United States is ready to give of her great strength, and that nation should not stand too rigidly on the manner or measure of her contribution. Finland wants armament more than she needs money and food. And Finland should get everything she can be given. That little nation is fighting the world's battle of freedom.

Leaving Others To Pay

The driver of a car from Haliburton entered Peterborough by No. 7 Highway. That would bring him down the Reid street hill. When reaching the intersection of McDonnel street the driver turned into a gas station, but the brakes on the car were useless, the result being he smashed into a gas pump and did damage which was said to amount to $700.

The driver appeared in city court and was charged with driving without adequate brakes, and the fine was $15 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail. The latter option was selected as the car owner said he had no money to pay the fine and costs.

That leave the damage to the gas station to be dealt with and it amounted to something like $700. Certainly a man with insufficient money to pay a fine is hardly the individual to step up and attend to the $700 situation. The gas station may carry insurance against such loss; that we do not know, and it does not in the least alter the situation.

According to information coming to this office the owner of the car carried no insurance against property damage. Often enough there is a renewed demand for drivers of cars to be sufficiently insured, but nothing has ever come of it. It would not make better drivers, but it would make sure that drivers who smashed into this and that would have made provision for paying the damage which they inflict. The case under review is a fair sample of any number of others where it is possible for an individual to go out with a car and inflict damage for which he cannot pay, and we cannot see where either justice or fairness lies in that direction.

An Election Tragedy

The strangest story from the district elections on New Year's Day was the one from Hamilton township, on the south side of Rice Lake. Hamilton is quite an important township. It extends from Rice Lake down to Lake Ontario, and it has sent to the counties council at Cobourg such men as the late Tom Davidson, Wm. J. Jibb, Wilbert Davey, a recent Warden, and many other prominent farmers.

A. P. Bray was a farmer living west of the little hamlet of Baltimore! For twenty-two years he had offered his services as a candidate for the township council, and year after year he had been turned back until he said just a few days ago at the nominations that if he failed this time it would be his last attempt. After all that trying no one could question the sincerity of Mr. Bray's desire to become a member of the Council, and to have a hand in the affairs of his township. A lot of ratepayers must have had the thought that it was time to give Mr. Bray his chance, for they elected him at the head of the council. It wasn't much he had asked from an unkindly fate. Some farmers who have been through the mills might have advised him that at best it is a thankless job. Obviously, Mr. Bray must have kept it before him as an ambition which he thought might yet become a reality, and then in the hour of its attainment this little success fell from his hands. The man who at last was elected to the township council and at the head of the polls was dead within the hour that the news had gone abroad.

He was stricken with a heart attack, silencing the good report, so long belated, that had just come to him, and today there can be only deep pity in the hearts of hundreds of Hamilton township men where there would have been congratulations warmed by self-satisfaction for having given A. P. Bray his due. That grim story from an Examiner correspondent reads like a page out of Greek tragedy.

A Chapter Of Horror

It may be the world has had its attention so focused on the war front of Europe that there has not been time to pay heed to the earthquake in Turkey, and it takes its place as one of the major disasters of the century.

Men of science report the disturbance took place at least 16 miles below the surface of the earth, and they are not at all certain the shaking will not be repeated before final settling down has been made possible.

The earth shook there and it split open, while in other places it heaved upward. It toppled over homes and factories and anything which happened to have been erected at the point of disturbance. It killed people by thousands and wounded others. In centres of population it was followed by fire.

In Anatolia it is cold, as much as 22 below zero, and there are snow banks and drifts there through which trains cannot make their way. There is no place to take the wounded because hospitals and hotels have been wrecked. There are in many places no supplies of food because stores have been smashed. We learn there are few who are available to care for the injured because there is no place to take them and no person who knows how to attend to injured people.

Relief parties report they have abandoned the effort to reach certain sections because trains cannot go through on account of the excessive snow and mountain slides. One such train reached Erzerum with the assistance of snow plows and the help of 10,000 soldiers who helped cut a path through the snow blockade.

Injured people remain huddled in the ruins of what were formerly their homes; there is no heat; there is none to help, and the weather remains far below zero, and each day sees the snow heavier. If human helplessness and grief ever plumbed the bottom of its capacity for endurance it is doing so in quake-shaken Turkey.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A taxi driver in Oshawa was robbed of his car and $7 by a man with a gun. We seem to have people generally pretty well under control while the man with the gun runs loose.

Thieves robbed a restaurant in Vancouver and took $1,000 from the cashier. In the early days of that place the man who owned a restaurant used to wait on table and carry the change in his pocket.

Scapa Flow is large enough to hold all the navies of the world. Might be a good place to put them, then close the gate and proceed on the old basis of "may the best man win."

Police raided a farm house near London, Ont., and found about $4,000 worth of goods there, rather disproving the claim that there is not wealth in the country. The only trouble was—the goods were stolen.

One writer telling of the earthquake in Turkey referred to the way in which iron water pipes were twisted "like soda straws." As a bit of illustrative writing that was rather good.

Sam Hynds, now 78 and still working, has been in the composing room of the Toronto Telegram for 51 years, and in that time he has probably seen almost a complete change in equipment and personnel.

Strikers from a textile firm in Brantford are going back to work after being out more than four weeks, and they receive a 5 per cent. increase. If they were receiving say $60 per month, they will now get $63, but at that rate it will take them 20 months to win back the month which they lost. That is the unfortunate part of a strike. Even when workers win an increase to which they are entitled it has to be paid for by the time lost in winning the strike.

VISITORS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Once more the sparrows visit me, they sit upon my naked tree, 'tis cold upon their feet; I have a notion why they come, they're looking for a crust or crumb, or something they can eat.

¶ I never see them in the Spring, they turn me down like anything, they have no use for me; it's pleasant then out in the yard, nor is the ground so very hard, it's cheerful as can be.

¶ And when the Summer days are here, I never see a sparrow near, I don't know where they go; their fancy calls them off elsewhere, for me they've not an hour to spare, don't think it should be so.

¶ And even when the Fall days come, of sparrows I see never one, they snub me day by day; I never found out where they stayed, what sort of living they had made, they never come to stay.

¶ But when it comes to Winter time, they sit upon the washing line, they roost upon my tree; they seem to think that I should run, and bring to them a bouncing bun, that's how they look on me.

¶ It's no use getting mad I guess, 'twould make them like me less and less, I think they're hungry too; I'll raid the bread box as I go, and toss them something on the snow—the least that I can do.

Finns Capital Most Northerly City In World

("Public Opinion" Summary)

"BALTIC Roundabout," by Bernard Newman, appears at an appropriate moment. The first section of this travel book deals with Finland, and the author gives a study of the land, its history and people, which at this juncture will appeal to the man who reads his newspapers and likes to put on his library list any volume which is vital and topical. "Baltic Roundabout" is just such a book.

"They call Helsinki the 'White City of the North,' presumably because of the greater part of the city is built of Finnish granite of a warm pink shade," writes Mr. Bernard Newman. "'Of the North,' however, certainly places Helsinki—it is the most northerly capital in the world. In spite of that, its summer mean temperature is higher than that of London!

"In its aspect Helsinki is American rather than European. There is nothing ancient about it—any house a hundred years old is a great curiosity. For the original city was, of course, built of wood, and was burned down with consistent regularity. Yet from this troubled history Helsinki draws one advantage — wide streets, originally designed so that flames should not leap them.

"The greater part of the city stands on an irregular promonotory; and water scenes are almost as inevitable as in Stockholm. The market square is on the harbor front, a colorful setting for a city approach. Behind are some of the official buildings, and to the right the Russian church with its bulbous domes. I called in at a service, and but a few dozen people were spread over its vast expanse. They told me that even in Helsinki's Russian days, when there were lots of the Tsar's officials, even if all the Russians had gone to church at the same time it would still have been far too big!

"I wandered off the main streets. The buildings were in regular blocks, American fashion. There were few individual houses, and no semi-detached villas. Most of the population live in modern blocks of flats. Very modern!

"The Finns have the Scandinavian love of sculpture. What is more, it is intelligible architecture: even I recognize the sculptor's intent. There is a famous statue, "The Three Blacksmiths." There are three blacksmiths in the statue, hitting something on an anvil. They are hefty, husky blacksmiths — perfect specimens of their kind, except that for some unaccountable reason the sculptor has omitted to provide them with any clothes."

WHEN Mr. Bernard Newman was in Finland it was Germany which was feared and there were no signs of conflict with Russia.

"Because," says the author, "up to twenty years ago, Finland was part of Russia, there is a tendency to regard it as a primitive country of eastern civilization. This is utterly erroneous. Finland lay under the Russian yoke for little more than a hundred years, and its culture is of the west, its affinities are with Sweden rather than Russia.

"If anyone doubts the flimsy character of the Russian grip on Finland," Mr. Bernard Newman goes on to say, "proof is to be found in the surprising fact that the Finns were exempt from conscription in the Russian Army! Instead, the Russians had to maintain considerable garrisons in Finland during the World War.

"The confusion of the Russian Revolution had its repercussions in Finland. There were considerable elements which viewed with sympathy the efforts of the proletariat to overthrow the hated Tsarist regime, while the Swedish Finns and the propertied classes were all for independence.

"On December 6th, 1917, a declaration of independence was made, confirmed by the Treaties of Brest-Litovsk. At first sight, however, it appeared that Finland had merely exchanged one overlord for another; Germany made no secret of her expectations that Finland should act as an ally.

"For a while the country was ravaged by civil war. The Russian garrisons, now organized as 'Red Guards,' attempted the reconquest of Finland for Communism. A 'White' army under General Mannerheim was hastily formed; Sweden refused to help, but Germany sent a strong force. After weeks of desultory but sanguinary fighting—with 'Red' terrors and 'White' terrors, involving the massacre of fifteen thousand men, women and children—the Russians were driven out, and Finland settled down to its new independence.

"This German military assistance led to important results—statesmen naturally like people who help them. The Germans have known how to trade on the assistance given to Finland.

"I noticed many German wreaths on the war memorial in Helsinki, and a great reluctance to discuss Hitler....

"At the same time, it is absurd to imagine that Finland today is a subservient State of Germany. On the contrary, although Finland has no military commitments, her only external treaty (apart from very sensible arbitration conventions with the Scandinavian States) is with Estonia, Latvia and Poland, 'to observe benevolent neutrality if any of these States should be attacked without provocation, and to consult immediately with regard to subsequent action.' This may have been directed at Russia when it was signed, but today it is pointed against Germany."

DELAYED

"I don't think I'll bother about the war just yet. Come back for me when they're calling up the forty-fours."

—Humorist.

• How Fast Does Your Car Go?

A SURVEY of the driving habits of motorists made by Yale University yielded interesting information. It revealed that of 700 drivers who had travelled 100 miles and still had another 100 miles and still had another 100 to go, their speed averaged better than 46 miles an hour. Of the drivers who had driven less than 20 miles and still had 20 or fewer miles to go, the speed averaged less than 40.5 miles.

While the disposition of most persons is to be careful of borrowed things, not so with motorists. Investigation of ten different age groups disclosed that in all cases except those past 60, the borrowers drove faster than the owners. It works out this way: The speed of the average car owner is 43.9 miles per hour. His son averages 44 miles. Other relatives go at a rate of 42.5. But friends who use the car hit it up at 45.6.

There seems to be a regular falling off in speed as the age of the auto goes up. For a little more than a year the travelling is at the rate of 60 miles an hour. Then up to about two and one-half years it is lowered to 40. Cars above three years in use go along at less than 40 and more than 30, while the four-year-olds keep between 20 and 29 miles an hour.

Men from 35 to 39 are the ones who push the car fastest. The low speed for this group is 20.3, while the top is 72 miles an hour, which works out for an average of 45.3. But the men from 60 to 69 are not so far behind them. Their range is from 24.9 to 72, with an average of 42.5 All of the speeds were checked without knowledge of the drivers that they were being clocked, and then a mile away they were stopped and the data written on question blanks.

Such information as this may have some bearing on the problem of accidents, and it gives all car owners and drivers some facts to mull over. —Sarnia Canadian Observer.

• Making The Right Use Of Words

TO THE EDITOR of The Globe and Mail: A Toronto daily published an editorial Saturday, Dec. 23, under the heading, "Strange Misuse of English Words." The editorial referred to the misuse of the word "transpire." Quoting from the Oxford Dictionary, it showed that "transpire" is misused for "to occur—to happen." It was also intimated that "transpire" is the equivalent of "perspire."

Though readers are interested in the right use of words and likely pleased with the editorial, it may be said that when a person sees a man sweating, on a hot summer day, it might not be best to tell him that he is transpiring when he believes he is perspiring (sweating).

The word "transpire," which improperly used for "to happen or occur," is properly used when it means that something has gradually become known, leaked out, as it were, from secrecy into public optics through unnoticed channels. Seeing that the editor referred to above wrote about transpire, as used improperly, perhaps he might take time to advise writers and speakers about other words that are often misused.

"Caption," for example, should not be used when one is referring to the heading of an article. A good dictionary states that "the use of 'caption' in the sense of heading is laughable and absurd" The one who employs "caption" for "heading" may not know that his use of the former word manifests an affectation for a big-sounding, classical word that indirectly discloses his ignorance of both classics and English. "Caption," in good English usage, means seizure or the act of taking under legal authority. It is derived from the Latin capio, to seize, and not from caput, the head.

As regards the pronunciation of words, authoritative dictionaries, both in Great Britain and the United States, give the pronunciation of schedule as "sked-yul" in preference to "shed-yul," and of often as "ofen," not "oft-en." Either and neither are words that are pronounced differently in different places. While the continued use of words in localities establishes their meaning and pronunciation, still those in common use should not be changed haphazardly. We have enough of big "I's" in the world without reminding us of them in either and neither.

In seeking the meaning and pronunciation of words, we should not think that the Oxford Dictionary is an infallible guide. In the dictionary world we do not want too much of a German flavor. If we keep changing pronunciations we may find ourselves pronouncing school as shu-el.

TED V. MOEN.

• And They Call This All-American

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI, noted English-born leader of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, has undertaken to form an All-American symphony orchestra for a tour of South American republics. Presumably Mr. Stokowski is an American citizen, else his position as conductor of an All-American orchestra would be an invidious one. But the names and birthplaces of most of the musicians comprising the great American orchestras in Cleveland, Detroit, Boston, New York and elsewhere are very un-American. The fact is that nearly all the personnel of the American symphony orchestras, most of the concert artists who sing or play, and most of the stars of the Metropolitan and other opera companies are foreign or of foreign descent, as are most of the leading teachers in the schools of music.

A large Canadian and American audience listens with pleasure every Sunday afternoon to the two-hour broadcasts of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. It used to be conducted by the famous Italian, Arturo Toscanani, who was succeeded by John Barbirolli, who was born in England of an Italian father and French mother. But out of about 100 instrumentalists the number who bear real English or American names could be numbered on the fingers of one hand. At the risk of making an enemy for life of one of our linotype operators, says St. Thomas Times-Journal, we spend a list of the Philharmonic musicians, although he may be consoled by the fact that if he spells some of the names wrong none of our readers will be any the wiser. We print them in any order they come without specifying what instruments they play:

M. Piastro, J. Corigliano, A. Lichstein, A. Gerardi, M. Muscanio, J. Fishberg, L. A, D'Amico, R. Velten, L. Busch, S. Barozzi, M. Borodkin, I. Pogany, A. Schuller, A. Neveux, L. Sherman, B. Schenk, L. Dubensky, A. Ribarsch, A. Stirn, Z. Kurtny, J. Vieland, A. Koszegi, S. Lipschitz, B. Bardos, T. Fishberg, N. Dinger, W. Feder, A. Guidi, R. Stehl, M. Ormandy, M. Calati, C. Van Kopenhagen, H. Van Praag, A. Bass, B. Schlossberg, J. Amans, A. Ghignatti, J. Fabrizio, E. F. Wagner, B. Labate, E. Brenner, G. Apchain, B. Kohon, S. Koyar, R. Sensale, E. Jaenicke, S. Richart, A. Schulz, L. Ricci, R. Schulze, B. Vanni, S. Goodman, A. Rich, S. Borodkin, R. Ketz, T. Cella, Miss D. Ostrowska, R. Henkle, G. Rabinowitz, D. Rosensweig, I. Strassner, J. Gewirtz, M. de Stefano, A. Belfer, A. Dubensky, R. Heinz, W. Dembinsky, M. Kreiselman, L. Fishzohn, J. Reilich, A. Lora, M. Dayan, M. Tartas, W. Gray, M Barr, G. Imparto, D. Katz, G. Harnish, J. Schuster, J. Emonts, A. Fortier, J. de Angelis, D. Rybb, E. Zickler, M. Tivin, H. Jenkel, E. Zimmerman, R. Brennand, M. Nazzi, S. Bellison, O. Conrad, A. Williams, E. Roelofsma, H. Glantz, N. Prager, W. Vacchiano, M. Falcone, G. Lucas, A. Clarke, L. Strafford, M. Mauro-Cottone.

If Mr. Stokowski should be seeking an orchestra with American names he will have a hard job to gather a sufficient number from all the leading orchestras put together, albeit most of the musicians are today American citizens.

However, the orchestras are no worse than the All-American football teams.

HELP FOR FINLAND

IF THE Allied Supreme Command decides, as seems likely, to give aid to Finland, the people of the British Empire will applaud. Because if this war means anything, if it purpose is to stop aggression against small nations, the Allies can't watch in technical or other neutrality the crucifixion.

All the more so, seeing that Finland is so gallantly showing herself to be worthy of freedom. Not often in history has any people put up a more heroic resistance against overwhelming odds. Less than four million all told, the Finns are meeting the full weight in steel of 190,000,000 people—and not unsuccessfully. In the end, they may lose, but whether they go down or not the heroism of their struggle will not be lost. They are teaching tyrants that men who love freedom will fight for it, and that, in the long run, aggression cannot pay.—Ottawa Journal.

PRONOUNCE "OFTEN"

(Frank Colby in New York Post)

OFTEN: Adv. Frequently; many times. Do not say "OFF-ten."

Recently published American dictionaries show often and soften with the "t" silent as in listen, fasten, hasten. However, the new Webster's has this footnote under often: "The pronunciation 'of-ten,' until recently generally considered more or less illiterate, is not uncommon among the educated in some sections, and is often used in singing." But the pronunciation with the "t" silent is clearly indicated as the better usage.

The admonition to omit the "t" sound is cleverly contained in a memory verse found in C. A. Lloyd's "We Who Speak English."

If your speech you would soften,
Be sure to say "of'n,"
For in this particular word,
As in "castle" and "listen,"
And others like "glisten,"
The "t" should be seen but not heard.

The "o" in the first syllable has the "aw" sound as in law, paw, saw. Correct pronunciation: AWF-en.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Now about the midst of the feast Jesus went up into the temple, and taught. And the Jews marvelled, saying, How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?

Jesus answered them, and said, My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me. If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself. He that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.—John vii, 14-18.

TO TAKE A VOTE

A PETITION will be circulated in Halifax, according to provisions of the Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act, demanding a plebiscite to determine whether or not beer or wine shall be sold by the glass in this city.

Restlessness under the present system has existed for many years. The demand for a change, however, crystallized because of war conditions. A citizens' committee, convened by the board of trade, decided that the presence of visiting service men in the city creates an added demand for facilities where beer and wine may be bought by the glass.

The committee's view is that these service men come from provinces, states, and countries where it is legal to buy a glass of beer or wine. The men are accustomed to such a system. They expect something similar here. If they are unable to obtain beer or wine legally—and that is difficult for the service men under our present system—they will seek illegal substitutes.—Halifax Chronicle.

SHOULD ANSWER

MRS. ROOSEVELT says that 4,000,000 young people out of school and out of work are potential menaces to their communities and that something must be done to find jobs for them.

She reports that in her travels about the United States, boys and girls constantly say to her, "How can I get a job?"

President Roosevelt's policies and methods of administration have been largely instrumental in producing this situation.

Those policies and methods have harassed and obstructed, and in some instances, destroyed job producing private enterprise.

They have been responsible for wholly needless labor disputes and strikes, and for strife among wage earners themselves.

For more than seven years they have kept unemployment at a depression level.

Mrs. Roosevelt should refer those who question her to her husband for an answer.

And the questioners should say to Mr. Roosevelt: "Why have you a man we trusted, dealt so with us?"—Detroit Free Press, Rep.

In Reverse

She: "Here's a wonderful thing. I've just been reading of a man who reached the age of forty without learning how to read or write. He met a woman, and for her sake he made a scholar of himself in two years."

He: "That's nothing! I know a man who was a profound scholar at forty. He met a woman, and for her sake he made a fool of himself in two days."

Traits In Boys, That Girls Should Watch For: The Handsome One, The Great Lover, The Lout, The Egotist, The Fresh Guy, The Patronizer—Any One Of Them Makes a Poor Husband.

DEAR MISS DIX—We were much interested in your classification of the different types of girls and their matrimonial ratings. Now please give us the different types of boys and their ratings. — A GROUP OF GIRLS.

ANSWER:

Well, to begin with, there is Handsome, with soulful eyes and wavy hair, which may have been the gift of God or merely acquired at the beauty shop. He is dangerous only to very young girls and middle-aged women who fall for him like ripe wheat before the scythe. The in-between women are immune to him because he seldom has an idea under his curls and is generally sickeningly vain.

He is a bad matrimonial risk because he will spend his time posing around before mirrors instead of working. He will monopolize all of the family's clothes budget and let his wife go dowdy. His wife will pass her days fighting off other women and she will have to go through life listening to people say behind her back: "What on earth do you suppose made that handsome man marry that frumpy little woman?"

There is the lad who is the Great Lover. He believes himself irresistible to women and that he has a faultless sentimental technique. So five minutes after you have met him he goes into his act. He will ask you, in a voice surcharged with wonder and pathos, where you have been all this time that he has never met you before. Then he will mention your different features in laudatory terms and wind up by assuring you that, though this may seem to you sudden, he is deathlessly in love with you because he realizes that in you he has found his ideal that he has long sought.

Matrimonially, the Great Lover rates along with the cat-and-dog stocks. Fun for a brief whirl, if you can afford to lose what you put in, but not to be considered for a permanent investment. For the man who fancies himself as a lovemaker will never confine his talents to home work. He will always be hunting up a new audience before whom to display his gifts.

There is the Egotist, the chap whose whole interest in life is himself, whose sole topic of conversation is how good-looking and smart and wonderful he is and how much everybody admires him. Every girl he meets is trying to marry him. Every employer is on his knees offering him a marvelous job at a fabulous salary. And the only reason he isn't President of the United States is because he doesn't care for politics. I'd rate the Egotist as subzero in the matrimonial market, because being bored to death is such a lingering and painful way to pass out. Chief among the martyrs are the wives who have had to listen to their windbag husbands talk about themselves for thirty or forty years at a stretch.

There is the Lout, the boy who considers good manners and a chivalrous attitude toward women excess baggage. He thinks he is being witty when he says rude and insulting things to girls. He criticizes them to their faces and tells them what he thinks of their clothes and their hair-dos and that they look like heck in their new hats. He stands girls up on engagements and gets a kick out of knowing that they are spending the evening at home all dolled up waiting in vain for him.

The Lout makes the kind of husband who, in the lower brackets, beats his wife and kicks her around and, in the higher brackets, says things to her that stab her to the heart and make her wonder why she was fool enough even to invest a single nickel in him.

There is the Fresh Guy who thinks that every girl should pay for a 5-cent soft drink with $5 worth of petting. And there is the Tightwad who eats at a girl's house and rides in her car and goes to places where she buys the tickets, but who never spends a cent on her. And there is the Patronizer who looks down on all women and derides their intelligence. All of these rate about 10 cents a dozen as husbands, and a bad bargain at that.

And there is the nice, clean, modest, manly youth who treats a girl as he would want other boys to treat his sister. He is the man for your money. He is a gilt-edge investment and he will pay big dividends in happiness to the woman who marries him.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—About six months ago a young woman with two small children moved into our neighborhood. She is very charming and my husband and I have seen a great deal of her, but now trouble has come between us on account of her children. I have beautiful furniture and try to keep it as nice as possible, but when these youngsters come over they simply wreck everything in the house. I have asked their mother to restrain them, but she thinks I am a crank about such matters because I have no children of my own. When I told her that I don't want her to bring the children over any more she quit speaking to us. This hurts me terribly and it must hurt her, too, as she has no other friends. Other people have dropped her for the same reason that I have. —HEART-SICK.

ANSWER:

Many of us have had to choose between a cherished friend and her hoodlum children and our household goods. And it is no reflection on our taste and judgment that most of us choose our furniture and let the friend go. Because any woman who in a civilized country brings up her children to be savages, without any regard for the rights and property of others, is lacking in all sense of justice, in all consideration for the feelings and comfort of others, of every quality that goes to the making of a lasting friendship.

No matter how delightful and charming a woman may be individually, if she lets her children play circus with the chairs whose needlepoint covers you spent years in making; if she lets them smash your china and glass and draw pictures with a pin on your mahogany tables, you naturally are not willing for her to bring her brigands into your house. You can't afford it.

Yet mothers seem to think that you won't mind having your place wrecked if their little Johnny and Sally did it. It is nothing but laziness that makes mothers let their children grow up without being trained to respect furniture and to handle delicate objects with care. And, little as mothers suspect it, they are judged by their children's manners—which is something for mothers to bear in mind.

DOROTHY DIX.

Thanks the Ratepayers

For electing him to the City Council, and at the same time wishes to advise the persons, who so thoroughly circulated the story among the Ashburnham ratepayers that he was opposed to the building of the London street footbridge, that the statement was entirely without foundation. These persons should blame the Municipal Act, which requires a money by-law to be voted upon by the ratepayers, who are the owners of property, and should not place the responsibility upon him, because the Ontario Government passed the Municipal Act.

For Wednesday, January 3.

JUDGING by the influence of the dominant planets, this may be a day of great agitation, turmoil and drastic action, probably directed toward the breaking up of old stagnations or the removal of tenacious obstacles. Much strenuous energy may be brought to bear on frustrating circumstances, in which intrigue or treachery may have a strong part.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a rather strenuous and confusing year, with much aggressive action brought to bear on static and difficult situations. It will be necessary to probe deep in order to get at the root of frustrating circumstances, frought with duplicity and intrigue. Tact, even stratagem or compromise, accompanied by quick action and a grasp of tricky situations, may lead to a modicum of success in removing impediments and clearing the way for future constructive programs.

A child born on this day, although impetuous and high strung, with much desire for strenuous action, at the same time may be deep, critical, melancholy and easily discouraged.

Make All-Bran Muffins a "REGULAR" Habit

● Many women make it a point to have All-Bran muffins on the table at every breakfast, because so many people need just that much added "bulk" in their diet to keep "regular." Here's how to make:

BASIC BRAN MUFFIN RECIPE

2 tablespoons shortening	¼ cup milk
¾ cup sugar	1 cup flour
1 egg	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran	2½ teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until creamy. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes.

Yield: 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter) or 12 small muffins (2¼ inches in diameter).

Be sure you use Kellogg's All-Bran, because it has the right taste and texture to make delicious muffins. Also you know that it is an effective source of "bulk" and the intestinal tonic vitamin B1.

Firemen's Annual New Year's Ball

Large numbers of Peterborites selected the Canadian Legion Hall as the burial ground for 1939 and the place to welcome 1940. Because it wa sthe scene of the Firemen's annual ball, it was one of the gayest spots in town. Jimmie Duffus' popular orchestra provided lively music for the dancing, which commenced shortly after twelve, and the floor was continually packed with merry couples. Red, white and blue were colors smartly carried out in decorations, and at the back of the orchestra stand a large electric sign blazoned forth the numbers, "1940" as the hands of the clock met at the top of its face. Party favors and noisemakers of all kinds added to the deafening welcome given the new year as the guests seemed to throw away all the troubles that may have been theirs during the old, and stretched welcome hands and shouted greetings to the new.

ANNOUNCEMENT

CENTRAL FINANCE CORPORATION CHANGES NAME AND OFFERS NEW LOAN PLAN

Name of Canada's largest personal loan company changed to HOUSEHOLD FINANCE CORPORATION OF CANADA

Loans of $20 to $500 now made on convenient "fit-your-budget" plan

Central Finance Corporation — Canada's oldest and largest personal loan company — has just changed its name to Household Finance Corporation of Canada. As Household Finance, the company offers the same helpful service as in the past, plus a wider range of loans and a more convenient payment plan. There has been no change in management or personnel. The 15 Household Finance branches in 11 Ontario cities will continue to be managed and staffed by Canadian residents.

You are invited to apply at your nearest Household Finance branch for a loan of $20 to $500 on Household's new "fit-your-budget" plan. You borrow without endorsers or guarantors. You repay in monthly instalments that fit your own budget. You may repay in small instalments or, if you prefer, in larger instalments and thus reduce charges.

Choose your own payment schedule

Suppose you need $100 to pay up overdue bills, get medical or dental service or meet some other emergency. You find $100 in the first column of the loan table. Then you read across, picking out the monthly payment that best suits your budget. You will see, for instance, that 12 monthly payments of $9.46 each will repay your loan in full. Or, if you prefer smaller payments, $7.78 per month for 15 months will also repay a loan of $100.00.

$16.70 a month repays $150 loan in 10 months

Perhaps you need more than $100 to take care of your problem — say $150. You find $150 in the first column and read across. You find, for instance, that 10 monthly instalments of $16.70 each will repay a $150 loan in full.

Choose the loan you need (from $20 to $500) and then select the payment you can conveniently make out of your regular monthly income. Note how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. Four monthly instalments of $26.26 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. The total cost of your loan in this case is only $5.04. (In all cases the payments shown in the table include all charges.)

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. No credit questions are asked of friends or relatives, and you don't have to ask friends, employers or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly, privately and without embarrassment.

Every day, people in all walks of life find in Household Finance service an answer to their emergency money problems. Operating as Central Finance Corporation, the company made, during the past 7 years, over 225,000 loans, totalling more than $38,000,000. If you need money to pay past-due bills, for medical or dental service, buy necessities for your family—or for any other worthy purpose—you are invited to apply for a loan without obligation. Phone or visit us today.

Military training is going ahead full speed in Australia as Aussie soldiers pour into training camps to brush up on their war tactics. These soldiers are shown waiting cheerfully for orders as to where to pitch their tents. They will ultimately reach the European battlefront, to fight side-by-side with the Tommies and poilus.

division 28, was close behind and the rest were nowhere with Charles Holland bringing up the rear with 351, more than 2,000 votes behind Ald. Cotton's poll-topping figure.

It was a light vote throughout the city. Ald. Cotton's 2,396 was less than half a record polled by R. M. Glover when he headed the polls in 1936 with 4,717 and well below Ald. Glover's 3,300 in 1936. Last year Ald. Herb. McCannan headed the list with 2,606 votes.

The results were never in doubt after the first few polls had reported. The returns were taken by Deputy City Clerk E. A. Outram, stationed in the tax collector's office, and the first poll to report No. 33 at McCormick's store, Water street north, at 5:07 gave an accurate indication of the final returns. Poll II at the city hall came in a moment after telling the same story and when the trend was shown unchanged by the next four or five reports, it was clear that Ald. Cotton would head the polls and that the election of Ald. Gordon and Stocker and of Fred L. Roy and W. G. Ovens was assured. The only thing left to be determined was the positions of the other four successful candidates and that had to be determined by the last few reports received. Complete returns were all in and tabulated before 7 o'clock, one of the earliest closings on record.

Only a small coterie of citizens gathered in the city buildings to hear the results. Included in the number were three former mayors, W. H. Bradburn, Roland Denne and J. J.

The results of the Lasswade poll may possibly make a change in this standing. The two remaining candidates, Frank Sopha and Thomas Bannon, both former councillors, were considerably below the rest with 178 and 161 votes respectively.

Reeve Anderson and several of the candidates addressed a meeting of the citizens held last evening in the township hall, at the conclusion of which an impromptu dance was enjoyed by all.

Emphasizing the democratic nature of this function, which had its origin in New France when the Governor stood on the street in Quebec and shook hands with all who came to meet him, silk hats were largely dispensed with. Many men paid their complements to the King's representative dressed in their business suits.

Mr. Mackenzie King headed the list of visitors who shook the Governor's General's hand and then the Prime Minister went to the railway committee room and greeted those who came in to see him.

All the representatives of foreign governments attended the levee and members of the various war missions now in Ottawa also were present. The Prime Minister set a precedent after the levee by visiting various messes of units of the armed forces in the city, this included the Royal Canadian Air Force mess at Rockcliffe Airport.

Havelock Gives 2 New Men Seats In Council

HAVELOCK, Jan. 2.—(ENS) —A light vote was polled here yesterday by the citizens of Havelock as the municipal elections passed off quietly, minus much of the activity which has surrounded such occasions in past years.

Heading a field of five candidates for the council, Ernest J. Leeson, polled a total of 400 votes, to reclaim his seat for another term by a majority of 58 over his nearest opponent. Two newcomers, Fred Pollock and William Martin were next in the running, while the fourth seat was captured by James Ketchen, a member of the last council. James Wilde the fifth candidate failed in his bid for re-election. Wilde a member of the council for the past three terms, headed the polls twice during that time. E. J. Leeson, an ex-reeve of the village who re-entered the council last year, just exchanged his standing at the polls yesterday with James Ketchen. Ketchen headed the field last election while Leeson was in fourth position.

Standing of the candidates yesterday was as follows:

Candidate	Votes. Poll 1.	Poll 2.	Total
Ernest J. Leeson	129	271	400
Fred Pollock	115	227	342
William Martin	96	196	292
James Ketchen	88	198	286
James Wilde	81	164	245

Reeve Ernest W. Seeney was returned by acclamation for his fifth consecutive term of office, when three other members withdrew in his favour. Elected by acclamation to the school board also was James Covert. Two other vacancies on the school board and one on the hydro commission have not yet been filled.

The Reeve and his newly elected council addressed a gathering of citizens in the town hall last evening, shortly after the election returns were made known. Following the speeches, an orchestra provided dance music for the enjoyment of the audience.

Canada's Flying

I found the boys not in their flying kit, but dressed in their Sunday best among the sleek machines which form part of their ver yexistence. Yet it was not speed, duels, or "dog fights" they discussed this day—but of all things, wedding bells.

In fact, they were preparing to celebrate an event which one of the fliers waggishly described as "the nuptial nosedive" of their colleague, Flying Officer Richard Coe, of Winfield, B.C., with playful banter and good-natured leg-pulling they were busy applying the "works" or the bachelor's veledictory to their pal.

A few hours later the happy young airman stride down the aisle of the old-fashioned Greystoke village church with his bride—Pauline Hazel Browne, of Kelowna, B.C. — on his arm.

Like every other member of the squadron Coe came over at his own expense to enlist in the R.A.F. He is a full-fledged airman, a member of the first Canadian Active Service troupe and has settled down with his bride in a small cottage within easy reach of the airdrome and his flying mates.

In the eyes of the commanding officer, Squadron-Leader F. M. Gobeil, of Ottawa, his boys are a grand aggregation made of the finest stuff.

"Just give them half a chance and they'll be doing things that will make Canada justly proud of them," he said.

As adjutant, the squadron has a native Nova Scotian, P.D. Macdonald, present member of the British House of Commons for the Isle of Wight. A flying enthusiast before the war Macdonald was responsible for organizing the civil air guard in the island and has been an active member of the air committee of the House of Commons. He first stood as Conservative candidate for the Isle of Wight in 1923, against another Canadian, Major-General Jack Seeley, the present Lord Mottistone. He was defeated by 90 votes in that election but won the seat a year later by a majority of 4,500. He married Lady Jean Cochrane, daughter of the 12th Earl of Dundonald, who reorganized the Canadian militia after the South African war.

From All Canada

The rest of the squadron is drawn from varied walks of life and from almost every province of the Dominion—all with one absorbing ambition, to become ace aviators, eager to add a further chapter to Canada's air achievements.

With unfeigned modesty, the boys would rather speak about anything else than themselves. They did "openup," however, about their popular "A" flight commander, Flight-Lieut. Donald Miller of Saskatoon. So intent was this westerner to get into the air force that he gave up his job, hustled off to England and found himself in London with only £4 in his pockets. Defying superstition he filled in his application papers at the 13th hour of the day on a Friday 13th and then waited patiently for the call. To conserve his slim resources he partook of only one meal a day for nearly two months and on the day before he was ordered to report for duty he walked the streets, hungry and cold without a penny to his name. He admitted the "sledding was pretty tough for a while," but that "everything is rosy now."

As the deadly odorless methane gas seeped into the panel, the fireboss and Docherty rescued Charles Lockhart, a miner, and on a return trip to attempt to rescue other miners Docherty was overcome.

Nicholson, dragging Docherty, collapsed just as he reached the coal shute and they plunged down the shute instead of back into the mine.

An official mine board inquiry will be opened later this week, mine officials said.

In Cadomin yesterday whistles did not usher in the New Year. Instead all social, public and private gatherings for New Year's day were cancelled.

"Hunchbacks" Of Finland Terrify Russian Troops

Carrying their knapsacks under the white coveralls that make them almost indistinguishable from the surrounding snow, these hardy Finnish ski troops look like hunchbacks as they glide to their front-line posts on the Karelian front. These men have been the terror of the Soviet invaders, swooping down on isolated parties, pistoling, machine-gunning and knifing the bewildered invaders. Then fading away like wraiths, leaving confusion, terror and death in their wake.

ed, these same boys, who spent a Christmas touched with home-sickness somewhere on the Atlantic, were now singing "We're here because we're here," "Roll out the barrel," "Hail, hail the gangs all here."

Unseen planes droned an overhead salute. On the pier in addition to Mr. Eden and General McNaughton were Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, Sir John Gilmore, Minister of Shipping and other dignitaries.

It was just 13 days after Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, startled his listeners during a broadcast with the news that Canada's first contingent had landed.

Canada's shoreline was just starting to melt after the sailing when machine-guns were mounted on the transports. Everywhere precautions were taken against an enemy that never appeared.

It was a rolling, rough voyage that contrasted with the smooth crossing of the first contingent. Seasickness knocked out hundreds of the boys. To add to the lonely touch of being away from home for Christmas the first rough sea came on Christmas night.

But there were many things to dispel sea gloom and homesickness. Decorated trees glowed within the comfortable liners. There was midnight mass, and church services for all faiths. Christmas brought everyone closer together, and friendships that only began on sailing were firmly sealed that night.

Christmas Day the King's solemn words enjoining th men of the Empire to fight against "wickedness" were heard in every dining room as loud speakers carried the Empire broadcast to the men.

The welcoming party went aboard one of the ships and inspected the quarters. In one ship Sir John Gilmour was introduced to Lieut. H. E. C. Price of the Royal Canadian Regiment, whose home is Quebec City. Sir John discovered that the lieutenant was a cousin he had never met before.

Claim Duce Holds Nazi Cause Lost

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (CP). — The diplomatic correspondent of the Yorkshire Post wrote to-day that Premier Mussolini has given up the German cause for lost and has even refused to try to negotiate a peace for Adolf Hitler.

"In view of the serious consequences which failure of Russia's help will ultimately have for Germany, if the war is allowed to proceed," the correspondent said, "Hitler requested Mussolini to take the initiative in promoting negotiatons for peace with Great Britain and France.

"My information is that Mussolini turned down the suggestion.

"Il Duce more and more is convinced of the inevitable defeat of Germany by the Allies. He does not believe any useful end can be served by initiating mediation, the reply to which from Britain and France can only be a request for preliminary evacuation of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia."

London Street Footbridge Bylaw Carried

Nine hundred and sixty eight of Peterborough's property owners, a majority of 266 over the 702 who voted against it, carried the London Street footbridge bylaw and as a result the city will issue $10,000 in debentures to cover the job.

That the council of 1920 voted some $40,000 for a bridge in the same locality and then apparently spent it along with some more to help pull the Hunter Street structure across, is something else again and was causing something of a quandry in city hall circles last night.

Anyhow the folks in East City are apparently going to get their shortcut this time, the trend in all wards except one being definitely for the proposition, with 26 polls voting in favor, 12 against and one tied at 7 all.

13 Voted No.

In the section most concerned, polls 38 and 39 in East City, there was 13 dissenters out of 85 voting—must be car owners who don't care how far the walking man has to trek. Poll 38 went 32 to 9 and poll 39 tallied 40 to 4 against. On the west side in the section around the bridge in the North Ward polls 27 and 28 showed far less enthusiasm for the span than their neighbors to the East for they gave it only a majority of 18 with poll 27 going 28 to 17 and poll 28 recording 31 against 24. The South warders weren't very fussy about laying out all that cash for a trestle, that if they ever did go calling in that neighbourhood and managed o hike that far they'd probably be too tired to hoof over—and they said so at the polls, their ten showing a minus of 23 for the span, four polls voting in favor with 196 and six against totalling 219. No's 2, 6, 9, 10 were in favour ,No's 1, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8 against.

In the Centre Ward.

The Centre ward went neck and neck on the idea, two polls No's 14, 15 for, two No.'s 11, 12 against and one No. 13 tied, or 46 votes for, 33 against, with a majority of 13 in favor.

Out in the West End they were a little more generous with the city's cash, and sympathy too for they gave the bylaw a plus of 66, only one poll No. 20, of the nine going against the move, the count running 287 to 221.

Up North they went six polls to three in favor with a total vote of 221 agains 174, a majoriy of 47. Polls 26, 27, 28, 30, 31, 33 thumbs up and polls 25, 29 and 32 thumbs down.

Carried by Big Majorities.

Over in the East Ward they really got in behind the works and carried it all six polls to the tune of 218 to 55, the latter probably being labelled termites in the substructure—or worse.

An so sometime in the coming year citizens will see another span across the Otonabee some three hundred yards above the Quaker Oats dam and about 100 above the old Dixon Company bridge used in the lumbering days and torn down some time shortly after the Quaker dam was built, early in the 190's. It will start close to the foot of London Street and likely angle across generally easterly toward Haslitt Street and giving folks six or eight foot span to amble on, built on piers and rumored not too fancy for the money.

Considerable sidewalking must be done on the East side and in the bargain there is the C. N. R. tracks to figure in and a bit of a jolly to cross before one hits "civilization" again, all of which officials hint will keep the City Engineer juggling to get under the sum the citizens now have authorized.

Office's Report Careful Driving

Traffic Officers McClure and Broughton were handing out applause Sunday night to drivers in this particular area for good behaviour over the New Year weekend and for an excellent record in spite of heavier traffic and bad driving conditions with more or less slipper roads and steamed-up windshields to contend with.

Other McClure's section of Highway 28 went without any accidents reported over the weekend while Officer Broughton had only three mishaps on his beat and no one was injured.

The most serious accident happened at the end of the paved section of Highway east of Peterborough Saturday evening when a car driven by Harry Wright of Deloro turned over after a rear tire had blown. The automobile was badly damaged but Wright and W. A. Smith who accompanied him escaped without injury. They were on their way to Toronto.

On Sunday a car driven by O. Brooks, Young's Point slipped off the icy surface of Highway 28, three miles north of Lakefield but no one was hurt.

Also on Sunday a snow plow, a passenger car, a car transport and the Trenton-Peterborough bus were factors in a minor accident near Havelock. The car stopped when the driver was blinded by snow tossed up by the plow. The car transport pulled up abruptly behind to avoid hitting the vehicle ahead and the bus, following in behind skidded into the transport. There was no one hurt and the damage was not heavy.

Detlor Is Sentenced To Month In Jail

After deferring judgment until this morning, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court today found Ernest Detlor guilty of committing an indecent act in North Monaghan township just outside the city limits in May last.

The accused was sentenced to one month in jail to date from last Friday, after both W. J. Arthur Fair, defence counsel and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K. C., had stated their willingness to leave the question of sentence to the court without discussing the point.

In his judgment, Magistrate Langley stated that he gave no credence to the accused's alibi story while on the other hand he accepted the identification of Detlor by the chief crown witness.

"What if I bring a witness here after my sentence has expired to swear I was in Trout Creek on May 7 asked Detlor, after he had been sentenced.

"Your counsel will tell you what to do in that case," replied Magistrate Langley.

Cat Arrives At The Examiner Office At Same Time As Election Results

The Examiner has a cat, and it arrived at about the same time as the local election returns on Monday evening. When the paper was being put to bed this afternoon the Examiner still had its cat.

The cat does not seem to answer to any name yet tried. We mentioned Esmeralda and it never blinked an eye; tried Cleopatra and there was no more response than a bill collector gets when the people in the house happened to see him coming.

The office authority on cats, goats, dogs and jack rabbits says it is a Persian cat and not so hot on chasing rats or foraging a living. It drinks milk or rather laps it. Had a share of the lunch which the telegraph editor carries at noon. Partial to the caviar sandwiches but not to keen on a pair of matched and pickled hocks. The telegraph man had to eat those himself.

One observer says the cat's color is tortoise shell, whatever that may be. It has been kindly treated because it does not hop when one says "scat!" Even tempered cat, too, because it was not in the least disturbed when election returns were coming in and the hopes and fears of candidates were being realized. Didn't even scratch its ears when finals were announced. Today it has locked over the premises generally and appears to like the look of the place, and particularly the section where a little nourishment is offered. Not much interested in world news, and pays little attention to the working of the telstype where such matters are attended to. Shows no inclination to leave and purrs in the key of a A flat major, or something within a couple of inches of that one way or the other. Perhaps this is a trifle long, but we were trying to make it plain we have a stray cat in the office and perhaps some person may be wondering where it is.

OBITUARIES

MRS. FREDERICK SHEPPARD

The death of Mrs. Frederick Sheppard, 46 Alfred street, occurred in Nicholls hospital on Saturday after a short illness.

Born Annie Culling, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Culling and came here 66 years ago from London, England. In Peterborough she was an active member of Knox United church.

She was the widow of Frederick Sheppard. Surviving are three sons, Edward, William and Frederick, all of Toronto, and a daughter, Mrs. David More of Daventry, England; also three sisters, Mrs. Ellen Daynard and Miss H. Culling of Peterborough, and Mrs. James Noble of Toronto.

The death of Mrs. Sheppard is the first break in the four surviving sisters of an old southend family. At one time they all lived near the corner of Albert and Alfred streets, but years ago Mrs. Noble moved to Toronto, and for some months past Mrs. Daynard has also been living there, although her home is still on Albert street. The family is one of the few surviving the changes that have taken place in the southwest end of the city during the last 45 or 50 years.

Mrs. Sheppard became ill a few week ago, and shortly after her daughter, Mrs. Ethel More, left Peterborough to sail for her home in England. She had come here early in the year to visit her mother, and was detained since late summer by the outbreak of war.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Funeral Home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street, Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

90.76 Per Cent Of 1939 Taxes Have Been Paid

Peterborough paid 90.76 per cent of its 1939 taxes as compared with 90.41 per cent due in 1938 and paid in that year, a fractional gain of .35 per cent, but still a gain.

This encouraging information was reported this morning by City Treasurer M. E. Shaver as relayed to him from the Tax Collector, A. S. Couper.

Within the last two weeks of the year opinion at the city hall was doubtful that the 1938 level of payment of current taxes would be equalled. This fact was published in the Examiner with a suggestion that the maintenance of Peterborough's credit could be substantially promoted if citizens who were putting off payment of tax arrears would make an effort to get under the wire before the 1939 receipts were closed on Saturday, December 30.

It was a mild appeal, and a presentation of the advantage to the community that might accrue from at least equally the mark of 1938, to say nothing of the sense of satisfaction inspired by the knowledge that the ratepayers were in a position to meet their obligations to the city.

The only mention of this state of affairs was made through the Examiner. That is one fact, and the other is that total payment of 1939 taxes reached 90.76 per cent of the year's tax roll. John Peterborough and also Jane responded to that appeal to civic loyalty with .35 per cent more paid than a year ago.

Another bit of stimulating news from the tax and treasury departments blows in the same direction. The total payment of taxes last year, including arrears for other years, was 101.23 per cent of the 1939 tax roll. In other words tax receipts exceeded the amount of the tax levy for the year by 1.26 per cent.

The corresponding percentage for 1936 was 103.9, the slight decline for 1938 presumably indicating that there is less arrearage in the city's books. This may be a result from the special attention given to unpaid taxes by the legal committee in 1938 when Alderman Gordon was chairman, and continued this year by the committee under the chairmanship of Alderman Bradburn.

Lean Is Returned Reeve Of Burleigh

Norman Lean was re-elected reeve of Burleigh-Anstruther in the holiday contest with Herbert Tucker. The vote was 150 to 111. The former councillors were elected as follows:— Joseph Church 149, Wm. Staples 138, Archie Wilson 119, S. Blackwell 118; also Norman Bolton 118 and Andrew Young 84.

The tie vote for the fourth council seat was decided by the clerk of the township Rev. C. A. G. Spence who cast a ballot for Mr. Blackwell.

City Building To Exceed $500,000 Mark

The toal for the year was $502,078.50 as compared with $426,144 for 1938.

December's contribution to the 1939 contribution showed a decided shrinkage, $4,443.50 for seven permits, as against $33,075 for nine permits in the corresponding month of 1938.

The permits for 1939 included 96 dwellings valued at $271,475 in contrast with the 57 dwellings worth $160,950 in the 1938 total.

Many of the builders of houses during the last two years availed themselves of two forms of government encouragement, the housing loan and the tax relief for a period of three years.

Citizens intending to build houses for themselves this year should remember that the Dominion government is terminating the assistance in tax payments on May 3, and that their plans and other arrangements should be under way at least six weeks prior to that date, giving them sufficient time to get the work under way, and in some cases to arrange for loans.

It is understood that the building inoustry of Canada has no intention of asking the government to extend its form of tax relief. The country has to finance the war against Germany, and it is felt that it would be unreasonable to seek further building aid in such an emergency.

Indian Missing At Alderville

ALDERVILLE, Jan. 2 (ENS) — Provincial Police are today probing the disappearance of Huron Martin of Brantford, who has been staying in Alderville for some time past, and who has been missing since Friday.

Provincial Constable Menie of Cobourg launched an investigation Saturday into the man's disappearance and was expected to return some time todya along with other officers. (Constable Menie told the Examiner this morning that he would continue his investigation to determine whether Martin had been drowned. There was some possibility that the man is still alive, that he had merely set out for Hiawatha or some other point on Rice Lake, he pointed out.)

In company with an Alderville Indian, Steve Smoke, Martin visited Sugar Island on Rice Lake on Friday. Smoke said he started to walk back to the mainland, expecting Martin to follow after him on skates. Martin is said to have been seen leaving the island, but Smoke saw nothing of him after setting out.

The channel between island and mainland was open in places and it is believed possible Martin may have come to his death in one of them. When a search was made for him on Saturday light snow had fallen, covering any tracks there may have been.

Shoots 2,095 Buffalo

WAINWRIKHT, Alta., Jan. 2.—(CP).—Slaughter of buffalo at the Dominion Park ended here today as Sharpshooter Sam Purshell picked off the 2,095th animal with his rifle. The slaughter began 38 days ago, when the Dominion Government ordered all animals in the 12-mile square national park killed.

On The Griddle

When the National league governors meet on Jan. 10 something may be done about disciplining Ernest Savard, ABOVE, president of Canadiens, who shoved referee King Clancy about during a heated outburst in a recent Canadien-Toronto game in Montreal.

Court Contrast

A contrast in tennis sizes is seen here in a couple of competitors at the U.S. national boys' indoor championships at New York. The short party is Vincent Richards, Jr., son of the former American Davis Cup star, rated one of the greatest doubles players of all time. Andy Arkin, the "long" of this picture, with height and age advantage, had little trouble with Vincent, Jr., just getting his start in father's footsteps.

Petes To Play Oshawa Generals

An outstanding hockey attraction is offered local and district puck fans here tonight when Oshawa Generals tangle with the Petes at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink in an exhibition game. The Generals are Dominion junior "A" champions, having won the Memorial Cup last winter and packing up and preparing for another crack at the Canadian title this season. The team is loaded with husky, speedy and starry imports, and they play a wide-open, tricky and exciting brand of hockey. They beat Trenton Fliers early this season and later copped a win over the locals in a third period rally in Oshawa.

The Petes—who trounced Belleville badly on Friday—are in first-class shape now and should, on their own ice, pull out a close verdict. Shorty Roberts, former Toronto goalie, may be in the local cage tonight and the team will be at full strength. It is sure to be a hot fray with lightning speed shown by both sides in a tight tussle. The game ought to draw a huge crowd of fans to the arena.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

By a margin of 25 shots, the vice-president was victorious over the president in yesterday's annual event between sides chosen by the president and vice-president.

In the morning games the vice-president showed the way to his followers when he emerged with a 3-shot victory over President Carlisle; in the afternoon this was increased until the plus had reached score stood: President 136, Vice-24 shots, and at the tea hour the 160.

The evening contests were close and the president was down only one shot, making the grand total: President 186, Vice 211.

Out of the 16 games played the president's side won only six, with Fred Batten's rink being top scorer with 18 points.

The ice was in excellent condition, and it appears as if the curlers are off to a good start for the 1940 season.

To-night the season's schedule get sunder way, and it is to be hoped the skips make a big effort to have the new players out. It's now Alexander Woodburn Archibald, Deputy-Reeve of North Monaghan, and the members of the club offer congratulations.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

A 14-carat hockey attraction is listed for the Brock St. arena tonight at 8.30 o'clock when Oshawa Generals tangle with the Petes in an exhibition game. Every puck fan in the country knows the Generals are Dominion junior "A" champions, having copped the Memorial Cup in a stirring series in the spring. They have rebuilt again this semester under Coach Tracy Shaw, and the team is packed to the gunwales with first-class imports. The Generals trounced Trenton Fliers over a month ago, and later a third-period rally gave the mighty Motor City boys a win against the Petes. Since then, the locals—who are of intermediate "A" calibre—have rounded into fine shape, knocking the daylights out of Belleville last Friday, and they think they can beat the Generals on the smaller ice surface here this eve. We believe they can, too.

* * * * * *

Now it's true that these junior "A" players — and especially that Oshawa outfit—have class in gobs, being big husky speed demons with experience and coaching. They play a flashy, clever brand of hockey with all sort of cut-in passes, delayed tries, tricky interference and deadly work around the net. They keep up that pell-mell pace every minute, as only husky juniors who have been in the pink for two months can. It's no blinkin' wonder they're so good—they practically live on that big sheet of ice! Yeah, those Generals are worth travelling quite a piece to see in action.

* * * * * * *

Petes Are Oke, Too

However, the present Petes are quite classy, too. Youth, speed, beef and experience—and they're in good condish now, too. They were leading the Generals in Oshawa going into the third, but faded then and lost. We think they can skate right with 'em tonight and pull out a narrow nod—yes we do. Coach Buckland will use Shorty Roberts—ex-Toronto goalie—for part of the game at least this e'en, and Joe Blewett and Jack Jopling will see action. Besides all the gang which played 'gainst the Redmen here on Friday. Ice is in good shape and the game will be a rousing wide-open and tough tussle, and it rates a huge crowd of fans.

* * * * * *

Ordinarily we don't get excited about exhibition puck frays but this is a different case. Lots of folks journey from here down to Oshawa regularly through the winter to see these junior "A" teams—often rated the best hockey of 'em all, not excepting pro—in action, and plenty trek to Toronto for the junior playoffs. In fact, Oshawa Generals packed in the biggest crowd to ever attend a hockey game in Canada when they beat St. Boniface Seals before 15,659 paid fans in Maple Leaf Gardens last year—drawing no less than 56,000 paid customers in the series! That's how popular these junior "A" champs are—and that's why this is a big attraction here tonight, especially as the Petes will lick 'em or come awfully close.

* * * * * *

No News At All

Censors must have barred the Belleville sheet from the mails as no copy of the Saturday edition of the Intelligencer has reached this office. Maybe they tried to quote Skipper Ed Thomas and that's why the sheet is banned this week-end! Anyway, we dunno what the Quinte comment on the Friday fray was, but we'll bet a bunch of bright neckties against a pair of 10½ sox (not too much red in 'em) that the 14-4 win for the Petes came as quite a jolt to a lot of citizens of Bella Villa, and to the scribe there. After all, the Redmen are in the VanHorne Cup semi-finals and were rated pretty strong—while the Belleville columnist spoke slightingly of the Petes several times lately. The loss of Hastie and Gow no doubt weakened the Thomasites some, but hardly 14-4 worth, would you think?

* * * * * *

Tonight in Port Hope, the local junior "B" Colts open their schedule, leaving here at 6.30 via taxi. Coach Archie Weir and Manager Hap Willgar have lined up a team (which may be just temporary for this first tilt) and will take this gang along: Cec. Cournyea, Fred Agnew, Bill Beggs, Al Mason, Bob Strickland, Rocky DeCarlo, Sid Craig, Nels Foster, Duce Vitarelli, Cal Nichols, Joe Rochetta, Dutch Pammett and Tom MacDonald. Lou LeBarr will be the referee. The Colts and Hopers are the only two squads of the six-team junior "B" setup which have not yet seen action this season.

Church Loop Starts

Church Puck Loop schedule opens tonight with these games at All Saints' rink: Knox Bantams vs. Trinity at six, St. John's Juveniles vs. Mark St. at seven, Park St. Juniors vs. St. James at eight, and Mark St. vs. St. Paul's Juniors at nine. Tomorrow night it's St. John's Bantams vs. George St. at six, and Trinity vs. St. Andrew's Juveniles at seven. With two more entries received o'er the holiday week-end, the league has now rounded into a swell 22-team circuit with four senior squads, and six in each of the other three series. George St. decided to enter both junior and juvenile, while Jack Huggins put in a senior crew from St. James to fill up the league. Schedules are in tonight.

* * * * * *

Executive of the Industrial Hockey League has a huddle at eight this gloaming in Duffus' to clean up a couple final matters before the schedule opens next midweek. Getting a very decent break from the Brock St. rink management, the officers will have a choice of either Wednesday or Thursday nights for their games. Clubs in this eight-team setup will also stage skating parties regularly on Monday nights, we understand. There will be a few loop tussles, too, over at the Quaker rink. Several referees have applied and they will be considered tonight. Some of the clubs have had a puck practice or two already. Westclox worked out at the Sacred Heart rink on Saturday. Schedule will be released when the loop picks its night at the arena.

Hither and Yawn: Should be some cage chatter one of these days; "Y" House League finished up on New Year's Day....Lorne Gray, who played defence for the Petes last winter, is in the Air Force now in Vancouver....Some of the Oshawa Generals to be seen here tonight are almost surefire bets to be in the N.H.L. within the next two or three years ....Canucks juveniles have an open practice tonight at six in the Sacred Heart rink, and Aces juveniles drill there at eight this eve; everyone welcome....Omemee puck circuit wants a Peterborough entry, loop winner to maybe enter O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns....Southend League will be starting shortly....Lakefield juniors journey to Lindsay this twilight for a "B" contest....The Cobourg juniors joust with the Colts here come Friday....A Motor City ref (maybe Peg Hurst) will handle tonight's local hockey match....With all this holiday nonsense over for another year, we can get settled down to the tough grind of another puck and cage season—running for the next three months nearly....POME: 'Tis sad to see an athlete when his play has begun to slump—like an Xmas tree on a garbage sled, aheadin' for the dump!

Apples For Liquor

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 2 (AP)—The admonition to eat an apple a day forhealth's sake has no appeal for several city jail prisoners. They were arrested after a State Liquor Board agent visited their homes—posing as a countryman selling apples—and swapped apples for bootleg liquor.

Two Less Gunboats

LONDON, Jan. 2.— (CP)— The Admiralty announced today two more gunboats would be withdrawn from the Upper Yangtse River patrol in Central China.

Five gunboats were withdrawn last October and three others in December. One British gunboat remains on the Upper River.

PULLING STRINGS

BURNLEY, England — (CP). — Burnley factories have slipped into the routine of war. Without moving from their looms, factory girls pull strings which draw blinds over skylights when the air raid warning comes.

Italy faces a shortage of peanuts.

Dave Castilloux Meets Rodak In Ten Rounds

TORONTO, Jan. 2 — (CP). — The stage of better fights and bigger money has been reached by Dave Castilloux, the little French-Canadien boxer with the flicking left hand and hard right smash, five years after he stepped into a ring in Waterville, Maine, and collected $16 for his first fight.

Holder of the Canadian featherweight and lightweight crowns, Castilloux meets Leo Rodak of Chicago here to-night in a 10-round bout that he hopes will bring him a shot at the world's leading contenders. It's the third meeting between Rodak, one of the foremost lightweights in the United States, and the Canadian champion from Montreal.

Castilloux pounded out a decision in the first scrap here last July, but last month Rodak evened the score in New Orleans, taking an unanimous decision despite a late rally by Castilloux. That defeat was his second in 58 fights. His only other licking came from Maxie Berger of Montreal who now is fighting as a welterweight around New York with much success.

Only 17 when he first took up boxing, Castilloux learned easily and devolped a left jab which few fighters at his weight can equal. A cool and calculating worker, he packs away continually with his left at his opponent's face and then suddenly throws his right with enough power behind it for a knockout.

The only time he has been knocked down for a count came in a match in Waterville when he was fighting as a bantamweight. He managed to get up at the count of nine and in the fourth round knocked out his opponent.

As long as he is able to make the weight he is destined to hold his Canadian titles for some time. With the exception of Billy Marquart, brilliant Winnipeg lightweight, there's nobody in either class who comes near him. There has been talk of such a match, but so far it hasn't gone past that stage.

With The Boy Scouts

St. John's Rovers

The crew had a short meeting on Tuesday, at which plans were made for the coming social evening and also for the corporate Communion being held Sunday, January 14, at St. John's, when All Saints' rovers will join with St. John's for Holy Communion, and breakfast following. Rev. Canon Robertson will speak at the breakfast.

St. John's Cubs

At 9.30 Friday morning the pack held its last 1939 meeting. Several games were played including British Bulldog, Blowout, and Post Office Exchange.

Another young man joined our great brotherhood when Tim Hicks-Lyne took his cub promise at the council rock before the Old Wolf Akela.

Peter Green will also remember the meeting as he was promoted to the rank of Senior Sixer and presented with his third arm-band.

Instruction on the composition of the Union Jack was followed with flag relay. At Red Flower the pack was entertained with two duets and a trio. Akele told the story of The Snowman's Secret."

Cub Jack Murphy was welcomed back to the cub jungle.

An announcement was given out regarding the second annual cub concert to be held in the parish hall on Monday, February 5th. Practice will commence on this Wednesday at 6.45 p.m. in the Parish Hall. All cubs are requested to be on time.

Belgian Boy Scouts in Wartime

The Scouts of Belgium have been playing a valuable wartime service role. They assisted the Red Cross and A.R.P. League, distributed gas masks and sandbags and helped with the crops. In Brussels they made a house to house collection of sweets and books for distribution to soldiers isolated in small villages.

The Scouters' Club

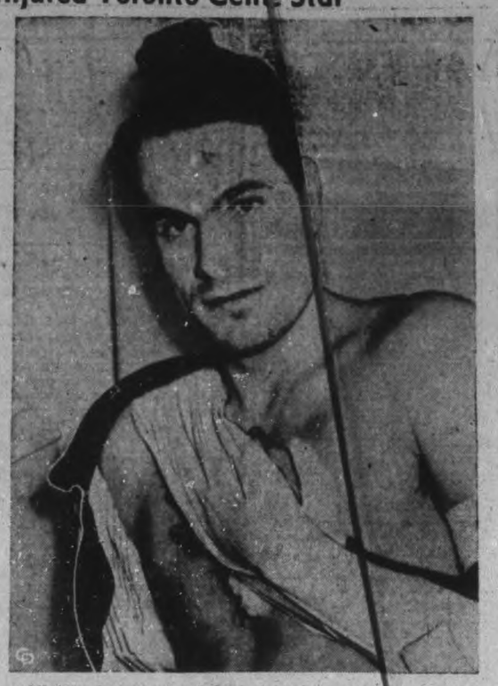
The Scouters' Club is scheduled to hold the monthly chin wag in the association headquarters on Thursday, January 11, at 8 p.m. And we would ask all officers and their assistants to reserve that evening to attend.

Only two reports received this week; therefore to St. Luke's, St. George's, Sacred Heart, All Saints', St. Peter's, St. Paul's, St. Andrew's, St. James', the North End, Mark Street and Murray Street, I would suggest that we resolve to send in a report every week from now on.

Not Through With Sports

Resting comfortably at his home is Don Herring, football star with Princeton University, who lost his left leg in a gridiron accident last fall. Nothing daunted, he expects to be back in sports in a year or so—not football, of course, but discus-throwing, at which he had been a star before the accident. He hopes to maintain his fine work by using a stance that does away with the twirling usually employed in throwing the steel plate.

Injured Toronto Centre Star



All taped up and scheduled to do none of his twirling and whirling over National League ice surfaces for a month or more is Syl Apps, brilliant centre with Toronto Maple Leafs, who sustained a fractured collarbone in the Christmas night game with Rangers. At the time of his injury he was second in the scoring race and Toronto Davidson-Apps-Drillon line was leading the league in effectiveness.

Frank A. McCormick Of Cincinati Leads Firstbasers In Loop Fielding

National League fielding records for the 1939 season are divided into two groups, the first comprising players who served at one position in 10 or more games, and the other showing those in fewer than 10 games. Leadership at each position is based on participation in 100 games or more.

Frank A. McCormick, Cincinnati, leads the first basemen, with a percentage of .996. McCormick established a new record for double plays, with 153 in 156 games, displacing the former mark held by August R. Suhr, Pittsburgh, who made 150 in 145 games in 1938.

Stuart McG. Martin, St. Louis, heads the second gasemen, with .977. William J. Herman, Chicago, by taking part in 156 games at second base, tied a mark held by three players.

Merrill G. May, Philadelphia, in his first year, is the leader among the third basemen, with .9564. May gained the honor with a hairline decision over Stanley Hack of Chicago, whose percentage was .9558 for 156 games.

William F. Jurges, New York, tops the shortstops, with .965.

Terry B. Moore, St. Louis, is the leading outfielder, with .994, which ties the record held by Leonard Koenecke, Brooklyn, 1934, and John W. Cooney, Brooklyn, 1936.

Harry Danning, New York, leads the catchers, with .991. Ernest N. Lombardi, Cincinnati, for the fifth consecutive year, had the most passed balls, 15.

Thirty-two pitchers fielded for a 1000, the leadership going to Claude W. Passeau, Philadelphia-Chicago, with 69 chances.

Burgess U. Whitehead, New York, by having 11 assists on April 23 against Boston, tied a record held by many second basemen.

Charles L. Hartnett, Chicago, by catching in 86 games, brought his lifetime catching mark to 1734 games.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

BABE PRATT
New York Rangers
(By Central Press Canadian)

One of the handiest players Lester Patrick has in his band of youthful puck - chasers is Babe Pratt, christened Walter, who holds down a defence post beside Ott Heller. More than once, when one of his forwards has been forced out of the line-up, Pratt has pressed Bab into attacking service with satisfactory results. Like many of the present Rangers, Pratt was a Winnipeg "training school" discovery, date of same being the fall of 1934, first year the school was held. However, Babe did not turn pro immediately, waiting until the next fall before joining Philadelphia Ramblers. At the end of that season he got in a few games with the Rangers and he's been with the team ever since. In five more days he will celebrate his 23rd birthday. Born at Kenora, Ont. Played for the Thistles of that hamlet before joining the moneyed ranks. Each year has seen improvement in his play, his scoring totals for his three complete seasons being 13, then 19 and last year 21 points. Adding it all up until the beginning of the current campaign his record reads 16 goals, 41 assists, for 57 points, plus 115 minutes spent rueing rule infractions with the penalty timekeepers. Last year he and his defence partner, Ott Heller, ran two-three behind Dit Clapper in accumulating points (mostly assists) for defencemen.

Sappers Beaten In Final By 28-25 Score

Artillery captured the championship of the 'Y' House League, in New Years' Day semi-final and final games, smashing Machine Gunners 52-19 in the morning and then nosing out Sappers 28-25 in thrilling final.

Artillery, who finished in third place, were clicking in great style in the morning to completely undermine Machine Gunners in the semi-final 52-19. They ran up a 28-11 edge in the first half and piled it up in the final period, breaking away almost at will and running them in. The losers' attack was listless and their defense was very loose as the winners were ahead all the way. Currie, Craig and Thorburn led the winners and Dougherty stood out for the losers. The teams:

Machine Gunners: centre, Hurle; forwards, Dundas, Fitzgerald; guards Dougherty, Holmes.

Referee: L. Grose.

A Close Win.

Artillery gained a 14-8 edge in the first half, which despite the losers rally in the last period was just enough to carry them to a close win.

Both teams played good basketball in spots, but both roughed it up in the last half to spoil any attempt to play a passing game. Artillery had perhaps more combination than the losers but both missed numerous good scoring opportunities that could have turned the score either way. The winners took the lead early and were ahead all the way after the opening minutes.

Once more they went out in front at the start of the second half but Sappers rallied strongly near the finish almost catching the winners before the final whistle. Thorburn with 14 lead the winners with the rest of the team also turning in good efforts. Sedgewick with 14 was the best of the losers with Marshall getting 6. The teams:

Artillery (28)—centre, Craig, (4); forwards, Thorburn (14), Currie (4); guards, Thomas, Gillespie (6).

Sappers—(25)— centre, Marshall (6); forwards, Stewart (2), West (1); guards, Whaley (2), Sedgewick (14).

Referee — R. White. Scorer—R. Rogers.

St. Paul's Win Over Collegians

Gaining a small margin in both periods, St. Paul's, last year's city champions, pulled out a 34-19 win over the 'Collegians' in an exhibition basketball game at the 'Y' Saturday night before a fair crowd.

St. Paul's had a 14-10 edge at half-time, having difficulty in penetrating the losers' zone defense, but they got going in the last period to add 10 points to their margin. They had an edge in shooting, notching most of their points but in the opening half and getting closer in the final period on passing plays. The 'Collegians' made a fair percentage of their shots but missed a good chance by cutting down their deficit, in scoring only 7 free throws out of 21 chances.

McPherson, McArthur and Sedgewick sparked the winners, the first two accounting for 14 points and Sedgewick standing out defensively. Cutting and Weir led the 'Collegians,' each scoring 6 points. The teams:

St. Paul's (34)—Centre, McArthur (6); forwards, Thorburn (8), McPherson (8); guards, Marsh (6), Sedgewick (2); subs, Kingdon, Ward (3).

Collegians (19)——Centre, Cutting (6); forwards, Ferguson (5), Barr (2); guards, Johnston, Weir (6); subs, Tavor, R. Johnston.

250,000 Fans See Games In U.S. Bowls

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.(CP)— More than 250,000 holiday fans turned out for football delicacies dished out in Bowls in half a dozen United States centres yesterday.

Main course on the New Years menu was served in Pasadena where Southern California dug into Tennessee and emerged with a 21-0 victory in the 25th annual Rose Bowl classic.

Ambrose Schindler, high stepping quarterback, sparked the Californians offensive to keep intact a record of no defeats in Rose Bowl play. Tennessee's loss broke a string of 23 consecutive wins. Ninety-two thousand saw the game.

Possibility that U. S. C. might meet mighty Texas A. and M. in a post season game for the Finnish relief fund benefit was raised in New Orleans where the Texans were celebrating their 14-13 Sugar Bowl win over Tulane. The project was still in the talking stage today. However.

As rousing a game of football as ever graced the Sun Bowl saw Arizona State of Tempe and Catholic University play to a scoreless tie in El Paso before 12,000.

Clemson won the Cotton Bowl trophy by beating Boston College's cruising Eagles 6-3 in a nerve-wracking game of long runs and sensational passes before 30,000 in Dallas.

Georgia Tech defeated Missouri, 21-7 before 36,500 in Miami's Orange Bowl.

A 26-11 West victory over the East went into the books today, and the boys who played in the 15th annual Shrine Charity football contest were still digging the mud out of their ears. A downpour, started midway in the second period, turned the San Francisco Stadium gridiron into a sea of mud, and by the final quarter the New Year's day crowd of 45,000 couldn't tell one player from another.

Indians Break Losing Streak And Drub The Hornets

By The Canadian Press.

In the first 1940 games of the International-American Hockey League are any indication, teams of the Eastern Division are out to smother their opponents in the Western section during the New Year.

Springfield and Philadelphia, both in the lower rungs of the Eastern group, boast New Year's day victories over Pittsburg and Hershey. The Indians snapped out of a losing streak to drub Pittsburg Hornets 4-2 before the smallest Springfield crowd of the season. At Philadelphia, Ramblers shellacked Hershey 3-0 to retaliate for a 5-0 setback by Bears Saturday night.

Pat Egan accounted for two goals in the Indian win. Frank Beisler and Jenkins got the other Springfield tallies. Pete Bessone and Sherf were the Hornet marksmen. The Rambler victory came on goals by Hugh Gustafson, Lude Wareing and Stan Smith. It was Smith's second goal of the year.

Indianapolis Capitals, the powerful Western group leaders, came through the long week-end unscathed. They whipped Springfield 7-3 Saturday and followed it up Sunday with a 3-2 triumph over Syracuse Stars. H. Kilrea, Hudson and Wilder produced the Capital counters, with Locking and Klein scoring for the Stars.

The Indians were taken to camp Sunday by New Haven Eagles who rallied to overcome a four-goal deficit and win 5-4. Freddie Thurrier scored twice and May Kaminsky and Rusty Waldriff got the other Springfield goals. Alex Singbush got the winning goal after Eagles had tied it up on points by Bill Summerhill, Tony Hemmerling, Armand Mondou and Gus Mancuso.

In the other Sunday games, Providence Reds walloped Pittsburg 6-1 and Hershey and Cleveland Barons played a scoreless draw. The Hershey-Cleveland Barons played a scoreless draw. The Hershey-Cleveland tie gave Nick Damore, Bear goalie, his third straight shutout.

John Chad scored two of the Providence goals in the Reds walkaway over Hornets. Carse, Lesieur and Wilson got the others. Drouillard got the lone Pittsburg goal.

Leafs Win Two, Again In Tie For Leadership

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

This is the time of year when it is customary to extend the season's greetings, but, be this as it may, it would take a fearless fellow to walk up to Pete Lepine or Jack Adams, stretch out the good right hand, and say...."Happy New Year."

It happens that Mr. Lepine is coach of Montreal's Canadiens while Mr. Adams is manager of Detroit Red Wings. To put it mildly, neither team head found Christmas merry or the New Year happy. Both undoubtedly would like to roll out a barrel....of headache powders.

In their last 10 National Hockey Leage games Canadiens can show only one victory against nine losses. The Wings, pushed now into the league cellar, have a victory and two draws on the credit side in their last 13 games. Pace-setters in the early part of the season Canadiens are holding fifth place by only a point margin over New York Americans.

Both Wings and Canadiens continued their downward tread during the long New Year's week-end. The Habitants dropped a 1-0 decision last night to Americans after absorbing a 6-1 drubbing from Boston Bruins Sunday night. The Wings, beaten 3-2 by Toronto Maple Leafs on New Year's Eve, lost 1-0 last night to Chicago Black Hawks.

Rangers Won 14 Straight.

Leafs had the best week-end, trimming the Hawks at Toronto 4-2 Saturday night to emerge with four points and a first-place tie in the standing with the Bruins. At the same time New York Rangers ran their unbeaten string of games to 14 Sunday night with a 5-2 victory over Americans that left them only two points behind the Leafs and Bruins.

The Hawks used their victory over the Wings, which was scored on a second period goal by Johnny Gottselig, to climb into fourth place a point ahead of Canadiens.

Only the great goal-tending of Claude Bourque kept Americans from running up a greater score against Canadiens. Bourque slipped up only once, with Buzz Boll getting the winner midway through the second session.

Featuring the two victories was the play of Dave Schriner-Murph Chamberlain-Pep Kelly line. The trio picked up 10 scoring points, eight in the Leafs victory over the Hawks when Kelly scored twice and aided in another, Schriner, tallied once and helped in two and Chamberlain picked up two assists. Leafs other score went to Bob Davidson while the Chicago goals were scored by Bill Carse and George Allen.

Scored Winning Goal.

Against the Wings Gordie Drillon supplied the winning goal late in the third period after Leafs had batted home two scores in the second period to nullify a pair of Detroit first period counters by Syd Howe and Butch McDonald. In the second session Bucko McDonald and Schriner tallied for Leafs.

A record crowd of 16,526 turned out in New York to watch Rangers, led by Clint Smith and Lynn Patrick, triumph in a wild game over the Americans. Smith fired two goals while Harvey Jackson and Hooley Smith scored for Americans.

Young Red Hamill, who got a regular N. H. L. chance through a recent injury to Roy Conacher, turned in a fine effort against Canadiens. Hamill scored the first Boston goal and assisted in two others to emerge as high point-maker of the game. Bill Cowley scored twice for the Bruins, whose other goals went to Art Jackson, Woody Dumart and Milt Schmidt. Hector (Toe) Blake got the only Montreal goal, between those of Dumart and Schmidt in the last period.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS.

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
SATURDAY: More out of curiosity than anything else, Fabienne goes to Willoughby house with Nicky.

CHAPTER FOUR

"THIS is the room where we hold our evening reading classes for men," or "This is our nursery. Working mothers, you know, leave their children here during the day. The children are in the dormitories now having their morning nap period. I'll take you there." Ellen Chapman chatted animatedly in that soft, sweet voice of hers and led the way in and out of rooms that were sparsely but cleanly furnished.

"Not the children's dormitories, please," Fabienne said firmly. For more than half an hour she had been listening to statistics, accomplishments, programs and plans, and she had had enough.

Strangely, she felt that this slim, small girl who was director of this organization had grown in stature. Actually, for half an hour, Fabienne had not even considered that the girl's dress was of a kind that she wouldn't even have given her maid. Fabienne had been interested in those foreign statistics. And she didn't like it. That was going too far. The presumption of this other girl to assume that she, Fabienne Willoughby Seymour, who had been rightful heir to the very walls that obviously belonged to "our people" would be glad to know what her great grandfather's money das doing! Where as if she had inherited it herself—

"And now," Mis Chapman was saying as they stood at the closed door of a small room on the first floor, I shall show you our memorial to Mr. Willoughby's mother."

Opening the door, she said, "It's rather dark in here. All the better, because I want you to see the proper lighting effect."

She touched a wall light and a soft, golden glow spread out from beneath the lamp above a life-size oil portrait that hung at one side of the room.

Fabienne looked at it with mild interest, recognizing the talent of the painter rather than the subject. Then she became aware that she had once before seen the same grave face that looked down upon her in a kindly way. And the brooch that pinned a soft fischu across the throat in the portrait — it could be not other than the one Gertrude had had set into a clip for Fabienne's twenty-first birthday.

"So this is my great-great-grandmother?" she found herself saying: I didn't know there was an oil of her."

"It was copied from the photograph." Miss Chapman told her. "Rather good, don't you think? It was done by Rafelli."

"Rafelli, the portrait man who had the show a month ago" Fabienne asked, unbelievingly. The great Rafelli!

Ellen held the door open for Fabienne to pass through. She nodded an answer to Fabienne's question and explained, "He was one of our boys only ten years ago. In fact, he learned to paint, at first, in one of our classes. That was before my time, but we've lots of other talent in our boys and girls and I hope that some of them will grow up to be great, too," she said with modest pride, as if she were the mother of those boys and girls.

"I'm sure they will," Fabienne said politely.

"We've taken children here from the lowest kinds of backgrounds and had them turn out the best. It's work that's interesting."

"Yes, isn't it?" murmured Fabienne. "Tell me what you know about.... her." She turned back to look at the photograph and noticed for the first time the wild flowers, rather sad little bouquets that had been placed as tribute on the table before it.

"Mr. Willoughby told us about her. Only the things you must already know. That she nursed the sick, gave drink to the thirsty, fed the hungry and gave hope to men without number. And when her son built this beautiful mansion for her, she made it a harbor all her life for the homeless."

Fabienne had never heard that. But wasn't the de Ligne home a harbor most of the time? Weren't her mother's drawing rooms always filled with people who came for food and drink. The idea amused her.

She looked at her watch. "I must go," she said. "Thank you so much for showing me around."

She held out her hand. The other girl took it warmly.

"Will you come again?" she said.

"To visit?"

"To visit if that's what you wish."

"And what do you wish?"

"You can guess my wish. I'd like to have you come and work with us. A portion of your time would be useful to us. We have paid and volunteer workers, but we haven't enough of either. We have about four hundred people who come to us, Miss Seymour, for teaching, for all the pleasure they have. Some of them depend on us for their clothes, for their work; their whole future depends on what we equip them with—equipment to meet the problems you and I would never have to meet."

"What funds do you have to run this place on?"

"We have a small appropriation from the city. The rest we have to raise ourselves."

Whoa, girls, Fabienne thought. She'll get me if I'm not careful.

Once more she held out her hand. "Goodbye," she said. "Perhaps I'll come again."

Nicky feigned sleep and utter oblivion to the urchins who had gathered around his car and were inspecting it with the avid interest of a swarm of ants.

"Scram," Fabienne said amiably. "Come on, Nicky. Take me uptown and buy me lunch and a cocktail."

"All over? Painful?"

"No," she said thoughtfully. Rather interesting, as a matter of fact. I found out I had an ancestress who really amounted to something."

"You ought to be psycho-analyzed, Fab," he told her later. "You've got 'amounting to something' on your mind. And where does it get you?"

"I don't know," she jabbed her fork into her minced chicken and toyed with it. "But there must be something back of it. So many really sensible people go in for it. Sometimes I wonder if they don't get more of a kick out of life than we do."

"All right, I'll play." Nicky lighted a sigaret. "I'll point out things and you give me the answers. Did you have a good breakfast this morning? A nice bath? Put on expensive, pretty clothes? Have you not enjoyed a pleasant ride in a fairly comfortable car, the warmth of the sunshine? Yes or no?"

"Yes, to all of them. Also you're getting at whether I appreciate all those things, the answer is still yes. But—"

"No buts, please. Take this Chapman gal down at the Settlement house. I'll bet she had a breakfast that would make you shiver, no time for a cigaret, no leisurely drive down town under the sunshine. The dirty, ill-smelling subway for her. She probably had to bathe in tepid water and get up when she longed for sleep. Look what she spends the day doing. The kind of people she has to associate with. Do you think for one minute that she gets more out of life than you do?"

"Yes," she said at once. She was thinking of something of pride in Ellen's voice, of serenity and contentment that emanated from her.

"Okay, you win. But if she does, she's got something you have got."

She broke in on him. "Nicky, what'll you bet I couldn't do something useful, give Gertrude the jitters and perhaps get a new thrill by working for ....say three months ....for good old charity?"

"A new golf club to my little mare Betsy," he said promptly.

"Settled," she told him seriously.

That afternoon she took a subway for the first time in her life. She got out at Sheridan square and called a cab. "Take me to Willoughby house on Henderson street. And you'd better make it snappy," she told the driver. She was beginning to think she might change her mind.

Bradman Scores Double Century

MELBOURNE, Jan 2. — (CP Cable.) — Another double-century victory by Don Bradman featured the South Australia-Victoria Sheffield Shield cricket match which ended to-day in a draw. The hard hitting Aussie captain hit up 267 runs; 16 more runs than he compiled against New South Wales a week ago.

Victoria made totals of 475 and 313, the visiting eleven replying with 610 and 60 for one wicket. Bradman reached his mammoth score in five hours, 40 minutes, hitting 27 fours. It was a masterly innings but he gave a hard chance to the slips after scoring 61. To date Bradman has an average of 221.5 and the season is only half finished.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

KNOW YOUR SIGNALS

YOU MAY BE the best defensive player in the world in other respects, but if you are not efficient in the giving and reading of signals you will have to rate yourself as no better than mediocre. Fine work against the declarer depends upon teamwork between the defenders, who cannot see each other's hands and therefore have to "talk across the table" by the legitimate means of selecting their plays carefully.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

East opened this deal with 1-Club. West bid 1-Heart. North 1-Spade. East 2-Clubs, West 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades and South 3-Spades, which all passed. South was afraid to try No Trump, with his single stopper in West's rebid hearts.

Answering his partner's bid, East led the heart 5, won by the A. On it West played the heart 8. He could read his partner's lead as a singleton, and his high card was meant to ask East to shift to the higher-ranking of the other side suits, diamonds ranking higher than clubs.

Had East, after winning with the trump ace, then led a diamond, West would have won and led back a heart for a ruff. One more trick each then in diamonds and clubs would have set the contract.

East, however, didn't know that signal. He thought West's high heart asked for a repeat of the suit, which he couldn't give, having a singleton. So he selected the club A and another club, hoping West could ruff. Thus declarer made his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

How can South make 7-Clubs on this deal after the heart J is led?

New Metallic Coating Speeds Camera Lenses

COLUMBUS, Jan. 2—(AP)—The amateur photographer now can shoot his pictures against the light and expect his low-priced lense to take indoor pictures in dim light like a "fast" lense by using a new metallic coating material announced here today.

The coating is metallic flouride, and is deposited on both side of the camera lenses. This coating, instead of dimming the light, raises the transmission about 10 per cent. for each lens in the camera.

The result is to double the speed of lenses in present multiple lens cameras, and to greatly increase the speed in cheaper cameras.

The discovery was announced to the American Association For the Advancement of Science by Dr. C. Hawley Cartwright, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The lens coatings are one of the first practical developments of the invisible glass discovery announced a year ago by Massachusetts Tech and the General Electric Company.

The coatings are only the thickness of a medium-length wave of light. They increase transmission of light through glass by eliminating the reflection which normally takes place on both sides of any piece of glass.

MacMillan Heads Council Poll In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 2—(ENS)—Peter H. MacMillan headed the polls in Campbellford's council race by a majority of 42 votes in the annual municipal election held Monday. His plurality was considered as endorsation of the efficient administration he had given at the head of the Road and Bridge Committee, a post which he has held for the past two years. John O'Sullivan only aspirant who was not a member of last year's council was defeated by 38 votes thus leaving the body in the hands of the same group as handled the town's business in 1939 with the exception of an internal change which sees Harvey Donald replacing Percy Locke as Deputy Reeve by acclamation and the latter polling the second highest number of votes in the council race.

Early forecasts of a quiet election proved to be correct with voters coming in very slowly during the morning and speeding up but slightly in the middle of the afternoon. By closing time little more than one-third of the voters had bothered to exercise their franchise making the vote one of the smallest in recent years. The fact that the Mayor, Reeve, Deputy Reeve, Water and Light Commissions and School Trustees were all returned by acclamation left only six councillors to be elected was held responsible for the small vote.

	1	2	3	4	Total
J. R. Battisby	83	92	87	71	—333
Alf. E. Burgiss	116	90	93	81	—385
Jas. L. Dorie	72	62	94	75	—303
Percy M. Locke	105	109	100	86	—400
S. A. Maguire	94	97	94	85	—370
P. M. MacMillan	144	115	95	88	—442
J. O'Sullivan	93	75	55	42	—265

Wallet Escapes

SAN ANTONIO(Jan. 2—(AP).—Frank Randles jumped out a window when his house caught fire, forgetting his wallet and false teeth. Firemen found the wallet in a shirt which had burned except around the pocket containing the billfold. The false teeth, in a bowl, were not harmed, either.

KILLED IN GUARD-ROOM

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 2—(AP).—Vacationists who take their goldfish to the neighbors to feed while away are being needlessly solicitious, a University of Illinois scientist told the American Association for the Advancement of Science today. "Fish can endure long periods of time without food," Marian James declared.

Returned In Otonabee

Alex Archibald New Deputy North Monaghan

With Melville H. Johnston promoteded by acclamation to the reeveship, Alex W. Archibal was returned as Deputy-Reeve of North Monaghan yesterday with a majority of 39 over John Barnes a veteran member of the township council.

Willam J. Grady headed the council poll that elected two new members, Harold Cassan and James S. Roberts. The fourth man in the field was A. J. (Bert) Arnott.

A significant reflection of the results was the fact that all the successful candidates were supported by the North Monaghan Ratepayers' Association.

Mr. Archibald carried two of the five polls, Ernie Mitchell's barber shop (Claraday) at the corner of Lansdowne and Lock Streets, and Confederation School, whose combined vote gave Archibald 233 to John Barnes' 118, an Archibald majority of 115 votes.

Mr. Barnes received majorities at the other three, Byersville (Pagett's House), May's School, and the "town hall," the only rural poll, east of Scott's Corners.

Those three poles gave Barnes 236 to Archibald's 160, a Barnes' majority of 76.

Divided The Polls.

Councillor Grady led the council candidates in three sub-divisions, Claraday, Confederation and Byersville, and Bert Arnott, although unsuccessful, headed the list at May's School and the Town Hall.

The members of the 1940 council are Reeve M. H. Johnston, succeeding Warden James Milby, who is retiring with the splendid record of service to his municipality; Deputy-reeve A. W. Archibald, moving up from the council's ranks, and three councillors, W. J. Grady whose high vote of 574 gave him a plurality of 166, Harold Cassan and James Roberts, the latter two being new members.

The poll results were:

Timlin, newly-elected reeve, served on the council board for two years.

7 Of Tennessee Sect Held For 5 Deaths

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn., Jan. 2 — (AP). — Accused of refusing medical treatment in five deaths, seven members of a rural religious sect are under indictment on charges of involuntary manslaughter. The sect trusts faith for healing powers and scorns medical aid.

All the deaths, in families of the accused, occurred within a year.

Paul Bumpus, assistant district attorney-general, said complaints of neighbors prompted an inquiry leading to indictment by a county grand jury of Joe Brady, Ashley Luna and his wife, Charles Gray and wife, and Lowell McGee and wife last September.

Brady is accused in his wife's death; the Lunas with the deaths of their infant daughter and 18-month old son, the Grays with the death of a baby daughter and the McGees with the death of an infant son, the assistant district attorney reported.

W. A. Anderson Is Returned Otonabee Reeve

William A. Anderson, dean of Peterborough county council, was retained as reeve of Otonabee township in a close election that gave him on the holiday a majority of 36 over Deputy-reeve Harry Reid.

The same polls returned to the deputy-reeveship, after an absence of some years, Percy Davidson with a majority of 38 over Peter Mather, a member of last year's township council.

The vote for the reeveship was Anderson 551 and Reid 515, and for the detpuyt position: Davidson 548 and Mather 510.

The three members of the council for 1940 were elected by acclamation as follows: David McIntyre, Roy Spiers and Arthur Elmhirst.

Of the eight pjolling sub-divisions in the township Reeve Anderson carried four of them, Mather's Corners, Stewart's Hall, Downer's Corners and Howson's House; and Mr. Reid was given majorities at Keene, Lang, Grady's School and Villiers.

Percy Davidson led at five of the eight polls: Lang, Villiers' Grady's School, Howson's and Downer's Corners; and Mr. Mather carried Keene, Mather's Corners and Stewart's Hall.

The ratepayers at Downer's Corners and Howson's returned majorities for the two successful candidates.

The biggest majority of the day was Percy Davidson's vote at Grady's School with 129 to 28. The polling place was actually in the community hall at Indian River. Mr. Davidson is a resident of the eastern section of the township.

The election in Otonabee was one of the closest in years. Its net result is to bring one new man, Roy Spiers, into the council. With him are the two other members of last year's council, David McIntyre and Robin Thorne, both of whom entered the council together with Peter Mather.

The vote at the eight polls was as follows:

	Anderson	Reid

Keene	78	125
Mather's	116	59

Seymour Elects Rowe Deputy Over Bateson

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 2—(ENS)—The election in the township of Seymour which is noted for lively contests ran true to form again this year, yielding at least two surprises to the electorate. The major upset came in the race for deputy reeve, which saw Robert "Bob" Bateson, a member of the 1939 council go down to defeat by a mere 26 votes, which will send William Rowe to county council in 1940.

Though Mr. Rowe is not a newcomer in the realm of township affairs his announcement made at the nomination meeting that he would be in the field assured electors that a hot contest was in store. Second surprise in the township came with the defeat of Robet Innes, who last year held the reeveship and had decided for reasons of his own to step back to the rank of councillor. William J. Duncan, an ex-reeve of the township, who re-entered the field after an absence of three years, polled the largest vote of the day replacing J. H. Kelly, one of the three members of the 1939 council. More than half the electorate voted.

Following is the result by polling sub-divisions in the township:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	Total
For Deputy Reeve:
Robert J. Bateson	109	47	89	70	39	18	47	51	—470

T. Payne Elected Manvers Deputy

BETHANY, Jan 2.—(ENS)—Fred S. Gray, a former reeve of Manvers township, failed in his attempt to return to the municipal service by his defeat for the deputy-reeveship yesterday by Thomas Payne by 481 to 418.

James Boggs was elected reeve by acclamation, moving up to the reeveship on the retirement of J. Chris Cummiskey, who had gone to the counties council as deputy to the former reeve, Ernest Beer, becoming one of the outstanding members of the Counties Council, member of the County Road Commission, and also a candidate for the Wardenship.

On the death of the clerk of Manvers, the late W. J. Lakeman, Reeve Cummiskey was appointed to the vacancy, and brings to that position a broad experience in municipal affairs strengthened by the ability which marked his later years at Cobourg

The three members of the 1940 council were elected by acclamation, Louis McGill, Albert Heaslip and Eldridge Shea.

The vote for the deputy reeveship was:

	Gray	Payne

Kenneth Ray, driver of the truck, told police the animal had jumped on the road from the ditch and that he had been unable to avoid it. A bent fender, door and broken windshield gave evidence of where the colt first collided with the vehicle to be hurled back against the rack of the truck which completed its destruction. The animal was valued at between $50 and $60.

Provincial Constable D. Carruthers invetigated the accident.

Belfast Uneasy, Fearful Of I.R.A. Coups

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 2 — (CP). — Reports of military measures at Dublin heightened fears today in informed Belfast quarters of impending civil strife in adjoining Eire.

Leaves for all officers were reported cancelled as the Eire army of 5,000 men concentrated in and about Dublin.

As a possible by-product of the struggle between the outlawed Irish Republican Army, militant Nationalists, and the De Valera Government, Belfast quarters expressed fear of an I.R.A. raid on Tyrone and Fermanagh, most westerly of the six counties forming Northern Ireland.

These quarters said this had long been a pet project of more extreme members of the I.R.A. Northern Ireland is a part of the United Kingdom and the I.R.A.'s avowed purpose is to "drive the British out of Ireland."

The Belfast branch office of the Dublin Irish press was bombed last night. There was considerable damage, but no casualties. The Irish press is the organ of Premier De Valera's party.

Troops Ring Dublin.

Regular troops, according to advices from the Eire capital, have ringed Dublin while planes and armored cars search for secret arsenals and the remainder of 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition taken last Saturday in a raid on the Phoenix army arsenal, which Dublin authorities attributed to the I.R.A.

Recovery of about a third of the loot, including caches of 50,000 to 80,000 rounds yesterday, has been reported. Investigators in Dublin reported that at least 13 trucks apparently were used in robbing the arsenal of 28 tons of ammunition.

Ten men detained in Drogheda were removed to Dublin today, and the search for suspects and explosives extended to the costal areas, and boats on rivers and canals.

Mr. De Valera was expected to demand drastic powers, including the right to detain prisoners without charge and to establish internments camps, when the Dail meets for emergency consideration of the I.R.A. question next Wednesday.

No Medicine Ever Helped Me Like Syntona Did, He Says

Suffered 10 Years With Gastritis, Heartburn, Bloating and Acidity.

Backache and Rheumatic Pains Also Overcome

MR. ARCHIBALD McKINLAY

"It is a real pleasure to tell you how much your medicine has done for me, and I hope other sufferers will read this and benefit also. After years of misery, I feel just like a new man to-day." This is the statement of Mr. Archibald McKinlay, 4 Kent Street, Hamilton, Ontario, as given in his own words. It is truly worth reading:

"My appetite was poor and whenever I ate my stomach would get so bloated I couldn't get comfortable for hours. I would belch hot, sour liquids and often I would feel dizzy and bilious. At night, I used to suffer with heartburn so badly I would have to get up several times and take a dose of soda. Then, in the mornings, I felt so sick I couldn't eat breakfast. The acids went all through my system and I developed rheumatic pains and backache.

"For fully ten years I tried every remedy I knew of, but I just seemed to be getting worse and I didn't think anything would help my stomach any more. Then, one day my daughter got me a treatment of Syntona and I began taking it. Well, the way it went to work on my system was wonderful. I could just feel myself improving daily. Now all that bloating and acidity is gone and I can eat a good meal and enjoy every mouthful. I sleep the whole night through and I get up feeling rested and happy. Those pains in my back and limbs left me and I don't get headaches like I used to. Every word of this is true and I will be glad to verify it to any person who wants to ask me."

Make up your mind to begin taking Syntona to-day and see how much better you will be feeling in a short time. Come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out all about this medicine that is helping so many people.—(Advt.)

Quake Levels 10 More Turk Towns

New Tragedy Occurs In District Shattered Week Ago

ANKARA, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A new earthquake was reported today to have levelled 10 villages in the Yozgad area, adding to Turkey's quake damage of last week as the river Euphrates broke its banks, spreading terror in the region of Southern Anatolia.

The Yozgad region, scene of widespread suffering from previous tremors, was thrown into a panic by the latest shocks. Hundreds of buildings collapsed. Nearly a thousand persons were made homeless.

The death toll, however, was expected to be slight, since the people had sufficient warning to flee to open spaces.

With scores of villages in Western Anatolia still submerged, flooding of the thickly populated Euphrates Valley was expected to increase the estimated 46,200 dead in the combined disasters.

Firsts reports from Birijik said it was impossible to estimate the damage or toss of life from the flood waters. The Euphrates still was rising, sweeping houses, cattle and whole settlements southward toward Syria.

Meanwhile the crippled nation battled bitter winter temperatures to get food, clothing and medicines to hundreds of thousands of survivors in the distressed regions, which now cover the major part of Asiatic Turkey.

18 Die In Flames, Hunt Others In Hotel Ruins

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 3—(AP).—At least 18 persons lost their lives today when an early morning fire ravaged the Marlborough Apartment Hotel.

Firemen, who fought the blaze in sub-zero weather, were still searching for bodies four hours after the alarm was sounded.

Four of the victims were killed as they jumped from top windows in the three-storey brick building. Others were trapped in blazing hallways, or dashed to death when the floors burned through and fell.

The number of injured was tentatively set at upwards of 25.

No one knew how the fire started. Some residents said they were wakened shortly before 6 a.m. by the sound of an explosion, but its source was not immediately discovered.

Charge I.R.A. Financed By U.S. Cash

Troops Guard Dail As Valera Asks Special Power

DUBLIN, Jan. 3 — (CP). — A charge that the outlawed Irish Republican Army was financed with money from the United States was made in the Dail (Parliament) today as legislators met in special session to draft drastic laws to combat any menace to public safety.

Justice Minister Gerald Boland, describing a raid on the Phoenix Park Arsenal on December 23 when 18 tons of ammunition were stolen, declared the Eire Government was sure that large sums of money had come from across the Atlantic to finance the I.R.A. Extremists.

Government agents have captured packages of United States currency, he told Parliament, which have been put under a heavy guard. Mr. Boland said persons connected with the illegal organization had "large sums of money, arms and explosives" and were engaged in hostile activities.

Prime Minister de Valera asked Parliament for emergency powers by which the Government could intern anyone "whose liberty may be a menace to the public safety."

Claiming that the measure was faulty, the opposition objected and suggested a "constitutional amendment" along the same lines.

Political observers expressed belief that the Dail Eireann would make the bill law by tonight and that its passage would be the signal for a nationwide hunt by the Irish army and police for members of the I.R.A. Internment camps would be established for suspects detained.

The Dail meeting, closely guarded by units of the Irish army, was closed to all but a few member of the public. As a safeguard against an expected demonstration by I.R.A. sympathizers during the debate, troops were detailed to ring the Parliament building.

Rumors that plans for violence were afoot have mentioned the Easter Sunday anniversary of the abortive 1916 rebellion as the possible day for an attempted coup.

They Want Action

The Irish Republican Army descended from the Irish Volunteers of 1916, aims at the union of Eire and the six northern counties.

This aim is shared by De Valera, but he wants it done peaceably, by agreement with Great Britain.

Although the I.R.A. has been outlawed by the government of Eire, Northern Ireland and Great Britain, its secret enrollment is estimated at from 10,000 to 50,000 men.

Search continued for munitions still missing from the Phoenix Arsenal. Raiders on December 23 disarmed the arsenal guard of 12 men and hauled away 1,000,000 round of ammunition. Of 700 cases taken, 217 have not been recovered. Authorities blamed the I.R.A. for the seizure.

De Valera's demand for widened powers resulted from legal loopholes found in legislation previously enacted by Ireland again terrorists.

Down In Flames

Ski Battalion

Toronto, Jan. 3 (CP)

HUNDREDS of Canadian skiers have offered their services to form a ski battalion in the Canadian army similar to the units now inflicting reverses on invading Russian troops, it was announced today.

Fred A. Hall, president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, said the facilities of the association have been offered to the department of national defence. The association has 30,000 members and hundreds already have volunteered for service in such a unit.

Expert ski instructors, who have served in European ski units, are members of the Canadian organization.

New Aircraft Ski Developed For War Planes

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP) — A new type of ski has been produced by the National Research Council for use on high speed military and civil aircraft during the winter, it was disclosed today in the council's review of its 1939 activities.

The tests were prompted by the use and development in Canada of fast fighting planes and the new product supersedes the earlier streamlined ski developed in the laboratories here.

"Research on the snow performance of aircraft skis was continued at Sioux Lookout, Ont., where the temperatures in winter are lower and the snow conditions different from those in Ottawa," the review said. "From data obtained in these tests aircraft skis have been designed

Finns Pursue Stragglers Lost In Wilds

Confused Russians Machine-Gunned By Angry Officers

WITH THE FINNISH FORCES NEAR LAKE KIANTA, Jan. 2 — (Delayed)—(AP).—An army of lumberjacks on skis today was pursuing the hungry, freezing remnants of a shattered Soviet army division into the wilderness of forests and snow near the central Finnish-Russian border.

The Finns have won the battle of Lake Kianta, leaving thousands of Soviet troops dead—the greatest single battle victory of the war in Finland.

Russian efforts to force their way across Finland's "waistline" and bisect the country have been halted here.

All that remain of the trapped 176th Division—17,000 men at full strength—are stragglers who fled after the battle December 29-30. About 2,000 of them are wandering through thick fir forests over five feet of snow in temperatures of 20 degrees below zero, Finns said.

A quarter of a mile from the headquarters farmhouse where this is written is a shambles of what was a Soviet supply column. For two miles wagons, trucks, armored cars, and field kitchens stretch out. Beside them are the dead, horses fallen in their tracks and soldiers tumbled in the snow.

A hundred yards away in a school which Russians used for a

MACKAY RADIO today picked up an SOS from the Swedish steamship Kiruna, saying: "Been fired at by U-boat and sinking slowly. Require assistance."

She gave her position as approximately 500 miles north of the Azores. The call for aid was timed at 7:30 a.m. EST.

The Kiruna, a 5,484 ton freighter, was last reported as having sailed from Hampton Roads on Nov. 1 for Gothenburg, her home port is Stockholm. She is a two-decker, 394 feet long, with a 53 foot beam.

Heroic Harwood Tells Of Scrap With Graf Spee

MONTEVIDEO, Jan. 3 (CP-Havas)—A graphic description of the running sea battle in which three ships of the British South Atlantic squadron drove the German pocket battleship Graf Spee into Montevideo harbor Dec. 13 was given newspapermen here today by Rear-Admiral Sir Henry Harwood.

Admiral Harwood arrived at Montevideo this morning aboard his flagship the Ajax, which was granted special permission by the Uruguayan government to put in for a 48-hour visit.

"I knew a German raider, probably a pocket battleship, was out and had been in the South Atlantic since the beginning of December," Admiral Harwood told reporters.

"I thought she might next attack British trade off the South American coast, and so concentrated three cruisers—the Ajax, the Achilles and the Exeter—off the mouth of the Plata River on Dec. 12. Very valuable British trade comes from this area, and I thought it might prove irresistible bait for her.

"On the morning of Dec. 18 we were about 200 miles east of Punta Del Este. Smoke was sighted at 6.10, and turned out to come from a pocket battleship. She came towards us and opened fire at 6.18, one turret firing at the Exeter, the other at the Ajax and the Achilles.

"All our ships went on to full speed and attack at once, according to our prearranged plan, the Exeter on one flank and the Ajax and Achilles on the other.

Exeter Fights On

"The Exeter was hit early, the bridge being wrecked and some guns put out of action, but she went to closing range, the captain conning the ship from aft through a chain of messengers to the steering position.

We must have done the Graf Spee serious damage, as after 16 minutes' firing she turned around under a smoke-screen and made off towards the Plata at high speed. We closed on her at full speed.

"The Exeter was gradually dropping astern, but very gallantly remained in action, firing what guns she had left at the enemy. The

Combination War

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (CP)—Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, member of the British air mission to Canada, said here today that the air force won't win the war alone. It stands now exactly where it stood in 1918. A victory must be gained by a combination of forces, military, naval, aeronautical and economic, he said.

Sir Robert said he believes Great Britain has superiority over Germany in the air. Nazi bombers are clumsy to handle and stall at high speed, he said.

U.S. Can Lead World Peace But Must Be Prepared Lest Peace Fail Says F.D.R.

President Proposes Enough New Taxes To Cover Emergency Spending For Defence, Stresses National Unity Opening Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP).—President Roosevelt, addressing the United States Congress at the opening of a new session, declared today that the United States ultimately can become a leader for world peace but that "we must likewise be prepared to take care of ourselves if the world cannot attain peace."

Accordingly, he said he was asking this year in the light of continuing world uncertainty, for "army and navy increases which are based not on panic but on common sense."

The President proposed that sufficient additional taxes be levied to meet the cost of emergency spending for defence. He did not specify specific amounts or methods of taxation.

More than half the message, delivered by Mr. Roosevelt in person to senators and representatives assembled in joint session, was devoted to international affairs and problems. Into it, too, the President injected a strong appeal for national unity.

National unity, he asserted, "is in a very real and deep sense, the fundamental safeguard of all democracy."

The stress placed on problems created by a world at war, the President said, does not mean the government is abandoning or overlooking the great significance of domestic policies. But for the most part he touched but briefly on those policies.

Mr. Roosevelt declared as he had in previous addresses that he hoped the United States would not become involved in those wars.

Where The Difference.

Yet, he asserted. "There is a vast difference between keeping out of war and pretending that this war is none of our business."

With his discussion of international problems, the President linked a defence of the reciprocal trade treaty program—a program which has given every indication of becoming one of the storm centres of the session. The Trade Agreements Act; he said, "Should be extended as an indispensable part of the foundation of any stable and durable peace," he added:

"The First President of the United States warned us against entangling foreign alliances. The present President of the United States subscribes to and follows that precept.

"But trade cooperation with the rest of the world does not violate that precept in any way."

At that point, Mr. Roosevelt made

County Voters Satisfied With Old Reeves

With the re-election of fourteen of the eighteen members of last year's County Council, seven of them by acclamation, it seems evident that the ratepayers of the county are well satisfied with the administration of their municipal affairs as they affect and are affected by the joint enterprise of the townships and villages.

Norwood has to be left temporarily out of consideration by the failure of its statutory nominations to produce any candidates for its local Council. That default has to be corrected by a second call to the ratepayers to get together and arrive at some decision either by acclamation or by recourse to voting.

When the 1940 County Council meets this month the new men, again omitting Norwood's interest, will be three Deputy-Reeves, Percy Davidson of Otonabee, Alexander W. Archibald of North Monaghan, and Gilbert McIlmoyle of Smith. And Deputy-Reeve Davidson is returning to the seat he occupied some years ago as one of the two representatives of Otonabee. That leaves only Mr. Archibald and Mr. McIlmoyle as newcomers to the County Council. And two out of eighteen members is obviously an exceptionally small turnover of personnel.

Unify Mitford Rumored Shot In Neck

FOLKESTONE, England, Jan. 3—(CP). — Soldiers guarded the return to England to-day of Unity Valkyrie Freeman-Mitford, the peer's daughter whose "Nordic beauty" is said to have charmed Adolf Hitler.

Lord Redesdale, her father, was waiting on the quayside with a car and ambulance when the Channel steamer from Calais arrived shortly before 4 p.m. (11 a.m. EST).

His daughter had been carried aboard the ship on a stretcher at the French port and she was accompanied on her journey home by her mother, Lady Redesdale, and a sister, Deborah Vivien.

Miss Freeman-Mitford's family has not divulged the nature of her injury, or illness. It was learned, however, she was in such a weakened condition that she could walk only a few steps unassisted.

Since her family learned she had an accident on August 9 in Munich, British newspapers variously have reported her to be suffering from a gunshot wound, poison, or some unspecified illness that followed a quarrel with Adolf Hitler during which he assailed Great Britain.

Before the war, Hitler once said he considered her a model of "Nordic beauty." Of Hitler, she said, "I think he is wonderful"; and of herself, "I am a woman Fascist." She admired Nazism.

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Another government department—pensions and insurance—was removed from London today for a "safer" rural area, despite press complaints that the practice was hurting trade and increasing unemployment.

At least 540 employees were involved in the transfer.

The Evening Standard said business and government "should pluck up their courage and emulate the audacity of little children who have come home."

Pointing out many families were broken up, the paper declared London no longer is the world's largest city as a result of the removals.

A total of 3,000 are scheduled to leave in the next five days. It was announced 16,000 civil service workers were transferred last month, and estimated that 3,500 business firms had removed their staffs since the start of the war.

There was no press comment on a United States protest against British seizure and censorship of American mail to Germany and European neutrals, disclosed yesterday in Washington.

However, The Times said editorially that most of the United States

Action This Day Churchill's Favorite Slogan

LONDON, Jan. 3—(P). — Along with the Admiralty documents which reach Winston Churchill, Britain's energetic First Lord, come three kinds of gummed label.

One says (in red ink) "action this day." Another says "report in three days." The third says "report in one week."

It is typical of Churchill that "action this day" is his favorite label.

The First Lord of the Admiralty, holding the same job he did at the start of the first Great War, likes to get things done and to get them done fast. He won't dictate either to a dictaphone or to a shorthand stenographer. He insists on dictating letters straight on to a typewriter and signing them at once.

Work comes to him in an official Admiralty "box." It is of red leather, with a brass handle on top and one at the side. It is numbered in gold and self-locking. It is usually full of papers. On top is the agenda for the War Cabinet meeting, followed by eight or 10 different files and ending melodramatically with the "spy docket."

In making memoranda he saves time by using abbreviations. Sometimes he instructs: "Write civil reply P.M.S." The "P.M.S." meaning "For my signature." He objects to documents fastened together with pins and insists that that papers he sees are holed with a punching machine (he calls it a "clop") and tagged with tape.

He hates noise and his rooms are protected from the outer world by green baize doors. And he like his flat kept at a temperature resembling that of an orchid-house.

He scarcely takes any time off now and his old hobby of bricklaying is neglected. He is far too busy with papers—most of them labelled "action this day."

Canadian Gifts For Evacuees Pour To England

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)— Generosity of Canadians kept members of the Canadian Women's War Emergency Committee busy here unpacking gifts of clothing and blankets for distribution to evacuated children and their parents.

More than seven tons of goods were received and the emergency committee, whose chairman is Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the High Commissioner, worked overtime in order to have the gifts dispatched in time for Christmas.

On the High Commissioner's suggestion the warehouse of the Canadian Government Exhibition at Hampstead was made headquarters for distribution. Here under the guidance of Mrs. T. F. Cotton, wife of the widely-known Canadian heart specialist, the job of sorting these gifts was done by voluntary helpers.

Tribute was paid to Mrs. Cotton's work by Mrs. I. Buchanan, one of the helpers. She said: "Mrs. Cotton has a rare genius for organization, for without so much as giving an order she turned us all into specialists. We soon talked professionally about the sizes of jumpers, the best way of bundling stockings into tens, of how to pile blankets firmly up to the ceiling, and of keeping a stock book that would pass muster in a department store."

Germany Warns French Not To Aid Finland

BERLIN, Jan. 3 — (AP). — Authoritative Nazi sources said to-day Germany would be "forced" to take an active part in the Russo-Finnish War, if France sends Alpine troops to Finland's aid.

They declared this would be a military matter, but did not say what form the assistance might take.

Landing of French or British troops, they argued, would mean the Allies were establishing a foothold in Finland, "thus spreading the war."

An authoritative Nazi source said yesterday there would be little doubt of German support for Russia if British soldiers appeared on Finnish soil or if munitions deliveries from Britain were to reach decisive proportions.

(Great Britain has informed the League of Nations that she would give Finland all assistance possible.)

Swede Ore Boat Shelled By Sub

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Swedish freighter Kiruna, carrying iron ore from Narvik to Baltimore, wirelessed at 7:30 a.m. EST today, saying she had been attacked by a U-boat and was sinking about 500 miles north of the Azores.

Her radio became silent then and four hours later nothing more had been heard from her.

Mackay radio picked up this message from the 5,484-ton craft: "Position 45.20 north, 25.10 west, have been fired at by U-boat. Sinking slowly. Require assistance."

American agents for the neutral vessel expressed amazement that the Germans would attack the ship, since she is owned by the same firm which controls the Swedish ore mines, the main source of Germany's iron ore supply.

"The Germans are cutting their own throats," one agent said.

The Kiruna left Narvik Dec. 18 in command of Captain Magnus Askos with a crew of 39.

The owners, Trafik Ab Grangesberg Oxelosund of Stockholm, lost another ship today when a submarine torpedoed the 2,475-ton coastal freighter Svarton off the northeast coast of Scotland. Twenty men were missing.

Envoy Leaves For Holiday

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP). — The departure of Sir William Seeds from his post as British Ambassador in Moscow is neither permanent nor connected with impending publication of a British White Paper on Anglo-Russian relations, it was said today in well-informed diplomatic sources.

Sir William, it was said, has been on duty for more than a year without leave and he is returning to Britain only for a much-needed holiday. He left Moscow last night.

A spokesman at the Foreign Office emphasized there was no reason to believe that his leave would be prolonged indefinitely or that he was bearing a warning regarding British aid to Finland.

Germans Try Shower Of Withered 'Leaves' As Latest Propaganda Stunt In Air Raids Over Paris And Front

PARIS, Jan. 3.—(CP-Havas).—The capital learned to-day that an unseasonable shower of withered "leaves" which drifted down over the Paris area and Eastern France yesterday was Germany's latest form of "camouflaged" propaganda.

The crisp, cold weather was not allowed to interfere with routine overland operations along the western front and came as a boon to both the French and German air forces, which had been grounded for several days by near-zero visibility.

French pursuit ships, convoying reconnaissance craft, went aloft on 107 flights, military reports show. One flight came into contact with a squadron of German Messerschmidts and went into action, but the enemy craft turned tail after the first burst of machine-gun fire.

German reconnaissance ships out on long-distance flights over Eastern France and the Paris region dropped propaganda leaflets which were highly "camouflaged." They were colored and cut to resemble dead leaves. While an innovation for "attack" behind the lines, a similar ruse had been resorted to by the Germans in previous operations along the front.

Despite snow and bitter cold, "No-Man's Land" on the western front contined to see action. Yesterday's operations were featured by a Nazi raid attempted against a French outpost in the Vosges sector, where the rugged and wooded terrain is particularly adapted to such adventures.

The small French garrison spied the enemy approaching, however, and strategically deployed to bring him under fire. The Germans retreated, abandoning the body of their commanding offi-

Once Humble, Nazis Now Cocky With Reds But U.K. Press Doubts Stalin So Weak He Would Tip Hand By Seeking Hun Experts

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)— The British press today devoted a substantial portion of its editorial space to comment on Soviet-German relations. Skepticism was expressed concerning reports Russia had requested the loan of 200,000 German specialists to put Soviet industry in order.

The Daily Telegraph said: "Berlin has officially denied the report that Stalin has asked Hitler for 200,000 technicians. This does not prove it untrue, but there are other grounds for treating it with even more than diplomatic reserve —among them the obvious impossibility of Germany being able to spare a tenth of that number of experts in any branch of industry and the reluctance we must assume in Stalin to reveal disorganization on such a colossal scale."

The Daily Herald said Hitler is beginning to feel that he is now the senior and Stalin the junior partner in the Nazi-Soviet line-up.

"Until a month ago," the paper said, "It was Stalin who dictated and Hitler who agreed: for Germany was afraid of Russia. Instead of being suppliant they can be arrogant.

"It is not true that Stalin has asked for German help to reorganize Soviet industry and Soviet communications. He is not yet reduced to that.

"But what is true is that the Germans are beginning to think and talk of this as a possibility. They are beginning quietly to squeeze the Russians: to suggest that it is time the Bolshevists began to do more for their Nazi friend in return for East Poland and the Baltic States."

Fibre Flax, Sugar Beet Seed Plus More Pork, Cheese To Be Asked Of The Farmer

Growers Must Cover Import Requirements Now Cut Off From Germany, Poland; Much Corn Land Will Go Into Soy Beans

By R. K. CARNEGIE (Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP).—Canadian farmers will be asked to undertake specialty jobs this year because of the war and grow fibre flax seed, sugar beet seed, soy beans, as well as producing more pork, cheese and ordinary flax seed for making linseed oil.

Reports from the provinces reaching Agriculture Minister Gardiner in the past few days concerning the work of co-ordinating the war effort on the farms, indicate that plans are moving ahead satisfactorily, it was learned here today. By springtime the entire situation should be pretty well in hand.

Soon after war was declared the agricultural supplies committee was appointed by the Dominion Government to join with the provincial agricultural departments to direct farm industry into channels which would do most good.

Justice Department officials since have found that it should not have been called a committee but a board and a new Order-in-Council is to be passed soon making it the Agricultural Supply Board but the personnel with A. M. Shaw as chairman will remain unchanged.

One of the problems that the board is working out with the provincial farm experts is to guarantee that the farmers have plenty of high-quality seed. Much of the seed used in Canada normally came from parts of Europe now involved in the war. The practice of the Canadian trade to keep from one to two years' supplies of seed on hand has proved fortunate because it will give this country time to grow its own.

Mostly From Germany, Poland

In a normal year about 90 per cent of Canada's supply of sugar beet seed came from Germany and Poland but the two districts where sugar beets are grown on a large scale—Chatham, Ont., and Raymond, Alta.—have sufficient supplies for this year and three quarters of what will be required under normal conditions in 1941, according to seed experts here.

However, as more land than usual will be planted to beets to guard against a sugar shortage, seed requirements will be above the normal.

Seed men expect about 300 acres in Western Ontario district will be planted with full-grown beets saved over from last year to provide seed for 1941 and another 150 acres will be planted in Alberta. It takes two years to produce seed from seed.

As a further precaution, sugar beets entirely for seed production are to be grown on Vancouver Island and on the British Columbia mainland. Some seed also is to be sent to the United States to be grown there for the Canadian sugar beet industry.

With all these precautions seed authorities expect the industry will be well protected and production of beet sugar will continue to increase.

Canada uses about 190,000 pounds of mangel seed annually and while most of this comes from the United Kingdom where growers have guaranteed supplies for future years,

1,000 Ex-Officers In Prague Jailed By Nazis

PRAGUE, Jan. 3—(AP).—Arrests of nearly 1,000 former Czecho-Slovak army officers, two journalists and several members of the Skoda munitions works' central office were disclosed today.

The arrests occurred during the week of December 17-23; but were not made known at the time.

Most of those arrested were members of the Czech Legion. Authorities said they were suspected of having given Poland information on the movement of German troops during the Nazi invasion and of smuggling an unidentified former Minister, aviators and others to Poland, France and Great Britain.

The Skoda employees were suspected of stealing plans for the manufacture of munitions, it was said.

a transition to the defence portions of his speech:

"Even as through these trade agreements we prepare to cooperate in a world that wants peace, we must likewise be prepared to take care of ourselves if the world cannot attain peace," he said.

"For several years past we have been compelled to strengthen our own national defence. That has created a very large portion of our treasury deficits.

"This year in the light of continuing world uncertainty, I am asking the Congress for army and navy increases, which are based not on panic but on common sense. They are not as great as enthusiastic alarmists seek. They are not as small as unrealistic persons claiming superior private information would demand."

Defence Comes First.

"As will appear in the annual budget to-morrow," the President said, "the only important increase in any part of the budget is the estimate for national defence. Practically all other important items show a reduction.

"Therefore, in the hope that we can continue in these days of increasing economic prosperity to reduce the Federal deficit, I am asking the Congress to levy sufficient additional taxes to meet the emergency spending for national defence."

The general welfare of the people, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, lies behind the Army and Navy as the ultimate line of defence. While production is back at 1929 level, he said, the unemployment of millions supplies a symptom of unadjusted difficulties in the economic system.

"We refuse the European solution of using the unemployed to build up excessive armaments which eventually result in dictatorships.

"We encourage an American way—through an increase of national income which is the only way we can be sure will take up the slack. Much progress has been made; much remains to be done."

But he did not say how far the country had moved toward the goal he set a year ago in his message to Congress—a national income of $80,000,000,000.

At one point in his address Mr. Roosevelt said the time was long past when "any political party or any particular group can curry and capture public favor by labelling itself the 'peace party' or the 'peace bloc.'"

Label of the Nation.

"That label," he said, "belongs to the whole United States and every right thinking man, woman and child within it."

Out of all the military and diplomatic turmoil, propaganda and counter-propaganda of the present wars, Mr. Roosevelt went on; two facts, acknowledged by the world, stand out:

1. Never before has the United States Government "done so much as in our recent past to establish and maintain the policy of the good neighbor with its sister nations."

2. In almost every country there is a true public belief that the United States has been, and will continue to be, "a potent and active factor in seeking the re-establishment of peace."

"In these recent years we have had a clean record of peace and good-will," he said. "It is an open book that cannot be twisted or defamed. It is a record that must be continued and enlarged."

Although he emphasized at one point "the leadership which this nation can take when the time comes for a renewal of world peace," the President did not venture a guess on when the time might arrive.

He said he could understand the feelings of those who warn they would never consent again to the sending of American youth to fight on Europe's soil, and added:

"But as I remember, nobody has asked them to consent—for nobody expects such an undertaking.

"The overwhelming majority of our fellow citizens do not abandon in the slightest their hope and expectation that the United States will not become involved in military participation in the war."

War Felt At Home

Several times, however, the President observed that the United States could not help feel the impact of the wars abroad. That impact, he said at the start of his message, makes it natural to approach "the state of the union" through a discussion of foreign affairs.

We still believe with the framers of the constitution, he stressed, that "our best defence is the promotion of our general welfare and domestic tranquility."

"You are well aware," he said "that dictatorships—and the philosophy of force which justifies and accompanies dictatorships — have originated in almost every case in the necessity for drastic action to improve internal conditions where democratic action for one reason or another has failed to respond to modern needs and modern demands."

That was one of several references to dictators. Near the conclusion of his saddress, touching on the same subject, the President said:

"This is the danger to which we in America must begin to be more alert. For the apologists for foreign aggressors, and equally those selfish and partisan groups at home who wrap themselves in a false mantle of Americanism to promote their own economic; financial or political advantage, are now trying European tricks upon us; seeking to muddy the stream of our national thinking; weakening us in the fact of danger, by trying to set our own people to fighting among themselves.

"Such tactics are what have helped to plunge Europe into war. We must combat them, as we would the plague, if American integrity and security are to be preserved. We cannot afford to face the future as a disunited people.

"We must as a united people keep ablaze on this continent the flames of human liberty, of reason, of democracy and of fair play as living things to be preserved for the better world that is to come."

London, Jan. 2 (CP)

THE KING today inspected units of the southern command of the British Army.

Wearing the uniform of a field marshal, the King at one point walked for more than a mile along the road lined with troops in battle dress. He had an unofficial escort of villagers and children as he went past the cheering ranks.

The King covered 78 miles in a camouflaged car, driven by Lance Corporal Arthur Thompson, formerly a chauffeur at Buckingham Palace.

At the end of the day the King returned on the Royal train to London.

Russia Massing 7 Divisions For Finn Drive

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 3—(AP) — Irked by setbacks, Soviet Russia was reported today to be massing seven army divisions— about 150,000 men— as the spearhead for a major offensive against the Finnish Mannerheim line on the Karelian Isthmus.

Under a new Soviet commander, the fresh troops were said by Finnish sources to be ready for a tremendous push against the Finnish fortifications which have been described by the Russians as comparable to Germany's Seigfried line.

(Previous estimates of Russia's manpower before the Mannerheim line were upwards of 300,000 men. Authoritative sources have said Finland has 190,000 combat troops opposing the invaders on all fronts.

(General G. M. Stern, hero of Russia's Far Eastern "vest pocket war" with Japanese Manchoukuoan Forces in 1938, was reported on Dec. 29 to have succeeded General J. A. Meretskoff as Chief of the Finnish campaign.)

Fighting in sub-zero blizzard which checked enemy air attacks, the Finns said Soviet attacks near Lake Lavajaervi on the Eastern front yesterday were converted into Finnish victories. A Russian front line base was reported seized.

Meanwhile, reports of how Finnish troops trapped the 163rd Red Army Division December 29 and 30 in the greatest battle of the war, reached the capital for the first time.

Four thousand of the 15,000 men making up the 163rd infantry division were drawn up on ice-covered Lake Kianta when the Finns sur-

3 Aliens Nabbed In Time To Foil Sabotage

NELSON, B.C., Jan. 3—(CP). — Sergeant C. W. A. Barwis of the British Columbia police said Tuesday three enemy aliens, whose identity was not divulged, are held by West Kootenay authorities following seizure of correspondence aimed at sabotage of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company plants at nearby Trail.

The correspondence was seized some time ago and the sabotage was set for December 25. In inspector of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police from Vancouver, and two company officials have been working with Provincial Police on the case, and their efforts resulted in the arrest of two men at Trail and one at Paterson, a few miles from Trail, near the international boundary.

Police believe gas tanks at Warfield, one of the most recent parts of the Consolidated, was the particular part aimed at. Warfield is a short distance up the mountain from Tadanac where the main part of the smelter is situated, and where fertilizer is produced.

Both the Consolidated Smelters and the West Kootenay Power and Light Company whose plants are on Kootenay River 10 miles west of Nelson have been on the alert for saboteurs, surrounding their properties with guarded fences and huge searchlights.

field hospital, the dead are still lying on the floor. In a nearby barn Red soldiers left untouched a meal of bread and cheese on a table amid boots, gasmasks and straw.

Didn't Know Their Enemy.

At a field prison I talked with prisoners through an interpreter. He said the Russians declared they had not been told against whom they were going to fight.

The prisoners wore regulation winter uniforms, heavy enough perhaps for ordinary climates, but obviously not keeping them warm in the dry cold of the Arctic. They were without gloves and some had knitted helmets under their caps. They appeared unusually slight and weak. Ages of the prisoners ranged from 20 to 35. All were married and had from two to five children each.

A story has been told frequently in Finland that Russian officers machine-gunned their troops to force them into battle and so a question was put to these men about it.

While the others nodded, one shaking fellow answered excitedly with a pantomime description of a man with a machine-gun.

"He says 'Yes';" the interpreter declared. "He says that when his company went into battle they were told to line up without specific orders. When the company appeared confused they were ordered at machine-gun point. Some of his company, he says, were shot."

A Moscow Report.

MOSCOW, Jan. 3 — (AP). — The newspaper Trud alleged today that the "Finnish White Government" (the Helsingfors Government) had arrested thousands of workers and honest patriots "who do not want to fight for the Mannerheim gang."

The newspaper asserted that "arrested people are dying like flies in prisons" and reported many executions.

The Russians, however, received no news of the conflict with Finland as a communique on yesterday's events reported: "Nothing important occurred on the front. Owing to unfavorable weather Soviet aviation made only reconnoitring flights."

A proclamation by Paavo Prokkonen, "Minister for Karelian Affairs" of the "Finnish People's Democratic Government," sponsored b ythe Soviet at Terijoki, said the workers of Finland and the people of Soviet Karelia soon would be joined "in a happy new government."

Prokkonenjus proclamation, printed in the newspaper "Red Karelia," declared the Helsingfors government had sent "spies and terrorists into Soviet territory."

which have low sliding resistance, low tendency to 'freeze in' and high resistance to wear."

The council said it is now on a war footing and many investigations bearing on war problems are in progress at the laboratories. It is working in close co-operation with the National Defence Department and the War Supply Board.

Tests are being made on textiles of all kinds for military purposes, studies are being directed towards development of paints for detection of poison gases, gas mask equipment is being examined; the value of proposed investigations is being appraised and in practically every laboratory at least some of the work has a bearing on the war.

The council is under the direction of Dean C. J. Mackenzie of the University of Saskatchewan who is acting president in the absence of the president, Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, now in England as commander of the first division of the Canadian Active Service Force.

Offers of laboratory facilities and staff or war work have been received by the council from most of the Canadian Universities and several large industrial laboratories.

The council intends to make the greatest possible use of existing facilities in various parts of the Dominion in prosecution of war research, the review said.

Ajax and Achilles closed in for miles, frequently hitting the Graf Spee. Fires were seen to break out on board her.

"Both ships got slightly damaged, two turrets on the Ajax being put out of action, but they still continued the battle.

"After 80 minutes' firing, we broke off action and opened out to long range so as to shadow her wherever she went.

"The Graf Spee made no attempt to close, but went due west for the Plata. The Ajax and Achilles followed, one on each quarter at about 14 miles' range. It was an easy matter to see her owing to her massive control tower.

"The Spee occasionally turned and fired one or two salvos at one ship or another that got a bit too close. She did very accurate shooting but got no hits. This went on all day.

"In the evening the Graf Spee went right inside the Plata. At 9:10 p.m., when well inside Lobos (an island off the mouth of the river), she suddenly turned and fired three salvos at the Achilles. They again fell close.

"The Achilles followed her right up fence, then opened out to longer range to avoid provoking more shots. The Graf Spee again fired three times at the Achilles between 9:30 and 9:40, but it was almost dark and she must have fired wildly just to try to scare the Achilles away.

"The Achilles folowed her right up to see where she was going. She saw her anchor off Montevideo, and went back to the mouth of the Plata.

"Both small cruisers, though damaged, remained at sea off the mouth of the Plata for the next four days, being joined by the Cumberland the night of Dec. 14. These ships waited for the Graf Spee to come out, and were ready to engage her should she do so. Repairs were carried out while at sea.

"When the Graf Spee blew herself up the British cruisers resumed their normal patrol."

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 3—(AP) — The British cruiser Achilles entered Buenos Aires harbor today for a 48-hour stay for adjustments necessary after being at sea for a long period.

The cruiser steamed into port shortly after the cruiser Ajax, flagship of the British South Atlantic squadron, docked at Montevideo for a similar stay for refuelling and provisioning.

The Achilles, Ajax and the cruiser Exeter were the three British warships which battled the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the Uruguyan coast last month and eventually drove her into Montevideo harbor, where she was scuttled.

18 Die In Flames

Most of the occupants awoke to find the 85-apartment building already an inferno, smoke and flames blocking halls and stairways.

How the blaze spread so quickly through the 45-year-old structure puzzled firemen. The building is in three sections, and firemen said the fire appeared to start simultaneously in all three.

Only Walls Left.

The fire raged through the interior and left only the red brick walls standing.

The water pouring from fire hoses froze nearly as soon as it hit the walls, and hoses froze to the ground.

Witnesses said the fire appeared to spurt simultaneously from all nine entrances to the three sections of the apartment.

As firemen searched the wreckage of the upper floors, they found so many bodies that ambulances were pressed into service to take them to the morgue.

One fireman suffered a possible broken back when he fell through the roof of the building.

Passersby, attracted by the fire on their way to work, helped numerous residents out of windows on the lower floor.

Morgue keeper John Anderson said at 10 a.m., four hours after the fire was discovered, that 17 bodies had been brought to the morgue, and that he had just had a call to send the morgue ambulance to the apartment for at least one more.

Few Are Identified.

One victim, identified as Mrs. Mabel Brown, 34, died in hospital of a fractured skull. She had jumped from a third-floor window with her husband, who was in poor condition.

Anderson said three victims had been identified as Otto Franke, about 25; his sister, 16, and his mother, about 50.

The only other body identified even tentatively was that of Florence Hesse, 30, who jumped to her death out of a third floor window.

A caretaker said 100 to 125 persons lived in the building.

One woman, hysterical from fright, was seriously injured when she writhed out of a fireman's grasp as he carried her down an ice-coated ladder form the third floor.

The fire was the most disastrous here since the Pillsbury Mill fire of 1878, when 18 persons died.

Edward Holm, 20; who live nearby and was one of the first to arrive at the Marlborough after the fire broke out, described a scene of terror and confusion as occupants groped blindly through smoke-filled hallways.

"I ran to the second and third floors knocking on doors and shouting warnings. There seemed to be no response on the third floor and flames were raging. When I returned to the second floor, at least six or eight people in night clothes were screaming and trying to find their way out.

"I grabbed some and led them to the front doorway. Two policemen came in then and led some more out.

"A man whose feet were burned so badly they were bleeding fell at my feet. I carried him across the street, and when I returned a moment later, the doorway was blocked by flames and entrance was impossible.

FASHIONS

The most practical thing to have in your wardrobe in the winter time, is a smart, warm, two-piece frock that looks like a suit. In fact this one can be made as either a suit or a dress. If you are going South you will find this model very useful in a pastel tweed. If you are staying at home you will enjoy wearing this tiny waisted jacket suit under our sports coat on cold days. A gracefully flaring skirt and broad shouldered, narrow double-breasted jacket is a "must" in every career girl's wardrob. Nice to take back to college, too.

Style No. 3074 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 54-inch fabric.

STYLE GOES MAGIC

By ALICE ALDEN

A MAGICIAN couldn't do anything trickier than the designer of these new gloves. Each glove fits either hand, and whats more exciting, if one's lost it may be replaced at half the price of the pair. Possibly one of your first thoughts is that by the time you've worn the gloves a few months, the single you have in possession will appear shabby alongside the new. But it's for this very reason that sturdy leathers, difficult to wear down, have been used. Those shown come in English suede; others are in calf, mustang, goatskin and pigskin—and for both men and women.

Simple Homemade Soups Has A Welcome Warmth

Your poor dear stomach will welcome the warm simplicity of a bowl of homemade soup after all the food dissipating you have been doing over the holidays.

That is why we made this Mrs. Pepsy's Tomato Soup. I felt that the family needed the vitamins but not the proteins of a meat meal.

Mrs. Pepsy's Tomato Soup
(As told by Mrs. Pepys)

'Required ¼-pound bacon, this to be cut into dice and fried gently in the saucepan with 1 small onion, the result to be a nice brown, but not to be burnt or all will be spoilt. Add to these 1 quart of water (or much better still stock from boiling beef or chicken), also 1 pound of tomatoes skinned by pouring boiling water over them and then sliced (for us that means one 2½ can). Stew all together for 1 hour, then blend together 2 tablespoons corn flour with a little water and add while stirring carefully. Also 2 lumps sugar and seasoning of pepper and salt to taste. Boil up for 3 minutes, then serve with croutons of bread crisply fried.

My interpretation: ¼ pound side bacon diced thinly, 1 onion sliced thinly, saute over medium heat, 5 minutes. We added 1 cup beef stock and 2 cups water, and one 2½ can tomatoes, and boiled it only 15 minutes. The cornflour is a find—we are using it in much of our cooking—it gives tomato mixes a slight graininess that we think is desirable and does not lump. Mix the cornflour with ½ cup water, stir until all is moistened then stir into the soup. Add 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, and ¼ teaspoon white pepper. Some cooks think basil and bay are both indispensable to tomato soup—they are both good spices in this soup but use them sparingly.

The fried croutons would turn this from being a first course at dinner, to a main course at lunch or supper.

The next soup is also such a departure that you will have to try it even if I don't urge you.

Cream of Vegetable Puree.

One cup each potato, carrot, onion, celery (outer stalks), tomato (canned or raw), ½ cup turnip, cabbage. Put 2 tablespoons butter in bottom of soup pot, melt it slowly, add all the vegetables, stirring them around in the butter for 2 minues over low heat, then add 1 quart water, cover and boil for 40 minutes slowly, then force through sieve. (One blade of mace—no more—may be added to the vegetables while boiling if you like it.) To this puree add 1 pint of whole milk, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon of finely chopped parsley and bring to boiling point over low heat or in top of double boiler. To make this richer more blutter or some cream may be added just before serving. Garnish with either grated cheese or fried croutons of bread. I hope you all realize the "oomph" this soup has without further comment from me.

You will notice I am trying to be a vegetarian—that is why I chose

Corn Chowder Bisque

Anybody can make good soup from oxtails, but do we always have them on hand? No! But a can of corn is almost a staple on any Canadian housewife's shelf.

Two slices of salt pork diced (weighing about 2 ounces), 4 small onions diced, 6 medium potatoes cubed (about 2½ cups when prepared), 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 pint boiling water, 2 cups corn, canned or fresh, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1 quart hot whole milk, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter. Fry the pork in the soup kettle until light brown and crisp. Remove from fire add onions, potatoes, tomatoes, salt and pepper. Cover with boiling water and simmer until vegetables are nearly tender. Add corn and cook 10 minutes longer. Add the soda and hot milk which has been slightly thickened with flour mixed with the butter. Stir constantly while adding the milk and serve hot. These amounts will serve 8 generously.

Write to me if you want recipes using other vegetables or ingredients.

Brighten Rooms With Your Own Slip Covers

Upholstery Style Easy To Make

Like getting a new chair when you dress up an old one in a trim, upholstery-style slip cover! And easy to make such a cover, finish it with professional smartness.

For the upholstery effect, clever to choose an all-over pattern like that in our picture, have a straight flounce with inverted pleats at the chair corners.

To make your cover, just smooth the material over the old upholstery, beginning at the top of the inside-back and working down over the seat. Pin every 3 inches where seams will be, then cut 1½ inches outside pins for seams. Fit sides, arms and back the same way, baste and try on.

As for the finish, any of the 3 seams diagrammed will be smart. For the French seam, baste and stitch on wrong side, then turn and stitch on right, leaving ridge on the right side. To make a bound seam, neatly sew braid over seam on right side. For the professional looking welted seam, insert covered cord in seam from right side, baste and stitch on wrong side. Simple, isn't it?

For complete instructions and diagrams for making and trimming slip covers—see our 32-page booklet. Tells how to fit all types of chairs and sofas, has decorators' suggestions for fabrics, colors, trimmings.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO MAKE SLIP COVERS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 4.

Another strenuous day, in which sudden and surprising events may prove disconcerting if not devastating, is indicated by the lunar and mutual figures. Unpredictable situations which may arise call for decisive action: lightning change in plans, associations or surroundings may be required. When conditions seem confused and baffling, seek the wise counsel of "higher ups" and do not reject assistance or advice from an elderly woman. Shun extravagance, strife, and impetuosity, as well as fickleness, in private relations.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of upheaval, with sudden and unpredictable developments of radical effect and possibly breath-taking experience. Change of plans, objectives and associates are imminent. When overwhelmed by surprise, confusion and indecision, confer with those in high places or with friendly women of advanced years. Avoid extravagance, rash and impulsive conduct and fickle affections.

Those whose birthday it is may be capable and enterprising, but may have sudden and peculiar vicissitudes in life. Superiors or elders may be of benefit in helping adjustments or clarifying suspicious circumstances.

BABY'S TEETHING UPSETS QUICKLY CHECKED

YOUR BABY must "get a tooth". But he need not get a fever with it—if baby's mother is wise he won't.

Here is what one wise mother, Mrs. Archie Beebie, of Consecon, has to say: "We have not lost one night's rest through teething as I always use my old standby, Baby's Own Tablets. They are worth their weight in gold."

And Mrs. B. A. Sebine, of Galt, Ont., says: "I have given Baby's Own Tablets to my baby girl since she was three weeks old and, although she cut her teeth rapidly (all four molars at once) she has never yet wakened us at night. I would not be without these tablets."

Give these safe, sweet-tasting tablets at the first sign of teething fever. Easy to take, prompt in action, yet safe. Analyst's certificate in every package.

Circle To Raise Funds For Child Haven

Mrs. H. H. Graham, president of the Ladies' Mission Circle of Murray Street Baptist Church, presided at the Tuesday afternoon meeting. Letters of thanks were read by Mrs. W. G. Shiner for boxes of clothing sent to the west and north, and for a comfort box sent to a retired pastor.

Mrs. D. Loomis was appointed to receive donations for a fund which is being raised for Child Haven, a country home in England which is connected with the work of Mrs. Rowntree Clifford in London. An executive meeting was arranged to be held at three p.m. on January 16 in the ladies parlor of the church.

Group One, with Mrs. W. Kidd in the chair, took charge of the second part of the meeting. Mrs. F. M. Somerville gave an interesting New Year's message. Her scripture reading was from Ephesus, 6th Chapter.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe sang an old favorite hymn, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life." He was speaker of the meeting, and gave a brief outline of the early prophets, and then presented the life and message of the Prophet Amos, who lived in the year 750 B.C. He defined a prophet as one who speaks for someone—for God to man. Conditions somewhat similar to the present existed in the days of the Prophet Amos, with the nations Syria and Assyria battling for supremacy.

FASHIONS

The most practical thing to have in your wardrobe in the winter time, is a smart, warm, two-piece frock that looks like a suit. In fact this one can be made as either a suit or a dress. If you are going South you will find this model very useful in a pastel tweed. If you are staying at home you will enjoy wearing this tiny waisted jacket suit under our sports coat on cold days. A gracefully flaring skirt and broad shouldered, narrow double-breasted jacket is a "must" in every career girl's wardrob. Nice to take back to college, too.

Style No. 3074 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 54-inch fabric.

Skelton-Kavanagh Vows Repeated

A quiet wedding ceremony of much charm took place in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Norwood, at three-thirty o'clock Saturday afternoon, December 30, when Miss Meda Jean Kavanagh, youngest daughter of Mrs. Almeda Kavanagh and the late Samuel H. Kavanagh, and Mr. Joseph Galbraith Skelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Skelton, Toronto, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Perie, pastor of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, wore a sheer white gown, floor-length, made with square neckline and tiny fitted waist. Her long white embroidered veil fell gracefully from a wreath of orange blossoms and pearls, and she carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. Miss Norma Crowe, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was daintly frocked in pink sheer, with pleated bolero. Her matching shoulder-length veil was held in place by a wreath of gardenias. She also carried chrysanthemums. The groomsman was Mr. William McLean of Toronto, brother of the groom. The organ was played softly during the signing of the register.

Later the couple left by motor for Western points. The bride travelled in a blue dress under a grey coat, black hat, and matching accessories. They will reside in Oshawa.

STYLE GOES MAGIC

By ALICE ALDEN

A MAGICIAN couldn't do anything trickier than the designer of these new gloves. Each glove fits either hand, and whats more exciting, if one's lost it may be replaced at half the price of the pair. Possibly one of your first thoughts is that by the time you've worn the gloves a few months, the single you have in possession will appear shabby alongside the new. But it's for this very reason that sturdy leathers, difficult to wear down, have been used. Those shown come in English suede; others are in calf, mustang, goatskin and pigskin—and for both men and women.

Simple Homemade Soups Has A Welcome Warmth

Your poor dear stomach will welcome the warm simplicity of a bowl of homemade soup after all the food dissipating you have been doing over the holidays.

That is why we made this Mrs. Pepsy's Tomato Soup. I felt that the family needed the vitamins but not the proteins of a meat meal.

Mrs. Pepsy's Tomato Soup
(As told by Mrs. Pepsy)

'Required ¼-pound bacon, this to be cut into dice and fried gently in the saucepan with 1 small onion, the result to be a nice brown, but not to be burnt or all will be spoilt. Add to these 1 quart of water (or much better still stock from boiling beef or chicken), also 1 pound of tomatoes skinned by pouring boiling water over them and then sliced (for us that means one 2½ can). Stew all together for 1 hour, then blend together 2 tablespoons corn flour with a little water and add while stirring carefully. Also 2 lumps sugar and seasoning of pepper and salt to taste. Boil up for 3 minutes, then serve with croutons of bread crispy fried.

My interpretation: ¼ pound side bacon diced thinly, 1 onion sliced thinly, saute over medium heat, 5 minutes. We added 1 cup beef stock and 2 cups water, and one 2½ can tomatoes, and boiled it only 15 minutes. The cornflour is a find—we are using it in much of our cooking—it gives tomato mixes a slight graininess that we think is desirable and does not lump. Mix the cornflour with ½ cup water, stir until all is moistened then stir into the soup. Add 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, and ¼ teaspoon white pepper. Some cooks think basil and bay are both indispensable to tomato soup—they are both good spices in this soup but use them sparingly.

The fried croutons would turn this from being a first course at dinner, to a main course at lunch or supper.

The next soup is also such a departure that you will have to try it even if I don't urge you.

Cream of Vegetable Puree.

One cup each potato, carrot, onion, celery (outer stalks), tomato (canned or row), ½ cup turnip, cabbage. Put 2 tablespoons butter in bottom of soup pot, melt it slowly, add all the vegetables, stirring them around in the butter for 2 minues over low heat, then add 1 quart water, cover and boil for 40 minutes slowly, then force through sieve. (One blade of mace—no more—may be added to the vegetables while boiling if you like it.) To this puree add 1 pint of whole milk, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon of finely chopped parsley and bring to boiling point over low heat or in top of double boiler. To make this richer more blutter or some cream may be added just before serving. Garnish with either grated cheese or fried croutons of bread. I hope you all realize the "oomph" this soup has without further comment from me.

You will notice I am trying to be a vegetarian—that is why I chose

Corn Chowder Bisque

Anybody can make good soup from oxtails, but do we always have them on hand? No! But a can of corn is almost a staple on any Canadian housewife's shelf.

Two slices of salt pork diced (weighing about 2 ounces), 4 small onions diced, 6 medium potatoes cubed (about 2½ cups when prepared), 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 pint boiling water, 2 cups corn, canned or fresh, ¼ teasppoon soda, 1 quart hot whole milk, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter. Fry the pork in the soup kettle until light brown and crisp. Remove from fire add onions, potatoes, tomatoes, salt and pepper. Cover with boiling water and simmer until vegetables are nearly tender. Add corn and cook 10 minutes longer. Add the soda and hot milk which has been slightly thickened with flour mixed with the butter. Stir constantly while adding the milk and serve hot. These amounts will serve 8 generously.

Brighten Rooms With Your Own Slip Covers

Upholstery Style Easy To Make

Like getting a new chair when you dress up an old one in a trim, upholstery-style slip cover! And easy to make such a cover, finish it with professional smartness.

For the upholstery effect, clever to choose an all-over pattern like that in our picture, have a straight flounce with inverted pleats at the chair corners.

To make your cover, just smooth the material over the old upholstery, beginning at the top of the inside-back and working down over the seat. Pin every 3 inches where seams will be, then cut 1½ inches outside pins for seams. Fit sides, arms and back the same way, baste and try on.

As for the finish, any of the 3 seams diagrammed will be smart. For the French seam, baste and stitch on wrong side, then turn and stitch on right, leaving ridge on the right side. To make a bound seam, neatly sew braid over seam on right side. For the professional looking welted seam, insert covered cord in seam from right side, baste and stitch on wrong side. Simple, isn't it?

For complete instructions and diagrams for making and trimming slip covers—see our 32-page booklet. Tells how to fit all types of chairs and sofas, has decorators' suggestions for fabrics, colors, trimmings.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 4.

Another strenuous day, in which sudden and surprising events may prove disconcerting if not devastating, is indicated by the lunar and mutual figures. Unpredictable situations which may arise call for decisive action: lightning change in plans, associations or surroundings may be required. When conditions seem confused and baffling, seek the wise counsel of "higher ups" and do not reject assistance or advice from an elderly woman. Shun extravagance, strife, and impetuosity, as well as fickleness, in private relations.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of upheaval, with sudden and unpredictable developments of radical effect and possibly breath-taking experience. Change of plans, objectives and associates are imminent. When overwhelmed by surprise, confusion and indecision, confer with those in high places or with friendly women of advanced years. Avoid extravagance, rash and impulsive conduct and fickle affections.

Those whose birthday it is may be capable and enterprising, but may have sudden and peculiar vicissitudes in life. Superiors or elders may be of benefit in helping adjustments or clarifying suspicious circumstances.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for bad winter coughs. It makes a total saving for you, because it gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is a very effective, dependable, quick-acting cough remedy for the whole family. Quickly, you feel its penetrating effect in the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You'll be more than delighted with its quick effect in clearing up bad coughs.

They Call It Success

One of the official reports coming from Moscow said:

"Soviet aviation carried out successful bombings in a number of districts."

There can be no mistake about that one; it is not a rumor put out by some unidentified source; it comes straight from Moscow. They are not ashamed of it, and they have no desire to keep it quiet. They actually desire the world to know that Russia flew planes over and successfully bombed a number of places in Finland.

And what a success! Those big unwashed boobs in Moscow know well enough there is not much to hinder them when it comes to dropping bombs. They know the Finns have only a few planes and so they can fly the short distance to that country and dump bombs and return in safety. And that is what they call success!

If they were to march over a battalion of soldiers and let it be met by a battalion of Finns there would be no success. The Finns would beat them to their knees. And so this nation of 180 million people boasts it has successfully bombed a nation of 3,500,000!

Overlooking a Good Thing

We have noticed on three occasions speakers at meetings in Western Ontario have referred to the manner in which cheese makers from the Western section of the province cleaned up on the prizes at the recent exhibition in Belleville. Seventy per cent. of the awards went to Western Ontario, and the result is that the impression grows that Western Ontario is actually the leading section of the province in the making of good cheese.

But Western Ontario is not the cheese making centre of Ontario. The official lists for 1939 give the distribution of cheese making establishments this way:

Eastern Ontario	406
Central Ontario	168
Western Ontario	83
Total for Ontario	657

That means 574 of the 657 cheese factories in Ontario are located east of Toronto—or 87 per cent. And yet 70 per cent. of the prizes at the recent exhibition in Belleville went to the section of the province with 13 per cent. of the factories. Looking at it from the exhibition angle it would appear that Western Ontario had put it over Central and Eastern Ontario like a tent. And in all sincerity the Examiner congratulates the cheese makers from the Western section who have made such a study of exhibition cheese.

After making inquiries and securing results of day-to-day gradings it is established that cheese from Eastern and Central Ontario, on an export basis, makes just as good showing as that from Western Ontario—if not a trifle better.

The exhibition at Belleville was started three years ago, and prize cheese makers from the West were quick to enter. Very few cheese makers from Eastern Ontario proper—that is, from Frontenac eastward—send cheese to Belleville, where the exhibition is run by the Central Ontario Association.

It does look as though cheesemakers from sections east of Toronto had been overlooking a good bet in not contesting in this exhibition. A prize cheese is a prize cheese and it has publicity value. People at once grasp the idea that it must be better than any other cheese because it was declared the best in exhibition. The general public may know nothing at all about the day-to-day gradings, and they may never have access to the figures which tell of the excellence of cheese which does not go to the exhibition. If Central and Eastern Ontario with 87 per cent. of the cheese factories could transfer their numerical superiority to the business of making a similar showing in exhibitions they would find the resultant publicity well worth while. As things stand at the moment a good many people may be certain that because Western Ontario wins the bulk of the awards it is the premier cheese producing area of the province, whereas the cheese producing areas of this province are to a great extent east of Toronto.

Getting Along Without Them

There are at the moment 12 vacancies in the Canadian Senate, and some of these vacancies are of long standing. The chief interest seems to be for those who speculate that while the Conservatives are now in the majority there, the parties will be even if the dozen seats are filled by Liberals. And we strongly suspect that is what will be done.

But the idea of twelve vacancies is unusual, and it is something in the nature of policy which would not be applied to any business establishment of which we have knowledge.

The one bright feature is that the seats represent a salary expenditure of $4,000 a year, and with all services added the annual cost per seat would be far in excess of that amount. But right now we are not paying any salaries to vacant seats, so we are saving a little money.

If these seats represent effort of which the country stands in need then they should have been filled shortly after the vacancy occurred. But it is plain as a pikestaff the Prime Minister and his cabinet is not impressed by the vacant chairs; otherwise they would have known they could not well get along without this new dozen senators.

If it is possible to get along without a dozen senators for such a length of time —and that is what has taken place without injury—then what good reason is going to be given for naming people to these vacancies?

Building a Bridge

The London street footbridge received a sufficient vote when placed before the electors of Peterborough. The vote sanctions the spending of $10,000 for the purpose, but it sanctions nothing more. That is the official estimate and that is the amount property owners had in mind when they cast their votes.

In 1920 the then City Council provided $40,000 for the London street bridge — just four times as much as it is planned to spend 20 years later.

There is going to be some keen enough observation employed in many quarters to see how the estimated cost and the actual cost compare. It should be accepted as a fact that when $10,000 is voted that is the amount which will be spent because no provision has been made for anything more.

When Toronto Counts

We were interested in reading in the Globe and Mail how they secured the returns for the civic election in Toronto. That story is like unto a hardy perennial; it blooms regularly on the day after the vote is taken.

The method of the telling is improving. Listen:

"Vote returns rolled last night into the City Hall in a swollen tide of partially digested ballot summaries, passed through a battery of experienced tabulation operators, and emerged through newspaper channels to give the citizens of Toronto the fastest election reports of any city on the continent. The first returns came in a trickling and hesitant stream, a stream which gradually rose to a full-voiced torrent to the accompaniment of an obbligato of voices in the huge telephone room of the T. Eaton Co., and of the steady mutterings of thirty-four machines."

That swollen tide of partially digested summaries does not exactly agree with the picture which follows of a trickling and hesitant stream, but it gets along better when the stream decided to become a full-voiced torrent, and then when they got the obbligato and the mutterings hitched up the thing would be all lathered into pole horse action for the last leg to the winning post. We well enough understand it is bad form to mix up horse-race terms with obbligato and mutterings and partially digested summaries of elections, but for the moment we were partially lost in amazement regarding this fastest service on the continent.

In the Metropolitan edition of the Globe and Mail we happened to notice that in places it stated "69 out of 71 subdivisions" gave certain results. That was done in eight places, meaning the returns were not complete and we suppose the dead line for that paper would be about 2 in the morning. Polls close in Toronto at 6 o'clock and it should give the Toronto paper about eight hours to secure complete returns. With the partially digested summaries, the trickling and hesitant stream, the obbligato of voices and the muttering of machines it should have been done in an hour and a quarter.

In Peterborough we did not have many ballots to count; we were electing five aldermen and attending to a by-law, and of course we have no obbligato and no muttering. The polls close here at 5 o'clock and the returns were finished at 6.45. If we could get hold of an obbligato and one of those trickling streams which gradually rose to a full-voiced torrent, like as not we'd be able to have the returns all in and be home to supper sharp at 6.

Not Much Gratitude

Dr. A. R. Dafoe will probably feel more comfortable when acting as medical attendant for the Dionne quints than continuing as one of the guardians. There has always been something like an unnatural condition in the Dionne situation. Had there been one child born there the outside world would not have been interested; when there were five the world looked on. The five children belong to the Dionnes' father and mother, but it was fortunate enough that wiser heads had their way at the outset. Father Dionne gave evidence early that he had not sufficient common sense to handle the situation. He was prepared to send the five babes forth to be exhibited at Chicago when there was little life in them, and he was going to do that in order to make some revenue. It was fortunate indeed that a restraining hand was applied right there.

But there has always been friction. Oliva Dionne has never been satisfied. His attitude in the early years was that of a man who submitted to something which he could not well overthrow. There are plenty of people in this district who have seen the Dafoe Hospital and the Dionne home across the way where the children were born, and they would know well enough that five children, the result of multiple birth, could never have been cared for and kept alive there. There was all manner of equipment needed at the outset which could never have been supplied had not the government stepped in and taken charge. Dr. Dafoe has performed remarkably well in that situation. He has received thanks and gratitude from the world, but none from the Dionne parents.

Probably the plan to build a larger home where the entire family can live together is wise. It will be better for the children. They have been well cared for and they have repaid the province by becoming the greatest tourist attraction it ever had. But family life is something which has been missing, and we hope they get it in wholesome surroundings in the new quarters. A difficult situation has been for the most part well handled, and Mr. and Mrs. Dionne have been provided for in a way which would have been out of the question had they been left to their own resources. Probably it is the working out of human nature, but gratitude has not been one of the outstanding characteristics of the situation as far as the parents are concerned.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Little folk who come into our world on the first day of the year always receive a certain amount of notice. This year life for them begins at '40.

When war came it was feared the air transport business in the Canadian West would suffer, but figures show it has actually been on the up and up.

One platoon of the Kent Regiment is drilling in a garage at Leamington, and instructions on how to charge is imparted in the battery room.

Detroit Board of Education has budgeted to spend $30,000,000 in 1940. Reduced to dimensions of readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic this should represent quite an upswing in the sum total of juvenile knowledge.

A mink coat stolen from a dance hall in Windsor is said to have been worth $3,000. At the next convention of Canadian mink there should be some discussion to see what they are getting out of it.

The German freighter Tacoma with battle flag flying moved out of the harbor at Montevideo, and then moved right back in again, and is now interned for the duration of the war. The presence of a British cruiser in the vicinity had nothing to do with the change of mind. The German skipper was going back anyhow.

Toronto voters by more than four to one rejected the idea of doing away with civic elections during the war. If the Legislature now goes ahead and forces the issue it will do so knowing in advance it is doing something against the wishes of the people because the answer has been the same wherever an opinion was asked.

DOUBTFUL

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Ten dollar bills, five dollar bills, the kind that mount to fill the tills, that makes finances strong; their life is short least so I read, within some nine months they are dead, and that's not very long.

¶ They're worth some millions as they go, I've never seen them travel slow, and then they call them in; it makes me sort of grieve and squirm, to read they put them in to burn, so new bills can begin.

¶ I wonder if they want a man, to carry out that burning plan, a plain well-meaning guy; there's something in that kind of stuff, 'twould suit my talents well enough, I might at once apply.

¶ For I know people here and there, for whom the living's rather bare, with scarce enough to eat; they suffer too in winter time, when cold air beats against the spine, and they have little heat.

¶ If I had all those bills to burn; I'd try and do a goodly turn, I'd lay a few aside; so people who are short on cash, could buy their underwear and hash, and so retain their pride.

¶ Perhaps the government may mind, perhaps a lot of fault they'd find, my kindly plan might fail; perhaps they'd smite me on the jaw, and claim that I had broke the law—and park me in their jail.

Why Has Hitler Not Attacked Allies In West?

(By G. Ward Price in The London Daily Mail)

WHAT is holding up Hitler?. From the moment he came to power, surprise had been his specialty. He used to boast that, when he struck, it would be "like lightning in the night." Yet he has allowed 11 weeks to go by without making more than feeble gestures of hostility, accompanied by threats that never materialize.

So obvious was Germany's advantage over us in preparedness that the "stage-wait" with which the war drama has opened must be ascribed to one of two things—pre-arranged policy or internal obstruction.

At the outset it was due to deliberate German strategy. In my talks with the leaders of that country they always declared that if it came to war with Britain and France they would content themselves with remaining on the defensive in the west.

"The French will soon get tired of running their heads against the Siegfried line," Marshal Goering used to say, with a sweeping gesture. "Your fleet can't steam up the Elbe. We are the strongest in the air. There is nothing you can do to us on our western frontier. Meanwhile we shall have a free hand in Southeastern Europe."

It was there that the Germans looked for cheap and profitable victories. Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria were the countries coveted by the Nazi Government for its Lebensraum in Europe.

WHEN these were won, Hitler's triumph would have been complete; the cup of his conquests would have been filled. As the greatest Empire-builder since Napoleon, he could have set himself to discipline and organize his new territories, leaving the war in the West to peter out, and his adversaries there gradually realized their impotence. This was the Nazi dream, and it explains why the German general staff had prepared no plan for an active war in the West.

Logically, the scheme seemed a sound one. It was upset, not by the Allies, but by Herr von Ribbentrop, when he went to Moscow. Like the fisherman in the Arabian Nights who released the imprisoned genie from the bottle and could not get him to go back again, the German foreign minister called up the Russian giant for the purposes of Nazi policy, but has been unable to keep him under control.

Russia's passive resistance to German expansion in Eastern Europe is a factor with which the Nazi Government never reckoned.

Other unforeseen developments that conflict with the conception formed by the Fuehrer and his advisers as to how this war would go are Turkey's support of the Allies in their guarantee of Rumanian integrity, and Italy's resentment of any German scheme for penetrating the Balkans.

The Nazi leaders have gained all their experience of government as members of a despotic regime. They have grown accustomed to seeing their ideas carried out instantly and exactly, because they hold the big stick. Their minds had ceased to reckon with the possibility of opposition.

THAT over-confidence has been their undoing. In foreign affairs other Governments have to be considered. It is Soviet Russia, not Germany, who is now the arbiter of Eastern and Southeastern Europe, and if Hitler cannot persuade his dubious but redoubtable friend Stalin to concede him a little scope in that part of the continent, he will find the door leading to the delights of Lebensraum barred against him.

For the Fuehrer this is an unfortunate posture. His reputation has been built up by a series of decisive and inexpensive successes. For years he has been taxing, drilling and disciplining the people of Germany to win the biggest success of all, which was to make that country the overlord of Europe. Yet, now, when the time of trial has come, he hesitates to put his fortunes to the test.

The fact is that, greedily though Hitler covets territory in Eastern Europe, he does not want to fight Western European powers to get it.

He was ready to overrun Czecho-Slovakia or overwhelm Poland, because that was easy and the issue could never be in doubt. But he has no desire for a trial of strength with Britain and France.

I BELIEVE that the reason why we have been at war for close on four months without any large-scale fighting in the West is to be found in the fact that Europe—even including Germany—recoils from the idea of unloosing all the terrible powers of destruction contained in modern armies, fleets, and air forces.

That Hitler has given us all this time to complete our preparations and transfer our army and its stores unmolested to France is all but proof that he is afraid of war in West.

Announcements of an imminent attack on ourselves....are clearly intended to impress German rather than British opinion. It must be obvious, even to Hitler, that he cannot scare the people of this country, so the only effect of such fulminations is to keep us on the alert, while he regards neutral opinion they lay, in advance, the responsibility for starting the active phase of the war upon the shoulders of Germany.

In the meantime we are witnessing the mightiest military demonstration in all history.

• How Men of British Navy Behave

(H. B. Elliston, Correspondent of Christian Science Monitor, narrates his observations up in the Orkneys.)

STOCKHOLM, (Delayed) — I first came in contact with Britain's fighting forces when an armed escort of them from a British cruiser boarded our trans-Atlantic steamer off the Danish Faroe Islands. The story of our capture at sea I told at the time. Out of the night gloom the party of blue-jackets suddenly appeared on our starboard bow in a seven-oared gig. All of them were armed, clad in sou'-westers and lifebelts, and in what seemed to be less than a jiffy they had swarmed up the rope ladder which we had lowered for them. Their job, in naval parlance, was to "deviate" us to a British harbor for examination of passengers and cargo by the contraband authorities.

This they did with all imaginable politeness. The bluejackets had two day's rations with them, and the officers were under instructions to pay for their food. Our captain offered the bridge to the boarding party. But with many "pleases" they insisted that the Swedes were still in navigational authority. All they were instructed to do was to see that we steered south into Kirkwall for what the naval folk call "visit and search."

So active are the British blockaders that the cruiser could spare only a midshipman and half a dozen tars for the job of escorting our 10,000-tonner to Kirkwall in the Orkneys. The middy could not have been more than 18. He told me he was one of 10 such lads on the cruiser, and some of them, as he was, were drafted from the training schools of the merchant marine.

Neither he nor the tars would reveal the name of our captor cruiser. On their caps they wore only the sign H.M.S. All His Majesty's ships are similarly nameless in wartime, but the name is only erased, not forgotten. What's in a name? you may ask. A great deal to these lads, just as much as there is to the name of a regiment in the junior service.

We were all interested in talking to our detainers. And they were talkative, though diplomatic. I attached myself to one of them. I shall give his views in heard the English. Actually they were rendered in such authentic Cockney that I almost heard the sound of Bow Bells as he was talking. "Nobody can slip through the patrol now," he said to me, proudly. (However, I later found out that a Norwegian boat, the Stavangerfjord, had, in fact, slipped through the patrol—probably in the hazy weather that sometimes shrouds the Faroe Islands.)

"You were trying to dodge us," he continued, "but we knew you were coming, two days ago. If we'd missed you, H.M.S. Calypso (I can tell you the name, because now it's way down the Scottish coast) would have got you." In fact, we sighted this second cruiser within an hour of being pulled up by the first. We acknowledged that, and the tar beamed again.

They are proud of the success of their vigil, these sailors. "Few neutrals have escaped us, and no Germans. We know of two Germans who left Vigo two days ago. You see, we are flashing to each other all the way from Iceland to Cape Verde. And we're waiting for 'em. They'll never get by. Last week we caught one one; Jerry (the old familiar name for the enemy, I recalled) scuttled her, and we put out, and brought in the crew, mostly Chinese. Then we had to sink the boat because it had become only a dangerous hulk anyway."

The Scandinavians with whom I travelled were in some cases badly inconvenienced by the delay caused by our calling at Kirkwall. But, as one of them said, "we can stand a lot from the British in this war." Accordingly the tars enjoyed so much private hospitality that they threw their rations overboard!

And in return they were models of good behavior. "We are just guests," they kept saying, "and, if we aren't well-behaved, you can turn us out of your reception rooms. This artillery (pointing to their revolvers) is just for show, you know. Of course, you didn't invite us on board, and you can't kick us off the ship, but we know our place." The Scandinavians were delighted by such propriety.

What struck one most about the sailors was their almost ardent belief in the rightness of their cause. The light would come into their young eyes as they spoke.

To this passenger the experience telescoped a generation, and he felt himself back among the boys of the World War. They were just like that. Would that such a generation in Germany as well as in Britain could be saved the decimating experience of war!

• Dark Days Before Brighter Ones

ONE SIDE did not go into the war between Germany and the Allies until it had made sacrifices such as nations have never made before for the preservation of peace. When that side finally did take up arms, it did so under no illusion that there is any glory in war. The Allied nations have gone to war as a last resort in order to preserve for the people of their own countries, the people of neutral countries, and even for many of the people of enemy countries, those elementary human rights and freedoms without which life is abnormal and perverted. In the fact that nations, which have nothing but confidence in their ability to gain the victory, went into war, not enthusiastically but grimly and sadly, there is reason for a great hope.

There is reason for further hope in the fact that ordinary people in scores of countries have been studying and discussing and learning about the democratic way of government as they never have before. They have also been thinking more deeply and seriously about ways and means of improving the methods of maintaining peaceful relations between nations. This thought and study will not bear immediate fruit, but when peace is restored the ordinary people of the world will scarcely again be satisfied until they feel thoroughly assured that it is on a firm foundation. Finally the shock of war has resulted in a great clarification and unification of the ideas of peace-loving people. In the confusion and tensions of the last few years, even the best thinkers of the countries abhorring wars were unable to produce ideas of adequate power and validity to unite the people of the world in a sufficiently strong effort to cut through the impediments to the prevention of war. Within the past month or two, however, strong, humane and civilized ideas, powerfully expressed, are again becoming a force in the world.

So far the warfare has gone unexpectedly well for the countries which hate war. There is every indication that it will go even better in the coming year, although not before some extremely dark and anxious times have been lived through. It is not likely to be a very happy New Year for the world, but it may be the year in which the foundations will be laid for a new era in which all New Years will be happier than they have ever been in the past for the human race. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

HARD-LOOKING WOMAN

(Letter to New York Sun)

SIR,—In a roadside lunch wagon: The counter was nearly filled with intercity truck chauffeurs and incidental motorists.

A hard-looking woman entered, middle-aged, poorly dressed, sordid face scored with the ruts of a terrible life. She mounted a stool at the counter.

"Say, bo, a cup o' mud and a hamburger."

Then she went to an automatic phonograph that had just finished playing "Oh, Johnny!" She read with care the list of titles the machine had to offer, inserted a nickel and returned to her coffee and hamburger.

What late song in jazz or swing would be the selection of a stranded derelict?

The phonograph began to play—"Silent Night, Holy Night."

IRVIN COBB TOLD HIM

(New York Herald Tribune)

Most of us would be somewhat befuddled, if not scared plumb out of our skins, to wake up in the middle of the night and find a stranger bending over the foot of the bed. But not Irvin Cobb. The author reports that he woke up in a Paris hotel one night and found a black-bearded man asking if there was anything he could do. "I told him yes, there was," says Mr. Cobb. "He could go and get a shave."

MUST HAVE TEETH

(Winnipeg Tribune)

The idea of an international order is certainly valuable; it is one of Britain's peace aims in this war. But if there is to be any "League"—and we hope that it will not be cursed from the outset with that unhappy name which reeks of the Geneva fiasco—it must have teeth in it. It must be able to enforce international decisions, it must be able to require the surrendering of some national sovereignty, as the Geneva concern was never able to do.

MADE-UP PATIENTS

LADIES, fixing themselves up to look beautiful may not know what chances they're taking. Dr. Charles Higgins of Cleveland, told a conference of the American College of Surgeons that lipstick and finger-nail polish often make it impossible for a physician to tell whether a woman is sick without practically taking her apart.

In the old days, he said, you could usually figure out what was the matter with somebody just by looking at her; now a patient may be dying and still look as wonderful as Sonja Henie. By the time the doctor gets her cleaned off enough so that he can see what she really looks like she may even be dead.

We don't wish to alarm you with these gloomy tidings, but we don't want to be responsible for preserving any fool's paradise either.—The New Yorker.

THE ONLY SEAT LEFT

A WOMAN was introduced to Anton Rubinstein, the Russian pianist, and exclaimed: "Oh, Mr. Rubinstein, I am so glad to meet you! All the seats are sold, and I have tried in vain to get a seat for your recital. Haven't you a seat you could let me take?"

"There is only one seat at my disposal madam," Rubinstein replied to her, "but you are welcome to that if you will take it."

"Oh, thank you," the woman exclaimed happily. "A thousand thanks, Mr. Rubinstein! Where is it?"

To which Mr. Rubinstein solemnly answered: "At the piano."—New York Herald Tribune.

OLDEST PAPERS MERGE

IN ALL PARTS of the world newspapers are finding the going hard. Costs rise in all departments and revenues are not what they used to be. While a newspaper is a public servant and almost a utility, it is also a business and must be run on business lines. Even in the biggest cities two costly papers can no longer be made to pay.

One of the oldest newspapers in Great Britain, the "Leeds Mercury," has been merged with the "Yorkshire Post." Both papers are owned by the firm of which Mr. Rupert Beckett, uncle of Mrs. Anthony Eden, is chairman. The "Leeds Mercury," was founded in 1718, the "Yorkshire Post," under the name of the "Leeds Intelligencer," in 1754. Each is older than any London newspaper, including the "Morning Post" established in 1772, and amalgamated with the "Daily Telegraph" two years ago.—Brandon Sun

They Call It Success

One of the official reports coming from Moscow said:

"Soviet aviation carried out successful bombings in a number of districts."

There can be no mistake about that one; it is not a rumor put out by some unidentified source; it comes straight from Moscow. They are not ashamed of it, and they have no desire to keep it quiet. They actually desire the world to know that Russia flew planes over and successfully bombed a number of places in Finland.

And what a success! Those big unwashed boobs in Moscow know well enough there is not much to hinder them when it comes to dropping bombs. They know the Finns have only a few planes and so they can fly the short distance to that country and dump bombs and return in safety. And that is what they call success!

If they were to march over a battalion of soldiers and let it be met by a battalion of Finns there would be no success. The Finns would beat them to their knees. And so this nation of 180 million people boasts it has successfully bombed a nation of 3,500,000!

Overlooking a Good Thing

We have noticed on three occasions speakers at meetings in Western Ontario have referred to the manner in which cheese makers from the Western section of the province cleaned up on the prizes at the recent exhibition in Belleville. Seventy per cent. of the awards went to Western Ontario, and the result is that the impression grows that Western Ontario is actually the leading section of the province in the making of good cheese.

But Western Ontario is not the cheese making centre of Ontario. The official lists for 1939 give the distribution of cheese making establishments this way:

Eastern Ontario	406
Central Ontario	168
Western Ontario	83
Total for Ontario	657

That means 574 of the 657 cheese factories in Ontario are located east of Toronto—or 87 per cent. And yet 70 per cent. of the prizes at the recent exhibition in Belleville went to the section of the province with 13 per cent. of the factories. Looking at it from the exhibition angle it would appear that Western Ontario had put it over Central and Eastern Ontario like a tent. And in all sincerity the Examiner congratulates the cheese makers from the Western section who have made such a study of exhibition cheese.

After making inquiries and securing results of day-to-day gradings it is established that cheese from Eastern and Central Ontario, on an export basis, makes just as good showing as that from Western Ontario—if not a trifle better.

The exhibition at Belleville was started three years ago, and prize cheese makers from the West were quick to enter. Very few cheese makers from Eastern Ontario proper—that is, from Frontenac eastward—send cheese to Belleville, where the exhibition is run by the Central Ontario Association.

It does look as though cheesemakers from sections east of Toronto had been overlooking a good bet in not contesting in this exhibition. A prize cheese is a prize cheese and it has publicity value. People at once grasp the idea that it must be better than any other cheese because it was declared the best in exhibition. The general public may know nothing at all about the day-to-day gradings, and they may never have access to the figures which tell of the excellence of cheese which does not go to the exhibition. If Central and Eastern Ontario with 87 per cent. of the cheese factories could transfer their numerical superiority to the business of making a similar showing in exhibitions they would find the resultant publicity well worth while. As things stand at the moment a good many people may be certain that because Western Ontario wins the bulk of the awards it is the premier cheese producing area of the province, whereas the cheese producing areas of this province are to a great extent east of Toronto.

Getting Along Without Them

There are at the moment 12 vacancies in the Canadian Senate, and some of these vacancies are of long standing. The chief interest seems to be for those who speculate that while the Conservatives are now in the majority there, the parties will be even if the dozen seats are filled by Liberals. And we strongly suspect that is what will be done.

But the idea of twelve vacancies is unusual, and it is something in the nature of policy which would not be applied to any business establishment of which we have knowledge.

The one bright feature is that the seats represent a salary expenditure of $4,000 a year, and with all services added the annual cost per seat would be far in excess of that amount. But right now we are not paying any salaries to vacant seats, so we are saving a little money.

If these seats represent effort of which the country stands in need then they should have been filled shortly after the vacancy occurred. But it is plain as a pikestaff the Prime Minister and his cabinet is not impressed by the vacant chairs; otherwise they would have known they could not well get along without this new dozen senators.

If it is possible to get along without a dozen senators for such a length of time —and that is what has taken place without injury—then what good reason is going to be given for naming people to these vacancies?

Building a Bridge

The London street footbridge received a sufficient vote when placed before the electors of Peterborough. The vote sanctions the spending of $10,000 for the purpose, but it sanctions nothing more. That is the official estimate and that is the amount property owners had in mind when they cast their votes.

In 1920 the then City Council provided $40,000 for the London street bridge — just four times as much as it is planned to spend 20 years later.

There is going to be some keen enough observation employed in many quarters to see how the estimated cost and the actual cost compare. It should be accepted as a fact that when $10,000 is voted that is the amount which will be spent because no provision has been made for anything more.

When Toronto Counts

We were interested in reading in the Globe and Mail how they secured the returns for the civic election in Toronto. That story is like unto a hardy perennial; it blooms regularly on the day after the vote is taken.

The method of the telling is improving. Listen:

"Vote returns rolled last night into the City Hall in a swollen tide of partially digested ballot summaries, passed through a battery of experienced tabulation operators, and emerged through newspaper channels to give the citizens of Toronto the fastest election reports of any city on the continent. The first returns came in a trickling and hesitant stream, a stream which gradually rose to a full-voiced torrent to the accompaniment of an obbligato of voices in the huge telephone room of the T. Eaton Co., and of the steady mutterings of thirty-four machines."

That swollen tide of partially digested summaries does not exactly agree with the picture which follows of a trickling and hesitant stream, but it gets along better when the stream decided to become a full-voiced torrent, and then when they got the obbligato and the mutterings hitched up the thing would be all lathered into pole horse action for the last leg to the winning post. We well enough understand it is bad form to mix up horse-race terms with obbligato and mutterings and partially digested summaries of elections, but for the moment we were partially lost in amazement regarding this fastest service on the continent.

In the Metropolitan edition of the Globe and Mail we happened to notice that in places it stated "69 out of 71 subdivisions" gave certain results. That was done in eight places, meaning the returns were not complete and we suppose the dead line for that paper would be about 2 in the morning. Polls close in Toronto at 6 o'clock and it should give the Toronto paper about eight hours to secure complete returns. With the partially digested summaries, the trickling and hesitant stream, the obbligato of voices and the muttering of machines it should have been done in an hour and a quarter.

In Peterborough we did not have many ballots to count; we were electing five aldermen and attending to a by-law, and of course we have no obbligato and no muttering. The polls close here at 5 o'clock and the returns were finished at 6.45. If we could get hold of an obbligato and one of those trickling streams which gradually rose to a full-voiced torrent, like as not we'd be able to have the returns all in and be home to supper sharp at 6.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe will probably feel more comfortable when acting as medical attendant for the Dionne quints than continuing as one of the guardians. There has always been something like an unnatural condition in the Dionne situation. Probably the plan to build a larger home where the entire family can live together is wise. It will be better for the children. They have been well cared for and they have repaid the province by becoming the greatest tourist attraction it ever had. But family life is something which has been missing, and we hope they get it in wholesome surroundings in the new quarters. A difficult situation has been for the most part well handled, and Mr. and Mrs. Dionne have been provided for in a way which would have been out of the question had they been left to their own resources. Probably it is the working out of human nature, but gratitude has not been one of the outstanding characteristics of the situation as far as the parents are concerned.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Little folk who come into our world on the first day of the year always receive a certain amount of notice. This year life for them begins at '40.

When war came it was feared the air transport business in the Canadian West would suffer, but figures show it has actually been on the up and up.

One platoon of the Kent Regiment is drilling in a garage at Leamington, and instructions on how to charge is imparted in the battery room.

Detroit Board of Education has budgeted to spend $30,000,000 in 1940. Reduced to dimensions of readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic this should represent quite an upswing in the sum total of juvenile knowledge.

A mink coat stolen from a dance hall in Windsor is said to have been worth $3,000. At the next convention of Canadian mink there should be some discussion to see what they are getting out of it.

The German freighter Tacoma with battle flag flying moved out of the harbor at Montevideo, and then moved right back in again, and is now interned for the duration of the war. The presence of a British cruiser in the vicinity had nothing to do with the change of mind. The German skipper was going back anyhow.

Toronto voters by more than four to one rejected the idea of doing away with civic elections during the war. If the Legislature now goes ahead and forces the issue it will do so knowing in advance it is doing something against the wishes of the people because the answer has been the same wherever an opinion was asked.

DOUBTFUL

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Ten dollar bills, five dollar bills, the kind that mount to fill the tills, that makes finances strong; their life is short least so I read, within some nine months they are dead, and that's not very long.

¶ They're worth some millions as they go, I've never seen them travel slow, and then they call them in; it makes me sort of grieve and squirm, to read they put them in to burn, so new bills can begin.

¶ I wonder if they want a man, to carry out that burning plan, a plain well-meaning guy; there's something in that kind of stuff, 'twould suit my talents well enough, I might at once apply.

¶ For I know people here and there, for whom the living's rather bare, with scarce enough to eat; they suffer too in winter time, when cold air beats against the spine, and they have little heat.

¶ If I had all those bills to burn, I'd try and do a goodly turn, I'd lay a few aside; so people who are short on cash, could buy their underwear and hash, and so retain their pride.

¶ Perhaps the government may mind, perhaps a lot of fault they'd find, my kindly plan might fail; perhaps they'd smite me on the jaw, and claim that I had broke the law—and park me in their jail.

Why Has Hitler Not Attacked Allies In West?

(By G. Ward Price in The London Daily Mail)

WHAT is holding up Hitler?. From the moment he came to power, surprise had been his specialty. He used to boast that, when he struck, it would be "like lightning in the night." Yet he has allowed 11 weeks to go by without making more than feeble gestures of hostility, accompanied by threats that never materialize.

So obvious was Germany's advantage over us in preparedness that the "stage-wait" with which the war drama has opened must be ascribed to one of two things—pre-arranged policy or internal obstruction.

At the outset it was due to deliberate German strategy. In my talks with the leaders of that country they always declared that if it came to war with Britain and France they would content themselves with remaining on the defensive in the west.

"The French will soon get tired of running their heads against the Siegfried line," Marshal Goering used to say, with a sweeping gesture. "Your fleet can't steam up the Elbe. We are the strongest in the air. There is nothing you can do to us on our western frontier. Meanwhile we shall have a free hand in Southeastern Europe."

It was there that the Germans looked for cheap and profitable victories. Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria were the countries coveted by the Nazi Government for its Lebensraum in Europe.

WHEN these were won, Hitler's triumph would have been complete; the cup of his conquests would have been filled. As the greatest Empire-builder since Napoleon, he could have set himself to discipline and organize his new territories, leaving the war in the West to peter out, and his adversaries there gradually realized their impotence. This was the Nazi dream, and it explains why the German general staff had prepared no plan for an active war in the West.

Logically, the scheme seemed a sound one. It was upset, not by the Allies, but by Herr von Ribbentrop, when he went to Moscow. Like the fisherman in the Arabian Nights who released the imprisoned genie from the bottle and could not get him to go back again, the German foreign minister called up the Russian giant for the purposes of Nazi policy, but has been unable to keep him under control.

Russia's passive resistance to German expansion in Eastern Europe is a factor with which the Nazi Government never reckoned.

Other unforeseen developments that conflict with the conception formed by the Fuehrer and his advisers as to how this war would go are Turkey's support of the Allies in their guarantee of Rumanian integrity, and Italy's resentment of any German scheme for penetrating the Balkans.

The Nazi leaders have gained all their experience of government as members of a despotic regime. They have grown accustomed to seeing their ideas carried out instantly and exactly, because they hold the big stick. Their minds had ceased to reckon with the possibility of opposition.

THAT over-confidence has been their undoing. In foreign affairs other Governments have to be considered. It is Soviet Russia, not Germany, who is now the arbiter of Eastern and Southeastern Europe, and if Hitler cannot persuade his dubious but redoubtable friend Stalin to concede him a little scope in that part of the continent, he will find the door leading to the delights of Lebensraum barred again in him.

For the Fuehrer this is an unfortunate posture. His reputation has been built up by a series of decisive and inexpensive successes. For years he has been taxing, drilling and disciplining the people of Germany to win the biggest success of all, which was to make that country the overlord of Europe. Yet, now, when the time of trial has come, he hesitates to put his fortunes to the test.

The fact is that, greedily though Hitler covets territory in Eastern Europe, he does not want to fight Western European powers to get it.

He was ready to overrun Czecho-Slovakia or overwhelm Poland, because that was easy and the issue could never be in doubt. But he has no desire for a trial of strength with Britain and France.

I BELIEVE that the reason why we have been at war for close on four months without any large-scale fighting in the West is to be found in the fact that Europe—even including Germany—recoils from the idea of unloosing all the terrible powers of destruction contained in modern armies, fleets, and air forces.

That Hitler has given us all this time to complete our preparations and transfer our army and its stores unmolested to France is all but proof that he is afraid of war in West.

Announcements of an imminent attack on ourselves....are clearly intended to impress German rather than British opinion. It must be obvious, even to Hitler, that he cannot scare the people of this country, so the only effect of such fulminations is to keep us on the alert, while he regards neutral opinion they lay, in advance, the responsibility for starting the active phase of the war upon the shoulders of Germany.

In the meantime we are witnessing the mightiest military demonstration in all history.

• How Men of British Navy Behave

STOCKHOLM, (Delayed) — I first came in contact with Britain's fighting forces when an armed escort of them from a British cruiser boarded our trans-Atlantic steamer off the Danish Faroe Islands. The story of our capture at sea I told at the time. Out of the night gloom the party of blue-jackets suddenly appeared on our starboard bow in a seven-oared gig. All of them were armed, clad in sou'-westers and lifebelts, and in what seemed to be less than a jiffy they had swarmed up the rope ladder which we had lowered for them. Their job, in naval parlance, was to "deviate" us to a British harbor for examination of passengers and cargo by the contraband authorities.

This they did with all imaginable politeness. The bluejackets had two day's rations with them, and the officers were under instructions to pay for their food. Our captain offered the bridge to the boarding party. But with many "pleases" they insisted that the Swedes were still in navigational authority. All they were instructed to do was to see that we steered south into Kirkwall for what the naval folk call "visit and search."

So active are the British blockaders that the cruiser could spare only a midshipman and half a dozen tars for the job of escorting our 10,000-tonner to Kirkwall in the Orkneys. The middy could not have been more than 18. He told me he was one of 10 such lads on the cruiser, and some of them, as he was, were drafted from the training schools of the merchant marine.

Neither he nor the tars would reveal the name of our captor cruiser. On their caps they wore only the sign H.M.S. All His Majesty's ships are similarly nameless in wartime, but the name is only erased, not forgotten. What's in a name? you may ask. A great deal to these lads, just as much as there is to the name of a regiment in the junior service.

We were all interested in talking to our detainers. And they were talkative, though diplomatic. I attached myself to one of them. I shall give his views in heard the English. Actually they were rendered in such authentic Cockney that I almost heard the sound of Bow Bells as he was talking. "Nobody can slip through the patrol now," he said to me, proudly. (However, I later found out that a Norwegian boat, the Stavangerfjord, had, in fact, slipped through the patrol—probably in the hazy weather that sometimes shrouds the Faroe Islands.)

"You were trying to dodge us," he continued, "but we knew you were coming, two days ago. If we'd missed you, H.M.S. Calypso (I can tell you the name, because now it's way down the Scottish coast) would have got you." In fact, we sighted this second cruiser within an hour of being pulled up by the first. We acknowledged that, and the tar beamed again.

They are proud of the success of their vigil, these sailors. "Few neutrals have escaped us, and no Germans. We know of two Germans who left Vigo two days ago. You see, we are flashing to each other all the way from Iceland to Cape Verde. And we're waiting for 'em. They'll never get by. Last week we caught one one; Jerry (the old familiar name for the enemy, I recalled) scuttled her, and we put out, and brought in the crew, mostly Chinese. Then we had to sink the boat because it had become only a dangerous hulk anyway."

The Scandinavians with whom I travelled were in some cases badly inconvenienced by the delay caused by our calling at Kirkwall. But, as one of them said, "we can stand a lot from the British in this war." Accordingly the tars enjoyed so much private hospitality that they threw their rations overboard!

And in return they were models of good behavior. "We are just guests," they kept saying, "and, if we aren't well-behaved, you can turn us out of your reception rooms. This artillery (pointing to their revolvers) is just for show, you know. Of course, you didn't invite us on board, and you can't kick us off the ship, but we know our place." The Scandinavians were delighted by such propriety.

What struck one most about the sailors was their almost ardent belief in the rightness of their cause. The light would come into their young eyes as they spoke.

To this passenger the experience telescoped a generation, and he felt himself back among the boys of the World War. They were just like that. Would that such a generation in Germany as well as in Britain could be saved the decimating experience of war!

• Dark Days Before Brighter Ones

ONE SIDE did not go into the war between Germany and the Allies until it had made sacrifices such as nations have never made before for the preservation of peace. When that side finally did take up arms, it did so under no illusion that there is any glory in war. The Allied nations have gone to war as a last resort in order to preserve for the people of their own countries, the people of neutral countries, and even for many of the people of enemy countries, those elementary human rights and freedoms without which life is abnormal and perverted. In the fact that nations, which have nothing but confidence in their ability to gain the victory, went into war, not enthusiastically but grimly and sadly, there is reason for a great hope.

There is reason for further hope in the fact that ordinary people in scores of countries have been studying and discussing and learning about the democratic way of government as they never have before. They have also been thinking more deeply and seriously about ways and means of improving the methods of maintaining peaceful relations between nations. This thought and study will not bear immediate fruit, but when peace is restored the ordinary people of the world will scarcely again be satisfied until they feel thoroughly assured that it is on a firm foundation. Finally the shock of war has resulted in a great clarification and unification of the ideas of peace-loving people. In the confusion and tensions of the last few years, even the best thinkers of the countries abhorring wars were unable to produce ideas of adequate power and validity to unite the people of the world in a sufficiently strong effort to cut through the impediments to the prevention of war. Within the past month or two, however, strong, humane and civilized ideas, powerfully expressed, are again becoming a force in the world.

So far the warfare has gone unexpectedly well for the countries which hate war. There is every indication that it will go even better in the coming year, although not before some extremely dark and anxious times have been lived through. It is not likely to be a very happy New Year for the world, but it may be the year in which the foundations will be laid for a new era in which all New Years will be happier than they have ever been in the past for the human race. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

HARD-LOOKING WOMAN

(Letter to New York Sun)

SIR,—In a roadside lunch wagon: The counter was nearly filled with intercity truck chauffeurs and incidental motorists.

A hard-looking woman entered, middle-aged, poorly dressed, sordid face scored with the ruts of a terrible life. She mounted a stool at the counter.

"Say, bo, a cup o' mud and a hamburger."

Then she went to an automatic phonograph that had just finished playing "Oh, Johnny!" She read with care the list of titles the machine had to offer, inserted a nickel and returned to her coffee and hamburger.

What late song in jazz or swing would be the selection of a stranded derelict?

The phonograph began to play—"Silent Night, Holy Night."

IRVIN COBB TOLD HIM

(New York Herald Tribune)

Most of us would be somewhat befuddled, if not scared plumb out of our skins, to wake up in the middle of the night and find a stranger bending over the foot of the bed. But not Irvin Cobb. The author reports that he woke up in a Paris hotel one night and found a black-bearded man asking if there was anything he could do. "I told him, yes, there was," says Mr. Cobb. "He could go and get a shave."

MUST HAVE TEETH

(Winnipeg Tribune)

The idea of an international order is certainly valuable; it is one of Britain's peace aims in this war. But if there is to be any "League"—and we hope that it will not be cursed from the outset with that unhappy name which reeks of the Geneva fiasco—it must have teeth in it. It must be able to enforce international decisions, it must be able to require the surrendering of some national sovereignty, as the Geneva concern was never able to do.

MADE-UP PATIENTS

LADIES, fixing themselves up to look beautiful may not know what chances they're taking. Dr. Charles Higgins of Cleveland, told a conference of the American College of Surgeons that lipstick and fingernail polish often make it impossible for a physician to tell whether a woman is sick without practically taking her apart.

In the old days, he said, you could usually figure out what was the matter with somebody just by looking at her; now a patient may be dying and still look as wonderful as Sonja Henie. By the time the doctor gets her cleaned off enough so that he can see what she really looks like she may even be dead.

We don't wish to alarm you with these gloomy tidings, but we don't want to be responsible for preserving any fool's paradise either.—The New Yorker.

THE ONLY SEAT LEFT

A WOMAN was introduced to Anton Rubinstein, the Russian pianist, and exclaimed: "Oh, Mr. Rubinstein, I am so glad to meet you! All the seats are sold, and I have tried in vain to get a seat for your recital. Haven't you a seat you could let me take?"

"There is only one seat at my disposal madam," Rubinstein replied to her, "but you are welcome to that if you will take it."

"Oh, thank you," the woman exclaimed happily, "A thousand thanks, Mr. Rubinstein! Where is it?"

To which Mr. Rubinstein solemnly answered: "At the piano."—New York Herald Tribune.

OLDEST PAPERS MERGE

IN ALL PARTS of the world newspapers are finding the going hard. Costs rise in all departments and revenues are not what they used to be. While a newspaper is a public servant and almost a utility, it is also a business and must be run on business lines. Even in the biggest cities two costly papers can no longer be made to pay.

One of the oldest newspapers in Great Britain, the "Leeds Mercury," has been merged with the "Yorkshire Post." Both papers are owned by the firm of which Mr. Rupert Beckett, uncle of Mrs. Anthony Eden, is chairman. The "Leeds Mercury," was founded in 1718; the "Yorkshire Post," under the name of the "Leeds Intelligencer," in 1754. Each is older than any London newspaper, including the "Morning Post" established in 1772, and amalgamated with the "Daily Telegraph" two years ago.—Brandon Sun

Changed Routes Fool Raiders After Convoys

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(CP)—Patrol of focal areas, the convoy system and mine-sweeping are among the main protective devices adopted to assure safe transport of the ocean traffic of the British Empire, a spokesman for the Defence Department said to night in the eleventh of a series of talks over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

"While the ocean is a tremendous place in normal times, shipping follows well established routes. Just as it is easy for raiders, whether submarine or surface warships, to lie in wait for ships on these routes, it is also easy to fool them by constantly varying the routes of merchant ships.

As the range of vision from a submarine periscope is only five miles and the range from a height of 100 feet above the water is only 11½ miles, great diversions are not necessary, the spokesman said.

No matter what diversions are made, however, there are certain areas where shipping lines must converge, such as the Strait of Gibraltar, the entrance to the English Channel and a point off the coast of Nova Scotia.

These are called focal areas. To guard against enemy ships in these areas patrols are maintained, suited to the sort of raider which may be expected.

"Diversive routing and patrol of focal areas, while effective against surface raiders, is not so effective against submarines. Consequently, while it was used at the start of the war it was later found desirable to use the convoy system.

Not Adopted Willingly.

The latter has its drawbacks as ships must be held until a number are assembled under an escort of fighting vessels and the convoy can proceed no faster than the slowest ship in the group. The convoy system was adopted "unwillingly," he said, as it meant a reduction of 25 to 35 percent in the carrying power of the merchant fleet.

"Instead of allowing the ships to sail when they like, in which case they would be finding their way past a submarine in a steady stream, we hold them up for a few days, perhaps as much as a week, and then send them all together," said the spokesman.

"The result is the submarine has a discouraging wait and then, suddenly, a whole week's shipping passes him in the course of 15 or 20 minutes. And, to add to his difficulties, the submarine, with his slow speed when submerged, may not even then manage to get into a position close enough for a shot. Even if he does, he gets only one shot a week instead of two or three daily."

Moreover, an enemy vessel attacking a convoy must place itself within striking distance of the escorting warships.

"Regarding aircraft (attacking shipping) we have as yet insufficient experience under full war conditions to be able to make a definite statement," said the spokesman.

"Some there are who hold that we shall not be able to maintain the convoy system against air attack, but results up to the present have been very encouraging. It is only fair to add that the unsuccessful attacks on our convoys have all been in the North Sea within range of British shore-based aircraft."

Sunday School Scholars Receive Awards

MILLBROOK, Jan. 3 (ENS). — A feature of peculiar interest in connection with the anniversary service of St. Andrew's Sunday School, held on Sunday, December 31, at 2.30 p.m., when the church congregation worshipped with the school for the special occasion, was the presentation of a handsomely-bound copy of the United Church Hymnary to the superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, as a mark of affection and esteem from the staff of the school.

The gift came as a complete surprise to Mr. Fallis, F. L. Edworth, teacher of the Senior Men's Bible Class, making the presentation and voicing effectively the appreciation of the teachers and officers for the superintendent's long record of faithful and efficient service.

In his reply, Mr. Fallis spoke with deep feeling, and mentioned the solid gold watch which the staff of the school had given to him in April of 1925, and which he has constantly carried ever since, and concluding with the fervent hope "that I may still be enabled to carry out God's work in the way He intended I should do."

The special preacher for the anniversary service was Rev. Mr. Zufelt of Knox Church, Peterborough, who brought an inspiring message from the words: "As His custom was, He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day," developing the thought that the snyagogue was the initial Sunday School since it was a place where God's Word was taught and where Jesus, with other Jewish boys, went to learn about His heavenly Father.

Music was supplied by the young people's choir, and the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., assisted with the service.

Australia's Wool Crop Starts On Its Way To Britain

With the flag of Britain at her masthead, and guns on her decks to protect her against enemy raiders, this freighter is pictured at an Australian port, being loaded with part of the Southern Dominion's wool crop. While blockading Germany so that no essential commodities can reach her, the British navy keeps the sea lanes open for Allied commerce. The British government has contracted for the entire output of wool from Australia, as a war measure. Anti-aircraft and anti-submarine guns can be seen on the freighter's deck as the bales of wool are slung aboard.

Band Of Wolves Stirs Chase In Huntingdon

TWEED, Jan. 3.—(ENS)—With the discovery of what is claimed by veteran backwoodsmen to be a den of timber wolves, farmers residing in the northern part of the township of Huntingdon believe they have uncovered the source of a number of marauding animals that have accounted for approximately $450 worth of sheep during the past year.

Walking in a field about a mile north of Fuller, C. Chappelle and Albert Mitts saw what resembled wolves ambling across the country-side. A well-aimed shot brought one of the animals down. Later it was identified by a veteran of the north country named Palmateer as being a paticularly fine specimen of timber wolf.

Later a hunting party of residents of the vicinity was organized and their efforts brought them within shooting distance of a pack of five or six of the animals. Shots were fired in the general direction of the pack, but they loped away uninjured.

The den of the animals is believed to be in the woods in the northern part of the township and efforts will be made in the near future to locate and destroy the animals.

Quints Learning Of War Suggest Hitler Try Imitating Ferdinand The Bull

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 3.—(CP)— Hitler should stop fighting and emulate Ferdinand the Bull, that eminent sniffer of flowers, the Dionne Quintuplets believe.

They have just learned there is a war on and promptly suggested Ferdinand's preference for buds over bullfights be brought to the attention of the top Nazi as an example of what he should do.

The girls heard whispers somewhere—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe does not know where or how— that their friend and guardian, King George, is fighting some "bad men" over in Europe. As the Quints have been taught that it is naughty to fight, the doctor had to explain why the King was at war.

"I just told them that there were some bad men across the sea who were hurting the poor people and wouldn't behave when asked to do so by the King," Dr. Dafoe said today.

"Instantly into the minds of the five-year-olds popped thoughts of Ferdinand whom they had met recently in the pages of Munro leaf's account of Ferdinand's life.

"And they wanted to know why somebody hadn't told Hitler and the other bad men about Ferdinand and how he would rather just sit and smell flowers than fight," Dr. Dafoe said.

He had tried to keep news of the war from them so as not to disturb the youngsters but now that they know they have insisted on Red Cross nurses' uniforms which they wear proudly.

The Transition From Girlhood Into Adolescence Brings Many Trying Problems For Fearful Mothers. The Husband Can Tactfully Help With His Advice.

"I AM facing a problem that I suppose every mother of girls confronts, and I don't know how to solve it," said a woman to me the other day. "My Susie has suddenly, it seems to me, passed from little girlhood into adolescence. Yesterday she was asking for a new doll and today she is demanding a 'formal—and be sure it is long and wide in the skirt, Mamma'—from scorning boys she has become boy-crazy.

"She used not to care about her appearance, but now she spends hours matching her lipstick, her rouge and her fingernail polish, and doing her hair up into fantastic coiffures. Our house is cluttered up with hobbledehoy school boys who keep the radio going at full blast and jitterbug all over our best rugs. Susie spends virtually all of the time when she is at home alone calling up the newest boy friend on the telephone, and saying: 'Is that YOU? Oh, how wonderful! Are you sure, really truly sure?' and such like drivel. Then some lad in a jallopy, covered with slogans and youthful wisecracks, drives up and honks his horn. She runs out, with the expression on her face of one about to be translated to glory, and jumps in beside him, and away they go.

"My heart turns to ice in my bosom, for while I know the boy's parents and that they are nice people and that he is a nice boy, I don't know him. And more particularly I don't know Susie. I don't know how she is going to react to this new situation in which she finds herself, and I haven't the slightest idea of what she knows and doesn't know about this dangerous business of being a woman. To me she seems so helpless, so defenceless, so ignorant of the world and its temptations and dangers that I feel every time she steps out that she is like a little ship setting sail across a treacherous sea, with no pilot to guide her, no chart to steer by.

"Yet when I try to have one of those intimate mother-and-daughter talks that are so highly recommended by people who have never had any children, I can't get anywhere. She just freezes up. She goes dumb. I can't get the slightest inkling out of her as to what she thinks and feels and knows, or what her code of conduct is where boys are concerned. It isn't because she doesn't love me and trust me. It is just because motherhood somehow makes a bar between a girl and her mother that makes it almost impossible for them to talk freely together. But, all the same, Susie needs some warnings and I don't know how to get the danger signals set up along the road she is starting to travel."

"Why not let George do it?" I suggested. "Why not get her father to talk to Susie? Most women entirely ignore their husbands as a moral influence in their children's lives, yet, in reality Father is a far more potent mentor than Mother is. The youngsters will listen to father when he talks to them about the perils of this wicked old world because they think that he speaks from experience and knows what he is talking about, but they turn a deaf ear to Mother because they think she is just preaching goody-goody sermons about matters of which she is ignorant.

"Susie will think your ideas as antiquated as something that came out of the hair trunk in the attic when you tell her that it isn't 'nice' for girls to pet and drink, but when Dad tells her how cheap and common men hold the girls who let every man they meet maul them, she will lend him her ears and cut out the petting. When Dad takes her to a night club and points out the disgusting spectacle that a drunken young girl makes of herself, Susie will turn down her glass.

"And Father can do a lot more than Mother in helping Susie to go with the right sort of boys. For he can make discreet inquiries among other men and find out which lads are clean and decent and which are rotters; which ones are to be trusted and which to be avoided, while Mother has no way of separating the sheep from the goats. I know a father who, when his young daughter is starting out to a party at night, gives her a little admonition with his good-by kiss. 'You are looking lovely, darling,' he says. 'Have a grand time, but don't forget your Mother and I are trusting you.

"'Keep the boys in their place. The harder a girl is to get, the more men want her. And here is your mad money. Get a taxi and come home if your escort drinks too much or gets fresh.' There is no better chaperon for a girl than her father."

DEAR MISS DIX—At what time should girls between the ages of 20 and 25 come home from dates and parties? Should their mothers wait up for them?—SUE.

ANSWER:

Occasionally, when it is a very big party girls are justified in making a night of it and coming in with the morning paper, but ordinarily they should be tucked in their little beds at a reasonable hour—say 1 or 2 at the latest. This for the sake of their looks and their jobs, as well as their morals.

Mothers accomplish nothing by sitting up waiting for their daughters to return home at night. It doesn't keep the girls from doing what they want to do, or bring them back one minute sooner. It only wears Mother out.

Spanish Dancer And Ensemble To Appear Here

Coming direct from a five-day engagement in New York during Christmas week, and a presentation of folk dances at the Eaton Auditorium on Monday, January 8, Argentinita, Spanish dancer and her ensemble of Spanish musicians and dancers, will appear in Peterborough at the Collegiate Auditorium on Wednesday night, January 10, under the auspices of the Peterborough Canadian Concert Association.

It was in 1930 that S. Hurok first noticed a certain Spanish dancer when she appeared briefly in New York. It took him six years and the crisis of a civil war to bring Argentinita's signature to a contract, and another two seasons before Madrid's No. 1 dancer could find time to revisit this country.

Finally, however, America's most persistent impressario is able to present Spain's most famous woman dancer to audiences from coast to coast, as in previous seasons he has offered Escudero, Spain's most famous male dancer.

Argentinita, whose repertory includes the authentic dances of Spain's forty-seven provinces, will be seen here next Wednesday together with Antonio Triana, noted gypsy-style dancer, and Pilar Lopez, who held second place to Argentinita herself in the Madrid Ballet. In addition, there is Carlos Montoya, who plays the guitar "as though he had one hundred fingers."

Tyendinage Vote Sees Dies Defeat Sherman

In the township of Tyendinaga, the following will hold office for 1940:

Reeve—Stewart Dies.

Deputy-Reeve—W. H. White.

Council (acclamation) — Joseph Forrestell, B. Welsh and D. Gaffney.

United Townships of Bangor, McClure and Wicklow.

Reeve—J. Davis (accl.).

way-Cavendish, Gordon Scriver of Lakefield, and Melville H. Johnston, Deputy-Reeve of North Monaghan last year, who was advanced to the Reeveship upon the retirement of Warden James Milby.

The Reeves of 1938 who return to the county administration fresh from the contests of New Year's Day are: William A. Anderson, Otonabee; John McColl, Asphodel; Allan B. Mann, Smith; Isaac Anderson, Belmont-Methuen; Wallace Shearer, Harvey, and Norman Lean, Burleigh-Anstruther. Allan Caldwell of Chandos was re-elected in December.

The three members of the old Council who will be missing when the roll is called are James Milby of North Monaghan, last year's Warden; Deputy-Reeve Harry Reid of Otonabee, and Deputy-Reeve Harry Fowler of Smith. The latter two deputies decided to step up to the first position in their townships, but were defeated at the polls by comparatively small majorities.

It may be that Reeve J. Russell Thompson of Norwood will be sent back again from his village, a choice that would leave only two members of the 1940 County Council who are appearing for the first time in that company.

Wardenship Aspirants.

Nothing much in the way of report has been heard from the country as to who is likely to enter the field for the honor of being 1940 Warden, but at least four can be mentioned as possible candidates. E. W. Seeney of Havelock, Allan B. Mann, Wallace Shearer, and John McColl of Asphodel. However, that preliminary and important stage of organizing the Council for the New Year will have to wait upon developments of the next few weeks.

Fibre Flax

Canada will endeavor to grow 32,000 pounds as a protection in the Maritimes and at Dominion experimental farms in several provinces.

U.K. To Keep Up Supply

Most of the 160,000 pounds of Swede turnips seed sown in Canada comes from the United Kingdom and Canadian farmers will continue to rely on that source, the view being that with Great Britain buying so much from Canada any product the United Kingdom can supply Canada should be brought from that source. Some turnip seed will be grown here but only as a protection against shortage.

Last year Canada had about 8,000 acres in fibre flax, used to make linen, and present plans call for this acreage to be doubled. A section of 3,000 acres will be planted to fibre flax in the Ottawa Valley and the remainder of the increased acreage in those parts of Ontario and Quebec where it is already being grown.

A. Fyfe of the British fibre control board has been in Canada assisting in the arrangements. Considerable quantities of last year's flax seeds grown in Canada will go to Northern Ireland to supply the needs there normally met by European countries.

Canada will need considerable quantities of soy beans, particularly to supply feed for livestock and efforts will be made to grow them in Western Ontario. Corn lands may be shifted to the bean crop.

Western Canada farmers will be urged to grow more flax of the type used in making linseed. The 2,500,000 bushels grown last year fell about 500,000 bushels short of the needs of Canada for paint oils and oil cakes which are fed to livestock.

Flax Worth Twice Wheat.

These products will be in greater demand this year under stress of war, agricultural officials here forecast, and with prices ranging around $2 a bushel on the Winnipeg grain exchange the acreage under flax should be considerably increased. Economists say growers should receive about twice as much for a bushel of flax as for a bushel of wheat.

Canada has undertaken to supply the United Kingdom with 4,480,000 pounds of bacon and ham weekly and Mr. Gardner held a conference with Bacon Control Board yesterday.

Reports received by the Board indicate adequate supplies of pork will be marketed during the present year to meet the terms of the undertaking without curtailing the domestic market which it is estimated consume almost 75 per cent of all the pork produced in Canada although mostly in forms other than bacon.

Emphasis will be laid on keeping the quality of Canadian bacon up to the standard which has made it so popular in Great Britain—a bacon with plenty of lean streaks in it.

Cheese prices have been holding good at around 17 cents at the cheese boards and should they continue around that next spring it is expected Canadian cheese production will be considerably increased.

One Bomber Returns

Britons also read accounts of a battle yesterday over Heligoland Bight in which three raiding British bombers were engaged by 12 German pursuit planes.

The Air Ministry acknowledged that one of the British planes was down and another missing, but said the third was safe. The ministry added that one of the German planes was "shot down in flames" and two others were "likely to have been lost."

Aviation experts found the Heligoland fight an illustration of the efficacy of the power-driven gun turret of the British Vickers-Wellington bombers against the faster-moving German Messerschmitt planes. The turret permits firing in almost any direction.

After opening up the trap to allow Russian reinforcements to enter, the Finns closed in again and set up machine-gun nests along the shore, it was said. Land forces attacked the bottled up enemy by night and the airforce by day.

Soviet troops, trucks and cannon dropped into the water when bombs blasted great holes in the ice.

Reporting new successes, a Finnish communique yesterday said seven Soviet planes were shot down.

In a day-long attack by the Russians at Aittajoki, about 60 miles north of Lake Ladoga, the Finns reported they seized and held the Russian base. Aittajoki, about 13 miles from the Russian border, was presumed to be one of the Russian operations bases.

The communique said the Russian battleship October Revolution bombarded the island fortress of Koivisto south of Viborg (Viipuri) "without results worth mentioning."

(The Red Army communique said 'nothing important occurred' on the front."

The newspaper National Tidende at Copenhagen said rumors persisted that the wreck of a troop train on the Murmansk railroad has added to the confusion of Russian forces on the northern front. The reports could not be confirmed.)

Freighter Flint Tries New Trip

BERGEN, Norway, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The United States freighter City of Flint, central figure in two dramas of the sea last fall, is expected to resume her adventures today, when she leaves the Norwegian port of Narvik for the United States.

The same American crew which was aboard during her wanderings in northern waters in October — after she had brought survivors of the torpedoed liner Athenia to Halifax—will be in charge when she leaves for home. The Flint left in Norway a cargo of apples originally intended for England and is loaded with iron ore for the return trip.

While en route to British ports from the United States in October the City of Flint was seized by the German raider Deutschland and was taken to the Russian port of Murmansk by a German prize crew. Within a few days the German crew sailed for a German port.

En route, the City of Flint put in at the Norwegian port of Haugesund, allegedly to obtain medical aid for a sick seaman. Norwegian officials declared the seaman was not ill and promptly interned the German prize crew. The City of Flint then was taken to Bergen by her own crew and has been in Norwegian waters since.

Farmers Plan To Discuss Produce Market

Discussion of Peterborough's produce market is slated for a meeting of a group of farmers in the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, to-night, and the same subject may get some consideration from the vegetable growers on Thursday night.

Presumably these producers intend simply to talk over their experiences and observations with the idea of relating them to possible improvements for both sellers and buyers which may ultimately be recommended to the City Council. This initiative is of their own undertaking, and it comes at a time when the Council as a whole is perhaps more inclined than ever to give some thought to the local market.

It is recognized at the City Hall that the market attracts producers from a large area of Central Ontario thereby expanding the city's position as a business centre. Official attitude has been to let the market follow its established course, an example of "Laissez faire," and the only criticism that has been heard in recent months has actually come from farmers. It may be suggested at these meetings that both the County Council and the producers be consulted in some way, possibly by representation, by the Market Committee, of which Alderman McCannan was chairman last year.

It is unlikely that there will be any appeal made for a covered market in the country's emergency of war, especially after the breakdown of proposals that were heard a year ago.

Some members of the Council have been mentioning of late the discontinuance of the sale of the collection of tolls, with the idea of bringing every phase of the control of the market entirely under the committee's direction. A general policy of the Council has been to restrict the market to producers, although that rule may not always be rigidly enforced. Kitchener opens its market to producers, hucksters, and retailers, and is putting into effect this week a system of classifying these groups by the use of different colored cards. They also reserve tables up to nine o'clock as a protection of regular vendors who may sometimes be delayed in reaching the market.

Poultry Show In Market Hall

Badminton birds are resting at the Market Hall these evenings while four hundred fowl crow and cackle at the Poutry Association's annual show which opened last night and continues until Thursday night.

Some of the exhibitors are E. H. White, Edgar Simmons, R. M. Brown, R. D. Robson, Harry Van Allen, and H. T. Lush.

Judging was well under way this morning. This job was allotted to Mr. Rush. He reported the quality of the birds on a par with other years, and about the average number of entries.

Fish Fry Requested For Kawartha Area

The executive of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association has put through its president, Charles Kingan, 95 requisitions for fish fry for this year. Six varieties of fish, grey trout, speckled trout, brown trout, bass, maskinonge and pickerel are being sought.

Plans are already completed for the distributing of this fry this year and the association hopes that by this means many more game fish will find their ways into the waters of this district. Nine requisitions were filled by the department last year, but the 95 is an all-time high. Not so many years ago 25 and 30 requisitons were considered a large number.

Missing Witness Has The Mumps

Because Ken. Hill whom seventeen-year-old Lloyd Rowatt of Belmont township named as his star witness has the mumps, a traffic charge against Rowatt was enlarged for three weeks by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in traffic court this morning.

Rowatt was charged with having driven a motor vehicle in Belmont township on December 9 without having a chauffeur's license or operator's permit and pleaded not guilty.

Provincial Constable John A. Rogers of Havelock conducted the prosecution and the only witness for the crown was Chief Constable W. J. Aikins of Havelock who swore that he had seen Rowatt driving a car on the day in question and that the accused had admitted that he had no permit.

Rowatt intimated that another boy who could be called as a witness had the mumps.

"I thought you told me at the beginning that you were all ready for your trial," said Magistrate Langley. "Now after we have gone this far you say there is a witness you are unable to call just now."

Rowatt took the witness stand and swore that it was Ken Hill, the boy with the mumps who had driven the car on the occasion mentioned by the officer.

"I want to get at the truth," said Magistrate Langley, in suggesting that there should be an adjournment long enough to allow the missing witness to be called.

By consent the case was enlarged until January 26 when the hearing will be resumed in Havelock Town Hall.

Another charge against Rowatt of having obtained $2 under false pretences was also adjourned until the same time.

School Board Closes Year $2,235 Surplus

Salaries of teachers, officers and janitors in the city's public and Collegiate and Vocational school, stood at the amazing figure of $284,-967.51, the Board of Education's annual statement, released last night, revealed. The salary total included the five per cent. restoration of pay cut that teachers were granted last year.

Expenditures were $347,000-odd, an increase of $23,000-odd over 1938. Increases were occasioned by the pay cut restoration, by an expenditure of $2,069.78 for a new secretary's office and board room at South Central school, and by heavy repairs and extensive wiring done. Starting the year with a surplus of $9,970.67, the board ended with a surplus of $2,235.49.

Extensive detail involved in running a $350,000 business for a year was revealed in the statement. Fuel, for example, cost $7,722.40, of which $3,126.94 was spent to heat the Collegiate and Vocational school. Repairs and furniture cost $19,587.43. Text books and supplies for public schools cost $3,714.44.

Receipts showed that the board drew $91,650 from the city for the Collegiate and Vocational school, $173,200 for public schools. Government grants totalled $33,919.27. For Peterborough County pupils, $24,-784.45; Victoria county, $583.10; Hastings county, $159.31; Northumberland and Durham, $2,108.12.

Searchers Fail To Find Indian

ALDERVILLE, Jan. 3—(ENS— — Police investigation into the disappearance of Huron Martin, Brantford Indian who has been living on the Alderville reserve for the past year, continued yesterday and today with police still at a loss to know what had happened to the man.

It was last Friday that Martin disappeared after skating across to Sugar Island in Rice Lake with Steve Smoke. Smoke left the island alone, and said he expected Martin to follow. The next day the alarm was raised.

Near certainty that Martin has met his death either by skating through thin ice or by some other means, was felt in Alderville today with the knowledge that all Martin's clothes with the exception of those he had been wearing, were still in his cabin. Provincial Constable Mennle of Cobourg yesterday stated the possibility that Martin had skated on to Keene or Hiawatha, but Alderville neighbours believed if he had intended to do that he would have taken his clothes with him.

Alderville residents believed dragging operations would be impossible before spring since the lake is now almost completely frozen over. Last Friday there were open spaces in the lake and it was thought possible Martin might have been drowned in one of them. In the interval, however, they have frozen over.

"Ghost" Music

Hamilton, Jan. 2 (CP)

POLICE Constable George Mair is a matter-of-fact man who doesn't believe in ghosts, but when he walked past Stanley Avenue Baptist Church around two a.m. today he heard piano music.

Constable Mair examined the church doors and found them locked. There were no signs to indicate that a human being had entered the building.

Mair put in a call to headquarters for help.

While awaiting the others, a closer check by the officer revealed that a window had been loosened from the sash and upon their arrival, the officers made their way through the aperture.

Inside they discovered Charles Morgan, 26,

Farm Hand Lost His Temper Farmer Lost A Jersey Cow

Because a young farm hand lost his temper this morning an Otonabee farmer has lost a valuable Jersey cow, the youth has lost two weeks of liberty and eventually he is likely to find himself back in the Ontario Reformatory from which he was paroled less than a month ago.

Joseph Stokes, 17, is the lad who failed to keep his temper under control and who early this morning belabored a cow so badly with a heavy hoe that one of the animal's legs was broken, and the cow, a purebred Jersey for which the owner, Herb. McKay, Indian River, had refused $125 for recently had to be killed.

Stokes, who hails originally from Toronto, was released on parole from the Guelph Reformatory three weeks ago to enter the employ of Mr. McKay.

After this morning's occurrence he was arrested by Provincial Constable David Silvester and later appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., and pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals. He was sentenced to fifteen days imprisonment in the county jail and Constable Silvester intimated that he would likely be returned to the Reformatory at the conclusion of his sentence.

Stokes told the magistrate that he had lost his temper after the cow kicked him while he was cleaning out her stall. "She kicked me before a few days ago," he said in explanation of his conduct.

Collegiate attendance did not suffer greatly, stood at 94.06 per cent.

Bright Lights On Main Street Taken Down As Christmas Scene Is Fading Away

The Christmas scene is dissolving like nights of phantasy and starry horisons seen from the basements of fairyland. Already the baubled beauty of the Yuletide has gone from the main street with the last echo of the tingle of the bells on Santa Claus' magic sleigh.

Some of Ross Dobbin's men went out yesterday and stripped off the bright lights. It seemed like the realistic gesture of throwing the halter and the rest of the harness over folks who have been briefly free, and saying "Come on, getty-up; there's work adoing."

Some of the Christmas trees are already hitting the curb lines, although sentimental parents are still leaving them in the living rooms as reminders of an exceedingly happy hour before the trappings are put away in the expectation of its returning.

And as these things pass into memory it seems strange that the flimsy baubles, the colored lamps and the balls of thin glass and the other little touches of decoration that appear common and unattractive by day could be so alive with beauty by night.

But, all right, Mr. Dobbin; the show is over

Three Coboconk Children Save Pal's Life

LINDSAY, Jan. 3. — (ENS) — A rescue from drowning was staged in Coboconk on the week-end by a group of girls and boys. They discovered Kenneth Edwins, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bowins, struggling in the Gull River, after having broken through the ice. Four of the children, Alma Byrant, Mildred Wilkinson, Bob Shields and Bernice Hoore secured a hockey stick and laying flat on the ice in a single line reached the stick to the child and pulled him to safety.

Richard Burke, of Haliburton, while working in one of the northern lumber camps, had his leg broken on Monday when a log rolled on him. Ernest Volcey, of West Guilford, had four ribs broken, and also suffered other body injuries when he fell from a load of logs in the woods.

A fatality was narrowly averted in Lindsay at noon on the holiday. A car driven by Ellsworth Davey, of Crosswell, which had as occupants his wife, a son, Lewis, and Alpha Davey, of Antler, Saskatchewan, crashed into the side of the northbound Haliburton train at the crossing on Victoria Avenue. Devey failed to see the approaching train, and attempted to swing his car up the avenue, the train caught one corner of the vehicle and threw it into Victoria Park. Lewis Davey, Mrs. Davey and a small girl, Evelyn Davey, were rushed to Ross Hospital. Lewis was suffering from fractured ribs and the others sustained minor cuts and bruises. The car was completely wrecked.

No Action Taken On Council Move

The Board of Education ensconsed in their overheated newly-shining board room in South Central School, last night, eschewed the city council's suggestion that they hold future meetings in the draughty, uncomforable council chamber.

The proposal reached them in letter from the city clerk in which the council chamber was offered without comment. There wasn't a member of the board but knew, however, of the discussion that had taken place when Alderman G. N. Gordon brought the matter to the council's attention on the grounds that the larger quarters would offer greater opportunity to the general public to know what the board did at its meetings.

The board dismissed the offer with a flat "Thank you, no." Chairman W. R. Morris said the public is welcome to the meetings at South Central School.

Les Wilson Is Beaten In Cobourg Battle

One of the fallen councillors in the district is L. H. (Les) Wilson of Cobourg,—one of the best.

Friends around the bowling circuit and beyond it might be disposed to send him a note of sympathy, to commiserate with him as one of the casualties of the New Year's Day battle, except those who knowing the uneasy municipal atmosphere of Cobourg would be more disposed to congratulate him.

And least affected by his defeat will be Mr. Wilson himself. He has attained the philosophic stage in life, his outlook clarified by years of editing and publishing the Cobourg Sentinel-Star. Mr. Wilson knows his Cobourg, and that is more than the community itself knows.

For the favor of Cobourg ratepayers is notoriously fickle. The town seems to demand the raw meat of continuous civic strife; its atmosphere is perennially controversial, and some of the ladies can do as neat a job as the men in verbal flaying and telling-off, keeping the pool muddied.

So, the Cobourg folks simply must have new victims, and the rumor is getting abroad that they are baying the town clerk. That may be nothing more than rumor, but after the bludgeoning of a former Peterborough man while in the town's service a year or so ago, quite a number of folks are of the opinion that anything could happen in the sport of head hunting down in that socially pleasant but municipally perverse town down on the Lake Ontario front.

Board Praises Member's Work

Two members bade farewell to the 1939 Board of Education at its last meeting Tuesday night. They were H. G. Walker, chairman of the property committee, and Dr. G. R. Scott, former chairman of the board. Both have retired, along with chairman John R. Marshall, absent last night, to be replaced by Alex Sollitt, D. T. Diplock, and T. J. Carley, K.C. First meeting of the new board will be held on Thursday night.

Mr. Walker extended congratulations to the old members on their re-election by acclamation and voiced appreciation of the cooperation they had extended to him during his tenure of office. He outlined major items for consideration by 1940's property committee, showing an exhaustive knowledge of the city's school building needs. In expressing his regret at Mr. Walker's retirement Dr. A. Moir said the Board of Education has never had a chairman of its property committee who has given so unstintingly of his time and effort as has Mr. Walker. Other members agreed. They also expressed regret at the retirement of Dr. Scott.

Name Secretary To Membership Of Trustee Body

Contentious Public and Separate School issues found their way into the Board of Education's meeting Tuesday night at the board voted in favor of taking out a membership in the newly formed Ontario Association of Public School Trustees and Ratepayers. The organization is pledged to help Windsor in its Court fight against the Ford Motor Company, where the issue at stake is whether a company may arbitrarily allot a percentage of its school taxes for separate schools. The Canadian Court of Appeals found it could and the Windsor Board of Eduaction is taking the case to the Privy Council.

The newly formed organization asks that each member of the Board of Education in Peterborough be made a member and that the board prepare to assist Windsor generously in defraying expenses connected with the Supreme Court action, claiming that if the decision is left as it now stands the result will be costly to all Ontario because other companies will follow suit.

The appeal nearly went by the boards last night, as did similar requests for support of the action, made by both Windsor and Toronto boards a short time ago, D. G. H. Melton moved it be marked "received" and he was seconded by G. Wilson Craw. Retiring member Dr. G. R. Scott, however, suggested that the secretary-treasurer of the board be made a member in order that the board of education here might be kept informed of action that is being taken. His motion found G. W. Craw and D. G. H. Melton opposed with the chairman, Mrs. W. R. Morris declining to vote.

"Now we are paying two dollars for something we were getting for nothing," commented Mrs. Morris, who had previously expressed herself opposed to membership in the organization. She maintained that Boards of Education should not be asked to concern themselves with litigation, and that such a problem as that facing Windsor should be decided in Legislature.

She opposed Dr. A. Moir when he expressed the opinion that separate schools were private schools and that parents sending their children to them might be expected to pay private school dues in addition to supporting a public school system. Mrs. Morris countered by claiming that the separate schools of this province do not constitute a privilege, but are a legal right under Confederation. Dr. Moir maintained that at the time of Confederation a permanent settlement was made and that subsequent grants to separate schools in Ontario should be viewed in a different light. He supported Dr. G. R. Scott in his motion to appoint the secretary-treasurer to membership in the newly formed association. He disagreed with Mrs. Morris' contention that such a body should not be supported because it was formed, she said, to foster ill-feeling. Dr. Moir argued that the rights of public school bodies must be safeguarded, declared they have not been sufficiently guarded in the past.

It was recently viewed by Premier Hepburn and Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, and has the thorough endorsation of both.

JUNIOR COLTS OPEN SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER PORT HOPE

Drillon Leads By 5 Points In N.H.L. Scoring

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 — (CP). — It's a familiar theme, but Gordon Drillon still is leading the National Hockey League in scoring.

The league's official statistics tonight showed Drillon, Toronto Maple Leafs' ace wingman, out in front with 25 points, five more than Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens, who led the circuit last season.

Syl Apps, the Leafs' great centre player, remained in a tie with Milt Schmidt of Boston for the next position with 18 points despite a fractured collarbone that sent him to the sidelines more than a week ago. In another tie, one point behind them, came two New York players, Neil Colville of the Rangers and Murray Armstrong of the Americans.

Drillon's 15 goals placed him far ahead in this department. Blake ranged second with 10, while Schmidt and Bryan Hextall of the Rangers were next with nine.

Don Meade Leading Jockey When Boots In 255 Winners

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Don Meade has made good use of his time since the August day in 1938 when he went before the Florida Racing Commission to be reinstated after a two-year suspension. Figures made public here showed to-day he was the leading jockey in the United States in 1939.

Meade displaced little Johnny Longden of Taber, Alta., who was the leading money-winner and jockey of 1938. Hardest working jockey of the year with 1,284 mounts, Don booted in 255 winners. This was 46 more than Longden, who finished second with 209 winners, while Basil James, leader in 1936, was third with 189 firsts.

Meade got it off to a fast start in the fall of 1938 at Tropical Park, and, keeping up his "hot riding" on the Florida tracks in 1939, built up an early lead.

During the 23 days in Florida, from January 11 to February 6, Meade rode 45 winners, twice booting home four firsts in one day at Hialeah Park. On six occasions he rode three winners in one day.

Only Longden's sensational streak at Arlington Park, Ill., overshadowed Meade's. Longden rode 41 winners in 19 days of racing.

Meade, born in Plankington, S. D., in 1913, spent most of his vacations during his early years on a ranch herding cattle at $10 a month and his board. There he developed his strong hands and muscular physique. He rides at 108 pounds.

Meade made his first start in the big time at Lansdowne Park in 1930 and during his eight years of riding had a total of 978 winners out of 5,749 mounts and earned a total of $1,255,400 for the various owners for whom he served. His purses totalled $343,427 in 1939.

Mark St. Juniors Gain A 3-1 Win

Mark Street Juniors got away to a good start in their single game Church Hockey League schedule at All Saints' rink last night when they took a 3-1 win over St. Paul's. Scriver got a goal each in the first and second, and Eason in the third for the East City bunch, while Dundas tallied for the Presbyterians in the first. Mark Street were faster but St. Paul's checked and passed better to make it close. Both goalies went good with the scorers and Curtis a bit better than the rest. The teams:

Mark Street.—Goal, Ralph; defence, Agnew, Scriver; centre, Eason; wings, Robinson, Curtis; subs., Patterson, Moore, Baker.

St. Paul's.—Goal, McBride; defence, Ferguson, Dundas; centre, J. Easton; wings, G. Easton, A. Lockington; subs, Dunsford, S. Lockington.

Referee—G. Beauclerc.

Church Loop Teams Open Season In Tie

St. James' and Park Street Juniors opened their Church Loop puck season with a 3-3 tie last night at All Saints' rink. All goals came in the first heat, Campbell and Evans getting two each while Jobe and W. Lawson netted the others. The younger St. James' boys were smaller but showed better teamplay in a tight tilt. Both goalies, Jobe, Campbell, Lawson and Evans stood out. The tie will not be replayed unless the teams are tied at the finish, and it gives each a point now. The teams.

St. James.—Goal, Leether; defence, McGregor, F. Lawson; centre, Anderson; wings, W. Lawson, Evans; subs., F. Dafoe, Roode, Langdon, Baldry, N. Dafoe.

Park Street.—Goal, R. Ainslie; defence, H. Campbell, McDermott; centre, J. Ainslee; wings, Hodson, Cox; subs., Martin, Ferrance, Jobe, Kidd.

Referee.—A. Watkins.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 2 — (AP). — Toledo's public schools reopened today after a six-week "financial" holiday for 44,000 pupils. Classes were suspended November 22, two weeks after voters rejected a four-mill school levy. The closing permitted the Board of Education to avoid paying $400,000 in salaries and prevented expansion of a $650,000 deficit.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The 1940 schedule opened last night and without stretching it too much it might be declared 100% in every detail. All rinks were out, no defaults and practically no substitutes and that 's exactly how it should be—and already many of the boys are looking over the schedule and wondering just how they are going to make out. Will they be able to keep in the running. Will last year's group winners: Tam McArthur, Dr. Green and George Robertson, repeat this year or will some unknown skip and rink come through with a photo finish, to nose out the favorite, if there's any? Anyway time will tell and after the first week of play we may be able to get a line on the strong and the weak.

And just a word of advice to the many new players. Come down to the rink at every opportunity, play whenever you are asked to, grab a broom and a pair of stones and go to it—and then practice, practice, practice. You'll never learn the game by hanging around No. 8. Games are won or lost on the ice.

Trinity Wins 3-2

In the opening bantam game of the Church League at All Saints' last night, Trinity overcame a two-goal lead to beat Knox, 3 to 2. Darling ran in two in the first frame but Trinity came back to get one each period, each going in off Meredith's stick. Trinity deserved to win, only smart net work by Parnall keeping down the score. Trinity's starting forwards shone, while Braund and Darling went best for Knox. The teams:

Trinity.—Goal, Andrew; defence, Pammett, White; centre, Meredith; wings, Fallin, Plunkett; subs, Hall, Beaton, Patterson.

Knox: Goal, Parnall; defence, Braund, Haines; centre, Darling; wings, Covert, Craig; subs, Menzies, Fine, Gertley.

Seek Substitute For Playoff Plan In Baseball

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Frank Shaughnessy playoff system came in for much left-handed comment after the 1939 baseball season, when most pennant winners finished in the dugouts in the playoffs. Any suggestion for a substitute plan probably will be welcomed on the theory that any change would be for the better.

The Shaughnessy system, which calls for the first-division teams to meet in playoffs for the championship, serves its purpose in maintaining interest in a race through the home stretch, and in more than one instance the added revenue has kept a league from folding.

The chief objection is that a fourth-place club might, and often does, win the playoff, which punctures the pride of the season's champion.

Split Schedule Four Ways

Dan Desmond of the Sioux City (Ia.) Journal passes on a plan which was submitted to him. Although a little complicated, it has its merit in that while it includes the interest-maintaining features of the Shaughnessy system, it also saves the pride of a team which might finish the regular schedule leading by 10 laps.

The idea is this:

Split the schedule into four sections. To qualify for a place in the playoffs, a team must finish first in at least one of the sections. But even this would not assure a team a spot in the finals, for only two teams would compete.

The two teams to meet in the playoff, should a different team win each of the four sections, would be determined by a comparison of records over the entire season, the two with the highest percentages being matched for the championship.

If a team finished first in two sections it might not necessarily qualify, as the teams winning the other two sections might wind up with a higher percentage over the full campaign.

In event of a tie over the season's play, it might be broken by a one-game playoff. The championship playoff would be best three out of five games.

Averts Humiliation

A fixed sum would be set aside for the teams in the playoff, to be split 60-40. This fund would be accumulated by assessing each club so much per capita of attendance for the season until the total decided upon was reached. The sum would be large enough so that even a losing player's share would be larger than his salary might be for the period of the playoff.

Through this system a pennant winner would not be humiliated through defeat at the hands of a club which was an also-ran during the season. During at least one of the four sections its opponent would have played better ball.

A club winning one section would have plenty of incentive to try to win another, and thus cut out a rival for a place in the finals. And a club would do its best all the way through to try to win all four sections and thus take the entire pool without a playoff.

The plan contains other details to take care of any possibilities which might crop up, such as postponed games, but the gist is included above.

It meets the problem of maintaining interest in a race throughout the season, it insures the pennant winner a place in the finals as that club naturally would have the highest percentage over the season, and it promises ample reward for the players who get into the playoff.

And lastly, it saves the pride of the pennant winner, which seems to be responsible for all the yowling about the Shaughnessy system being unfair to organized champions.

Lakefield Loses In Lindsay, 4-1

LINDSAY, Jan. 3.—Lindsay Midgets defeated Lakefield, 4 to 1, in a Junior "B" game here last night. After a rather listless first period the Midgets, led by Brennan, opened up, and only the stellar goal-minding of Morrison stopped them from swamping the visitors. Numerous penalties were handed out, with Owens and A. Stewart drawing majors for fighting. Ellis, a new junior player, started the Lindsay team off early in the second period when he scored from a scramble in front of the goalmouth.

Lakefield: Goal, Morrison; defense, Stabler and Birch; centre, Bullock; wings, Chappell and Jewell; subs, A. Stewart, J. Stewart, Johnston, Calhoun, Graham, Johnston.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Next Friday night's puck offering in the palais d'ice along the Rue Brock is an O.H.A. junior "B" joust betwixt Cobourg's Kinsmen Club and the local Colts. A scheduled tussle and one which promises to be a lively junior duel between well-matched clubs. We haven't seen the Cobourgites in action yet, but judging by their excellent showing against the strong Oshawa squad—which has been drilling on artificial ice for weeks—we imagine the young Petes will have anything but a setup here this week-end. It took the Motor City lads till late in the third period ere they could nose out a narrow nod o'er Cobourg last Friday. The coach and manager of the Colts had a good chance last eve to look over their prospects and get an idea how the team should line up 'gainst the Lakeshore lads this Friday.

* * * * * *

And Coach Archie Weir and Manager Hap Wilgar must be pleased with the junior prospects here this semester. If they aren't, they should have their noggins read at an expensive bump-readin' parlor! We passed up the good exhibition tilt (and on a cold night too) between the Generals and Petes to see what the Colts looked like on the road, and we were tickled for doing so. The lads looked swell for their first fray of the season, and they certainly ruined the Hopers' opening with that 9-1 victory for ye visitors. Cold weather kept the crowd down—which was just as well when the riot broke out. After all, a junior player (even in condish) can't be expected to swap blows with a rival puckist and three fans at the same time.

* * * * * *

And Fools Rushed In

Yeah, they had a riot last p.m., after the second free-for-all among the players. Ya get everything at a junior joust, y'know. The first mix-up was a nice sociable scrap with every player hunting around till he found an unoccupied rival and then trying to knock his ears off! But the second, which started out as just another players' brawl, became serious when a dozen or so half-baked—and most likely illiterate—fans jumped over the boards and began to swing on the young Petes. It still happens occasionally in hockey, and the town cannot be blamed as there are a few fools in every hurg who would like to see outside players injured. The two teams decided to retire to their dressing-rooms till police were (or was) sent for, and then they resumed play.

* * * * * *

After watching the local boys in action, we began to think of several years ago when our last colorful junior team was making a name for itself and getting more fan attendance than the intermediates. We believe folks will go for this gang, a mixture of last year's Colts and Monarchs They have size, speed, a lot of hockey ability and plenty of fight. They drew too many penalties last eve and at times were a bit disorganized, yet it was their first game—and they won by a 9-1 score against a good bunch of battlers, managed by Dutch Harwood. Hard to pick out stars so early, the whole crew showing plenty of class. Rochetta, Craig and Pammett were in on a flock of goals, but practically every player was. Our defence was good, too, especially Beggs and Strickland. With Cournyea okay in goal. Yep, we're gonna enjoy a flock of real junior hockey this season—extra fast and smart—in the six-team setup.

* * * * * *

Guess It Was Chilly

Only a fairish sort of crowd braved the cold to view the exhibition game at the Brock last night, and they saw a swell struggle, we're told. But, alas, the Petes made a few mistakes in the second period and it cost 'em a 7-5 decision. A little careless defence work in covering up and some nervous work in the net allowed the smart Generals to wave the wand for a coupla rather soft counters. In order that the pampered Generals—who are being nursed along like opera singers as they point toward another Memorial Cup—would not be injured, Referee Armstrong of the Motor City handled the game. And he wasn't letting the locals get away with any hard checking, either. However, that's natural and no one wants to see a player hurt—most particularly when the game doesn't mean anything. But we were disappointed at the result, feeling confident the Petes would win here.

* * * * * *

Folks tell us it was a streamlined scrap throughout, both sides dishing up the speed in carload lots, with the Generals showing a bit more teamplay going both ways. The Petes hit their best stride in the third period and outplayed and outscored the visitors through that heat. Joe Blewett was back in the lineup and helped himself to three scoring points in a neat showing, while Bun Kingdon and Honey Tompkins were in on two each. Ray Harding was in the home goal the last period and allowed but one marker when his buddies blocked his vision. A pretty fair tussle.

The O.J.H.A. Group

Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association groupings have been released and we note in Group 5 these teams together: St. Peter's of here, the Grads of this town, Lakefield and Cobourg, with Dave Leether the convener. And Norwood has a bye into juvenile "B" series playdowns. There are 38 groups listed in the popular O.J.H.A. series, which is for boys under 18—and is not connected with the O.H.A. It is a fine training ground for future puck greats and we're glad to see two local outfits in. Both of them, and the Lakefield team as well, can get publicity if they'll keep us informed. The Grads have three workouts listed for the Sacred Heart rink, at seven tonight, at nine tomorrow eve and at seven on Friday. They had 42 out to a recent practice, for goodness' sake!

* * * * * *

Two Church Hockey Loop melees this e'en at All Saints' rink, St. John's Bantams playing George St. at six, and St. Andrew's mixing with Trinity Juveniles at seven. Last night, the well-known lid was lifted when three tussles were reeled off. Mark St. Juniors got the jump on St. Paul's with a 3-1 nod, St. James Juniors and Park St. went to a 3-all draw, and Trinity Bantams squeezed out a 3-2 verdict o'er Knox. Canon J. D. Paterson, introduced to the teams by league secretary Don Charlton, addressed the players before the season was officially opened—Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt facing the puck off with Vice-Prexy Geo. Beauclerc refereeing. Rev. Mr. Paterson assured the squads of the Ministerial Association's interest in the loop.

Grab-bag: Alex Kempt will have several local puckists on his Norwood squad in the Trent Valley League; schedule goes till March 4th.... P.C.I. cagers open their season in Port Hope this Friday night.... The Industrial Puck Loop executive meeting at eight in Duffus' is tonight—we mistakenly announced it for last eve, the darn' holiday throwing us out....Lindsay Midgets copped a 4-1 win from Lakefield in their junior "B" joust in Scugogville last night; Lakefield lads did well....Colts will have a potent scoring line in Rochetta, Vitarelli and Craig this season; Foster is a real hard-working player, too....Girls' basketball at the Y.W. resumes this Friday and the schedule is in tonight....Owen Sound Trappers (Red Creighton is on it) took a 5-3 win from Wingham last p.m. in a game marked by a free-for-all....Have heard no reports of Chatham's "Snow Bowl" grid game yet. Someone sent in a clipping of a Mrs. Annie Oliver of Sydney, N.S., being the oldest hockey fan in the country, her years being 108 — and we don't just get the local connection, if any.... Fliers play Belleville Friday, as Cobourg juniors come here, and the Petes remain idle; Lakfield intermediates open in Sutton on Friday and Lakefield juniors journey to Oshawa—or will they?....Anyway, the thin '30s are gone and the fat '40s (we hope) are commencing.

Squad Captures Neat 9 To 1 Win In Lively O.H.A. Tussle Marked By Two Free-For-Alls

Bringing back thoughts of sparkling local junior O.H.A. teams of several years ago, the 1940 edition of the Peterborough Colts swept through the Port Hope Ontarios in Port Hope last night for a 9-1 victory in their opening game of the O.H.A. junior "B" series. A small crowd viewed the tussle.

It was a speedy scrap all the way, featured by two free-for-alls among the players—the second of which saw fans out on the ice swinging at the visiting players. Both teams retired from the ice then until the rink management obtained police protection. There were 15 penalties handed out, with the Colts suffering 10 of them.

Despite the one-sided count, and the superiority of the young Petes, the game was exciting most of the way. Both teams dishes up surprising speed for so early in the season, a lot of good junior hockey and they bumped each other around considerably throughout. The Colts had a 3-0 margin in the first period and were in front 6-1 going into the third. They proved a well-balanced outfit all the way, being strong in goal, having a steady defence and fast, passing forwards who backchecked effectively.

Showed Promise

While the Weir-coached crew of young huskies were a bit disorganized at times in their passing—due to so few practices to date—they definitely showed great promise. There was plenty of beef, speed and experience shown on this squad, which is made up to a good extent of combined Colts and Monarchs of last winter. Rochetta, Pammett and Craig were the main snipers in a fine performance, but the scoring was well spread about, and all players went good defensively. Goalie Cournyea had a fair amount of work to do and almost earned a shutout. The skating of Strickland and the stickwork of Beggs were standouts and the others also turned in an excellent display for their first fray. Anderson, Baxter, Bradley and Snelgrove were the pick of the losers.

Early in the first period, Rochetta went off for slashing and it was followed shortly by a free-for-all when the rival players tangled near the Hopers' cage. After several fist fights between puckists were broken up, Craig and Baxter were given majors and Vitarelli a minor penalty. The Petes were shy three and hard pressed but staved off the homesters' ganging attack well. Cournyea shining in the net. All even again, the locals tallied a nice one, Pammett taking Rochetta's pass in close. Craig got the gate for crosschecking and Baxter followed for slashing. A bit later, Foster got the air for tripping and Craig counted a neat one on Rochetta's pass.

Fans Joins In

Two players started a fist fight and others joined in, with a dozen fans jumping over the boards and tearing into the young Petes. With order gradually restored—following seven or eight separate fights—the teams went to their dressing-rooms for 10 minutes till the police arrived. When play resumed, Pammett and Bailey were given major penalties for starting the brawl. Rochetta made the count 3-0 before the end on Craig's pass at close range.

The Colts had an edge throughout the clean middle frame but missed a few nice scoring chance. Both sides were travelling at top speed from end to end and clicking better on passes. Foster notched the first of three for the visitors, Pammett aiding on it; it was a smart effort. Shortly after, Rochetta took a forward pass from Vitarelli to make it 5-0. Then Port Hope counted, Snelgrove scoring from Bradley at the goal-mouth. Pammett tallied alone in close near the finish, and DeCarlo—who had been butt ended—drew a major for slashing.

Rowden was waved away in the third for tripping, and the Colts cashed in with MacDonald sinking a daisy from DeCarlo. A few seconds later, Nichols bulged the hemp at close range in a scramble. Vitarelli and P. Anderson got the air together for pushing each other around and Rochetta scored the final marker on Craig's pass near the goal. Rochetta was penalized then for tripping but was back before Strickland got it for a similar offense. The Colts had an edge but the Ontarios were battling away hard at the final bell.

The teams:

Colts: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Mason and Beggs; centre, Rochetta; wings, Craig and Vitarelli; subs, Pammett, Foster, MacDonald, DeCarlo, Strickland and Nichols.

Port Hope: Goal, H. Anderson; defence, P. Anderson and Baxter; centre, Bradley; wings, Conroy and DeMill; subs, Snelgrove, Rowden, Woods, Ashby, Pemberton and Bailey.

OSHAWA GENERALS EDGE OUT 7-5 EXHIBITION WIN OVER PETES

Conacher Plans To Stage Boxing Contests

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)—Lionel Conacher, the Big Train of Canadian sport, is still going places but it's not on the playing field. It's in provincial politics and after two years as a legislator he is mentioned as cabinet timber.

Conacher made the jump from professional hockey into the political world in the same faultless style in which he ran a broken field in rugby or broke through for a shot on goal in lacrosse or hockey.

His first big move in the Ontario Legislature, to which he was elected in 1937 as a member for Toronto Bracondale, was directed to wiping out "bootleg" boxing in the Province. The Legislature approved his bill bringing all boxing, amateur and professional, under the control of the Ontario Athletic Commission.

In submitting his bill Conacher told how unprincipled promoters gained control of promising amateurs and entered them in small towns sometimes as often as three times weekly. The boys, he said, were being ruined in health and hijacked out of money promised them.

Gets To Work.

Recently appointed chairman of the O.A.C. after serving as vice-chairman, Conacher immediately began to put his legislation to work. Regional representatives were appointed and through these men, the O. A. C. will have constant supervision in all areas.

Conacher said his aim is to stage annual tournaments such as the Golden Gloves competiton across the border. Elimination shows will be staged in various centres, the winners fighting in Toronto for Ontario honors.

The boxers will be handled by clubs and once a boy joins a club he will remain with it until formally released. In this way the O. A. C. keeps tab on the lad until he turns pro. Managers among the amateurs are taboo.

Conacher played with two world championship hockey teams—Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Maroons and it was with the Maroons that he last played in 1935-36. He has played on Canadian championship teams in rugby and hockey and once held a National Boxing title. But, he says regretfully, he never was on a championship lacrosse team and lacrosse was his favorite sport.

Heximer Resigns

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan — Thomas Boyd, manager of the Cataract Senior Hockey Club, announced today that Orville (Obs) Heximer had resigned the coaching berth with the locals and would devote his future hockey duties to coaching the Canadian Niagara Power Company Club in the local industrial hockey league.

This work and other business obligations brought about the resignation of the popular pilot, who in past years contributed much valuable playing to the cause of local junior clubs and had a turn at N.H.L. and minor pro playing ranks.

The Falls manager stated that he would handle the coaching of Cataracts for a while but was not certain about the length of time he would be at the helm, a point which he claimed would be determined by the executive at a meeting within the next two weeks.

Castilloux Wins

Dave Castilloux of Montreal, who won a unanimous ten-round decision in Toronto last night over Le Rodak of Chicago. It was the third fight between the pair with Castilloux being twice winner.

Rodak No Match For Fighting Dave Castilloux

TORONTO, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Dave Castilloux thinks he can lick Leo Rodak any day in the week, and now he's looking for bigger game.

The handsome young Montrealer, who holds the Canadian featherweight and lightweight boxing titles, took a clearcut decision from Rodak before a crowd of 5,375 in Maple Leaf Gardens here and he'd like to call an end to the series with that. In their first meeting here he also was victorious, but Rodak took a decision in New Orleans a month ago and that started the thing all over again.

Dave is now eyeing Lou Ambers' world's lightweight crown and he's willing to tackle anyone who disputes his ambitions.

Castilloux hit top form last night against Rodak. Boxing carefully in the opening rounds he caught Rodak with three hard rights in the sixth and from there on had little trouble with the Chicagoan. Rodak scored his only success with a looping left hook to the body which bothered the Montrealer little. Castilloux flicked away with his left until he saw his opening and then his dynamite right came over with a flash.

He tagged Rodak with the haymaker in all but a few rounds, but the Chicagoan kept on the move and was never caught with a second right until the sixth when Castilloux knocked him rubber-kneed. The Montrealer was over-anxious and missed the kill. Castilloux weighed 132, Rodak 133.

In the eight-round semi-final Frankie Genovese, 158, of Toronto, took the decision from the veteran Tommy Bland, 150. Bland fought gamely all the way and bothered Genovese in the last two rounds, but his younger opponent was too far ahead.

Drive In Second Paves Way For Oshawa Win

Flashing some of the reasons why they are Dominion Junior Champions, Oshawa Generals defeated Coach Frank Buckland's Peterborough Intermediate squad before a fair crowd at Brock Street Rink, Tuesday night, 7 to 5 in a game in which the two clubs travelled at top speed from gong to gong.

The husky fast-skating Oshawa junior machine won largely on the strength of a sustained attack in the second period during which they badly outplayed the home talent, and scored four times against a rather soft goal by the Petes. In the first session the visitors also had a slight edge but the Buckaroos staged a comeback in the final twenty minutes and closed the gap materially, outscoring the junior champs three goals to one.

There will be few faster games this season. Both teams turned it on from the first faceoff and there was no letup at any stage. Oshawa's superior teamwork, both offensively and defensively, was the deciding factor in the victory. They broke fast on the attack and setup plays beautifully while the back checking of the Generals forwards was hard to shake off. The Petes, a bit disorganized at times in the first two periods, never stopped trying and the final dash saw them outplay the flashy visitors and make the finish a great deal closer than it promised to be when the period started.

Sawyer Star.

Sawyer, at right wing, for the starting Oshawa line looked like the fastest and best of a pack of speedy forwards and he got valuable assistance from Knott, the left winger, who had three assists. Eddolls the Verdun boy, was good going both ways and the Stratford McAtee's look to be in for a great season. Daniels was effective on the defence.

For the Petes credit has to be given to Joe Blewett for a sterling performance. The Lakefield flash scored two smart goals and assisted in another. Tompkins after a slow start also went great guns in the final period and the rest of the attacking division gave a good account of themselves. Drake Jopling, Crowe and Gardner had a busy night on the defence and went well. Shorty Roberts, the Toronto goalie was between the posts for the Petes in the first two periods and made a flock of good stops, most of them at close range. Harding finished the game in his usual classy style.

How They Scored.

Smith started the scoring for Oshawa at 5.45 in the first period. Left unchecked in front of the Petes net he had little trouble in registering when Eddolls broke up an attempted Peterborough breakaway at the blue line and slide a long forward pass to his team mate. The Petes tied it up at 10.12 when Blewett slipped Bun Kingdon a neat pass and the centre player's low backhand shot beat McManus completely. Oshawa took the lead again shortly after on a rush by Eddolls and a pass to Norm. McAtee who scored on a shot from the left side to make the count 2 to 1.

Early in the second period Knott went down the side and his pass to Sawyer at the goal mouth was converted neatly by the right winger. Starr made it 3 to 2 when his shot from the corner went into the net off the Oshawa goaler's skate, Heal drew an assist on the play.

Then came Oshawa's spurt that won the ball game. Daniels started it when he scored handily on a breakaway. Right afterward another smart Knott-to-Sawyer play clicked and finally Hellyer made it 6 to 2 when he took a pass from Jud McAtee and drilled a hot one past Roberts.

Make Good Start.

The Petes started the last session auspiciously. Tompkins put Joe Blewett into the clear with a neat pass and the left winger made no mistake when he got inside. Oshawa got that back when Knott passed out from the corner and Ronnie Wilson, coasting in, beat Harding at close range.

Then the Petes got going again, and even a penalty to Gardner for holding did not stop them. In fact, the homesters scored with the numerical advantage against them. Tompkins doing the trick on a fine solo effort to make the count 7 to 4.

Three minutes before the finish Joe Blewett got his second goal of the game, this time on a pass from Kingdon, and that finished the scoring.

Summerhill added five points to his record during the last week, emerging with a total of 35 in the statistics made public at league headquarters here.

Hemmerling's total was 28 points, an increase of four. Ronald Hudson of the Indianapolis club came out third with 27.

Rangers Run Up String Of Games To Fifteen Without Loss When They Defeat Boston 6-4

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—(CP). — New York Rangers, apparently as good as manager Lester Patrick says they are, approached the National Hockey League record for a sequence of games without a defeat today and no tremendous obstacle stood in their way.

The Rangers ran their string to 15 starts without a loss when they swarmed over Boston Bruins 5-4 before a capacity attendance of 16,000 in the Garden last night. They climbed into a first-place tie in the league standing with the Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs.

The record for a sequence of victories is held by Montreal Canadiens, who set it at 18 in 1927-28.

Patrick has called this Ranger club his greatest because of the way his lesser lines have become close to the equal of the great combination of Neil and Mac Colville and Alex Shibicky.

Rookies Scores Twice.

The Colville Brothers and Shibicky figured in only one goal as a unit last night and scoring honors went to rookie Kilby MacDonald. He scored twice within just more than a minute in the second period to put the visitors ahead to stay.

Three times the Rangers took advantage of penalties to tie the score and on the third occasion MacDonald poked in his goals.

A penalty to Art Coulter of the Rangers allowed an opening for the first Boston goal, scored by Red Hamill, but a sentence to Hamill let the New York team strike right back through Neil Colville. Flash Hollett sent Boston ahead 2-1.

Scoring seemed to put a jinx on the Bruins, for Hollett was penalized for tripping early in the second and Wilbur Hiller tied the score on a relay from Lynn Patrick.

Schmidt Scores.

The next Boston penalty to Jack Crawford, backfired in the Bruins' favor, Milt Schmidt breaking through the Ranger defence and scoring as he fell.

Macdonald's first goal came with the aid of Defenceman Johnny Shewchuck, who failed to clear a rolling puck while Jack Portland of the Bruins was serving time. With Portland still off, Macdonald sank the goal that put his team ahead to stay on a pass from Neil Colville. Ott Hiller made the score 5-3 when less than a minute remained in the second period, beating Goalie Frank Brimsek easily after breaking with Phil Watson.

Bryan Hextall sent the count up to 6-3 early in the third and, though the Bruins struck repeatedly for the rest of the game, the only score they could get came when Captain Dit Clapper drove a backhand shot past Dave Kerr.

Boxing Is In Bad Way, Needs To Clean House

By EDWARD C. FOSTER
(Secretary, National Boxing Commission.)

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Boxing is in a bad way as it goes into the new year. It is staggering and reeling from the repeated beatings it took during 1939, beatings handed out by the very men who should be its most ardent supporters and who make their living from the game.

The present situation has been growing for the last few years, as is evidenced by such cases as have come to public notice—the Jack Torrance case in Louisiana, the Adamick-Trammell case in Illinois, and last year the Harry Thomas expose.

It seems almost inconceivable that boxing promoters and so-called boxing managers (many of whom should be classed only as rubbers and trainers) cannot get the idea into their heads that the boxing fan, the man who supports their game, knows just as much and probably a great deal more about the fighters than do boxing commissions, promoters and managers.

Then why it is that a promoter will try to foist upon the public matches which he knows are really not matches at all but only exhibitions.

At least we have accomplished something this year which is, in our opinion, very beneficial to the game. We have done away entirely with two-title and three-title champions.

This is not intended in any way to detract fans from that marvellous fighter, Henry Armstrong, who held three titles at one time. Nevertheless, such a procedure was eminently unfair to the top-ranking boys in at least two of the divisions of which Armstrong was champion.

Armstrong relinquished his featherweight title, was defeated by Lou Ambers, who regained his lightweight title, and at the present time Armstrong is the legitimate welterweight champion. This is as it should be.

Allowing a promoter or manager to insist that some one special referee be designated to officiate in a bout is another practice that should be eliminated. Practically every state which has legalized boxing has competent, honest referees on its staff, and these are the men whom the various boxing commissions should appoint to handle bouts in their states.

All of the above seems a pretty hard arraignment of present-day boxing. But it is a true picture.

If the people most vitally interested in boxing do not get together and clean house, then it is a positive fact that someone from the outside will be called in to do the job for them.

Hunt Fish On Skates

QUESNEL, B.C., Jan. 3—(CP)—Cold weather on New Year's Day saw revival of one of the Cariboo district's most popular sports — fish skating on Lac la Hache, about 200 miles south of here. Up to New Year's the weather was so mild there was no ice on the lake.

For nearly twenty-five years skaters of this district have flocked to Lac la Hache when the ice was right to follow and "play out" fish, then spear them through holes chopped in the ice.

To skate down a char weighing ten to forty pounds requires a certain amount of skill and practice, but so far as is known no one has yet run down a Kamloops trout.

Only two lakes in Canada have ice clear enough for this kind of sport, skaters here claim. The other is in Ontario.

"TELL-BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.

YESTERDAY: Seeking a new thrill and anxious to annoy her mother, Fabienne makes a wager with Nicky that she can do social work for three months.

CHAPTER FIVE

ELLEN CHAPMAN regarded her unexpected visitor with misgivings. She said, "I did, and do, want you to come and take an interest in Willoughby house, Miss Seymour, but I would like you to consider what you have asked me before definitely making up your mind. I'm afraid this is a hasty decision and you may regret it."

Fabienne shook her head impatiently. "I always make quick decisions, Miss Chapman. I've been entirely honest with you. I haven't promised to spend the rest of my life doing charitable work, but I have told you, and given my promise that I'll do whatever you wish me to for three months."

"But, my dear girl, three months, eight hours a day — and some of those eight hours will be in the evening—will cut into your social program. It'll be a big change for you. Why don't you try to give a little time and then—"

"Look here!" Fabienne had made up her mind and she didn't intend to be blocked. "You said that you didn't have enough money or workers. I'm offering my time and I want no money. I've told you that I want to do it to prove something. Does my motive matter?"

"Perhaps," Ellen Chapman said simply. "You have to have a heart for this work. It's hard work and you have to give some of yourself."

For a few minutes Fabienne had nothing to say. She had made a bet with Nicky. It wasn't to win Nicky's mare that she had taken him up. It was discontent in herself, a feeling of need for discipline until she could decide what she wanted. Perhaps it would be Nicky. She hoped so, in spite of her desire to foil her mother's plans. She liked Nicky better than anyone she had ever known, but she didn't love him. Well, Fabienne had never seen a man she could fall in love with and she was no dreaming romanticist.

She smiled winningly. "If I told you that I take direction well and am a willing worker, would you take a chance?"

The other girl answered that smile. She said, "If you come in — even without a salary — you'll —even without a salay — you'll have to do the work of one. You'll have to take directions and there must be no favors expected. You'll be treated exactly as a paid worker, with duties assigned to you. You may not like them. You see we are highly organized, Miss Seymour, and we have so much work to do that each of us must act as if we were part of a disciplined army. Can you take that?"

"I can."

"When would you like to begin?"

"A week from Monday? Mother's sailing for Europe on Saturday. In the meantime I've got to find myself a hotel and pack."

"I've rather modest place on Twelfth street I might find you a small apartment there. It's not far from here."

"Thanks. I've practically decided on the Plaza. And I've a small car."

Ellen Chapman smiled a trifle, wryly. "You'll find the Plaza a long way from Willoughby house," she said pleasantly. "I hope you'll come and have supper with me some evening soon."

Gertrude sailed for Paris. Fabienne went to the boat with forty other people to see her off. Nicky had gone home to Maryland, but his orchids decorated the collar of her sable jacket. Gertrude was draped in gardenias and ermine. More gardenias and orchids practically filled the suite she had taken on A deck. So did the guests who drank champagne and departed amid a confusion of confetti, serpentine and chiffon handkerchiefs waved from jeweled wrists.

For one small moment, Fabienne Seymour's heart felt heavy with envy as the great ship swung out from the dock. Mother was going to Paris and she had committed herself to three months of manual labor.

She shrugged and followed Stu MacDonald into the elevator. "Let's go to La Conga and dance all night," she asked him. "Monday I become a working girl."

Stud thought that was pretty funny. "Doing what?"

"Telling bedtime stories to the kiddies," she told him.

Actually, she had an idea that it would be something like that. Actually, it was not.

"Good morning," Ellen Chapman said to her briskly when she appeared at the settlement house an hour later than she should have. "This is Miss Porter, who will be your director."

Miss Porter said, "You'd better wear low heels, Miss Seymour. I'm afraid you'll get tired standing all day in those. Now, we're going to start you for a week or two in the used clothes work."

Used clothes work. Fabienne couldn't have found it more distasteful if she'd been put to work washing dishes in a Greek restaurant! For eight hours a day she sorted soiled, worn clothes, saw them cleansed and ironed, distributed them for repairs and remaking, and washed her hands of them when they went to the distributing department. She did it grimly, but she did it uncomplainingly. She did it for nearly three weeks. Then one night, Ellen Chapman stopped her as she was going out and said, "Miss Seymour, you're a brick. I wonder if you'd be interested in taking over some of the reading work we do with young foreign men and women? Can you have supper with me? We can talk it over."

Much to her surprise, Fabienne found that she was pleased because Ellen Chapman was pleased. She thought about the invitation. If she went back to her suite at the Plaza, she'd either have her dinner in bed or go out and stay too late. She said, "Thanks, I'd like to."

In all her life she'd never dined without service. Candle light and trained, obsequious servants had attended her evening meals. Of course, occasionally there had been picnics. Picnics with the chauffeur carrying the hampers that had been packed by cook and butler.

Supper with Ellen Chapman was an experience. Ellen said, "It'll be simple. You rest while I get it together."

So Fabienne sat in the living room of Ellen's apartment and toyed with the keys of Ellen's small grand piano and looked at Ellen's etchings, at the comfortable chairs before the hearth, at the good r on the old floor and was disgus with herself because its good taste should have surprised her. Ellen, so plain, so effacing, didn't look as if she could have produced a background of this kind for herself.

Fabienne let her hands drift over the keys and realized she was hungry, regretted her decision to share a home-cooked supper. She'd probably have to eat canned beans and potato salad from a bakery.

In a surprisingly short time, Ellen said, "It's ready now."

Fabienne actually blinked when she saw the table.

A fine lace cloth covered it and bright-hued zinnias were massed in a pewter bowl between flicking candles. There was a ring of silver serving dishes that contained fragrant sweetbreads and tiny lima beans and a platter with two gre luscious-smelling stuffed baked p tatoes. And in a bowl on the minute serving table there was a mixed green salad and a fine old cheese.

Fabienne said, "Ellen Chapman, suppose we learn things from one another? You're showing me things I didn't—"

The telephone rang and Ellen excused herself.

Fabienne heard her say, "Hello, Bill...."

When she came back, her cheeks were pink and her eyes had a sparkle in them.

Fabienne thought: Why, she's really pretty. Maybe I can do something about a waste of good material.

She said, "Who's Bill?"

Ellen gave her a surprised glance. She said, in a voice that was cool with reserve, "A friend of mine. May I serve you?"

In German Camp

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(CP). — For more than a month, Mrs. Edgar Oliver believed her seaman-husband dead, a victim of the war. So she was dressed in mourning when her little daughter came running and shouted, "here's a letter from daddy.

Oliver, one of the crew of the British auxiliary cruiser Rawalpindi, sunk by the German pocket battleship Deutschland is a battle off the coast of Iceland November 26, had been given up for lost.

But today, his wife and daughter learned from his letter he had been saved and interned in a German prison camp, from which he wrote.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

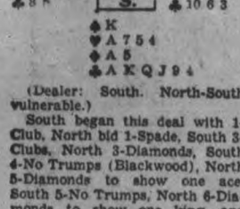
"The Authority on Authorities"

A SHORT SUIT SQUEEZE

MOST SQUEEZE plays mature when the final card of a long suit is played. This is not necessarily so, however. Upon rare occasions, the situation regarding entries is such that the long suit must be run off before the elements of the squeeze play can be built up, the squeeze itself then being executed by means of a high or set-up card in a shorter suit.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South began this deal with 1-Club, North bid 1-Spade, South 3-Clubs, North 3-Diamonds, South 4-No Trumps (Blackwood), North 5-Diamonds to show one ace, South 5-No Trumps, North 6-Diamonds to show one king, and South 7-Clubs. If North had shown two kings, South would have bid the grand slam in No Trump.

West led the heart J, and South could count only 12 tricks. A squeeze was needed for the thirteenth. He won the heart lead with dummy's Q, ran all of the clubs, laid down the spade K and diamond A, then led to the heart K. When he now played the dummy's spade A, discarding a diamond, West was squeezed. If he tossed away his diamond K, he would build up dummy's diamond Q. If he discarded from his heart 10 and 9, he would establish declarer's heart 7, which is the choice of evils he selected.

When this deal was shown to one eastern tournament veteran, he said: "That looks like one of Ed Kenton's jobs." It was. The Knickerbocker Whist club star came upon it in a rubber game.

Bensfort Friends Honor Pte. Thompson

BENSFORT, Jan. 2 (ENS). — A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bell, when Private A. H. Thompson, R. C.E., was honored by the Council and friends. Cards were enjoyed for a while, then the presentation took place. The address was read by ex-Reeve Roy Whittington, and is as follows:

"Dear Bill,—Before you leave this township, a number of your friends along with the South Monaghan Council, have gathered together to say good-bye to you, and to wish you well. You have the honor to be the first to enlist from this community in the present war. War is a great adventure, but it is more than that. Our country is at war for a great cause, the cause of freedom and religion, and all that we hold dear. It is a fight against wickedness in high places, against evil powers that must be conquered.

We believe that you will play your part manfully in the great conflict. As a new Canadian you have done your bit in this new country, and in due time you will return to your own country of England, to join the Canadian Forces there. We wish you well. May God protect you on sea and land and may you come back again with the Canadian contingent sharing with them 'Peace with Honor.'

As an expression of our esteem and good wishes, we ask you to accept this Rolls razor, also bill-fold and its contents. May they always remind you of the good friends in this township, who will continue to remember you."

Melville Nurse made the presentation, after which all joined in singing "For he's a jolly good fellow." Bill thanked his friends in a few appropriate words, after which cards and dancing were resumed. Lunch was served at midnight, thus bringing to a close a very enjoyable evening.

3,000 More Aussie Aces Read In 1940

MELBOURNE, Jan. 3—(CP Reuters) — Discounting predictions of Germany's imminent collapse as a "lot of tripe," Air Minister J. V. Fairbairn today advised that 3,000 more Australian fliers will be sent overseas during 1940 to join the squadron which recently arrived in England.

Mr. Fairbairn who recently returned from Canada where he participated in Empire Air Training Conferences, said that Australian fliers on active service abroad would serve in squadrons under Australian officers. Members of the Royal Air Force will be sent to Australia under an exchange plan.

Mr. Fairbairn appealed for volunteers and urged applicants not to be discouraged if they were not called immediately. "There is an awful lot of tripe about Germany crackling up," he said. "She will not until we evert full pressure."

Rumania To Fight For Bessarabia

CONSTANZA, Rumania, Jan. 3.—(AP).— Rumania, in the words of Premier George Tatarescu, will defend "to the last man," if necessary, the Provinces of Bessarabia and Bucovina bordering Soviet Russia.

Tatarescu addressed sailors of the Rumanian navy yesterday in the presence of King Carol, declaring the populations of the two provinces "chose to come to Rumania of their own free will" after the last war, and that "we will defend them to the last man."

Diplomats wondered if Rumania had grounds for believing that Bucovina as well as Bessarabia might be desired by Russia. Bucovina was part of former Imperial Austria and Bessarabia, part of Imperial Russia.

Tatarescu also repeated Rumanian determination to fight, if necessary, to bar any Hungarian recovery of Transylvania, another area which changed hands as a result of the last war.

Unity Mitford, Fascist, Friend Of Hitler Coming Home To Britain On A Stretcher

LONDON, Pan. 2 (CP)—Unity Valkyrie Freeman-Mitford, British "woman Fascist" and friend of Adolf Hitler, neared home shores today on a stretcher after a carefully-guarded voyage from Germany.

Some of Britain's leading surgeons awaited the mysteriously ailing daughter of Lord and Lady Redesdale. She was expected to be taken to a hospital from the south coast port where she was due to dock about noon after crossing the English Channel.

Miss Freeman-Mitford's family learned only Christmas Eve of her journey home and also heard she had met with an accident in Munich Aug. 9.

An ardent admirer of Hitler and several times his guest at Berchtesgaden, his Bavarian mountain chalet, unity was in Germany when war broke out and had remained there until now.

The London News Chronicle reported that Hitler had given her every facility for her trip home, including a special ambulance-type railroad car.

Unity's sister, Dianna, is the second wife of Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Union of Fascists, now known simply as "the British Union."

George Whitred Retires From Tannery

HASTINGS, Jan. 2. — George "Sandy" Whitred put his last side of sole leather through the press at the tannery on Saturday afternoon and retired after forty-eight years of continuous and faithful service under three firms. He was the longest employed man at the tannery and is ten years older than the next oldest employee. The family tradition is being carried on by two sons, Walter and Stewart, who have been employed at the plant for some time. Everett, his youngest son, is employed by the Hoffman Machine Company in Toronto and Cecil, eldest of the family, works for the Slater and Kelley Motor Service in Hamilton.

Mr. Whitred has seen and taken part in the manufacture of almost every type of leather although the present firm, The Breithaupt Leather Company, manufactures sole leather only. He has seen the present large concrete buildings grow out of a much smaller building of wood construction. In 1917, the plant of frame construction was swept by fire and Mr. Whitred assisted in making the cement blocks which form the present plant.

The veteran of seventy-five years, was born in Norfolk, England, in 1865 and came to Canada on a sailing vessel which took twenty-one days to cross the ocean. About the age of seven years, Mr. Whitred arrived at Birdsall's with his parents where they settled. When he was twenty-seven he started working in the tannery under the firm of Walsh and Quigley. About the year 1909, the firm of McGrail and Breithaupt purchased the plant. Operations were continued as formerly in harness and upper leather until the year 1915 when sole leather was the main manufacture and production of harness and upper leather gradually tapered off.

In excellent health and surprisingly active, Mr. Whitred told the Examiner he would like to say that the Breithaupt Leather was the finest firm he ever worked for but, actually, he said, "they are the only firm I worked for." He said they have always shown every kindness and consideration for their employees. And who should be in a better position to make such a statement than this veteran of leather manufacture in Hastings.

Mr. Whitred's retirement was his own decision. "I notified the firm more than a week ago I was going to retire at the end of the year," he told the Examiner. "I guess I'll just take it easy for awhile." His retirement will be felt among his fellow employees as the loss of one among them whose quiet and kindly disposition will be missed from the plant where he spent more than 14,000 working days from the beamhouse to the warehouse.

Finns Caring For Wounded After Repulsing Attack

Members of the Finnish army ambulance corps are shown here taking their wounded to field dressing stations on the Karelian front after a Soviet attack had been repulsed. Finnish losses at this point have been heavy compared with other sectors, but according to neutral estimates, not nearly as heavy as the losses inflicted on the enemy. It was across the Karelian isthmus that the Russians had hoped to crack the Mannerheim line, main line of Finland's defence, but their first efforts were failures.

Chinese War Losses

CHUNGKING, Jan. 2—(AP). — A Chinese army spokesman asserted today that Japan's losses in 2½ years of war totalled 1,464,400 men, but added that only 40 per cent—585,760 —were killed or wounded.

The remainder, he said, had died of disease or been incapacitated by illness or other causes.

The best neutral estimates have put Japanese killed and wounded at not more than two thirds of the spokesman's figures.

Calgary Pioneer Who Taught In Millbrook, Mrs. George Jacques Passes At 84

CALGARY, Jan. 2.—(CP)—Mrs. George E. Jacques, 84, one of Calgary's first white women, is dead. She had been a resident of the city for 58 year. She died at her home Sunday.

The story of Mrs. Jacques reads like a history of the city. She braved the long overland trek from Ontario to Calgary in 1880-81, resided in one of the city's first cabins, watched the first train puff into the city from the doorway of her cabin and heard the Indians describe the engine as the "old devil himself."

She saw the young cowtown prepare for the Reil rebellion of 1885 which turned Calgary into an armed camp, watched the city give its young men to fight the South African war, 1899-1901, and still later the Great War.

In 1875, Mrs. Jacques as a young girl, taught school at Millbrook, Ont. (Durham County). In addition to her son Harry, Calgary, Mrs. Jacques is survived by one daughter and two grandchildren.

King Winter Is Tough On U-Boats

Not the most pleasant job under any circumstnces, work aboard submarines in the near Arctic regions at this time of year holds extra hardships for crews of the underwater craft. This is a German submarine, pictured at its base at Kiel, after returning from a cruise in the Baltic sea, ice-encrusted from stem to stern. The ice forms when the submarine comes to the surface and makes navigation and effective torpedo or gunfire, should they be necessary, next to impossible.

The Finns Welcome a "Comrade"

Hands aloft, in token of surrender, a Red army officer is shown being guarded by Finnish soldiers after his capture on the Karelian front. The Russian steamroller has been held to a standstill at this point since the start of the Finnish-Russo war. The Finns are said to have taken a great many prisoners, most of them ill-clad, ill-fed and ignorant of what the war is all about. (Radiophoto).

Inquest Opens In Double Bell Tragedy

Opposed Gertrude's Midland Trip Sister Tells Court

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., Jan. 4 — (CP). — After postponements extending over several weeks while official and private investigations were completed, the inquest on the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bell opened here to-day.

Mrs. Bell was the former Gertrude Small, sister of Ambrose Small, millionaire theatre owner, whose disappearance from Toronto in December, 1919, is regarded as one of Canada's greatest unsolved crimes.

Miss Small and Warren Bell, electrician, were married at Stayner, Ont., on October 26, and that evening the automobile in which they were riding ran off Wasaga Beach and into the Nottawasaga River, where they lost their lives.

Mrs. Bell had moved from her former home in Toronto to Midland, 105 miles north, where she met Bell.

After the bodies were recovered, Patrick Sullivan, friend of Florence Small, sister of Mrs. Bell, announced he was instituting a private investigation. At the request of Miss Florence Small, the inquest was postponed until to-day.

The courtroom was crowded when the inquest opened. Dr. E. J. Corcoran, Elmvale coroner, presided. Dr. Smirle Lawson, chief coroner of Ontario, was present.

200 War Trucks A Day From Single Factory Are Delivered By Auxiliary Girls; Job Built For 'Impossible' Army Demands

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 4.—(CP).— Two hundred girls, most of them with red noses, assemble outside an automobile factory here each morning and drive away 200 army trucks turned out by the plant as part of the day's work.

The trucks, designed by officers of the Mechanical Transport Department of the Ministry of Supply, are special jobs with loading capacity of 1,500 pounds, high-compression, low-consumption engines, dual gas tanks and bullet proof tires.

The trucks this factory turns out represent only a small part of the problems bothering the mechanical transport department. The department designs trucks, cars, machine-gun carriers, tractors and tanks.

This is about how the problem is worked out: The army demands a vehicle of a specific type and tells the mechanical transport department roughly what work it will be expected to perform and where it will be used.

The department investigates the army order and finds, as a rule, that the vehicle demanded is an engineering impossibility. It consults the army, explains the difficulties and asks if something else, as close as possible to the original will do.

Officers explain vehicle designing for the arm is always a compromise and that there is no such thing in its view as a perfect vehicle.

So, finally, the compromise design is accepted and sent to a contractor such as the firm whose plant this correspondent visited. The firm's engineers redesigned their equipment to bring out the new job.

In this case it meant a three-weeks shut-down, but no unemployment because the workers were set to digging air raid shelters, shielding skylights with 300 tons of sheet metal and blacking out 380,000 square feet of windows. ARP cost the company a total of around $460,000.

In this war the company went into production in three weeks. In the first Great War it produced what was known as the "War Car," eight or nine vehicles a week. Now it has multiplied that figure by more than 100 and is turning out four vehicles for the old price of one.

As the trucks come off the assembly line they are taken for a test run, then lined up to wait for the girls of the Women's Territorial Service to drive them away.

It's cold work these mornings and the girls arrive with their chins down in the collars of their military great coats. It's usually chilly enough to keep noses red, no matter how much powder is applied.

Bill To Curb Ireland's I.R.A. Passes

Men Behind New Law Said Marked For Assassination

DUBLIN, Jan. 4—(AP).—Eire's parliament convened today for speedy final action on an emergency powers bill giving authority for a nation-wide roundup of members of the illegal Irish Republican Army.

The bill, which gives the Eire Government power to intern without trial persons menacing the safety of the state, was passed, 82 to 9, in the Dial Eireann (lower house) last night and sent to the Senate.

Amid predictions that legislators were marked for assassination and rumors of an I.R.A. "school for bomb throwers," the Dail voted in a special session.

While the measure was debated, Detective John Roche was shot to death in Cork when he and another detective challenged a group of men. Police arrested the group, which included Thomas MacCurtain, son of the late Lord Mayor of Cork who was shot during the Irish Rebellion in 1921.

Justice Minister Gerald Boland, urging enactment of the legislation, said several packets of "American dollars" destined for the I.R.A. had been seized by authorities.

Mr. Boland said "officers" of the army possessed large sums of money and quantities of arms and ammunition to carry out a rebellion for the union of Northern Ireland with Ireland.

Bulgaria Hopes For Increase In Soviet Trade

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Prospects of increasing trade with Soviet Russia were expected hopefully here today in confidence that negotiations in progress in Moscow would be successful.

Although opinion in Sofia was certain that Russia would make no demands detrimental to this country, foreign observers questioned whether the Soviet would expand her trade with Bulgaria without concessions.

There were rumors that Moscow might make military demands.

(A Bulgarian trade delegation has been conferring for three days with A. I. Mikoyan, commissar of foreign trade, in Moscow.

Besides increased trade, Bulgaria looks to the Moscow talks to extricate her from concentration of her commerce in Germany and to draw up a trade and navigation treaty resuming Bulgarian-Russian Black Sea traffic.

It was pointed out that the almost non-existent state of trade relations between Moscow and Soviet Union bought less than $200 worth of Bulgarian exports.

New Deal Clears Radio Channels

TORONTO, Jan. 4. —(CP)— At least six months will be needed to make effective the new North American regional agreement which gives new clear channels to Canadian radio stations, officials of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation said here today.

The agreement, made at Havana two years ago, was ratified last Friday by Mexico, the last country to approve it. Under its terms Canada, the United States, Cuba, Mexico, Haiti and the Dominican Republic agree to share 105 broadcast bands.

CBC officials said new wavelengths will be allocated to nearly all stations on this continent. In the United States alone hundreds of stations will be affected.

A definite deadline will be set for the swing-over so that all stations will change to the new wavelengths at the same time. Necessary technical adjustments in transmitters and antennae systems will have to be made during the six months interval.

CBL, the 50,000-watt Ontario key station of the CBC in Toronto, has been the principal Canadian sufferer from interference. It also has been a matter for concern with the CBC's French and English key stations at Montreal, CBF and CBM.

French Ambush Takes Toll Of Nazi Patrols

PARIS, Jan. 4 (CP-Havas) — Heavy losses by two German detachments of about 100 men each ambushed by a small French patrol on the western front were reported by military authorities today. The French group returned to its base without losing a single man.

The French unit in the Vosges mountains, realizing it was too small to attack the Germans, was skilfully arranged in such a way as to be able to sweep the enemy detachment with machine-gun fire.

West of the Saar River a French patrol penetrated German lines to a depth of about 1½ miles. In the same region French soldiers took prisoners by ambushing an enemy patrol.

For the past two days the usual patrol activities have occurred in the daytime, instead of at night, as had been the case for several days previous. Yesterday, particularly in the morning, patrol activity was notably intense, extending to almost all sectors of the front from the Rhine to the Moselle.

Improved weather conditions made possible increased activity in the air. French reconnaissance planes carried out four missions, penetrating inside Germany as far as 250 miles.

German planes flew over the eastern region of France, approaching close to the Paris district. Northern France also was flown over. The German planes passed over Belgium on the way back to Germany.

French Down 2 Planes

Over the front the air forces of both sides were busy on observation and photographing missions. In encounters of pursuit planes, the French brought down two German machines, a Dornier and a Messerschmidt.

Meanwhile, General Wladyslaw

Rockville Centre, N.Y., Jan. 4. THE PARABLE of the talents is coming true for Rev. Karl F. More.

Last Oct. 11, he distributed 500 "talent" dollars among the communicants of his Methodist Episcopal Church and bade them go forth—to help the building fund.

Today he discovered they had exceeded even the 100 per cent looked upon as a reasonable return in the gospel of St. Matthew —for the fund has grown to $2,-575.

One woman who had taken $1 returned $25 in proceeds from the sale of clam chowder. A salesman bought a textbook on public speaking with his $1, and turned in $30 gained from giving lessons at 25 cents each. Others were doing equally well.

Spee And Achilles Crews Drink To Friendship

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 4.—(AP). —With glasses of beer, German and British seamen who engaged in the running naval battle off Montivideo Dec. 13 washed away ill feeling last night.

In bars and clubs, the one-time rivals in the greatest sea fight in the war drank toasts and told each other they harbored no ill will.

The British sailors were off the Achilles, one of three British warships which put the German pocket battleship Graf Spee to flight. The aftermath of the encounter was the scuttling of the pocket battleship after Uruguay ordered it either to leave its Montevideo refuge or be interned.

As surprised Argentines looked on,

Farmers' Market Does Business $250,000 A Year

Business on the Peterborough market was estimated at $250,000 a year by a group of producers meeting last night in the office of Frank C. Paterson, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, to consider means of improving conditions for themselves and the buying public.

That volume of turnover was mentioned as an indication of the importance of the market to farmers and also to the citizens of Peterborough who attend ,and to the city and district community which should be interested in the development of a local trading centre.

Appointment of a committee to "talk things over with the County Council" was a preliminary which is likely to be followed by an approach to the Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham through producers of that area who sell produce on the Peterborough market.

Regret was expressed that nothing came of the petition presented to the City Council early last year by Alderman Gordon on behalf of buyers and sellers who asked for new market accommodation entirely on the ground floor. It was recalled that some six hundred men and women of the city and district signed that petition which, it was said, had been carefully circulated.

The producer group last night was not solely concerned about improved quarters, especially for the outdoor section. They suggested that the money spent on the repairing and altering of the market entrance last year was something of a mistake, but they accepted it as something done and finished.

Broader Policy.

Stricter grading of eggs and poultry and other commodities as a means of developing buyer confidence and attracting more business to the market was one of the topics considered. The possibility of building up a strong association of producers with a small membership fee that would provide a fund for advertising the weekly market was also proposed, and it was believed that the co-operation of the City Council might be obtained for the purpose of making the citizens more aware of the advantages of buying on the market.

Several of the producers stated that an annual business of $250,000, which they believed to be a moderate estimate, should warrant the support of merchants for the improvement of the market, even

J. R. Thompson Is Returned Reeve Norwood

NORWOOD, Jan. 4 (ENS)—Norwood's civic machinery has started to roll again. Somewhat startled to find that the regularly scheduled nomination proceedings on December 22 had witnessed a complete collapse for lack of nominees, Norwood citizens decided it was time to stop that kind of thing with the result that there was a good turnout of electors for the second nomination session held Wednesday night and the civic bodies will be up to normal strength in the near future.

J. R. Thompson was elected by acclamation when Perrin Rork and W. H. Montgomery, the other nominees for the reeveship declined to qualify.

There will be an election Monday to fill the four places on the council from the following field who have decided to stay in the running: B. S. Lochead, Bert Scott, Perrin Rork, C. H. Frederick, Walter Bitten, Mrs. Catherine Rogers.

Mrs. E. P. Cuffe, Mrs. J. U. McIntosh and Mrs. Jean McMillan were elected to the Board of Education by acclamation, other nominees failing to qualify.

Roosevelt Wants Farm, Relief Spending Cut

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP) — President Roosevelt urged the United States congress today to slash farm, relief and public works spending in a budget message asking $460,000,000 of special defence taxes and proposing one of the smallest deficits in a decade.

If all recommendations are followed, the president forecast a net deficit for the fiscal year beginning July 1 of $1,716,000,000, compared with an estimated $3,933,000,000 for the current year.

Cutting nearly everything in the budget except defence funds, Mr. Roosevelt estimated expenditures for the next fiscal year at $8,424,000,000, which he said would be $675,000,000 less than this year. Net receipts from existing taxes, not counting social security levies, would increase $382,000,000 to $5,548,000,000 because of better business.

Mr. Roosevelt bluntly told members intent on making election-year records that "those who call for further cuts should have the courage and honesty to specify where they should be made."

For himself, he said, he was satisfied that no lower figures could be attained without impairing the administration of laws or working "undue hardships on individuals and economic groups."

Reduced Rations.

The message, read to the Senate and the House of Representatives by clerks, said that the government was "prepared to move forward on reduced rations." It proposed "a gradual tapering off, rather than an abrupt cessation of the deficit" lest, Mr. Roosevelt said, there be a "too drastic or too sudden curtailment" of support afforded the national economy by government

Goering To Rule All German War Industry

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—(AP).— Field Marshal Hermann Goering has decided to take the supreme direction of the entire war industry into his own hands, it was announced today.

The avowed purpose is to bring about the greatest concentration and unification of everything that concerns Germany's economic policy during the war.

Goering, No. 2 Nazi, thus becomes the supreme war economic authority."

All chief offices of the nation having to do with war-economic policy are united in a general council under Goering's presidency. By this measure, it was stated, the "absolutely essential co-operation is to be ensured."

His Right Hand Man.

Goering's right hand man, State Secretary Paul Koerner of the Prussian State Ministry, has been appointed his deputy.

Writing in "The Four Year Plan," Koerner said transition of the highly developed German economy from peace to war was accomplished without friction. To meet the British blockade, German economic policy must be adapted to new possibilities, Koerner wrote.

Three pre-conditions must be fulfilled, Koerner held: "First, clear authority to give orders and the most rigid authority for the direction of the entire war economy.

"Second, closest co-operation of all offices having to do with questions of war economy.

"Third, discipline and understanding co-operation by the entire people."

Koerner said Goering would utilize existing ministries as well as tried institutions of the four-year plan for economic self-sufficiency.

U.S. Delegation To Conclude Seaway Treaty

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP). — The State Department announced today that a delegation headed by A. A. Berle, Jr., would leave for Ottawa Saturday to conclude a treaty with Canada for development of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway.

The treaty would provide also for Hydro-Electric power projects.

The delegation is composed of Berle, assistant secretary of State; John Hickerson, assistant chief of the division of European Affairs of the State Department, and Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

The committee will discuss unsettled points of the draft treaty submitted by the State Department to Canada last year. It is expected to remain in Ottawa two or three days.

Signing of the treaty is expected within a few weeks. Thereafter it will be submitted to the United States Senate for its advice and consent.

The State Department disclosed that the sending of the delegation to Ottawa was as a result of a proposal by the Canadian Government. The Department said:

"On December 26, 1939, Mr. Loring Christie, the Canadian Minister in Washington, transmitted a proposal to the Secretary of State that a meeting be held in Ottawa between members of the public services of the two countries for informal discussions to clarify a number of questions of detail preliminary to a consideration of the broader questions of policy involved."

U.S. Senate Leader Hints Quick Aid to Finns Indicating Loan Up To 100 Million Lifting Restrictions On War Materials

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP). —Immediate financial and other practical aid to Finland was forecast today by Chairman Key Pittman of the United States Senate foreign relations committee's first meeting next Wednesday.

Among proposals under discussion in Senate corridors are bills providing for loans for Finland ranging from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, remission of Finland's war debt payments, and removal of all restrictions on $10,000,000 credits already granted Finland. The latter action would allow the money to be used to buy war and other materials.

In the House of Representatives, Frank Hook, Michigan Democrat, proposed a $60,000,000 loan to Finland on her debt to the United States be refunded.

Pittman said a question "worthy of consideration by our statesmen" was to what extent the United States might be justified in going beyond technical neutrality in assisting victims of aggression "as a matter of self defence—a self defence which superseded the requirements of neutrality."

He added that another question which he expected would be considered soon by the foreign relations committee was his resolution authorizing the president to forbid export of munitions, iron, steel, oil, scrap iron and other metals to Japan "in view of the conduct of Japan in China toward our citizens."

The Pittman resolution is slated to be considered after Jan. 26, the expiration of the U.S.-Japanese commercial treaty.

Other bills awaiting action of the foreign relations committee include:—

Proposals for aquisition by the United States of Cocos Island (from Costa Rica), Curacao and Netherlands Guiana, Greenland, and other islands from Mexico Ecuador, Colombia and Panama.

Provisions for the liquidation and settlement of war debts.

Investigation of conditions in Mexico affecting property rights of Americans.

Champion Finn Ski Runner Leads Raiders In Dynamiting Murmansk Railway As Troops Chase Reds 10 Miles Into Russia

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 4—(AP), —Finnish forces following up the defeat of a Russian division on Lake Kianta were reported today to have penetrated about 10 miles onto Soviet soil.

This was the fourth point on the eastern front at which Finnish counter-offensives have carried into Russia.

Unconfirmed reports placed the Finns in the latest penetration as far as the western shores of Lake Kokki, which is about 10 miles inside Soviet territory; and said they were advancing northeast in pursuit of retreating Red army forces.

The Finns crossed the border last month east of Lieksa, in the Inari sector about 140 miles north of Lake Ladoga, and in the Kivivaara sector further northeast.

Ski patrols operating from Juolajaervi also were reported menacing the Murmansk railway at Kandalaska, Russia.

The latest exploit of one of these "suicide patrols," the newspaper National Tidende said, was the dynamiting of the railroad, a vital supply line for the Soviet forces, in an undisclosed zone.

Pekka Nieme, champion Finnish ski runner, was said to have led the patrol.

Copenhagen newsappers also published unconfirmed reports that ski patrols penetrating Russian territory were being helped by inhabitants of Russian Karelia, many of whom are of the Finnish race.

However, no report of train wrecking or of dynamiting on the Murmansk railway has yet been confirmed in Helsingfors.

Finnish airmen reported that they had successfully bombed a bridge on the Leningrad-Urmansk railway and that a train, including an armored car, had plunged into a river.

General Ernst Linder, commander of the Swedish volunteers going to Finland, is leaving this week for the front to take command of the sector held by the Swedes, the paper said. Count Ehrensvaerd was said to have been named chief of staff of the Swedish volunteers force.

4 Still Missing In Hotel Fire

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 4—(AP). — Fire Department officials began today an exhaustive inquiry into yesterday's disastrous Marlborough Hotel fire that took at least 18 lives, sent 25 persons to hospitals and left four unaccounted for.

While it was believed a lighted cigarette carelessly tossed into the garbage storage chute set off an explosion to start the blaze, Arthur Spottswood, Fire Prevention Chief, said he was unable to determine the cause definitely.

Preliminary queries established that the explosion, apparently from the garbage chute, preceded the rush of smoke and flame through the three floors of the three-storey, 45-year-old building.

Hospital attaches reported that at least nine of the injured were in a critical condition.

Reds Charge Fantastic War Reports

Claim Tales Based Upon Hasty Conclusions

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP). — A Soviet Russian charge that "fantastic" versions of war with Finland were originating in Scandinavian capitals as well as Helsingfors provided an argumentative accompaniment today for a series of diplomatic manoeuvres pivoting on Moscow.

A statement by the Press Bureau of Russia's London embassy cautioned against "hasty conclusions based on doubtful evidence" on the Red campaign against Finland.

The statement was issued about the time the Italian ambassador to Soviet Russia left Moscow last night, a day after departure of the British ambassador, and while the Hungarian foreign minister, Count Csaky, travelled to Italy with important diplomatic talks in prospect.

Budapest diplomatic circles said Count Csaky's visit would include talks with Italian leaders on a possible Balkan move by Russia, probably centring on what would transpire if Russia marched into Rumanian Bessarabia.

Hungarians declared Italy would support a Hungarian advance into Rumanian Transylvania to secure the Carpathian mountain barrier against Russia if the Reds invaded the Balkans.

Dispatches from Moscow said the departure of the Italian envoy, Augusto Rosso, apparently was ignored by Soviet officials. None ap-

Suggest Toronto Council Quit Over 2-Year Act

TORONTO, Jan. 4—(CP). — The much-discussed bill relating to lengthening of terms of municipal officials during wartime as an economy measure may be debated on non-party lines in the Ontario Legislature this month, according to reports at Queen's Park.

Proposed changes in the Ontario Municipal Act were submitted for Cabinet approval at a meeting yesterday. Following the session Premier Mitchell Hepburn would give no hint as to what decision, if any, was reached, although talk remained that the government will stand behind the bill in the House.

Several Ontario municipalities have opposed the suggestion that terms of municipal officials be extended. Last Monday Toronto citizens voted two to one against the suggestion that the tenure of office be lengthened from one year to two. By four to one they expressed opinion against a moratorium on municipal elections during the war.

Conjecture over the fate of the bill, details of which have not been made public, was aroused further last night when Ald. Ernest C. Bogart of Toronto announced he will ask the entire Toronto council to resign as a protest measure at the end of this year if the Provincial Government insists upon enacting legislation forcing municipalities to remain in office for more than a one-year period.

General Opposition.

Mr. Bogart, who headed the aldermanic poll, said the government plan should be opposed by every municipality in the province and that Toronto should take the lead and force another election next year.

He termed the government's plan an "alarming encroachment" on municipal rights.

Inspector E .D. Hammond of the Provincial Police was the first witness called. He identified a number of photographs of the automobile in which the Bells were said to have been riding.

Dr. E. Fielden of Toronto, who performed the post-mortem examination on Warren Bell on October 30, testified that with the exception of four small marks on the forehead and a bruise on the right lower leg the condition of the lungs, heart, and stomach were typical of conditions found in drowning cases.

Dr. Fielden said he believed Bell came to his death by drowning.

All Witnesses Excluded

When Miss Florence Small entered the witness box many interruptions occurred and it was found necessary to have all witnesses excluded. In her evidence Miss Small told of the harmonious relationship which had always existed between she and her sister, Gertrude.

Several months ago she had gone to Midland and resided there until her death. She had on two occasions been in hospitals for her nerves. When she went to Midland it was, Miss Small said, "to go to the Shrine there for treatment, which she felt was a mistake."

"My sister," she declared, "was doped and murdered," and continued, "I will stick to that."

Miss Small told of visiting her sister's home in Midland after her death. Her home, Miss Small stated "was not the same to which she had been accustomed"

She and her sister Gertrude had received equal incomes from the Small estate. They had lived comfortably. On her sister's death her income would revert to the Catholic Church while her own would go back to the estate.

She had identified her sister's body at Elmvale. On leaving the box, Miss Small did so with the remark "thy sister was murdered."

Aid To Finland Under Study By The Dominion

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—(CP). — The heavy burden of leading the Dominion through four months of war seems to rest lightly on Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who appears in better health today than any time since the conflict started.

In his East Block office yesterday, he genially received 30 parliamentary correspondents at his second press conference of the war, greeted them all with a warm smile and then underwent the newsmen's verbal cross-fire covering half a dozen topics.

The Prime Minister announced with regret that ill health has forced Walter Thompson to take a long rest from his post as Director of Public Information, which he recently assumed after being chief censor. Herbert Lash, an assistant of Mr. Thompson"s, will act in the director's absence.

Asked about Canadian aid to Finland in the fight against Russia, Mr. Mackenzie King said the methods by which the Dominion could give economic assistance to the little Baltic country were under consideration by the Government, and might possibly take the form of contributions through the Red Cross Society.

Another correspondent questioned the government head about the St. Lawrence Waterways, and the Prime Minister gave official assurance that negotiations are again underway between Canada and the United States looking toward agreement on the project and "informal" discussions have been opened.

The President shaved things so close that, on the basis of his figures, the Federal debt on June 30, 1941, would be $61,000,000 short of the $45,000,000,000 maximum authorized by law. This would permit Congress to defer until next year the controversial issue of whether that maximum should be increased.

Mr. Roosevelt gave this picture of where the Treasury's money is going:

(The 1940 figures, not included in the budget message, are computed from official sources.)

Proposals for national defence included emergency funds for operations started since the outbreak of war—increased enlistments for the Army, Navy, and Coastguard, more anti-spy agents for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, greater protection of the Panama Canal, and recommissioning of old navy and coastguard boats.

Mr. Roosevelt did not tell Congress how to raise the proposed defence taxes except that they should "follow the accepted principle of good taxation of taxing according to ability to pay and will avoid taxes which decrease consumer buying power."

Windsor Council Out To Undo Croll's Setup

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 4—(CP).—Nine opponents of Mayor David Croll in the Windsor City Council will carry on tonight in their attempts to undo some of the work the 1[illegible] council did while the Mayor [illegible] held a balance of support in December.

The municipal elections last month took from Mayor Croll three of his constant supporters. Before the 1939 council's term was up, however, a bylaw was passed requiring a two-thirds vote to carry any measure before the council. Every vacant office in the civic service was filled with Croll-approved appointees and George Bennett, a defeated Controller, was made assistant market clerk.

The 1940 Council started fireworks at its inaugural meeting on Tuesday night and things have been popping at City Hall ever since. The principal development has been the action of Mayor Croll's opponents in calling special council meetings for tonight and tomorrow to repeal a procedure measure whereby the two-thirds vote, rather than a mere majority, is necessary. Notices of the meetings have gone out to the Mayor's supporters.

Mayor Croll declared last night that the councillors have no right to call the meetings so long as he is in the city. Controller Norman Eansor said the sessions will be held, however, and cited sections of the Ontario Municipal Act as establishing the councillors' right to call them.

Croll Stands Alone

The control board went farther by passing a resolution to notify all heads of civic departments that they are responsible to the control board and the city council. Only

Comb Continent For Witness In Fund Shortage

REGINA, Jan. 4.—(CP)—A continent-wide search for John T. Nicolle, 31, wanted as a material witness in connection with investigations of the Saskatchewan Canteen Fund, was revealed today by Chief Constable Martin J. Burton of Regina.

A series of three pamphlets, the last of the three bearing Nicolle's photograph, has been distributed to every major centre on the continent, and short-wave police radio services have carried descriptions of Nicolle, he said.

Every military camp in Canada has been searched and military officials have been notified of Nicolle's description. Search for Nicolle was started by the police after his wife reported his disappearance on the night of Aug. 17 last.

Wednesday morning a delegation representing the Canadian Veterans' League and the Disabled Veterans' Association, waited on Premier Patterson, requesting that veterans' organizations be given representation for any investigation conducted into the canteen fund. Consideration of this request was promised by the Premier.

The Attorney-General's office has been investigating the fund following reported shortage. Chief Bruton made it clear that no charge had been laid against Nicolle and that he was wanted merely as a witness. Nicolle was not an official of the canteen fund.

400 Men Seeking Sick, Lost Boy

REDDING, Calif., Jan. 4—(AP).—A sick, lost boy, Billy Coleman, 14, who vanished New Year's day into the vast wilderness at the foot of Mount Lassen, was hunted by 400 men today.

They dramed a creek yesterday in a futile search for his body.

The only clues were provided by the discovery of part of the boy's clothing. Sheriff W. W. Sublett said there was a possibility the boy still was alive, but expressed doubt he could survive another winter night.

Young Coleman, still weak from a recent influenza attack, went into the wild Viola district for a holiday with his mother, Mrs. Patrick Coleman, and a group of friends from Redding. His mother saw him last at about 4 p.m. New Year's day, playing under the trees near their cabin. When she looked again, it was growing dark and fog had settled over the country.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Lack of aggressive support and reports of beneficial snow moisture in sections of United States winter wheat belt clipped more than a cent from wheat futures prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Quotations fluctuated nervously before closing 1¼ to 1⅝ cents lower, May at 88¼, July 89¼, and October 90½ to ⅝ cents.

Apart from light mill support in oats, coarse grain trading was quiet. In the cash wheat market milling interests were credited with purchasing fair quantities of the lower grades of Red Springs at unchanged price spreads.

Warkworth Play Proves Full Of Laughs

WARKWORTH, Jan. 2—(ENS).—Under the direction of Mrs. A. M. Smale the members of the dramatic society presented to a large and appreciative audience a three-act comedy, "A Poor Married Man," in the Town Hall, Friday evening, December 27.

The players enacted their roles in a most natural manner.

A professor (Owen Hawkey) has married a charming young lady (Mrs. W. Grant Allen), whose mother (Mrs. Frank L. Boyce) insists on accompanying the pair to their new home, much to the disgust of the groom. His friends mistake the mother for the bride and relate to the professor sundry escapades of the mother's husbands and her daughter. The professor naturally thinks they are referring to his wife instead of her mother. A dashing college boy (Jack Allen) and a pretty reporter (Mary Insley) add to the professor's growing suspicion. Finally he becomes convinced that his wife means to poison him. The bride, who has married the professor at her mother's instigation, learns that she really loves the college boy and when the mother learns that he is wealthy and that he is in love with her daughter, she determines to divorce the professor and his wife. She is successful in this and in the first instance marriage is proved to be a failure.

The professor marries again after a year and he selects a girl (Ona Carr), who will not encumber him with a mother-in-law, but to his horror her innocent old father (William Smooker) is trapped into a marriage with the woman who caused all his former trouble, who once more becomes the professor's mother-in-law. But the college boy who has been on a trip around the world, has located her original husband in China. The colored servant (Allan Buchanan), was also an important character. Other characters as college students were Misses Lila Allen and Grace Zutelt and Messrs. Jack Buchanan and Robert Edgar.

The audience enjoyed a vocal duet, "Where Do Fairies Dwell" by Mrs. Harry Wilson and Mrs. D. S. Thompson; also a vocal quartet, "Come Where My Loves Lies Dreaming," by Misses Maude Cooper and Ina Bowen, Mrs. Douglas Knight and Mrs. Vyril Churchley. Previous to the program the Morganston orchestra, Messrs. Earl Darling, Ivan Darling, Clarence Massey, Dean Massey, Van Darling, Henry Kemp and David Glover gave several musical selections.

Following the program a dainty lunch was served to all those who helped make the entertainment a success by the Women's Association of St. Paul's United Church.

Australia Gets Ready To Send Both Food And Men

Prepared to assist the Mother Country and her sister dominions to the limit in carrying on the war, Australia is ready to send food and other essential commodities, as well as men and munitions. Illustrative of this all-embracing effort is the picture at TOP. While an armored car section of the Australian army holds training manoeuvres on the road, a farmer continues his harvesting operations in his fields near Wimerra Victoria. At LOWER LEFT a group of officers are pictured as they arrived at one of the central training camps, to take over the job of drilling recruits for the new Australian expeditionary force. At RIGHT, a detachment goes through a gas mask drill at Mount Martha, Victoria. So far only aviation units have been sent overseas, but if the call goes out for more men to take their places in the front lines, Australia will be ready with a modernly trained and equipped force.

If There Be Dictating

It is indicated that Hitler is going to keep a close watch to see what aid Britain intends to send to Finland. Also that the British ambassador at Moscow, presently on his way to London for a holiday, may not return.

There may be a limit to what Britain can do about assisting Finland; a nation can fight only so many dragons at one time, but the imposition of that limit should not be based on any threat which might be made by Hitler or Stalin.

If Hitler is inclined to punish Britain for assisting Finland in her struggle for life then the way is open for Hitler to go ahead with his punishment. He has had opportunity now for more than four months.

If Russia is not halted in her drive on Finland—and halted permanently—Britain may find Russia pressing in on top of the North Sea.

We do not believe the independence-loving outside world can afford to stand back and have Stalin or Hitler dictate what is going to be done about Finland. If there is going to be any dictating done the time has arrived for the free nations of the world to do it.

The world has fortunately passed the stage where it is inclined to shiver and cringe when Hitler or Stalin makes a threat of what may happen.

United States at the moment is inclined to stand closely by the terms of international law. It is willing to extend financial aid to Finland for what it calls "governmental purposes," but that is not the kind of aid Finland needs. It wants the waiting millions of dollars transferred to the visible and tangible emblems of guns, planes, bullets, and other things necessary to fight Russia. If freedom perishes in Finland then freedom for United States itself is going to be an objective harder to maintain.

It is doubtful whether Britain would be any worse off today with an open break with Russia on her hands. Britain's efforts at a non-aggression pact with Russia proved that Stalin, under the guise of seriousness, negotiated with Britain, while the truth is all he was doing was giving the British the "run around." He was more Janus-faced than Janus ever was. He put the knife into the backs of Britain and France as soon as the German Ribbentrop handed him a fountain pen to sign on the dotted line.

Diplomatic relations between Moscow and London mean little today because they are not based on mutual understanding and good-will. Nor could they be. If the break comes over extending aid to Finland, then let it come. It will stiffen the back of the Empire as nothing ever did. And it may cause United States to notice the quicksand on which that nation is standing.

The Trap Was Sprung

Actual war moves in engagements between Russia and Finland are being more intimately and elaborately described today than in any previous war. Facilities for reporting have improved and also the means for getting the news out to the world.

The average individual knows little or nothing of war tactics. The correspondent of the New York Times at Helsingfors goes into detail telling of the latest Russian attack, and how it was handled. The 116th Red Army Division (16,000 strong) was sent to renew the effort to cut Finland in two. The Russians were supported by tanks and all the usual mechanical equipment. Before their advance the Finns, comparatively few in number, fell back after indulging in what looked like guerilla warfare. They had prepared their trap and were encouraging the Russians to walk into it.

When the Russians advanced to the surface of Lake Kianta the Finns were ready to go into action. In the surrounding woods they had their artillery and prepared positions. The Russians, suspecting what had happened placed their men and provisions in the interior of a large ring and used their tanks as guards, moving them around through the night for protection. The Finns have only a few planes but they brought them into action against the massed Russians. The bombs broke the ice, and the result of that action was never in doubt. The invading Russian division was cut to pieces and those who had opportunity to do so fled with the Finns in pursuit.

Not often do we recall of a war scene being so described that the average reader could understand what had taken place. It does look as though a dull mentality was in charge of the Russian offensive. The Finns, fighting at home, appear to know every foot of the land, and if the war were called off today Finland would be declared the winner on every count.

Hi There! You Missed One

On the editorial page of the Globe and Mail of Wednesday we read:

OUTLAW THE COMMUNISTS.

If the Federal Government has been awaiting some convincing demonstration of Canadian hostility to the vicious doctrine of Moscow before taking action to outlaw communism in Canada, it need wait no longer. The decisive defeat of the Communist candidates in the Toronto municipal elections illuminates the attitude of the overwhelming majority of the people of this country toward Stalinism.

Toronto had made a clean sweep of the Reds, so the Dominion Government should do the same thing. But on page 4 of the Mail and Globe of the same Wednesday we read:

TRUSTEE-ELECT ADMITS HE'S RED.

The frank admission that he was a Communist and belonged to no church was made yesterday by William Thomas Lawson, 29, who defeated the sitting Trustee, S. Millstone, in Ward 4 for a seat on the Board of Education.

"It is quite true," said Mr. Lawson, who is an accountant by profession. "I am a Communist and have been an adherent for some years past."

The Trustee-elect said he had made an extensive campaign, though no newspaper supported his candidature. He lives at 70A Homewood Avenue, is married, but has no children.

So it would appear there is a little mopping up to be done on the western front before Toronto can with clear conscience wig-wag a signal to Ottawa regarding the proper course to pursue.

Perjury In Courts

Steve Brandenburg and Florence Dzeobak of Toronto had much to do with passing forged cheques in Whitby and Oshawa. They were placed on trial and sentenced, the man to a year definite and one year indefinite and the woman to four months in jail.

But the case did not end there. They were tried the second time for what they had said during the first trial. That is, they had committed perjury. The magistrate contended it was not just one misstatement, but plain and deliberate perjury. And on that score both accused were given sentences.

The wonder is that the charge of perjury is not more frequently laid in our courts because there is far too much of it taking place, and no one is more aware of it than the magistrates themselves. It is not unusual to read accounts of cases where the magistrate has stated plainly he does not believe what a witness is saying.

Just why he should not act right there and then and clamp down on such stuff is something not readily understood. The witness who commits perjury is laying himself wide open to action, and he is doing something else—he is trying to defeat the course of justice. He would if he could have a wrong answer given by the court. If the perjury business were regarded as an offence which could not be overlooked, and if there were more frequent actions taken against it we believe in time there would be less of it. And the respect in which our courts are held would be much greater.

Toronto's Strange Habit

Possibly it is something which is quite outside our field and therefore none of our business. We are referring to the size of the issues which come before the voters in Toronto when the affairs of the city are being settled.

This year ran true to form. In the mayoralty contest we saw it stated in cartoon and story that Mayor Day had shrapnel in his knee from the last war, and Lewis Duncan, K.C., was also brought out as one with a war record. Just what all that had to do with the management of civic affairs in Toronto was hard to understand.

Another issue was that Mayor Day's residence had been assessed too lightly. Some one had been tinkering with the works and there was shady or bad work at the crossroads. The answer to all that appeared to be plain enough, and one could hardly conceive of a candidate for mayor trying to short change the exchequer by that method. But it was an issue and had its place in the annual parade of small stuff.

Mr. Duncan is a solicitor and had at one time or another done work for the Ontario Government. It is difficult to think of any good reason why he should not have accepted such employment. But the issue was that he had charged too much for his services, while others declared he had not. Here again we were left wondering what the affairs of the Ontario Government had to do with the details over which the Mayor of Toronto might spread his jurisdiction. But Toronto is noted for municipal issues of that sort, appearing to be more interested in the whittlings from the stick than in the stick itself.

It Makes a Difference

Awrey Daniels, a farmer of 44 years, living near Hamilton, was struck by a car on the highway and fatally injured. He had been helping a neighbor during the afternoon and was on his way home for supper. The reports which we saw in a few papers in that district did not devote much space to it, possibly because there is so much else going on in the world which is considered of greater importance. News is measured that way; by that we mean there would not be much interest in the story in our district because this farmer was not known here and the accident took place 130 miles away. Accidents on highways are not uncommon.

After reading the account of the tragedy it looks different. Awrey Daniels was 44 years old and the father of seven children. Their ages are not given, but some of them would be quite young. It means the man who managed the farm is there no more; the man who understood all about it has been taken. It takes a man with a good deal of experience and knowledge of values to make a farm go just now and it has been that way for years. Perhaps there are boys on that farm ready to step in and carry on. We hope so, but we know nothing about it.

As far as the loved ones in that farm home are concerned the report of Awrey Daniels having been struck on the highway was the greatest and most tragic piece of news printed. It meant more than all the cables and special despatches in all the papers. And yet people removed some distance from the locality might possibly read it, and say something to the effect that highway accidents are too common and make some remark about drivers of cars in general. News is strange that way.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Germans say butter can be made from coal. There was a time in our own province some strange stuff used to pass under the name of butter.

One report says the O.A.C. at Guelph may be used for a flying school. The O.A.C. would then stand for the Ontario Air School.

Russia desired to try the German plan of a Blitzkrieg, or lightning war against the Finns. The trouble seems to be that so far it has neither blitzed or krieged.

United Church at Mallorytown has had its first wedding in 60 years. Yes—we know of other people who take about that long to put the question.

Twenty years ago butter was selling on the Peterborough market at 63 to 65 cents a pound, and eggs 72 to 75 cents a dozen. Probably that is what farmers mean when they speak about the good old days.

Kitchener chief of police reports "there is a greater percentage of alien enemy registration in Kitchener than in any other city in Canada." When the chief goes to bed he shoves the washstand over against the door.

Advice given in the Family Herald about how much to feed a pig indicates there is a degree of self-determination left in the pig world. The advice? Just this: "The amounts of feed to be given each pig are best determined by their own appetites."

Factories in Russia have had strikes and "slow downs" and Stalin has served notice that inside ten days there must be industrial peace. If that is not done there will be another kind of peace brought about and it will last for a long time.

The Dionnes had their New Year dinner together. If Papa Dionne sat at the head of the table and served the 14 members, he would . . . but wait a minute. Perhaps they do things in style there and have some person waiting on the table.

REASON

(By A.R.K.)

¶ The hobo man was in today, for nigh two months he's been away, he tapped the kitchen door; so long since I have seen him come, I thought his visiting was done, I'd talk with him no more.

¶ The Christmas season was too sad, he thought of days when he was glad, with money in his jeans; but when it came to treating time, he scraped himself an extra dime, and ate some pork and beans.

¶ At New Year he was out of luck, and could not even ride a truck, he felt depressed and damp; he had about eight miles to go, and progress seemed cramped up and slow, because he had to tramp.

¶ He's got an overcoat all right, two sweaters make it snug and tight, he sells shoe laces too; he's looking forward now to spring, and figures he can stand the thing, and see the winter through.

¶ Why do I greet the hobo man, who touches me for what he can, and eats my beef and stew; why do I let him cross my stoop, instead of landing in the coop, I'll tell you why I do.

¶ I grumble now and then myself, about my wallet and my health, and dreary days I scan; but I feel lucky as can be, when tales of woes are told to me—by this soiled hobo man.

United States Has Poor Claim For War Debts

NO MORE ABLE or more complete answer to demands and claims of certain United States leaders that British and French possessions on this side of the Atlantic be seized in order to "pay off" debts owed to the United States has been made than that written by A. N. Mouat, retired comptroller-general of British Columbia. The question of British indebtedness to America, which had been a live issue during the post-war years, has quieted somewhat, but the outbreak of the present conflict gave it new life. It also motivated various gentlemen in the Republic to make the suggestion, which Mr. Mouat answers.

Senator Lundeen recently suggested that the United States should seize British possessions in the Caribbean Sea. Senator Schwellenbach also said: "We're justified in taking them. Why not take France's possessions in the West Indies, and Italy's also, if she has any down there?" Suggestion was also made by Col. Charles Lindbergh in a radio address that "the United States must sooner or later demand the freedom of this continent and its surrounding islands from the dictates of European powers."

Replying Mr. Mouat writes: "It is difficult for me to select an adjective sufficient strong to express my opinion on the remarks of these public men; their moral and intellectual character is also a puzzle, but to those who have probed to the bottom the question of the so-called war debts, it must be evident that not one of them knows whereof he has spoken.

"IT MUST BE remembered that the Great War began on August 4, 1914, and that it ended on November 11, 1918. For upwards of two and a half years the war was carried on by the Allies, Belgium, France, Great Britain and Italy, without participation of the United States of America.

"When, in April, 1917, the United States declared war, it was realized that it would be at least a year before they could land an army in France, and to enable the Allies to keep on fighting until then, it would be necessary to supply them with materials, provisions, etc. In plain words, the United States having declared war, found they were unable to fight in France for a year, and that the best they could do in the meantime was to enable the Allies to hold the Boche until the United States should prepare. In this connection read what General Pershing, commander of the American army in France, said in his address in Denver, Col., August, 1924: 'What was the situation in 1917? We had no plan, no preparation, no artillery, no transportation, no ships—in fact, nothing.' Coming from such a source as this, it cannot be controverted. It should not be overlooked that when the United States declared war in 1917, the Government of Great Britain did not owe one cent to the Government of the United States."

Mr. Mouat continues with several other quotations of American leaders of that day to prove his contention that it was perfectly realized in Washington that the Allies were fighting, dying and paying, in that fatal year in which the United States was at war, but not in the war. In 1917 Congress voted to make war supplies that had accumulated in the country, available to the Allies. The preamble of the act said: "For the purpose of more effectually providing for the national security and defence, and for prosecuting the war." Some of Mr. Mouat's quotations follow:

Senator Smoot, "I think that every dollar expended under the provisions of this bill—will be for the benefit of the United States."

Senator Kenyon, "I want to say this for myself. I hope one of these loans, if we make it, will never be repaid. I never want to see this Government ask France to return the loan we may make her."

Senator Cummins, "I am perfectly willing to give to any of the Allied nations the money which they need to carry on the war, for now, it is our war. I would give it just as freely as I would equip our army or to maintain our navy."

Congressman Mondell, "We can (by these advances) effectively and in the immediate future, arm, strengthen and support those who are, since our declaration of war, fighting our battles."

Congressman Mann, "I think it is our highest duty in the making of war to give aid to those fighting the enemy against whom we have declared war."

Congressman Madden, "We are starting out to win a victory, as I understand it, to maintain American rights; and if we can maintain American rights by furnishing money to somebody willing to fight our battles until we are prepared to fight those battles for ourselves, we ought to do it."

General Ryan of the U.S. Army, "We entered the war in April, 1917, and it was not until July, 1918, that we were holding any appreciable part of the line. During that time many thousands of French and British boys died while serving as substitutes for the lives of American boys. We loaned money to the Allies, but it was no substitute for the lives of those French and British boys who died that our boys might train in security at home."

SUGGESTION

"I can't stay long. I've got to be back before 'lights out'."

• News From the War Countries

LONDON.—Arresting sidelights on Germany and the Polish tragedy are afforded by some of the refugees who have reached London from the latter country. These unfortunates were people of importance and substance before the Nazi avalanche overwhelmed their homes and estates.

Some, who passed through Germany, state that, though butter and fats are short, that country appears to have ample stores and reserves of vital food supplies and adequate raw materials. Though the Germans do not believe they will win the war, they are confident they will not lose it. The feeling worked up against Britain is terrific.

As to the course of events in Poland, these refugees are rather disconcerting. "As soon as the Germans bombed Warsaw," they state, "we expected that the Allies would bomb German cities, and so render practical assistance to Poland." When this did not happen, they realized that the game was up, and the Government had to make its escape. It is perhaps as well that we should realize just how the Poles feel about things. Their view may not be unsympathetically regarded by many people here.

It is grateful news that Herr Fritz Thyssen has now been joined in Switzerland by Herr Alfred Hugenberg. Both are ex-millionaire refugees, now skulking for their lives in an alien land from the abominable tyranny they so liberally endowed.

Thyssen is a very different type from Hugenberg. Thyssen's father, a grim German steel master, left him an immense fortune, but none of the parental virtues. The son was enamored of Hitler and his Nazi strong men, and donated a cool million sterling to their activities in one year. Hugenberg is a captain of industry in his own right, the outstanding industrialist of post-last-war Germany, and was the first Nazi Minister of Economics. His big ambition was to use the Nazi chiefs to steer his own fortunes to their zenith. He hitched his wagon to the swastika in the fond idea that at the appropriate moment he could get rid of Hitler and his entourage when they had served his purpose.

The Prussian Army Lords made the same fatal mistake. History affords no more practical illustration of a real-life Frankenstein drama.—London Bureau of Ottawa Journal.

• Believes This Way Is Proper

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

THE MAN who secured the second largest vote in the race for aldermanic posts in the city of Peterborough yesterday was a citizen of that progressive industrial community named Fred L. Roy. When the votes were counted Mr. Roy had 2,239 votes. The man who headed the poll received 2,396.

The unique feature of Fred L. Roy's election is that he was a sponsored candidate, something which does not often happen today. We realize that many men seek office only "at the request of a large body of electors," but too often these self-same electors leave the candidate high and dry on election day.

In Peterborough "a group of citizens interested in the progressive welfare of Peterborough" banded together and "ran" Fred Roy as their candidate. They inserted a twelve-inch advertisement in The Peterborough Examiner, announcing that:

secure the services of Fred L. Roy as alderman would mean having the safe careful attention, sincerity of purpose and energetic effort on behalf of the city that has made Mr. Roy both a model citizen and successful business man.

Because Peterborough needs Fred Roy's ability, honesty and industry, you are urgently requested to cast our vote for him.

Evidently Fred L. Roy has so impressed himself on the business men of Peterborough that they decided they wanted his business ability on the Council. So they banded together and placed him next to the head of the poll with 2,239 votes. We do not know Fred L. Roy but he should be a proud man today and the progressive citizens of Peterborough who elected him should feel happy.

To The Editor

WHAT THEY THINK IN MONTREAL

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Montreal is one of the four great centres in Canada of active preparation for the world war upon which it is considered we are entering. It is not numbers that will tell for the day of the soldier as cannon-fodder was passed; now we have the highly-efficient operator of the means of mechanized warfare. This war is recognized to be not simply a great war as the last was but a world revolution which will make over the world for better or for worse as happens about every thousand years. It will be a struggle to the death between those who regard humanity merely as a vast hive without reference to a future life and wholly to be engrossed for the future in an awful struggle for existence here, and those who regard the spiritual world as a real world and the creation of the universe as the work not of an impossible "chance" but of a supreme and infinite being as it appears to be.

The tendency of the "critical" school has been to banish "faith" in a future and to turn humanity back upon itself, something that one would think to be a complete ignoring of the fact of our existence in a universe as part of it and not as separate from it. It is recognized amongst thinking people here as elsewhere that the fate of religion hangs in the balance and that the coming war is to be of that momentous character rather a mere fight for the loaves and fishes.

THE WICKED CITY

NEW YORK is still the Babylon of the modern world. From the cradle up, all good Midlanders have been warned against the snares and vices of the city. But, under the recent blandishments of Grover Whalen, who wanted a large crowd at that world's fair of his, we almost forgot the exhortations of years. Mr. Whalen did an intriguing job of rousing the wicked old lady's cheeks.

But now the truth comes home with new force. William Fellowes Morgan Jr., New York's own commissioner of markets, confesses that he went on a seven-hour shopping trip, and was cheated every time he made a purchase. Five gallons of gasoline measured a pint short. Two chickens were each a quarter of a pound too light. Silk stockings were not silk at all.

Tell us not of the crusading of La Guardia. There she still sits, on the bank of the Hudson, the great painted Jezebel of the Western World.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Aw, Shoot!

He—Honey, your husband and I are going to fight it out at dawn.

She—Good Heavens! Shooting irons?

He—Sure, driver, mashie and putter.

DEATH TO NEWSPAPERS

WHAT HAPPENS to a newspaper when a country is taken over by the Germans is demonstrated in Prague where the Coslo Slovo, has dwindled from a circulation of 80,000 to 1,500, and the publisher is not permitted to suspend publication though losing money with every issue. The newspapers of Bohemia are compelled to publish editorials written by Nazis, denouncing Czech freedom movements. They must also refer to the British Ministry of Information as the "Ministry of Lies," and, though Churchill is the most popular Allied statesman in Czecho-Slovakia, they must publish continuous and bitter attacks on him. Newspaper readers soon know when their favorite has become unreliable and the drop in circulation from 20,000 to 1,500 is typical of what has happened all over Germany where the people no longer have any confidence in their so-called newspapers. —Niagara Falls Review.

SWEPT FROM SEAS

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

It will only be a matter of time before Germany's naval units are swept completely from the seas as they were during the Great War and we may thank the British jack tars for this. Without the navy and the men who belong to it, we should be indeed in sorry plight.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God. And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

The Lord then answered and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering? And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?—Luke xiii, 11-17; 20, 21.

TOO MANY MEMBERS

(Windsor Star)

Reeve Robert Atkin of Malden Township is 100 per cent right when he tells the Essex County Council that one man could easily represent this county in the Ontario Legislature. (We have four members at present.) Ottawa, too, has far too many members in the big building on Parliament Hill. We have 246 M.P.'s and 96 Senators, in addition to all our provincial and municipal governments. Essex County has three M.P.'s. Two would be ample. Money would be saved and efficiency increased by a general reduction of one-third all down the line.

Bexley Township Youth Gets Three Months

LINDSAY, Jan. 4—(ENS).—W. J. Hannivan, a Bexley township youth, faced Magistrate Gee yesterday on the charge of assaulting Gunner A. L. Gillingham of the 45th Battery. He was sentenced to serve three months in the county jail. Hannivan it appears had driven to Coboconk on December 30 and had visited the home of his girl friend, but did not find her home. He learned that she had gone to Kirkfield with Gillingham, who was one of the girl's schoolmates. Hannivan admitted that he had visited the beer parlor, and when Gillingham came to the dance hall Hannivan, it is alleged, shoved him out the door and struck him twice on the jaw.

"This man is in the service of his country," Crown Attorney Anderson said, referring to Gillingham. "If his injuries had been more serious he would have been entitled to a pension the rest of his life. Provincial Constable Adair attempeted to give character evidence on behalf of Hannivan, but was interrupted by the County Crown Attorney, who said: "I am getting sick of this. I don't care what the accused has been. I am not going to have the Provincial Police or any other police interfere with my business in the court."

Inspector S. S. Foley, Engineer V. Alsop and his assistant, R. Hale, arrived in town Wednesday from Ottawa with a view to inspecting suggested sites or locations for one of the 67 air bases or training schools to be located in Canada.

A Digby Township resident faced Magistrate Gee charged with breaking a beaver dam. The magistrate remarked that while the evidence made it suspicious towards the accused, it was purely circumstantial. The accused was acquitted. He admitted setting his traps on the broken dam, but did not break it.

Agonizing Eczema (Salt Rheum)

No rest, day or night, for those afflicted with that awful skin disease, eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to strong heat, or hot water, are almost unbearable, and relief is gladly welcomed.

To get rid of eczema it is necessary to have the blood cleansed by the use of a thoroughly reliable blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters which during the past 60 years has met with great success in relieving such diseases by its blood cleansing and purifying properties.

Sunday School Superintendent Honored By Millbrook Classes

MILLBROOK, Jan. 4—(ENS).—The Sunday School hall of St. Andrew's church was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday at 8 p.m., when the teachers and officers were hosts and hostesses to the scholars, parents and friends for the annual New Year's anniversary, which this year was held a little before the usual date, and which took a different form to the usual public entertainment.

The superintendent, W. F. Fallis, welcomed the audience, and the program opened with community singing of Christmas carols, preceded by choruses by the children of the primary department.

A highlight of the evening was the film, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Miss E. L. Hetherington giving the story material as the picture moved across the screen. Mr. L. Unitt led in further community singing, and the presentation of awards won during the years, always an item of acute interest, was carried through by the superintendent.

Those who were present every Sunday (except the two allowed for vacation, on which, however, the pupil must be in attendance at some Sunday School and bring a voucher to that effect), included: Mary Fallis and Edith Elson, in the Primary Department; Jim and Paul Elson in Mrs. L. W. Smith's class; Lloyd and Allen Fallis in Mrs. P. Stinson's class; Mary Muspratt in Madeline McDowell's class; seven in all with a perfect attendance record.

For reciting verses (taken from St. Mark's gospel, with 150 as a minimum for the year): Ruth Richards, 392, Mrs. L. W. Smith's class; Teddy Sisco, 170, Mrs. J. H. McKnight's class; Jack Kidd, 167, Mrs. P. Stinson's class; Francis Tickner, 401 (The complete book of Mark), Marjorie McDowell's class; Betty Linn, also in this class, 326.

Raymond Powell was given the award for taking the National Temperance Study Course successfully, and each child in the Primary Department was given a suitable book, completing the awards for 1939.

During the social hour which completed a highly enjoyable and successful evening, lunch was served, the National Anthem and the benediction by Rev. A. L. Sisco, bringing the event to a close.

The Sunday School anniversary was concluded with one service on Sunday, December 31, at 2.30 p.m., when congregation and school joined for the occasion and with Rev. Mr. Zufelt, of Knox church, Peterborough, as the special speaker.

Selfish Daughter Garottes Mother

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4—(AP) —Police reported a 34-year-old woman university librarian strangled her mother with a scarf during the night, then leaped from a hotel window early today in a suicide attempt that failed.

Detectives identified the daughter as Agnes West, an assistant student librarian at West Virginia University at Morgantown, W. Va., and her mother as Mrs. Helen West, about 58.

The mother who was the secretary of the West Virginia University Health Service, was throttled with her own scarf.

The slaying was not discovered until shortly before 3 a.m. (e.s.t), when police investigated the daughter's plunge from the hotel window to a tin roofing over an areaway. They found the mother's body, fully clothed, on the floor of the room.

Detectives quoted the daughter as saying later: "I was selfish and unstable. I did not want mother to go through life alone and decided I would take her with me."

Miss West was in a hospital suffering back and internal injuries.

On Friday the 29th the Rev. E. C. Moore and Mrs. Moore of Young's Point were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Ed. E. Willis.

Mr. Andrew Davar spent his Christmas with relatives in Detroit, U.S.A.

On Saturday, 30th, Miss Iris G. Willis, Reg. N., who has been visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Willis, during the month of December, left Peterborough on her way back to duty at the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, London, Ont.

A very enjoyable social evening was held in the True Blue Hall at Hall's Bridge on Friday evening, December 29, when the members of the Presbyterian Sunday School and their friends gathered together for a Christmas party. Mrs. T. S. Wood presided over the program which consisted of carol singing, hymns by each class in the Sunday School and games, which were led by Mrs. T. S. Wood and Mrs. A. Bennett for the children, and by Mrs. H. A. Shearer for the adults. A delightful lunch was then served after which gifts and bags of candy and nuts were distributed to almost everyone. The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem. Mrs. T. S. Wood and Miss Marjorie Windover provided the music for the singing.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Miller gathered together in the Parish Hall at Hall's Bridge on Friday evening, December 29, to present them with a shower of gifts on the occasion of their marriage of December 25. The evening was spent in dancing, and lunch was served near midnight after which Mr. Wallace Shearer made a short speech to the happy couple and presented them with a number of useful gifts from the community. The groom made a suitable reply after which everyone joined in singing, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." Dancing was then resumed until the wee sma' hours. The bride was the former Miss Luella Windover of Rockcroft.

Miss Harriet Moore of Canton, Ohio, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Graham during the Christmas holidays.

Think Snowplane German Raid

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 4—(CP).—Story of an air-raid scare in Northern Manitoba was told today by Norman McKenzie, Manitoba game guardian, when he returned to The Pas from an inspection trip to the site of the Gurney Gold Mines' property, fifty-one miles north of here.

The Game and Fisheries Department official uses a snowplane for patrolling purposes and, when caretakers at the shut-down mine heard the roar of the machine's motor early in the evening of Dec. 21 they thought German bombers were overhead. Immediately they snapped down an emergency blackout over the mine and fled to the bush for safety, McKenzie said.

When they emerged from the shelter of the trees they told the game guardian that the roar of the aeroplane-type motor after dark, when practically no night flying is done in the northern wilds, had led them to believe Nazi raiders were swooping down on them.

SPORT BODIES TO PROTEST PROPOSED ONTARIO AMUSEMENT TAX

Claim Nuisance Is Feature Of Planned Step

TORONTO, Jan. 4—A movement to enlist the support of all sports organizations and other interested bodies in Ontario against reimposition of the Provincial amusement tax got under way here yesterday, when a meeting of amateur and professional sports executives adopted a protest against the tax. The protest will be delivered to Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

Although no intimation has been given by the Provincial Government that it intended to reintroduce the tax, abolished by Premier Hepburn June 1, 1937, several delegates said they had unofficial information that machinery to collect the tax has already been set up. One delegate said he had information "from a good source in Ottawa" that the Federal Government was investigating the amusements field, and would likely adopt a similar tax.

Select Delegation

W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association; T. H. Allson, president of Argos Football Club; W. J. Smith of the Ontario Baseball Association; and W. M. Gladish, secretary of yesterday's meeting, were chosen as a delegation to present the protest to Premier Hepburn.

The protest said the tax, if put in force again, would greatly restrict "vital recreational features in time of stress," and recalled that when he killed the tax in 1937 Premier Hepburn remarked ,that "over 80 per cent of the tax is collected from admissions of 25 cents and under.

The old amusement tax ranged from one cent on nine-cent tickets to 50 cents on $3 and over. In the last fiscal year — 1936-37 — during which it was in force, it produced slightly less than $2,000,000, according to figures provided by Gladish.

Most of the sentiment during discussion of the protest was directed against the "nuisance" feature of the tax rather than against the jacking up of admissions. Hewitt said: "The returns were not commensurate with the trouble involved."

St. John's Bantams Gain 10-5 Triumph

St. John's Bantams of the Church Hockey League took a 10-5 decision over George St. at All Saints' rink last night. These finalists of last years—St. John's winning—put up a good game but the latter had two stars left in Frank and Clark to give them a margin. Frank got five goals, Clark four and Howard one for the winners, while Carter had three and Kingdon two for the losers. The latter went best for George St. The teams:

George St.: Goal, Richardson; dfence, Lyons, Young; centre, Carter; wings, Kingdon, Parr; subs, Burrows, Griffin.

St. John's: Goal, Currie; defence, Frank, Lech; centre, Clark; wings, Howard, Gray; subs, Grierson, Moore, Marshall, Williams.

Trinity Takes Win Over St. Andrew's

The speedy Trinity Juveniles copped a 10-1 win over St. Andrew's in a church hockey game last night at All Saints' rink. All the winners were in on the scoring against their younger rivals, with "Sonja" Henry the leading marksman. McTavish, Murphy and Harris were the only Saints able to keep up with Trinity. Harris got the lone goal. The teams:

Trinity: Goal, Beatty; defence, Hall, Hatton; centre, Henry; wings, Fowler Harrison.

St. Andrew's: Goal, Danson; defence, Harris, McDonald; centre, Wall; wings, Murphy, McTavish; subs, A. Johnston, Richardson.

Referee, D. Charlton.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Let's throw the lorgnette over the city and district O.H.A. schedules for this week-end. Down on Quinte ice, the Trenton Fliers have an intermediate "A" game with Belleville Redmen. The Petes are idle till Jan. 12th, when Fliers come here—but the Buckland boys will keep practicing. Lakefield intermediate Bees trek to Sutton tomorrow to open their season, and the Lakefield juniors are billed to tangle with Oshawa in the Motor City — though we believe that has been shelved for the present. And, finally, the local Colts lift the curtain on O.H.A. junior "B" hockey in Peterborough on the morrow when they mix it with Cobourg's Kinsmen here at 8.30 p.m. in the puck orchard on the Brock Avenoo.

* * * * * *

Local lineup in Port Hope the other night—where the Colts galloped all over the orchard to trample the Ontarios, 9 to 1 — went like this: Goal, Cec. Cournyea; defence, Bill Beggs, Al Mason; centre, Joe Rochetta; wings, Sid Craig and Duce Vitarelli; subs, Dutch Pammett, Nels Foster, Bucko MacDonald, Bob Strickland, Rocky DeCarlo and Cal Nichols. In addition there are Bob Parnell and Julian Wade on the squad. It's a fine big team, with speed to burn, full of fight and one that should bring back the junior hockey glory of several years ago to this town.

* * * * * *

Quick On The Trigger

Main job for Coach Archie Weir—besides keeping 'em drilling hard and picking up pointers—will be to keep the lads from blowing a fuse too easily. Several are inclined to fight and maybe draw too many penalties. We like to see a scrappy squad, but not one that is always shorthanded. Ya gotta use your head, too. Weir said Tuesday: "I want them to play hard, rugged but clean hockey, with no backing up when the going is tough." Well, such stalwarts as Sid Craig and Nels Foster—remember 'em in the middle of that furious softball riot in the Bowl last season?—won't back up. Nor Dutch Pammett or Vitarelli. Or any of them, as far as that goes. With only a week or so of practice, they showed sustained speed in Port Hope and plenty of oomph all the way — even after two free-for-alls on the ice. And they were trying some smart passing plays, sparked by such snipers as Rochetta, Craig and Pammett. They have a strong defence and good goalie, too.

* * * * * *

After boosting the Oshawa junior "B" club for its win, 4-2, in Cobourg, the Motor City scribe says: "Cobourg also has a very strong team. They were short on condition but, with a few more workouts, will be mighty tough to beat. Right now, even with so little work under their belts, they look like the team to beat for group honors." So the Colts had better be ready tomorrow.

* * * * * *

Industrial Loop Set

With the withdrawal of C.G.E., there will be seven Industrial Hockey League squads facing the barrier at the Brock next Thursday night—not this week. Canada Packers open against Marines at 7.30, followed by Raybestos vs. Westclox, and then Quakers vs. Brintons. The Watercraft team draws a bye the first week. All games at the Brock on Thursday nights, the games consisting of three 15-minute periods. Clubs are allowed 15 players and have till the third game to choose the personnel. Even O.H.A. players, released by that time, may take part in the Industrial Loop—but not after the team starts its third scheduled joust. Cy Whatley and Tommy Miller were appointed referees and instructed to make the puckists play clean hockey — none of this blood and thunder stuff. Loop runs a series of skating parties Monday nights there, starting a week from next Monday. Schedule is drawn up for the league and will be published this week.

* * * * * *

In the district intermediate "B" hockey setup, Sutton started it off last gloaming with a 9-7 triumph over Oakwood. Stew Williamson is on defence for the Oakwood outfit. Lakefield goes to Sutton tomorrow for their first fray, and the gang had a workout last night. Gordon Scriver is prexy of the club, Earl Edwards is manager and Buster Whitton coach. Several Peterborough guys are trying out with the team—which opens at home 'gainst Oakwood next Tuesday—and this is how the crew may line up: Goal, Windsor or McNabb; defence, Stenner, Al Cournyea, Charlton and Morin; forwards, Jewell, Chappell, J. Creighton, McDougall, Mortimer, O'Leary, Deeth, Chittick and Whitton. Should be a good team.

* * * * * *

Hockey Ala Church

In church hockey last night at All Saints' rink, Trinity Juveniles trounced St. Andrew's with a 10-1 trouncer, "Sonja" Henry being the main sniper; and St. John's Bantams 10-5'd George St. Lots of action in both tilts, though neither was close enough to call for a recount, noseuh! League fixtures there this evening are: All Saints vs. St. Paul's Bantams at six, George St. vs. All Saints Juveniles at seven, and Murray St. vs. All Saints Seniors at nine. These church teams will be into their playoffs in a month, so every game in January is important.

* * * * * *

Girls' Basketball League resumes activity in the Y.W. gym tomorrow after supper. St. John's clash with Quaker Aces along about 7.15, with Quaker Debs going in next against Westclox, and Orfuns winding it up in a nightcap with "Y" Gym. The contests commence half an hour earlier than usual this Friday, so players and fans take notice. The Aces-St. John's melee sounds like a tight tilt, and the Debs may upset the Armour Hill maidens. As for the final fixture, well, you can lay all the gold that ya can pry out of the store-teeth Uncle Claud bequeathed you that the gals will be playing for keeps. "Y" Gym punched a hole in the old dope bucket in their last clash by nudging out a win, and the Orfuns will try very muchly to reverse that decision (with love and kisses) this time.

Sydney Claims Champions In Millionaires

HALIFAX, Jan. 4—(CP).—Something more than a mere majority of down east fans are willing to wager that Sydney Millionaires will emerge as 1940 Maritime hockey champions though some leagues have yet to play their first game.

The best of the Maritimes' power—with considerable outside talent—is concentrated this year in the Cape Breton league. With slightly more than half the circuit's schedule completed, Millionaires are so far ahead the rest of the games will merely decide the second team in the playoffs. North Sydney and Glace Bay, the other teams in the loop, are separated by only a few points.

On the mainland, the usual teams are in competition but none of them are expected to take a fall out of the Cape Breton champions.

Halifax Wolves tossed Sydney 4-1 in an exhibition game and held North Sydney to a 4-2 decision in another battle closer than the score would indicate.

But most fans discount the Wolves-Millionaires affairs as an exhibition of over-confidence on the part of the Millionaires.

First Game Friday

Wolves, Kentville and Dartmouth Rough Riders are in the Eastern League, whose first scheduled game will be played tomorrow night. Wolves defeated Kentville 6-3 in an exhibition game but the Wildcats, now coached by Dick Carroll who last year led Saint John Beavers to the Maritime title, are expected to improve vastly as the season goes on.

In the Antigonish-Pictou-Colchester League are Truro Bearcats, coached by another veteran, Walter McGuinness, New Glasgow, Pictou, Antigonish and St. Francis Xavier University. Only a few games have been played so far since none of the towns has an artificial ice plant.

Windsor, Wolfville, Port Williams and Acadia University make up the Valley League whose schedule likewise has just opened.

Saint John Beavers, last year's Maritime champions who ousted Hull Volants in the Allan Cup playdowns, are in the Saint John City league—shorn of Coach Carroll and all their stars. Another city league is operating in Halifax with the Royal Canadian Air Force, Royal Canadian Navy, Dalhousie University and Tramways.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Looking over the results of last night''s games it appears as if the boys are getting down to serious business. Out of the six games scheduled, three games finished up two points each, and the other three games six points each.

All four of the newly-appointed 1940 skips: Smith, Grant, Davis and Green, came through with a nice win, defeating old timers such as Clegg, Sedgewick, McWilliams, and Shirley.

As a tip-off to the boys we would ask them to keep Saturday afternoon open. It looks like a weekend bonspiel.

One of these mornings we're going to fool a lot of people—we have taken a lot of ribbing about our white? ice.

The spare ice has been kept busy each night. Tankard and District Cup practice.

And now, if the ladies' section would only begin to function, everything would be all set for the season.

Scores:

A. Smith, 11; E. R. Shirley, 9.
D. Grant, 15; J. Sedgewick, 9.
D. Davis, 11; J. McWilliams, 5.
W. Widdess, 11; E. Thomas, 5.
F. Green, 10; H. Clegg, 8.
W. E. Taylor, 16; G. Sorenson, 14.

Hastings May Form Town Hockey League

HASTINGS, Jan. 4 — (ENS'.—A seeming lull in hockey circles this winter seems destined to be broken this week when a meeting of local puck enthusiasts will be held in the Clarendon hotel Friday night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of forming a local hockey loop. Boosters are endeavoring to have four teams and run a schedule much the same as softball is played here in summer months. It is expected there will be two teams from the tannery, one from the Clerks and one from Elgin to complete the loop. The rink is operating in full swing now under the managership of A. L. "Al" Hill, who has succeeded in getting a fine sheet of ice ready for the skaters.

Lepine Baffled

Montreal, Jan. 4—(CP).—A RATHER forlorn Pete Lepine shrugged a racoon coat into place, patted the latest in brown headgear into position and then—satisfied with his usual sartorial splendor—admitted today that Montreal Canadiens' losing streak has him "baffled but not beaten."

"I can't understand it at all," the beau brummel of the National Hockey League coaches sighed. "Here we are with the same team that went six straight unbeaten games at the start of the season and we're in a slump that has meant seven straight losses. Frankly, I'm baffled about it all."

Lepine isn't going to say "uncle" for he still believes that it is possible for the Habitants to strike up a winning stride again. Their slump has seen them drop from a spot at the top of the standing to possession of fifth place.

C.G.E. Shop Loop Opens Schedule

The 11-team C.G.E. Shop Hockey League opens its schedule this Saturday afternoon at 1.30 in the Brock St. rink, where all games will be played. It starts off this week with four games, Toolroom playing Machine Shop "B" at 1.30, followed by Wire vs. Cabinet, then the Industrial Control vs. Induction Motors, and finally Switchgear vs. Machine Shop "A". There are six senior and five junior teams playing an interlocking schedule.

The same officers as last year head the league again, Bill Jones being president. Bill Bennett vice-president, and Cy Whatley the secretary. Referees have been appointed, Tommy Miller and Shrimp McDougall getting the jobs.

Road safety courses have been started in Orange Free State schools.

Lakefield Curling

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 4.—(ENS)—The Lakefield Curling Club opened their 1940 season with the New Year's Day bonspiel. Ten rinks took part in the bonspiel. These rinks were skipped by C. S. Stenner, D. H. Charlton, D. H. Webster, Geo. Spence, B. Q. Dench, F. L. Erskine, P Spence, Reg. Murduff, George Charlton and E. H. Northey.

Each rink played three games and the two highest rinks with wins played off. George Spence and P. Spence's rink played the finals with P. Spence's rink winning out. The two rinks were composed of E. Waldon, George Graham, William Morrison, P. Spence, skip; E. Sloan, E. Pearson, C. Chittick, George Spence, skip.

Eagles Win 15th Whipping Stars By 6-3

Come what may, New Haven Eagles can boast of one record in the International-American League this season. With 30 games of the 54-game schedule to play they already have scored more victories than they had at the close of last season's play.

The Eagles beat Syracuse Stars 6-3 last night for their 15th triumph in 24 games, one more than they had when they closed up shop last Spring. They are comfortably perched at the top of the league's eastern section.

The game at New Haven was one of three last night with the rejuvenated and fast improving Hershey Bears beating Springfield Indians 3-1, and Cleveland Barons edging out Philadelphia Ramblers 2-1 in the others.

For the Eagles their triumph was the fourth in a row over the Stars. Veteran Armand Mondou was the leading scorer with two goals, while Paterson, Earl Roche, Singbush and Bill Summerhill, the league's leading scorer, netted the others.

The Stars, who trailed from the start, got goals from Norm Locking, Coach Jackie Markle and Maxie Bennett.

Leader of the Western Division last season, Hershey retained its hold on second place by beating Springfield. After a scoreless first period Terry Reardon and Mackie tallied for the Bears in the second.

Joe Lamb reduced the lead with a third period goal, but Harry Frost got the point back before the session ended.

Cleveland remained right on the Bears' heels, one point behind, when Bob Gracie, who has won many a game for the Barons this season, counted in the second period. Ossie Asmundsen scored for the Barons and Cliff Barton for the Ramblers in the opening 20 minutes.

Cobourg Squad Comes Here To Play Colts

Cobourg comes here tomorrow (Friday) night to open the local O.H.A. junior "B" season at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. arena. The Peterborough Colts started their season away, winning handily in Port Hope on Tuesday, while Cobourg dropped a 4-2 decision to the smart Oshawa outfit in the Lakeshore town. This will be the first chance fans here have to see the 1940 edition of the Colts in action in their new six-team setup. With a good sheet of ice and a typical junior fray, filled with speed and action, it promises to be a gala night and should draw a big crowd of Friday night hockey fans.

Coach Archie Weir's squad looks decidedly good this season and should revive interest in junior hockey here—as it was several years ago when the rink was filled for every home game of the Colts. The boys are big, fast, experienced and full of fight. They mixed in two free-for-alls in Port Hope and were hustling every minute. This club is expected to go a long way in the playdowns this season.

Look Out!

The photographer had to be spry on his feet to get out of the way after taking this shot of Canada's fastest growing winter pastime. Coming to earth, after doing what the uninitiated might describe as a double pole-vault, is one of the Dominion's increasing number of ski enthusiasts.

Fast Forward

SID CRAIG

On the first line Friday night for the Colts, when they tangle here with Cobourg in an O.H.A. junior game, will be Sid Craig (above), speedy forward and goal-getter.

Yankees Swap Pitcher Lefty Grissom

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP)—New York Yankees obtained Pitcher Lefty Lee Grissom from Cincinnati Reds today in exchange for right-hander Joe Beggs of the world champions' Newark farm and thereby confounded the "stop the Yankees" movement in the American Baseball League.

Barred by a rule passed last month from trading within their own league as long as they remain champions, the Yankees unobstrusively sidled over to the National League and acquired one of the best southpaw pitching prospects in the major leagues.

The swap was made on waivers and President Ed Barrow of the New York club made no mention of any cash being involved.

It was the kind of deal that might help both clubs.

Marmora Laces Stirling 4-3

MARMORA, Jan. 4 — (ENS). — Marmora hockey team won its opening game in the Trent Valley League with Stirling on the latter's rink, on Wednesday evening by the score of 4 to 3.

Play, which started slow, livened up in the second period and the tied score of 1-1 at the end of the first was advanced to 3-3.

Scorers for Marmora were Johnston, G. Leonard, E. Leonard and Reynolds.

Johnny Gagnon Is Sold To N.Y. Amerks

(By The Canadian Press.)

Look out for more alterations almost immediately in the composition of Montreal Canadiens, who are fast approaching a breakdown after showing fast early foot in the National Hockey League schedule.

Ernie Savard, president of the club, announced last night that Johnny Gagnon had been sold to New York Americans but that there would be no more changes in the personnel "for a couple of days at least." It's almost certain though, that Savard won't be just sitting around in the next "couple of days."

Detroit Red Wings oppose the Canadiens at Montreal tonight and another defeat would be the eighth straight for the one-Flying Frenchmen. It would drop the Habitant club dangerous close to last place and probably make Savard look frantically around for new strength—possibly to New Haven, where he has a couple of high-class International-American league farmhands in Don Wilson and Bill Summerhill.

Sickness A Jinx

The sale of Gagnon deprived the Canadiens of another link with the French-Canadian atmosphere they have tried to re-establish this season. But Gagnon, once the free-skating "Black Cat of Chicoutimi," has been going poorly, his work bothered by illness. Never a scoring leader, he contributed 20 goals to the Canadien cause in 1936-37 and always carried his share of the back-checking load.

The Americans get a player who, despite his 34 years, might help them develop scoring punch and pull from sixth place. They can use players of any kind at the moment and if Gagnon recovers form he might be flying for the stretch drive.

The Americans are in danger tonight of dropping into a last-place tie with Detroit, for they play their swift intra-city rivals, the Rangers, at New York. A victory or a tie would be the Rangers' 16th consecutive game without defeat.

Toronto Maple Leafs, tied with the Rangers and Boston for first place, meet the Black Hawks at Chicago.

Armstrong Tries Joe Ghnouly

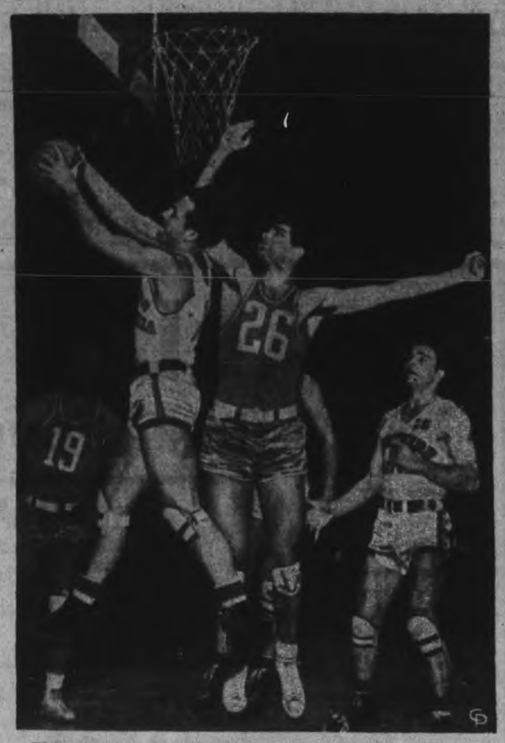
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Two native-born St. Louisians who left home to seek boxing fame and fortune return tonight—one a champion, the other still fighting for recognition—in a 15-round bout for the world welterweight title.

Henry Armstrong, the little negro who once held three championships and still is king of the welters, meets Joe Ghnouly, getting his first title shot after 10 years in the ring.

If love makes a fighter ambitious, Ghnouly should come out roaring in his encounter with Hammerin' Hank. Ghnouly plans to be married shortly after the fight to Julie Roma of Ridgefield Park, N.J., whom he met at Gus Wilson's training camp there.

"Now I'll have to fight just twice as hard," he grinned.

17,000 On Hand For This!



This scene is from Madison Square Garden, New York, where 17,000 (yes, 17,000) basketball fans had gathered for one of the many all-star doubleheaders arranged for the famed sport structure in the winter. The cage squads have got to travelling like football teams these days and visitors to New York on this occasion was the Southern California team, which proceeded to defeat Long Island University, 57-49, to bring to an end a string of 43 consecutive wins accumulated by that team over the past two seasons. It's grown to quite some proportions has basketball in recent years.

Tweed Terriers Trounced By Batas 4-3

TWEED, Jan. 4—(ENS).—In the first game on local ice, the Tweed Terriers went down to defeat while the Bata Shoe Company chalked up their second victory with a 4-3 score.

Both teams played close checking, fast hockey, with sides even on the play. The goalies were the stars of the game, with both net minders having close calls, particularly Rogers in the visitig net in the last period, when the Terriers were pressing hard for the equalizer.

The Terriers went into a two goal lead on scores by Elsbury unassisted, and Courneyea on a three-way pass from March and Elsbury. Tummon went to the bench for tripping. However before the period ended Bata tied the score on two quick goals by Stogan, the first unassisted and the second on a pass from Reid.

In the second period, Tummon put Tweed one up on a solo rush down the ice, but Bata soon tied it up and went into the lead on goals by Reid, and Pollard from McDonald. Tummon again went to the box for boarding, but no damage was done while he served time.

Spectacular work by Rogers in the last frame kept the Terriers from scoring, although they had several opportunities that missed, when they were in on the goalie.

Teams:

Toronto Maple Leafs

(By Central Press aCnadian

Toronto Maple Leafs found the injury jinx camped squarely on right wing for them last year and during one of the shortages in this sector the team secured the services of Gus Marker, who had been cast adrift when Maroons went under. Leafs are third N.H.L. club with which Gus has played, his major league career beginning when he got into the 1932-33 season with Detroit Red Wings. He got into a few more the following season and for the next four years played with Maroons. At the time of that team's demise, most of the players were grabbed off post-haste by the other teams—except Gus, and the Leafs aren't sorry he was left. The Durable Dane and Gus the Goose are a couple of names he has been "honored" with, the former, of course, because he comes of Danish parents. Born 32 years ago at Westakwin, Sask. Christened August, after the month. It's 11 years since he turned pro with Tulsa in the American Association, later moving to Detroit Olympics. Just an ordinary scorer, Gus is a tireless checker and never stops giving everything he's got in each and every game. First season with Maroons he got 11 goals, his high, and his major league record stands at 48 goals, 50 assists, 98 points and 106 minutes served in penalties.

Inspiration For Improvement

Things were a trifle brighter for Johnny (Double No-Hit) Vander Meer, when this picture was taken as he showed Miss Lois Stewart how he held the ball to rack up his victories which in 1938 were fairly numerous for Cincinnati Reds—including his famous feat of hurling two no-hit no-run games in succession. Last Year was a disappointment for Johnny, but he's counting on being right in there again come next April. Just a few days ago the engagement of Vandy and Miss Stewart was announced.

Tavern Keeper Jack Craves Peace Brewed In Plenty Of Excitement

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP).—The most vivid sports personality in this town still is Jack Dempsey, the tavern keeper. Though he's slowed up somewhat since a poisonous appendix knocked him to his knees last summer, the old mauler has enough zing for four or five ordinary men.

Long as he lives, Dempsey never will quite calm down. He's as darkly nervous now as he was on the day he made wreckage of Jess Willard. He loved every minute of his recent breakneck flight to Manilla to referee the Garcia-Lee fight.

"It was great, great," he chattered across the coffee cups. "Maybe a little lonesome. There weren't but seven other passengers going out. Those planes are wonderful. Seventy-two passengers they carry. We got lost for four hours on the way back, but it was fun."

Jack still puts on the gloves now and then with some of the hired help around his place. He has installed a regulation ring on the roof for that purpose.

"Better keep yourself in shape," Jack Johnston, the old boy bandit, advised. "I'm going to bring Jack Sharkey in to see you one of these day. That guy still wants to lick you, Jack. I never saw such a guy about not forgetting a grudge. Every time he comes down from Boston he says he'd like to take a crack at you."

"Bring him in," said Dempsey. "If it'll make him feel any better I'll lie down on the floor and they can take a picture of Jack standing over me."

All Dempsey craves now is peace —and plenty of excitement.

eventually to some plan of obtaining a new location with adequate parking accommodation. They also expressed the opinion that the most of that quarter of a million dollars was spent by producers in Peterborough.

Another suggestion was to try to enlist the assistance of the Peterborough Chamber of Agriculture at the annual meeting of that body. Men who sell outdoors are reconciled to the necessity of putting up with the weather conditions, especially the adversity of winter, but they are hoping that by building up a strong association and, through its agency a broader appreciation of the value of the market something may be accomplished that would put Peterborough's market conveniences on a par with those in Kitchener and other cities that were mentioned.

It was remarked that possibly the Market Committee of the City Council would afford an opportunity to producers of presenting their case especially on the strength of intimations that some changes are being considered for this year.

The committee to meet the County Council is composed of Norman Moncrief, Erle Tully, R. R. Dixon, and James Healey of Asphodel.

Bickell brothers from Bowmanville, who have been coming to Peterborough for years, were among those present last night.

the mayor opposed the resolution since his one supporter on the four-man board, Controller Arthur Reaume, was absent.

The board decided to recommend to the city council that the position of assistant market clerk be abolished, which would take Bennett's job from him.

The session was hot and heavy. Controller Cooper, elected in December to replace a Croll supporter, charged that already Bennett has been telling the market clerk, Avid Liddell, how to operate the city market and has been making moves towards taking over his superior's position. The mayor retorted that Cooper had placed those word's in Liddell's mouth.

"Don't start lying to me," Cooper retorted and there ensued argument in which the mayor reminded the controller: "You're not in a pool-room now."

Mayor Croll was elected for a two-year term in December, 1938. He is Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature and a former cabinet minister. He is a private in the Essex Scottish Regiment, which has been mobilized for war service.

part in the December 23 raid on the Phoenix Park arsenal in which 1,084,000 rounds of ammunition was stolen.

The outlawed band conducted classes in a school at Drogheda on how to make explosives and bombs, he said.

When asked who sent the United States funds for the army, the Justice Minister replied:

"We have a shrewd idea but we don't want to mention names."

Osean Russell, self-termed commander-in-chief of the I.R.A., was on a fund-raising tour of the United States when arrested in Detroit just before the arrival of King George and Queen Elizabeth last summer. He was released.

James Dillon, member of parliament, told members of the Dail:

"I believe the ultimate end of the activities of these gentlemen must be assassination. God knows how many of us may be the victims."

Prime Minister De Valera, who long has campaigned for the union of the six northern counties with Eire but opposes violence, spoke vigorously for the measure in reply to opposition charges that it would deprive citizens of their liberties.

"The illegal organization apparently was prepared to use arms against the state," he declared. "There will be only one government functioning in this part of the country, that one freely elected by the people."

United States Senate which rejected an earlier agreement reached by Canada. It is not generally believed here that legislation will be presented to the forthcoming session of the Canadian Parliament.

Turning to the appointment of L. W. Brockington of Winnipeg as recorder of Canada's war effort, Mr. Mackenzie King said that Mr. Brockington also will assist him in replying to questions in the Commons and preparing statements regarding the war effort which will be made to Parliament.

A question was asked concerning the possible departure of the Second Division of the Canadian Active Service Force for overseas service, and the Prime Minister said it was so completely a defence matter he did not think he should say anything about it at the moment. It likely will be discussed in Parliament, he added.

The Government plans no early steps concerning appointment of a successor to Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir, who will return to England next summer or early fall at the expiration of his term, the Liberal Leader told another questioner.

He was queried about a report that the Government has frowned on trade union organization by employees of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, but said "nothing the Government has passed or approved has been directed against trade union organization."

peared to bid him goodbye at the station—in contrast to the farewell for a German economic expert who left by the same train.

Vladimir Barkoff, chief of Protocol in the Soviet commissariat of foreign affairs, said goodbye to the German, Dr. Karl Ritter, who had conducted German-Russian trade talks.

Quiet Leave-Taking

The Italian diplomat left almost as unobtrusively as the Russian ambassador to Rome, Nicolai Gorelchin went home three weeks ago. Diplomatic quarters in Rome viewed Rosso's home-coming as a consequence of Gorelchin's leave-taking.

In the British and Italian diplomatic moves there was no outright indication of diplomatic strain. Officially they were merely "leaves."

The departure from Moscow of the British ambassador, Sir William Seeds, 24 hours earlier was termed a "vacation" and London officials insisted it had no connection with the forthcoming publication of a white paper on last summer's fruitless talks toward Russian participation in the Anglo-French anti-aggression bloc.

The Russian embassy press bureau declared in its statement that Russian air raids had been described in "lurid terms." It referred to reports of civilian casualties and said:

"After all, reports of a leading news agency Dec. 29 estimate civilian casualties at only 100 killed and 100 wounded. The absurdity of accusations against the Red air force are seen in a comparison with the 2 killed and 3,637 wounded in a Japanese air raid on Chungking."

At Geneva last night League of Nations officials released texts of British and French notes to the effect that the Allies were giving Finland as much war aid as their own war with Germany would permit.

2,000 Italians On Way

The notes gave no further indication of the extent of Allied aid. Italian sources in Berne said 2,000 Italian technicians were "in or on their way to Finland."

The German press was reported to have informed its public for the first time that a general conflict over Finland was possible.

An editorial from the Soviet Russian military organ, Krasnaja Swesta, was generally reprinted with approving German comment to accuse Great Britain and France of trying to widen the scope of the war with Germany by encouraging Finland to resist Russia.

Authoritative Germans already were declaring that actual transport of Allied troops to Finland would force Germany to "take an active hand" in the Finnish-Russian conflict.

Death For Each Day

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—(AP).—The New Year holiday reaped a toll in the United States of one death by violence for every day in old 1939—a total of 365.

Reports from the 48 states today showed 188 of these were on the highways.

Seventeen persons died by fire, 40 by suicide, 28 by homicide and 92 from various other causes.

Normal Students Spending Week In Rural Schools

Pupils in rural schools in this district are going to find themselves facing a battery of two teachers when they come to school ill-prepared for classes this week.

Normal school regulations now require students to spend a week in January and another after Easter in rural schools, to familiarize themselves with ungraded school conditions. To carry this out the Normal school, in consultation with the Inspectors, has selected a number of experienced and successful teachers, under whose guidance and supervision this additional training will be given.

They will begin with observation and the teaching of an occasional lesson. Then, as they acquire skill and confidence, the amount of teaching will be increased until, during the last two days of their week in the school, they will be responsible for the whole day's program.

The plan is not new to the Peterborough Normal school, where it was tried about five years ago with the permission of the Department of Education, proving itself very successful. Inspectors found then that the knowledge of rural school conditions secured through actual work in a typical classroom under the direction of a teacher who was already accustomed to meeting the special problems of this kind of school made it much easier for inexperienced to organize their own schools, and saved much valuable time at the commencement of the term when they themselves began teaching.

While the students are assigned to these schools, members of the Normal School staff will visit as many as possible to consult with the teachers, and help to make the training practical and beneficial. The Normal School staff expressed appreciation for the hearty cooperation of the teachers who are entering enthusiastically into the plan, and the kindness of Trustees in permitting the use of their schools.

Following are pupils whose homes are in this district and the schools to which they have been assigned this week:

Glen Allen, Peterborough, Mr. Garnet Davidson, 3 Harvey.

Youth Is Acquitted Creating Disturbance

The aftermath of an incident at the annual Christmas concert of S. S. No. 6, Harvey township, on the evening of December 21 was aired in police court this morning when a young Harvey man was charged with creating a disturbance during the performance.

The case evidently had aroused considerable interest in the Rockcroft sector for a large number of spectators from the district were on hand in addition to the flock of witnesses subpeonaed for the trial.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for the private prosecutor and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., was present on behalf of the accused.

After the crown witnesses had been heard Mr. Gordon made a successful motion for dismissal and the accused was acquitted by Magistrate Langley without the defence being called upon to give any evidence.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rover Crew Discussed By Scout Leaders

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4—(ENS)—The progress made by the 1st Campbellford Boy Scout troop during the past year was discussed at a group committee meeting held Tuesday evening. Although some of those present felt it was slightly premature to give thought to the summer camp, the matter was nevertheless discussed and the committee announced they were on the lookout for a likely spot for next year. Principal item of business lay in getting the registration ready to be forwarded to Toronto. Scoutmaster Alton Dunk spoke at some length, urging organization of a rover crew which would be designed particularly to take in boys over 18 years of age who were interested in being of help to the scout troop. Present at the meeting were N. Alex MacColl, H. Beatty, Rev. T. S. Gault, A. C. Connor and Jack Bellingham.

Farmers Are Going Back To School To Study Co-operative Projects Series Of Lectures Are Planned

Farmers are going back to school next week to study something about co-operative projects and successes, a broad subject that was not even mentioned in their primary and secondary stages of study in youth.

The attendance will depend on the extent of the interest of local farmers in a subject that is coming more and more into their thought and action. Some of them may be of the opinion that co-operation as an economic agency is all right for manufacturers and bankers and labor unions, but it shouldn't enter into the lives of farmers. Few of that thought will be on hand next Monday morning at the Normal School when the three-day forum opens at 9.30.

Clarence Mann of Smith is the president of the U.F.O. Club that has arranged this series of meetings, concluding with an address by Agnes Macphail, M.P., on Wednesday evening in the assembly room at the Normal School on the subject "What are we going to do about agriculture?"

According to some of the members, Miss Macphail may be a headliner, but it is believed that other features of the session will be just as important as anything she has to say.

Leonard Harman, vice-president of the U.F.O., will be the first speaker on Monday morning next, with an illustrated talk on "Neighbors Help Each Other."

10.30 a.m.—"Farmers' Marketing Problems," by Roy Lick, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Milk Producers.

The morning will end with a period for discussion.

Monday Afternoon.

1.15 to 2.15—"A National Marketing Program," by Roy Lick.

2.15 to 3.00—"Survey of Marketing in Peterborough County," by V. S. Milburn.

Tuesday Morning.

9.30 to 10.00—The Story of the Harwood Creamery, by Major Earl Drope, manager.

10.00 to 10.30—Motion pictures relating to St. Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, N.S., and its advancement of co-operation.

10.30 to 11.45—"How Co-operation Has Worked," by R. J. Scott, president of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, Toronto.

Tuesday Afternoon.

1.15 to 1.45—"The Canadian Farmer in the War Situation," by Leonard Harman.

1.45 to 2.45—"Building the Chamber of Agriculture," by R. J. Scott.

2.45 to 3.15—"Definite Plans for the Chamber of Agriculture in Peterborough County," by James Gifford of Ennismore.

3.15 to 4.15— Discussion groups and forum.

Wednesday Morning.

9.30 to 10.30 a.m.—"Financing a Co-operative," by George Wilson, chairman of the Marketing Board, Toronto.

10.30 to 11.00—"Definite suggestions for activity this winter in co-operative purchasing," by Charles E. Moore.

11.00 to 12.15—Discussion groups.

Committee meetings may be held in the afternoon. This time has been left open for that purpose, and then the sessions conclude with Miss Macphail's address at night.

It is interesting to note that four of the addresses will be given by men of this neighborhood: Earl Drope of Harwood, Charles E. Moore of Smith, Viviani S. Milburn of Toronto, but recently of Smith, and Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore.

Man Is Charged With Theft Cow

C. J. Asselstine was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning with having stolen a cow from William Breckenridge, Otonabee mail man, on December 14 and the case was still proceeding when court adjourned for luncheon.

Asselstine, who was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair, pleaded not guilty. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. prosecuted.

Breckenridge was the only Crown witness. He swore that last July he had bought a cow from Arthur Brinklow for $35. He had known that the animal originally belonged to Asselstine and before completing the purchase he had gone to Asselstine and asked him about the cow's qualities. Just before he had missed the cow from his stable he declared Asselstine had come to him and told him he had better get his $35 back from Brinklow because the latter had not paid Asselstine for the cow and accused might take the animal. The cow, witness said, was in his stable on the night of the 13th and next morning it was gone while a note had been left.

Breckenridge said that he did not know Asselstine's writing so that Magistrate Langley ruled that the note could not be introduced.

Witness swore that when he spoke to Asselstine after the cow had gone he had admitted taking the cow from complainant's stable.

In cross-examination Breckenridge swore that Asselstine had not told him when he first saw him about the animal that the cow belonged to him nor did he tell him that in November. The first he knew that Brinklow was supposed to have given Asselstine three calves for the animal was after the theft.

The crown concluded its case at this point and Mr. Fair moved for dismissal.

Magistrate Langley, however, ruled against the defence motion and the case was adjourned until this afternoon.

Police Seized Case Of Beer

Patrolling Ashburnham early this morning in a police cruiser car Constables Archie Menzies and C. J. McGillen sighted an automobile that they believed justified a little closer attention. As a result the two occupants were arrested on a charge of illegal consumption of liquor and as a further result the officers, armed with a search warrant, swooped down on the home of Ralph Davis, Woodbine avenue, and arrested Davis on a charge of illegally selling liquor.

BERLIN.—(CP-Havas)—The Berliner Boersen Zeitung warned neutral states today to ask themselves "whether their classification as neutrals is compatible with membership in the League of Nations." Parted By Blast Shipwrecked Lovers Are Wed

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.— (AP). — They met by chance on the Dutch liner Simon Bolivar as it was taking on passengers at Amsterdam last Nov. 17.

By the next day Charles Bridgwood, 35, an employee of an oil company in the West Indies, and Sadie Ogilvie, a Glasgow nurse, had decided they were in love.

They were seated in the smoking room when the Simon Bolivar in quick succession struck two mines in the North Sea.

The 8,300-ton vessel was blown almost out of the water, and 140 of the 400 men, women and children aboard her were killed or drowned.

In the melee before the ship sank Bridgwood and his financee of a few hours became separated. She bundled three children with her into one of the last lifeboats to leave.

During his search for her, Bridgwood injured his back in a fall on a blood-wet deck, crawled weakly to a rail and fell into the sea.

He was rescued and taken to a relief station at Harwich, England. There the lovers—each of whom had given the other up for lost—met again. Miss Ogilvie was helping doctors treat the 240 survivors.

The two left shortly for Bridgwood's home in Yorkshire and were married there on Dec. 13. They arrived in New York yesterday.

Expansion Program Is Forecast For Canada

A. P. Reid, vice-president and general manager of Central Finance Corporation, the leading small loans company in Canada, has issued the following statement forecasting a company program of marked expansion to coincide with the coming into effect January 1st, of the new Canada Small Loans Act.

"When the Dominion Parliament at its 1939 session passed the Canada Small Loans Act, it did so with the full co-operation and support of Central Finance Corporation. Knowing there is need for a national service to borrowers such as we have been giving in Ontario for the past eleven years, and in view of the salutary effect of the new Act upon the small loans industry in Canada, we are entering 1940 with a three point program of expansion.

"We are making it possible for borrowers to secure household loans as low as $20.00 instead of our previous minimum of $50.00. The maximum of $500.000 remains the same.

"The loan shark is busy packing his bag and preparing his exit. We have repeatedly assured Parliamentary committees that with proper legislation illegal lending would be supplanted by legal loan facilities. We are now endeavoring to implement those promises by serving districts not previously served by legitimate small loan agencies and by making smaller loans to that class of people who formerly had no alternative but to patronize the salary buyer."

3 Fractured Arms In 5 Months

HASTINGS, Jan. 4 (ENS). — Lightning may never strike twice in the same place, but misfortune has struck many times within the past five months among the McMillan families of Hastings, who form three generations of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McMillan's family. Yesterday, William McMillan was removed to Nicholls Hospital in Peterborough in an effort to save one of his arms. About four months ago, the arm was broken and, since the bone was set, his hand has begun to wither and doctors have been unable to explain the cause. In the accident, he received a fracture which went vertically down his arm and it is believed re-setting the limb may offer a solution. His mother and two nephews all suffered fractured arms within five months. Alexander McMillan is now recovering from a broken collarbone which he suffered in mid-December when a car struck him.

British Tommies Go Over the Top – In Practice

Getting acquainted with the heavy French mud, is not the least important of a British Tommy's training. Here we see a squad going over the top under the covering fire of the soldier in the centre, during practice manoeuvres, immediately beyond their own front-line trenches.

Shanty Veteran Of Marmora, Walter Deacon Dies

MARMORA, Jan. 4 (ENS). — The passing of Walter Deacon of Marmora in the early hours of Wednesday morning means not only that the village is bereft of possibly its oldest resident, but also that his passing will be mourned by scores of old shanty men over a wide area to whom his name was a household word.

The late Mr. Deacon was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deacon, who came into Marmora Township from Sidney Township well nigh a century ago as pioneer settlers. His mother was born on the same day as Queen Victoria.

Mr. Deacon was born eighty-eight years ago on what was formerly known as the Solomon Johns property. Of sturdy Devon ancestry, he was destined to live a long, industrious life, marked with integrity of purpose. At the age of 14 he went to work in the lumbering camp of the late Sanford Baker, whose mill was on Baker's Island, Trenton. In the course of a year, Sanford Baker had sold out to Page & Thompson, who after seven years of operation sold out to the Rathbun Company. At the age of 17, while still employed by Page & Thompson, Walter Deacon did his first river driving. At that time, to quote from his reminiscences, a journey to Belleville with a load of potash meant an absence of four days from the village and a part of the road between Stirling and Harold was planked.

After a lengthy period of service with the Rathbun Company, the late Mr. Deacon spent a quarter of a century in the employ of the Pearce Company.

His wife predeceased him on April 15, 1933. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. G. B. Airhart, Belleville, Mrs. Gordon Jarvis, Marmora, and Violet at home.

The funeral will leave his late residence on McGill Street, Marmora, on Friday, January 5, proceeding to St. Andrew's United Church for service at 2 p.m. Interment will follow in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Deaf Mutes Escape Flaming Cottage

TORONTO, Jan. 4—(CP) — While flames they could hear crackled from an overheated stove through their tiny roughcast cottage early today, Leslie Robinson and his wife and three children slept. Leslie Robinson is deaf and mute. So is Mrs. Robinson.

Somehow—perhaps one of the children wakened and tugged its parents cover— the Robinsons wakened and found their little home an inferno of flame.

Helping Mrs. Robinson to get the children from the cottage, Leslie Robinson ran for help to a restaurant a block away, where he made quick signs to the man at the counter. After some difficulty, the restaurant man understood his gestured appeal, and telephoned the fire department.

In the meantime Mrs. Robinson had carried her two-months-old baby, Leslie, jr., and led seven-year-old Jeannette and five-year-old Bobbie to a neighbor's home. There, strained by the excitment which was surging behind her speechless tongue, Mrs. Robinson fainted.

Salvation Army Plans Drive

A nation-wide campaign to finance the Salvation Army's extensive war service operations will be conducted in March, 1940, it is announced by Commissioner Benjamin Orames, Territorial Commander. The first year's program calls for an expenditure all told of $1,000,000, on a wide variety of services, to be provided both at home and overseas.

At the height of the Great War of 1914-1918, soldiers and sailors to the number of 300,000 a week were given care of one kind or another by the Salvation Army. Over 100,000 men attended meetings in Army Huts weekly. The Army operated 153 refreshment and recreation huts, 77 hostels and naval and military homes, and 30 motor ambulances.

The Salvation Army plans to give an equally good account of itself in this war. Its Red Shield War Service has been spreading rapidly in all the Canadian camps and cities where there are large concentrations of troops. The second phase of the program will be to extend this service to the assembly camps in England. Officers to be assigned to that duty have already been appointed and have sailed. Later a similar service will be provided in France.

To aid in the drive for funds next March, campaign committees are being set up in every centre of importance throughout Canada. As prominent citizens everywhere are volunteering to serve on these committees, it is hoped that the response of the public will be prompt and generous. The entire program already has the approval of the Minister of War Defence and the Director of Auxiliary Services.

ALL FOR CHIC'S SAKE

By ALICE ALDEN

IT MAY break your heart to give up an old bag or a slightly shabby pair of gloves, but it's the only way to live up to a reputation of being smartly dressed. Silk hose may not have a run in them and still look weary from wear; the zipper on a purse may perform its job as it always did, while the suede is slick and shiny. So it goes with gloves, which get more abuse than our shoes.

Check up and replenish and do it inexpensively if you like. The budget will permit anyone's having the good-looking capeskin and fabric gloves shown, with handbag to harmonize, for general purpose wear. When it's tea time or cocktail hour, change to softer accents, such as the long sueded rayon gloves that are shirred far up the wrist, and the suede bag that is shirred through the centre.

Here Is Right Advice for the "Home Nurse"

New Booklet For Family Ills

What a feeling of confidence it gives you in caring for family ills if you have authoritative nursing information.

Most frequent problem right now is the common cold. Effective to give your patient a glass of fruit juice every hour to carry away the poisons. If possible have him stay in bed a day or two.

As colds are definitely catching, best to keep your patient away from the rest of the family.

And so important, in nursing a prolonged or serious illness, to know correct routine care, to recognize danger signals.

A barometer of your patient's condition is his pulse. To take it accurately, place your first and second fingers on the inside of the wrist above the thumb and count the beats. If they are faint, if the rate is much above the normal 70 to 80 a minute—call the doctor. If he can't come at once, give a stimulant such as strong black coffee, apply hot water bags to feet.

What to do for babyhood ailments such as croup? How to make a bed with the patient in it? In our new 32-page booklet a registered nurse gives complete routine care of patients, also post-operative care. Tells how to recognize, nurse contagious diseases. Explains baby care, first aid in emergencies.

Fashion Whirled In Wide Circles During Thirties

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The turbulent 30s were fashion's dizziest decade. In those 10 years, fraught with depression, political intrigue and war, the mode whirled 'round three main silhouettes—slim, belled and bustle-backed—in record time. It decreed a host of contradictions—long skirts and short; the lowest possible decolletes and the cover-up mode; match-slim figures, corsets and curves.

It borrowed inspiration from Cleopatra and from the day's news, from South Sea Islands and from northern snows. It launched new fabrics, a new treatment of color, a wealth of gadgets and crazy hats. It saw the development of sports clothes as an important phase of fashion and it saw United States designers make their first read bid for a place in the fashion creative field. It had the fashion world dizzy—and it has it dizzy yet.

When the New Year's bells rang in 1929, women were wearing that post-war horror, the chemise dress—knee-length, straight as a sack, with the waistline placed at the hips. Before the year was out, Paris designers lowered hemlines, raised waistlines, decreed corset-girdles and banished the boyish bob to introduce the longer pencil-roll coiffure.

The cry that went up from women's clubs was heard around the world, but fashion's voice was stronger. By the end of 1930 skirts were down to 11 or 12 inches from the ground. The be-plumed Empress Eugenie hat made its debut and evening frocks of luxurious lames and velvets were worn. In the next two years hems gradually lowered and clothes took on an intricate bias cut grafted on a slim profile.

Belles Of Influence

Then came Mae West! Designers took one bedazzled look and began to make clothes to show curves.

The centre of the decade was the era of black. The "little black suit" became almost a uniform.

Then Wallis Simpson walked across the scene. The dress she wore when she married former King Edward VIII in the summer of 1937 emphasized her slim, curved waist. The fashion world copied it, and the concave midriff came to the mode. Skirts began to widen, and gradually, to shorten once more.

The coronation of King George VI turned the mode to luxury; smart women strove for that "woman of the world" look.

In the year 1938, fashion went Victorian, and modish moderns all tried to look like their grandmothers. Hair swept to the top of the head, leg-of-mutton sleeves, muffs, hoods, veils and tiny hats combined to make the picture. It gathered grace at night when women danced in full hoop-skirted gowns.

The decade of the turbulent 30s closed as it had begun—with a fashion farrore, this time caused by corsets. Laced and lightly-boned, they came back in '39 to cinch the little waist launcer in '37 to smaller line and start a controversy that raged all over the fashion world. Silhouettes varied from stemlike slimness to great fullness and inspiration sources ranged from bustle frocks of the 80s to military uniforms worn in the new war. Most talked-of feature aside from waistlines was the evening mode's covered-up look.

We Noticed

....That there has been a great deal of rejoicing in this particular department of your paper during the last few days. You see, it is becoming evident that press correspondents of the many different organizations have made New Year resolutions!

....Now, instead of distress your long-suffering editor with reports two days old, or even (yes, it sometimes happens), from several days to a week, correspondents have been getting their copy in immediately after the meeting occurs—wouldn't that make any editor feel it was indeed going to be a "Happy New Year?"

....If there are some of you who find it impossible to get a written account in on the day, or the day following your meeting telephone your report to the social editor at number 4641—never forget that a newspaper must have stories while they are news, and news just isn't after the second or third day.

John Billingsley Celebrates 90th Birthday

Mr. John Billingsley, whose people on his mother's side (the Lane family), were famous in history for hiding Charles 1st in a hollow oak tree on their estate at Boscohill, England, is celebrating his 90th birthday today at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. John Young, 397 Bethune street. Each day he walks to the Public Library, where several happy hours are passed in reading. His excellent health, he believes, is due to these daily walks, and to his love of reading, which keeps him stimulated and keen mentally.

Mr. Billingsley, who was born on January 4, 1850, at Wolverhampton, Staffordshire, England, came to Canada in 1873, lived in Hamilton for three years, returned to England, and finally settled in Peterborough in 1916, where he worked with the C.G.E. Company as a fitter until his retirement in his 75th year. Mr. Billingsley's wife died fifteen years ago.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

DOROTHY DIX

When Love Flies Out The Door After Five Years Of Marriage, It Is Time For The Wife To Take Stock Of The Situation, Do Some Thinking And Then Set a New Course In Life.

DEAR MISS DIX—Can a home remain healthy for children when the mother discovers she no longer loves her husband and longs to be relieved of her duty as a wife? We have two lovely little boys who have become my whole life, but I am afraid to face the future time when they will no longer cling to me, but go their own ways as men. I want to do what is right, yet long to have the courage to tell my true feelings to my husband. Could we be separated from each other, yet continue to live in the same house and still maintain a Christian and stable atmosphere for our youngsters to breathe? We have been married five years. I am 24. My husband is 29. I am in poor health.—RUTH.

ANSWER:

If you can possibly manage it, leave your husband and children for a few months and go to some good hospital where you can not only be treated for what ails you, but also have a chance to let time and distance give you a clearer perspective on your domestic difficulties than you have now.

You are sick and nervous and in no condition, mentally or physically, to make a decision that will affect over your attitude toward your husband until you have become morbid so many lives. You have brooded on the subject, and because you are not as thrillingly and romantically in love with him as you were when you married him, you have decided that you no longer care for him. Why, that happens to almost every married couple in the world. When they settle down to the give and take of married life and find that they no longer have palpitations of the heart at the sound of each other's footsteps, they have a wild moment of panic in which they think they have ceased to love each other. Sometimes it makes them go off the deep end, as you are threatening to do, and go out and hunt up new affinities. But mostly they have courage enough just to hold steady and realize that they are passing through the phase of development in which the love of lovers turns into the friendship of friendships, which is the best thing that any human being ever knows.

Just how morbid you have become you can judge by the fact that you are already worrying over your babies leaving you when they become men. That is at least twenty years off, so it doesn't seem worth while to borrow trouble so far in advance. Besides, when the time comes you will want them to be men and go about the business of life for themselves.

Your plan of being separated from your husband yet living in the same house and keeping up a pretense of harmony to fool the children is fantastic. It can't be done because children are so keen that they sense every shade of feeling between their parents. But one thing you can do, even if you are not romantically in love with your husband any longer. You can be a good wife and mother and make a comfortable home. You can do your duty, even if it isn't wreathed with roses.

But again I urge you to consult a good physician. With health will come love and cheerfulness and a profound thankfulness that you did not let a sick woman's morbid fancies wreck your whole family.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a boy 16 years old. All my life I have been a spoiled brat. My mother separated from my father and took me with her and I have never known what it was to have a father. We have always lived with my grandmother and aunt and they pampered me and babied me until now at 16 I am fed up with it. I want to leave my family and go out in the world to make a man of myself. I will finish high school this year and I've just simply got to strike out for myself. I hate to do this because my mother and grandmother and aunt have always been so good to me, but I can't stand the "baby boy" stuff any longer. What do you think about it?—ELLIS.

ANSWER:

I don't think that any boy in the world is more to be pitied than the hapless victim of an overfond mother. And when you add a doting grandmother and aunt to this conclave of worshippers it is a marvel that any youth has enough strength and spirit to survive it.

It doesn't palliate the crime they commit against the boy that it is motivated by misguided love. The result is the same as if it were inspired by hate. They weaken him by coddling him. They cultivate selfishness in him by giving him everything he wants. They are so afraid he will get hurt they keep him tied to their apron strings and make a sissy out of him. They concoct a legend about his having a delicate chest, or being nervous to excuse his never going to work. They can't bear to be parted from him, so he is kept from all contact with the world of men and becomes an old woman himself. All of us know dozens of cases of boys who have been ruined by the women who love them. And nothing can be done about it unless the boy himself happens to have enough strength to break the chains that bind him and get away from his loving jailers.

This is what I strongly advise you to do, Ellis: Insist upon your mother sending you off to college, somewhere away from home. If she refuses to do this, get a job for yourself.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — What chance has a man for happiness if he marries a girl with whom he is in love, but who is only marrying him for a home? Also, she has a bad temper and is selfish and bossy. They are both in their 30's. She is in the Social Register. He is not.—WORRIED.

ANSWER:

The man hasn't a chance in the world of happiness because such a woman would always look down on her husband take out her spite in having to marry for a living on him.

DOROTHY DIX.

THE RIGHT TOUCHES

By ALICE ALDEN

PROBABLY it will always take a Paris designer to drop a bombshell bag into our midst, this accessory being included in a recent mid-season showing. But Americans are clever, giving us the amusing and unusual, if not startling, highlights to our costumes. For instance, the old-fashioned-looking, black silk-satin ribbon loop bag, to use with either formal afternoon or dinner clothes. Gloves are a specialty in America, none being gayer than the velvets shown, with star-studded fingers. These come in black with gold and red or blue with silver decor. Brilliant, reversible velvet mittens are another choice in handwear, as are quilted velveteen mittens in pastels.

Canned Small Green Peas
Cream Cheese and Chopped Parsley Rolled Sandwiches.
Olives, Gerkins, Celery (if available)
Shortbread. Chrismas Cake.
Home Made Ice Cream. Coffee.

Note: I have kept your limited buying possibilities in mind in this rather stereotyped menu — but am thinking you probably would prefer to serve something like Cherry Pound Cake and wine or punch for dessert.

There is also the traditional Christmas Eve idea of serving an Oyster Supper which I think is so delightful it should be carried over into all of the winter months when occasions for celebrating arise.

Serve oysters stewed, chilled raw, and fried or escalloped. To accompany them provide oyster crackers, lemon, and a cocktail sauce containing tabasco, and delicate little rolled sandwiches of maybe lettuce or watercress to accompany them. Dessert for this meal could be fancy little Christmas cookies (see below) and coffee.

The following recipe was not printed this Christmas on the cookery page, but is a recipe from a friend who made them—I was quite impressed by their appearance and flavor.

Orange Cookies.

Two and one-quarter cups sifted cake or pastry flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup shortening (butter and lard mixed is quite satisfactory), 2 beaten egg yolks, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 tablespoon finely grated orange rind, 1 egg white, ¼ cup chopped nutmeats. Sift together the flour, salt and 6 tablespoons of the sugar, and cut in the shortening either with a pastry blender or two knives, until the mixture is crumblike in appearance. Add the yolks, juice and rind, and mix well. Roll ¼ inch thick using as little flour as possible on the board. Cut with a 2" floured cookie cutter and place butter baking sheet. The next step gives the cookies their holiday appearance: brush each cookie with unbeaten egg white, and sprinkle each with ¼ teaspoon mixture of nutmeats and the remaining sugar. Bake in a hot oven of 425 deg. Fahr. for 12 or 15 minutes. This amount makes 24 cookies.

Butterscotch Cocoanut Bars.

Cream ½ cup shortening with ¼ cup brown sugar and mix in 1½ cups flour and a pinch of salt. Spread the bottom of a square pan approximately 8 x 8 x 2 inches with this dough. Put into the oven at 350 degrees Fahr. for 10 minutes. During that time beat 2 eggs until light and add 1½ cups sugar. Mix thoroughly. Then add ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped nuts (any preferred kind, but walnuts, pecans, or almonds are recommended), and 1½ cups shredded cocoanut. Pour this mixture over the hot, partially baked cookie layer. Return to the oven and bake 30 minutes more, at 350 degrees Fahr.

QUESTION: I was wondering if you could help me with my problem. I get $6.00 per week—that is including milk. I would like a menu. No lamb meat or fish. But we are very fond of fruit, but not much for pie or pudding. We like apples a lot. I would like to know how much to buy and how to spend my money. There are three of us—my husband, myself, and a child of 5 years. Thanking you. Mrs. O.C.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

I am interpreting your letter as meaning that you do not have to buy your milk out of your weekly six dollars.

Some expert nutritionists have compiled the following suggestions where food has to be bought on a budget:

If there are children in the family out of every dollar it is well to use for—

Bread, flour and cereals..	15c to 20c
Milk and cheese	25c
Vegetables and fruits	25c
Fats and sweets	15c to 20c
Meat, fish and eggs	15c

My interpretation of these suggestions would be this:

Per week, spend 90c to one dollar for bread, flour and cereals to be cooked. Cereals in boxes ready-cooked are far too expensive for your limited budget compared to the few ounces contained in every package.

Each week spend one dollar and one-half for milk and cheese. If, as I assume, your milk is not included, spend the extra amount not used for milk, on eggs and fruits and vegetables.

Each week spend one dollar and one-half for fresh fruits and vegetables, including tomatoes in any form.

Each week spend either 90c or one dollar for butter and lard and sugar (preferably brown sugar or molasses).

Each week spend 90c for eggs and meat.

The less amount a family has to spend for food the more important it is that it should be spent approximately in this fashion.

Sample Menus for One Day Using Food From Above Budget:

Breakfast—

Stewed Prunes (see note)
Mixed Whole Grain Cereal Porridge (see note)
Whole Milk Brown Sugar Toast
Coffee (Milk for child).

Notes on Breakfast.—The prunes would be bought out of the vegetable and fruit allotment; 1 lb. Stew these after soaking in plenty of water, add sugar when prunes are tender but still hot. Use half of them for breakfast one day. Use the remaining half for dessert the following day for dinner. Buy mixed cracked whole grains from flour and feed store.

Lunch or Supper—

Home-made Vegetable Soup (see ntote)
Scottishr Woodcock Cabbage Salad
Hot Apple Sauce Molasses Cake (see note).
Hot Tea (Milk for child).

Notes on Lunch or Supper.—The soup could be made using a 10-cent veal or beef soup bone for the base. Add one cup each carrots, celery (buy bundles of outside stalks for 5 cents for soups and for salads and as a cooked vegetable creamed), potatoes, canned tomatoes, ¼ cup each parsley and rice, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper — all this to about 3 pints water—more water if too much boils away. Soup thus made will serve at least 2 meals.

Recipe for Molasses Cake: One cup milk mixed with 1 cup molasses and 1 cup sugar. Beat well, then add 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder. Turn into a greased tin and make 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven—40 degrees Fahr. Scottish Woodcock is toast spread with cheese, covered with bacon and baked.

Dinner—

Minced Pork Liver Cakes with Fried Onions (or Liver Loaf)
Baked Potatoes (note)
Mashed Carrots or Shredded Cabbage
Canned Pear Salad on Lettuce with Crackers and Cheese.

Notes on Dinner—If oven is heated for potatoes liver loaf should be made. If you wish to fry the liver boil the potatoes in their jackets, and make gravy from pan fryings to put over potatoes when skinned.

Please watch cookery page under Dinners of the Week for our "Economical Dinner"—it will give you ideas for economizing—if you clipped this low cost dinner each week your file would soon be a handy reference for you when doing the weekly shopping.

Do You Know?

When laundering the new curtains, soak them over night in salted water. As a rule, new curtains are full of lime and it is very hard to get them clean without using a great amount of soap powder. After their salt bath you will find them much easier to handle.

Brush the tops of unbaked cookies with slightly-beaten egg whites mixed with a little cold water. Added decorations will then stick when the cookies are baked. The cookies also will have a glaze that looks quite professional.

Cheese used for sauce or macaroni will be smoother if it is run through the food chopper, instead of grating it, using a medium knife in the chopper.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Fine.

Gives Quick Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known home-mixed medicine costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of really splendid cough remedy—and it gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love its taste.

And for quick, satisfying relief, you'll say it's really splendid. It has a three-fold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear air passages. You'll be delighted by its prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, a well-known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 5.

An exceedingly lively and enterprising day, with much stirring to further ambitions and aspirations, is read from the prevailing astral influences. Those in power and financial standing seem ready to cooperate with friendly assistance. Cultivate these sources, especially those of political, diplomatic or fraternal influence, or those in large corporations. Friendship counts.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a very progressive, productive and prosperous year, with all things moving in the direction of advanced goals and lofty ambitions at high tempo and with much verve and initiative. Those of position, prestige, and financial standing heartily co-operate, especially those in politics, diplomacy, secret bodies or large corporations. The social or convivial aspects of important propositions prove lucrative and lead to some high honor or sign of preferment.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, ambitious, and well-equipped for attaining advanced objectives and high positions in life, with the friendship and preferment of those in high places.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby House.
YESTERDAY: After her mother sails for Europe, Fabienne moves to a hotel and begins her work at at Willoughby House. Ellen Chapman takes an interest in her, invites her to supper.

CHAPTER SIX

FABIENNE SEYMOUR counted her friends by the score. There were the girls who'd gone to Brearly with her, and the girls who came out the same time she did. And there was the hunting crowd from Maryland and all the people she'd met at the various places where she'd been holidaying during the last five years—Paris and St. Moritz, San Francisco, Banff, Palm Beach and, of course, the tremendous number who made up that small world of young New York society. And yet, she thought as she waited for a traffic light to change on Fifth avenue at one o'clock in the morning, she never had been able to talk to one of them for more than the time it took to eat luncheon.

And here she was coming home from Ellen Chapman's after talking for five hours and thinking that the evening was still young.

Well, Ellen was interesting. Talking to her was like looking into a book and reading about characters she had never met. Goodness knows, Ellen would never fit into Fabienne's set, or sets.

To begin with, she didn't look like anything. She had ordinary dark hair, ordinary dark eyes, good enough features and a rather sweet, grave expression, but she threw them away, in Fabienne's opinion. If she had a good hair dresser and used a little more makeup—

The traffic light changed and Fabienne put her car in gear. It started with a jerk and had the effect of temporarily switching its driver's thoughts.

But later, after she had given the keys to the doorman at her hotel and told him to have the car taken away and returned at eight, her thoughts returned to the girl she had left.

It had been difficult to get Ellen to tell her her story, and had answers had been simply given; but Fabienne had formed a picture. Graduated from college at twenty-two, Ellen had gone into Henderson House, as Willoughby House had been known. She had been there for five years—yet she looked no older than Fabienne—and during that time she had become director with the death of Mrs. Jennings, its original organizer. Apparently since then, there had been nothing else in her life.

Suddenly Fabienne remembered the way the girl's face had looked, flushed and pretty and alive, when she came back from the telephone.

"Bill!" Fabienne said to herself. "I must find out about Bill. "All the girls she knew talked about their beaux. She'd get Ellen to.

Ellen was not an easy person to get to know. She was friendly and charming. She sincerely liked Fabienne and told her that she thought she had built up a hard protective shell against the real person she was. Fabienne laughed that off. She was surprised to find that Ellen was such an idealist.

Fabienne had no illusions about herself. She know that she was doing good work at the settlement house as the first month slipped into the second, and the second into the third. But she knew it was good only because she would not do anything badly. Not because she liked the work. It was just as tiresome to her as she progressed from one job to another as it had been that first week.

The one pleasure she did get out of it was her friendship with Ellen. Ellen intrigued her the way that a man who did not fall at her feet would intrigue her. Ellen apparently wanted nothing of her, liked her but had no envy of her, paid her no tribute except in her work, and never offered any return confidence for the confidences that Fabienne found herself giving her. Funny girl, Ellen.

She asked Fabienne for tea one Sunday afternoon. Tea with just one other girl would have been an idea too impossible for Fabienne to consider three months ago. But that November afternoon the idea was most appealing.

She said, "I could eat plates of toast, but don't let me. I'm going to a buffet supper at six."

"May I ride up with you, Fabienne? I'm going to meet Bill. He's working until eight and then we're meeting at Carnegie Hall."

Ellen wore an evening dress that looked as if she had bought it at one of the neighborhood rummage sales. Fabienne couldn't bear it. She said, "Ellen, I don't know what your Bill is like, but unless he's blind, you can't wear that. Get me a needle and let me do something about fitting it."

It was much better when Fabienne got through with it. In fact, it was surprisingly chic. It was made of flame colored taffeta that brought out the dusky lights in Ellen's hair. Fabienne frowned over the hair until Ellen sighed and said, "All right, see what you can do with it."

It was shoulder length and beautifully easy to wave. Fabienne toyed with it as if Ellen were a doll. "There," she said, at last, "Give Bill and eyeful of that . . and I'll tell you what I'll do: We'll stop at my hotel and I'll lend you my little sable wrap."

Ellen shook her head. She said, "That's sweet of you, but it would be wasted on Bill. He wouldn't appreciate borrowed finery."

"Fiddlesticks! What kind of a person is he? Doesn't he want his best girl to look smart?"

Ellen busied herself with a bracelet clasp. "I never asked him," she said. "Besides, he's a very busy young man."

"Can't he think of anything better to do than to take you to hear choral singers when you look like you do now? Get him to take you dancing."

"Bill's interested in these singers. He earns extra money singing in a church choir himself."

"Oh," Fabienne said. She could picture Bill, an earnest young man with hair that fell untidy over his forehead. He'd undoubtedly have a prominent Adam's apple above the slipping tie that went with his dinner jacket. No, Bill wouldn't appreciate her sable wrap.

"Anyway, choir singer or not, I bet he tells you you're awfully pretty tonight."

"You don't know Bill," Ellen said.

Fabienne was rather glad that Ellen hadn't borrowed her coat. Ken Hemingway rang her up to say that they were dressing for the Hunters' party. "We're going to the horse show after supper. Got to look pretty for the newspaper photographers, honey," Ken said.

"I'm not a socialite any more, Ken. I'm a hard-working social worker. Does it matter what I wear?"

"I don't know. Will you want white or plain purple orchids?"

"White and six of them, please," she said laughing.

So he sent her six white orchids and she was wearing them on her sable collar and laughing up into his face when the photographer from the tabloid The Daily Journal snapped her picture.

"I'm not a socialite," she told him. "She's a social service worker, boy," Ken added. "The main prop of Willoughby House."

The picture appeared on the back cover of the tabloid the next day. Under it was the legend:

DEBUTANTE DESERTS SOCIAL WORLD FOR SETTLEMENT HOUSE

Fabienen Seymour, daughter of the Comtesse de Ligne and the late Carl Seymour of the Maryland hunting Seymours, defies convention by becoming one of the directors of Wiloughby house. It was this settlement house that received part of the large legacy left to charity by the late Elihu Willoughby at the expense of his heirs, of which Fabienne is one.

Fabienne saw the paper the next day. "I'm sorry," she told Ellen. "I didn't tell them I was a director."

"It won't do any harm," Ellen said.

Ellen didn't think anyone would see it when she dropped it in the waste basket. One of the little Tomassino boys, who had given Fabienne his nine-year-old heart, cut it out of the paper and showed it to everyone who came into his crippled little world.

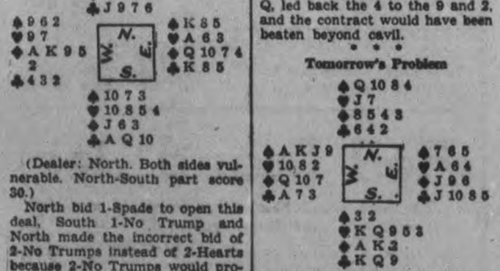
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

UNBLOCK HIS SUIT

SELDOM does a hardened campaigner lead an honor of an unbid suit against a hostile No Trump contract unless he has another honor in sequence with it, plus at least one other card as high as a nine or higher. This enables a careful card-reading partner to figure out what cards to use for signaling, in order not to block the suit, if he has some high ones himself and wants to clear the way for the leader's longer holding.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable. North-South part score 30.)

North bid 1-Spade to open this deal, South 1-No Trump and North made the incorrect bid of 2-No Trumps instead of 2-Hearts because 2-No Trumps would produce the 70 points needed to make a game.

West led the diamond K. East's conventional way to signal was by playing his next highest card first and his next to lowest second. But he was afraid to put his 10 on the first trick, so signaled with the 7. The A won the second trick, then the 5 was led to East's Q. The 10 won the fourth trick, but West could never get in to take his last diamond. East's only other trick was with the heart A, as the declarer scored four tricks in clubs, three in hearts and one in spades.

Had East realized West had with his A-K also the J or 9, he would have played first the 10, then the 7 of diamonds, would have won the third trick with the Q, led back the 4 to the 9 and 2, and the contract would have been beaten beyond cavil.

Newcastle Was Intended As County Town But Cobourg Was First To Start On Buildings

Few people know that Newcastle was at one time to be a county town as Cobourg is now. It was to be the head of Newcastle District. This district was cut from the Home and Midland districts.

In Newcastle district a group of men went hunting up to Lake Scugog. One day while there, they went out and left a man by the name of Sharpe to watch their camp. When they returned, they found Sharpe had been murdered. These poor hunters immediately told the police and they found some Indians that they had been going through the motions of killing a man. The court was to be held in Newcastle because the crime took place in Newcastle district.

After that some judge and police started for Newcastle from Presqu'Ile in a boat called The Speedy. This boat was sighted a few miles out, but sank in a storm between Colborne and Brighton.

Newcastle was to have a court house, a jail and home for the old people. It was surveyed in 1798, but did not grow, because the men that were to build it were drowned.

A few years later the Justices of the Peace of Cobourg started to build a court house with the people's money. Protest was made and it was decided to let the Court of the King's Bench of England decide. The court said that it should have been in Newcastle, but since Cobourg had started to build the court house the Government decided to let them finish the job.—Brighton Ensign.

New Charge Looming For Freed Driver

TORONTO, Jan. 4—(CP)—On recommendation of Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney at Kingston, Ont., Attorney-General Gordon Conant is considering laying a new bill charging driving in a dangerous and reckless manner against William Taylor. The Attorney-General disclosed today he had the matter under consideration.

Taylor was charged in connection with the motor accident near the Lasalle causeway at the eastern entrance of the city in which two young men and their wives were killed. A grand jury recently found no bill in the case and Taylor was freed. Mr. Rigney drew the case to the attention of Mr. Conant.

"This is unusual but it is not a precedent," said Mr. Conant. "The Crown can keep on laying new bills before other grand juries if a case is considered a miscarriage of justice."

Stomach And Kidney Troubles Gone; Praises Syntona

Health Was So Poor She Could Not Be Left Alone. Tried Several Medicines Without Results. Declares Syntona Made Her Feel Like a New Woman.

Here is the splendid experience of Mrs. W. T. Hodgman, well known lady of Dorchester, Ont., and after you read it you will know why she is so happy here.

"I was having awful trouble with my kidneys and stomach," said Mrs. Hodgman. "For years my kidneys called me up many times each night and I had dull aching pains in my back. My stomach also gave me a lot of trouble. It seemed every morsel of food would cause terrible attacks of gas and heartburn. Finally I became so nervous and rundown I could neither sleep nor be left alone. I tried so many medicines without getting relief that I got so discouraged I felt miserable all the time.

"When I read of what Syntona was doing for so many people I decided to give it a good trial. I have taken in all, five bottles and really now life seems so different I feel like a new woman. I can eat anything now with no after effect. I sleep soundly the whole night through, and my nerves are the best they ever were. The aches and pains have all left me and I feel so well in every way, I am only too glad to recommend Syntona to anyone suffering as I did."

MRS. W. T. HODGMAN

Get yourself a treatment of Syntona to-day in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. The chances are that you too will say it is the best medicine you ever had the good fortune to use.—(Advt.)

Bell Tragedy Drowning, Accidental

No Sign Of Foul Play Jury States, Out 35 Minutes

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., Jan. 5.—(CP).—A verdict of accidental drowning was returned by a coroner's jury today, following a two-day inquest into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Bell of Midland, whose bodies were found in Georgian Bay waters off Wasaga Beach last October 27.

After 35 minutes' deliberation, the jury in its verdict said that medical evidence presented "explained to us clearly there was no sign of foul play." Recommendation was made that some warning signal be erected at the end of the cement road where the car in which Mr. and Mrs. Bell were riding plunged into the Nottawasaga River a few hours after they had been married.

Testifying yesterday, Miss Florence Small of Toronto said she believed her sister had been "doped and murdered." Mr. and Mrs. Bell, sister of Ambrose Small, millionaire theatre owner who disappeared in 1919, were married in Stayner and were believed to have been driving back to Midland when the tragedy occurred.

Finds No Poison,

Professor C. W. Ewing, Toronto analytical chemist, in evidence today said he was "prepared to swear that there was no poisonous or narcotic substance present in the viscera of Mrs. Bell as examined by me."

"I found no trace of any poisonous material, any narcotics or sedatives of any kind," said Prof. Ewing. Questioned by W. B. Common of the Attorney-General's department, Mr. Ewing said that such substances can be detected for "quite a long time," following their consumption.

J. Kenwell, whose boat assisted in hauling the Bell car from the Nottawasaga river, described the vehicle as being retrieved in an upright position. The top of the car was torn and canvass was hanging over the windshield.

Mr. Smirle Lawson, Chief Coroner for Ontario, asked Kenwell if he considered that some one crept into the water and broke the glass in the car, which was reported found only feet below the surface.

"It would be easy to break the glass as we were working on it," Kenwell replied.

Russell Kenwell, who said he did not arrive on the scene until half an hour after it had been found, admitted to Mr. Common that he was in the vehicle to put it "out of gear when it was partly out of and water."

United States Warns Britain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The United States government has warned Great Britain it would hold itself responsible for damages resulting from "losses and injuries" if American ships were forced into British control ports.

The state department released the text of a note given to the British ambassador for forwarding to his government. At the same time that it disclosed than an American ship, the Moormacsun, of the Moore and McCormack line, enroute to Bergen, had been taken into Kirkwall, one of the British control ports within the area forbidden United States vessels by the Neutrality Act.

Canadian Troops Mark Time At Aldershot With Intensive Training On Tap Pending End Of Second Contingent Leaves

By GILLIS PURCELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

ALDERSHOT, Jan. 5. — (CP Cable.)—Billeted in a dozen barracks dotted over the expansive Aldershot command, Canada's active service force to-day cleared the decks for the intensive training which precedes the division's transfer to France. Leaves which have held up drills and demonstrations will be virtually complete by the week-end.

Approximately 3,000 Canadians are away on leave at present, mostly from the second contingent which arrived last week-end.

It had been expected the troops would get down to training the middle of this week, but the divisional command decided it was preferable to clean up the leaves of the second contingent, clearing the decks for action. There will be a few straggling leaves next week, but none after Jan. 15.

Regular drills are progressing at various parade grounds, with special attention to anti-gas training. The accent will be on individual training for an extended period, after which collective training is planned.

The troops have finally learned just what was done for them in the way of Christmas and New Year's hospitality. The hospitality committee, headed by Lieut.-General C. N. F. Broad, general officer commanding the Aldershot command, finished sorting out and totalling up the invitations accepted. A summary showed 800 private parties and theatrical entertainments were given.

The invitations covered two or three, or sometimes half a dozen officers or men for an evening. In mose cases cars were provided, picking up the guests and returning them after the evening. Invitations still are coming in, but few are being accepted due to the intensification of training preparations

Leaves are offering varied experiences to the troops. The newspapers are dying to unearth weird happenings and are having fair success. The best recently concerns a C.A.S.F. laddie, Thomas Green of Pembroke, Ont., tracking down an uncle named Frank Green of Sheffield. There are 500 Greens in Sheffield and Tommy did not know his uncle's address. After investigation in various suburbs he finally found his uncle at the 13th Green home visited.

Pension Of 1812

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)

Requisitions Of Ships Stirs Furore

Marine Executive Brands Whole Move As 'Scandal'

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(CP).—H. M. Cleminson, general manager of the United Kingdom Chamber of Shipping, declared to-day the nation would receive "with questioning if not even concern" the government requisitioning of all high sea ships of the kingdom and colonies.

Mr. Cleminson questioned whether the country could obtain as effective service from the merchant marine "in the strait-jacket of government control," and whether the basis of requisitioning would "be such as to leave British shipping ill-equipped financially to face post-war competition, which is bound to be fierce."

Shipping usually is paid best when it is needed most, he said, "because then enterprise which has gone unrewarded receives its reward. If British shipping is to be able to face the future, these considerations must be faced by the minister of shipping."

Sir John Gilmour, the minister of shipping, emphasized that the requisitioning, effective Feb. 1 for most ships, would apply only to instructions of cargoes and routes, leaving management to the owners.

One shipping executive said the order would "cause enormous dissatisfaction" among shipowners. "I cannot see that more red tape is going to help," he said. "The whole thing is a scandal."

Another shipowner, however, said most of the big companies favored requisitioning and that it would help keep living costs down.

Mr. Cleminson said shippers were anxious to serve the nation and "avoid any suspicion of profiteering."

Ships of Canada and other dominions are not affected by the new requisitioning.

New Hunt On?

Montevideo, Jan. 5 (AP)

CONCENTRATION of four British cruisers off Montevideo caused speculation among marine authorities today on whether a hunt was on for another German raider like the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

After the cruiser Ajax put out to sea from this harbor this morning a port observer sighted two other warships, which he tentatively identified as the Cumberland and Shropshire, about two hours' sailing off shore.

The cruiser Achilles left Buenos Aires early this morning, apparently to join the squadron. The Achilles and Ajax, together with the cruiser Exeter, were responsible for the defeat of the Graf Spee.

Windsor Council Squabble May End In Court

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP)—The bitter breach in City Council is wider and more definite today as the nine members opposed to Mayor David Croll held a second meeting of their own, purporting to sit as a City Council.

The nine held their first separate meeting yesterday, when they gave first and second readings to a by-law altering the proportion of votes necessary to carry any measure. Mayor Croll last month introduced a by-law requiring a two-thirds vote by the nine have declared themselves determined to change that to an ordinary majority.

At yesterday's meeting-of-nine, E. C. Awrey, their special counsel, was quoted as advising that the two-thirds vote was not legal. Mr. Awrey said only the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs could change the rules of procedure.

Mayor Croll and his five supporters in council were not around for today's meeting, the Mayor having claimed that meetings must be called by the Mayor, even on petition of members. Neither the city clerk nor the assistant clerk attended the meeting-of-nine, city engineer Ray Desmarais acting as clerk. It was stated the Mayor had instructed the other two officials not to attend.

Possibility the squabble might be taken to the courts was seen when it was stated that if the Mayor re-

Gigantic Loan To Finns Hinted In U.K.

See Britain Aiding Same As Nazis Did In Spain's War

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP) — The Daily Express suggested today that an unidentified £10,000,000 ($44,500,000) increase in "other accounts" shown in the weekly statement of the Bank of England might represent a loan to Finland. The newspaper observed:—

"The last times such a big increase was shown, experts were saying, was when the government opened a £10,000,000 credit for Czecho-Slovakia a year ago, and the suggestion was made that a loan to be sanctioned later by parliament had now been made to Finland or some other country.

"No official information was obtainable last night. But it is known that the British Government are giving all he help they can to Finland. To include a loan would cause little surprise."

The paper said that while support for an open British war on Soviet Russia is growing both among the right and the left, the government could intervene in Finland in the same way that Germany did during the Spanish civil war.

Wed At Last

North Conway, N.H., Jan. 5 (AP)

REV. Raymond Phelps of the North Conway Congregational Church said to-day he had married Eileen Herrick and Geo. Lowther, New York's Romeo and Juliet, shortly after their arrival here by plane.

The minister said he performed the ceremony at his home and the young couple then went to a nearby popular skiing hostelry, for a wedding breakfast. The best man was Hans Schneider, famous skiing instructor, Mr. Phelps said. He did not know the name of the bridesmaid.

Board Reduces Directorate To 18 Members

Members of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition turned a new corner at their annual meeting Thursday afternoon by reducing the number of their directors from forty to eighteen, with six directors of the junior department in compliance with regulations which John A. Carroll, director of fairs and exhibitions Toronto, insisted last year had to be put into effect.

Instead of electing officers and also their more numerous directorate since the organization of the Exhibition many years ago, the members had to conform to the official instructions by naming only

Finns Slay 400 Reds In 2 Clashes On Eastern Front

BERLIN, Jan. 5 — (AP).—Deep concern over developments in Scandinavian countries was expressed in Germany to-day as Sweden and Norway were warned in a new press campaign, bearing an official tinge, against permitting British and French military aid to pass through to Finland.

The two northern countries were told to "clarify their positions."

The Allies were accused of using the Covenant of the League of Nations, under which aid was promised to Finland by League states, as a screen to involve Norway and Sweden in the war against Germany.

In the Nazi view, the aid the Allies say they are going to give Finland only can mean transportation through Sweden and Norway. This, the Nazis assert, means a British-French foothold in Scandinavia against the Reich.

The northern states, Nazis said, are being promised League aid if the become involved in the war as the result of assisting Finland.

Another 400 Loss

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 5—(AP).—The Finnish high command tonight reported continued successes on the eastern fronts, with the Finns killing 400 Russians and taking 40 prisoners in two encounters.

The communique covered events of yesterday. Today Soviet bombers resumed their raids on Finland but did not attack Helsingfors.

Nine planes, according to an official report, visited Vioka, a small town near Kovala, northeast of Helsingfors, and dropped 21 bombs, killing an 18-year-old girl and a man, injuring 15 women and a man and setting 16 houses on fire.

Viborg (Viipuri) also was bombed but damages were not ascertained immediately.

Man Lost Life When Fire Destroys Home

BANCROFT, Dec. 5—(ENS).—The charred body of 76-year-old George Hearns was recovered today from the ruins of his frame home in Purdyville, five miles west of Coe Hill, this morning. His home was burned to the ground early this morning.

Provincial Constable Palmateer of Bancroft and Dr. O. W. Anderson, district coroner, investigated the fire today and said that Hearns had been burned beyond recognition. The elderly bachelor had been living alone and neighbors invited him a few days ago to live with them during the winter months. Hearns had promised to do so, they told police, and had intended to move today. About two o'clock this morning Morris Doxie, a storekeeper who lives across the road from Hearns' home, saw the flames shooting out of the dwelling. All efforts of villagers to subdue the flames failed and the building burned to the ground. It is not likely that an inquest will be held.

Chemist Passes

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Dr. Frank T. Shutt, 80, former Dominion chemist and assistant director of the Dominion Experimental Farm, died here early to-day after a brief illness. At the time of his retirement in 1933, he was the oldest member of the Experimental Farm, having been appointed chemist when the farm system was established in 1887.

In 1935 the Royal Society of Canada presented him with the Sir Joseph Flavelle Medal for outstanding achievements in science.

Boy 11, Saves Six As Flames Sweep His Home

WARREN, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP) — Dashing through flames early today, 11-year-old Leo Bibeau herded his mother and two sisters safely out of their burning home, dropped two younger children from the second storey into waiting arms in the snow below and then jumped safely to the ground with the baby of the family locked tightly in his arms.

Joseph Bibeau, father of the family, had left to work in the fields near this centre, 20 miles east of Sudbury, when the house was turned into a raging inferno.

It is believed the furnace became overheated and set fire to the floor. Quickly it reached a can of gasoline which exploded and in a minute the house was in flames.

The roaring fire awakened the mother upstairs. Leo leaped out of bed and while two of his sisters raced down stairs in night attire. The young hero pushed his mother after them and out of the house.

Without hesitation he ran back into the house. He raced upstairs to where the younger children were still sleeping. He picked up two of the children, aged three and four, smashed a window and dropped them into the sisters' arms. Then he clutched the baby in his arms and dropped safely into the snow below.

The family was taken to the home of an uncle while neighbours tried to salvage what they could from the shambles of the house.

Hint Lord Elgin Successor To Tweedsmuir

LONDON, Jan. 5— (CP Cable). — The Daily Express said today that Earl Elgin has been mentioned as a possible successor to Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, whose term expires this year.

(Prime Minister Mackenzie King said at Ottawa Wednesday that the Dominion Government, because of the war, plans no early steps with regard to appointment of Lord Tweedsmuir's successor. The present Governor General has indicated he would not consider a second term).

Edward James Bruce, 10th Earl of Elgin, like Lord Tweedsmuir, is a scotsman. He served in the First Great War with distinction and is descended of a long line of British noblemen.

Active in military, church and civil life he holds a long list of posts. He is president and chairman of the executive Scottish Devolopment Council, and President of the Empire Exhibition (Scotland).

He is Honorary Colonel of the Elgin Regiment of the Canadian non-permanent militia and a brigadier of the Royal Company of Archers, the King's bodyguard for Scotland.

Born in 1881 he was educated at Eton and Oxford.

Stowaway's Tale Gains Post In 1st Division

OTTAWA, Jan. 5.—(CP).—There is a stowaway with the first division of the Canadian active service force in England. He is private Weldon J. Burke.

The 23-year-old Ottawa lad, his family disclosed to-day, was determined to cross the Atlantic with his brother in the first division. And by devious means he did.

Private Burke has two brothers in the army. One of them, Private Gerald Burke, 21, is with the first division. The other is Sgt. Basil Burke with the Royal Canadian corps of signals at Kingston, Ont.

Private Weldon Burke, originally with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, obtained a transfer to the Royal Corps of Signallers Nov. 27 and then stowed away on a train for an east coast port. He got a knapsack somewhere and presented himself at the port where the first division men were embarking.

After hearing his desire to fight side-by-side with his brother, Private Gerald Burke, the officer passed the word along to his superior and it was decided to let the determined young man go overseas with the first division.

11 Boys, Girl Held In Juvenile Wave Of Crime

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—A child crime wave kept police here busy last night and early today.

One 10-year-old boy was picked up for entering four gasoline stations. In his possession were a flashlight, a piece of piping and a pair of gloves. Police communicated with his stepmother with whom he lives, and she said she was unable to do anything with the boy. He admitted three breakings and was held for a juvenile court hearing today.

Three other juveniles, one 14 and two 15, were arrested and charged with breaking into two homes. Two 16-year-olds escaped after they attempted to hold up a messenger boy. Two other boys about the same age tried to snatch a woman's pocket book.

In Hamilton a boy 14 and a girl accomplice 15 were hauled in, charged with theft of an automobile in Toronto. A 17-year-old was arrested here with burglar tools in his possession.

Five other boys were arrested at their homes here, charged with breaking into several houses.

Fire Threatened Lindsay's Business Block

LINDSAY, Jan. 5—(ENS) —Lindsay's business section was threatened with a serious fire this morning at eight o'clock. The blaze broke out in the furnace room under Speers' barber shop and which heats the entire Gregory Block. Smoke poured out in great volumes from the basement, and the barber shop was quickly gutted.

The firemen had great difficulty in fighting the fire owing to the dense smoke. Gregory's Drug Store, Porter's Book Store and the C. P. R. Ticket Office were filled with smoke, and the damage to the drug store and book store will be serious.

Smoke poured out of the windows in the apartments overhead, which included Dr. Wilson, Dentist; Dr. Flack optician; Jos. Carroll, division court clerk; and H. Brimmell, clothing merchant. In the northern section of the block the office of B. L. McLean and Boyle's Grocery were filled with smoke. The firemen, in order to get at the blaze were obliged to break through the stone wall in the basement of Boyle's Grocery. It was impossible to obtain an estimate of the total damage.

Duce To Visit Pope

ROME, Jan. 5.—(AP).—Premier Mussolini is expected in political circles to visit Pope Pius sometime between Jan. 11 and 18, following formal calls exchanged by the Pope and the Italian royal family late in December.

Authoritative circles have made clear that any contacts between the Italian government and the Vatican are merely signs of cordiality, without signifying any immediate move for peace in Europe.

$15,000 Silk Raid Nearly Kills 6

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. —(AP) — Six armed men locked seven silk company employees in a room charged with live steam last night and made off with $15,000 in silk— but only after the superintendent had risked his life to plead that the steam be turned off.

Several of the employees of the Supreme Skein Dying Company of Brooklyn had dropped under the intense heat when the superintendent, Louis Wachter, burst from the chamber shouting:—

"For God's sake let me turn off the steam or we'll all die. The temperature is 120 degrees in there now and getting hotter."

"Okay," one of the men grunted. "Turn off the steam—and get back in there quick."

Watcher did as he was told—under the muzzle of one of two submachine guns the six carried — while silk was being loaded in a truck at the building's rear.

New Power Stirs Question Is Goering Nazi Master?

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP) — Appointment of Field Marshall Hermann Goering as economic dictator of the Reich caused London newspapers to speculate today over the extent to which the power of Goering is replacing that of Adolf Hitler.

"Who is the real master of Germany, Adolf Hitler or Mermann Goering?" asked the Daily Mail. "Hitler is the leader. He's the big name for veneration by the masses, but Goering has immense power. Consider his enormous responsibilities. As chairman of the defence council, he virtually controls Germany's war effort. He is commander-in-chief of the air force and director of the four-year plan.

"Now he has been entrusted with supreme direction of Germany's war economy. Nothing can be bought or sold or grown, not a train can move nor a ship sail without the permission of Field Marshall Goering. Never has so much power been concentrated in the hands of a man who still lacks title of dictator.

"Goering has many enemies in the third Reich. He has beaten them. Goering is able, aggressive, unscrupulous. He will squeeze Germany to win Hitler's war. We must counter him at every turn, stop his trade, capture his markets, deny him raw materials."

The Times commented: "Hitler's reason for allowing Goering to assume new powers as economic dictator is probably that given him in an unexpected speech to a meeting of German industrialists in 1936. The Fuehrer then said he had entrusted execution of the four-year plan of self-sufficiency to Goering because 'for the general the impossible does not exist.'

"The Field Marshal's powerful personality is able to carry through economic measures which industrial leaders and economic advisers regard as disastrous, just as Hitler's favorite reply to warnings against inflation is to say that he will call out the storm troopers if prices go up. It may be the first step toward some possibly unpopular move, such as rationing of all commodities to prevent inflation."

Pardons Loom For Convicts, Quake Heroes Scorn Escape, Save 1,000 Women, Children

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 5 — (AP). — Pardons for 15 convicts who scorned escape and risked their lives to rescue more than 1,000 women and children buried under wreckage by the Anatolian earthquake of December 27 were recommended to-day by the government.

The men, all serving long sentences in barracks at the Erzincan Prison, displayed what the government called "magnificent courage." They organized rescue squads and dug for days in the ruined buildings of the town, apparently hardest hit by the quake that caused an estimated loss of 45,000 lives. The convicts administered first-aid to those they rescued, and housed the victims in what remained of their prison.

A campaign for adoption of disaster orphans by wealthy families was begun in Ankara as the first trainload of 210 children arrived.

Damage was reported to-day from new earth shocks that toppled buildings in the Smyrna region, and Samsun and Amasia, but no new loss of life was recorded.

Livelier War Policy, Is Cry Of Alberta Conservatives

RED DEER, Alta., Jan. 5—(CP)—A demand for a more vigorous war policy for Canada was urged in a resolution adopted unanimously by the executive of the National Conservative Association of Alberta in conference here yesterday.

H. R. Milner, K. C., Edmonton, past president, in moving the resolution, claimed Canada entered the war totally unprepared and asked whether Conservatives were satisfied with the Dominion Government's effort in the war today.

Major-Gen. Hon. W. A. Griesbach of Edmonton, who seconded the resolution, suggested that "what the Government is doing falls far below what the people of Canada would like to see done."

He urged the need of an inquiry into all war supply contracts. In the last four years some $90,000,000 over and above the usual expenditures, had been voted by the Dominion Parliament for defence purposes, said Senator Griesbach, and the first task was to find out what the Government had done with the money.

Conservatives should put their views before the people and not wait for parliament to meet, he suggested.

In the Federal field Conservatives plan to contest all 17 Alberta seats in the next general Dominion Election, said President R. Ward of Calgary.

But in the Provincial campaign joint political action with other parties opposed to the Alberta Social Credit Government was reaffirmed by the executive.

The war policy resolution claimed Canada's military effort "falls far short of what the Canadian people were led to expect and hope."

It said that troops "are insufficiently armed, clothed and shod" and "Canadian industry and labor are still largely unemployed in manufacture of necessary equipment."

The Empire air training scheme was termed "disappointing as a war effort and discouraging to our national aspirations."

Main Armies Being Held Back

Patrols Do Fighting In Twilight And Deep Forests

WITH FINNISH FORCES ON THE LAKE KIANTA FRONT, Jan. 5—(AP)— The Finns apparently held the initiative in a roving, hit-and-run war today deep in the forests along with sides of this wide northland frontier.

Skiing Finnish patrols were reported to have cut the Murmansk railroad at several places after forays deep into Soviet territory. The railroad is the only supply line to harrassed Red army forces in the far north.

The raids against the railroad, which winds through the lake-dotted Russian wilderness at distances of from 50 to 150 miles from the border, were said to have been part of an encircling drive by Finns pursuing remnants of the routed 163rd Russian division.

With the main bodies of both armies lying back now, the fighting has been largely hand-to-hand guerilla skirmishes between ski soldiers, mostly in Russia, and ambushes by the white-clad Finns who swoop in sudden attacks and vanish.

No Battle Line

There no longer is a well-defined battle line in this war zone that takes 40 hours to tour by automobile.

War and peace mingle strangely close to the embattled areas. Along the roads to the front in the Arctic darkness ones sees a milkmaid on the way to her morning chores and, returning at night, a boy pumping a bicycle.

Occasionally a reindeer slips across the one good road to the frontier. It is a rolling road over which the car bobs at about 30 miles an hour.

A woman welcomes you for the noontime halt at the door of a two-room farmhouse and ushers you into a bedroom walled with timber cut from the forests outside and chinked with moss. By a stove—almost all chimney with a narrow, iron grate opening for wood—a three-year-old sleeps.

At every army stop, efficient women of the Lotta Svard, the Finnish Women's Auxiliary which operate field kitchens, brought out coffee, tea and sandwiches. In one was an English-speaking woman doctor.

Windsor Council

fuses to recognize the legality of the group and its actions, a writ of mandamus against His Worship probably would be sought in Supreme Court. Such a move will not be taken, however, until after the next regular meeting of the council, when the Mayor will either accept the minutes of the two special meetings or else, it was said.

An important clause of the procedure by-law given third reading to day states that only a majority is required on a city council vote to repeal or amend legislation passed by previous councils. Legislation passed by Mayor Croll late last year —when he held a majority — ruled that a two-thirds majority was required to upset the work of previous councils.

Although the Mayor has refused to recognize the two special sessions as legal, claiming he alone has the power to call them, the opposition faction says under the Municipal Act, he must call one if the majority asks it, and if he is absent, the city clerk must do so at the instructions of a majority of the council.

With the preliminary stages passed by the anti-Croll group by adoption of the procedure by-law, the opposition faction stood ready to move to the attack.

Already they have revealed their course of action in a heated Board of Control meeting at which Mayor Croll was overpowered by the combined forces of Controllers Cyril Cooper, Norman Eansor and W. H. McCreery.

The Orders They Want.

At that time, the opposition made it evident that they want instructions to the civic departments to come from the Board of Control or the City Council—and not from the Mayor, who Controller Cooper charges with using "dictatorial" measures during the last year.

The opposition faction also is seeking to reinstate A. L. Moor as head of the parks department, maintaining he was ousted in a Croll "purge" of last May. They would also like to upset the appointment of George Bennett, assistant market clerk, appointed to that position after he was defeated December 4 in his effort to be returned to the Board of Control.

Another item the insurgents are opposing is the appointment of 12 civic employees late in December, 1939. They maintain that the last year's council had no right to burden the 1940 group with this drain on revenue at such a late date.

For the second time, City Clerk C. V. Waters was not in the building and did not act as clerk at the meeting. His assistant, R. H. Cooper, was called in and when questioned, told the council that he was instructed "that this meeting is not legally called and that I am not to attend."

Several members of the council asked from whom the instructions came, and the assistant clerk said from the Mayor. Controller Cooper said it was not their wish to embarass any civic employee and the meeting decided to excuse the assistant clerk from the meeting.

Cigarette Case Lost

London, Jan. 5 (CP)

LOSS of a gold cigarette case presented to the Duke of Devonshire, parliamentary undersecretary for dominion affairs, by the staff at Government House, Ottawa, was reported to Scotland yard today.

The Duke attached great sentimental value to the gift, which was received in 1917 upon the occasion of his marriage to Lady Mary Cecil, second daughter of the fourth Marquess of Salisbury.

A reward of £20 has been offered for recovery of the case, which the Duke thinks may have been stolen from his pocket.

Officer's Claim For Wages Ties Nazi Ship

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Federal agents held possession today of the German tanker Pauline Friederich, seized after a former officer of the vessel filed a libel action in federal court claiming $98.60 in wages.

Deputy Marshall Harold Sullivan and Keeper Frank McIssac took charge of the ship, which ran into the port of Boston for refuge at the outbreak of war, and she will remain in custody of the United States Marshal's office until bond is posted.

A former second officer, Wilhelm Harren, charged that wages due him and the other members of the crew had been withheld since the Pauline Friederich, carrying a cargo of lubricating oil valued at $1,000,000, put in here to avoid capture by the Allies. He claimed he was employed on the vessel from April 24 to Dec. 7.

The action was filed for Harren, a native of Hamburg, by Hymen Katz, a Boston lawyer of Jewish extraction, and demanded that the tanker, owned by Eugene Friederich of Bremen, Germany, be sold to satisfy the former officer's claim. The action is returnable Jan. 12.

Harren was quoted by his lawyer as stating that he did not wish army's 163rd Division last week.

The Russians were said to have been routed at Salla, just above the Arctic Circle, and to be fleeing in confusion across the frontier in the direction of Kandalaska.

Inasmuch as the Russian Murmansk-Leningrad Railroad is only 40 miles from the frontier, the new victory observers said, may mean the Finns will not only be able to cut but destroy this line of communication.

Persistent reports from northern and central Finnish fronts of successful raids against the railroad led neutral military sources to believe Russia would be compelled to abandon her winter attempts to smash Finland in the north or cut her in two and concentrate attacks on the Karelian Isthmus to regain prestige.

Russia can send reinforcements and munitions to the Karelian front through Leningrad but would have difficulty provisioning troops in the north without the Murmansk railroad.

Bait For the Reds.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 5.—(CP-Havas)—Offers to pay $10,000 for surrendered Soviet airplanes and graduated prices for other equipment are made in Finnish leaflets dropped over the Soviet lines, according to a facsimilie printed today in the newspaper Dagens Nyheter.

For a tank the offer is 10,000 rubles for a machine gune 1,500 rubles, for a rifle 150 rubles, and for a revolver 100 rubles. Deserting Soviet pilots are promised permission to go to any country they choose if they deliver Soviet planes to the Finns.

Soviet soldiers wishing to surrender are advised to approach the Finnish lines in groups of five or six, with rifles slung from their shoulders and arms raised.

here early today by two fires, one in a hotel and the other in a dwelling.

Forty were forced to leave the Grosvenor Hotel on Yonge Street when fire started in the taproom. The blaze was extinguished by firemen before any considerable damage was done. Some of the guests donned overcoats over sleeping attire and fled to the street. Others took time to dress.

Ten persons living in a house on Yorkville street were compelled to flee when smoke and flames spread through the building. All were members of the family or relations of Mr. and Mrs. William Staples. The fire started in the kitchen and did $400 damage. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Staples, 85 and 83 years old, were affected by the smoke and required inhalator treatment.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 5 (CP)—Downtown Hamilton was illuminated for blocks around by soaring flames from the fire that demolished the interior and roof of the 80-year-old St. John's Presbyterian Church, Emerald and King streets, during the night. The blaze was prevented by city firemen from destroying the Sunday school at the rear of the stone building or from spreading into the adjacent lumber yard of the Evel Casket Company. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

Several hundred spectators who watched a large force of firefighters pour tons of water through 11 hose lines into the stricken building were kept at a safe distance by police for fear the tall spire would topple into the intersection.

Believed to have started behind the organ, the fire had eaten through the roof and flared high into the air by the time firemen responded to the first alarm.

Reginald Julke, night watchman for the Evel Casket Company and a former city police constable, turned in the alarm. Glancing from westerly windows of the Evel factory, Tisdale and King streets, he saw the side windows of the church lighted up from the fire within and flames starting to flicker through the roof.

3 Streams on Steeple.

Firemen had several streams of water on the outbreak in record time and a tall standpipe was brought from the Robert Street station so that 750 gallons of water a minute could be played in three streams into the steeple in which a stubborn fire raged.

In an effort to get water into the interior, hoses were trained on the beautiful stained glass window on the King Street facade and it was some time before even the force of the water and the heat weakened the finely wrought glass sufficiently to permit a stream to get through.

When the intense heat of the blaze had subsided sufficiently to enable firemen to get in close, the front door was broken through and a flow of water six inches deep gushed from the interior and flooded into the street. Thousands of gallons of water were rained into the church in a vain effort to save it.

U.S. Republicans To Fight Trade Extension

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP) — Republicans in the United States Senate appeared today to be in general agreement on a program of active opposition to extending the reciprocal trade treaty act and a "watchful waiting" attitude on defence appropriations.

Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, was called the minority party members together for a caucus, said he thought the republicans were opposed to enactment of new taxes, believing that savings in regular government expenditures could be combined with a careful pruning of the defence program to obviate the necessity of raising additional funds.

"In my opinion," McNary said before the meeting, "super-appropriations for national defence should await the result of experimentation in the wars now being waged throughout the world."

When McNary and minority leader Joseph Martin of Massachusetts in the House of Representatives recently agreed to pitch the republican fight on the trade treaties on a demand for Senate ratification of the individual agreements, both Senators Warren Austin of Vermont and Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan said they thought elimination of the "most favored nation" clause of the act was just as important.

Faithful To Last

Kansas City, Kas., Jan. 5 (AP)

STEVE Schmidt gave Roy Jones his beagle hound, Lady, last Sunday.

Lady seemed restless.

"Monday," said Jones, "she shot out of the house like a flash and didn't come back."

Jones went after her yesterday. He found her crouched against the side of the Schmidt house in the cold.

Inside he found Schmidt, dead. Coroner Lawrence E. Growney said Schmidt had killed himself with a shotgun.

Friends said Schmidt, 26, had been morose since his father died last week.

Trappers, Indians May Band To Help Finns

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—(CP) —The Gazette says today that according to reliable sources a division of "sourdoughs, broad shouldered prospectors, stalwart trappers and lithe Indians" may be formed in Canada "to aid little Finland which is holding an invading army at bay in a country similar to their own northwest territories, the Yukon and the Hudson Bay region."

"The promoters of the plan believe that lumberjacks and 'voyageurs' of the northland as well as many Finns who have been in Canada for years would accept with alacrity an invitation to join in an expedition to throw back the Russian hordes," the newspaper says.

"It has even been hinted that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which has already dispatched a provost company overseas, might supply a number of men with experience in the Arctic and its environs."

The Gazette adds that preliminary plans calls for the formation of two snowshoe and one ski battalion with attending ambulance and other units.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM JAMES KILLINGBECK.

Member of a well-known family in this district, William James Killingbeck died at his home at 36 Stewart street, on Thursday afternoon, only two weeks after his wife had died. He was in his 83rd year and had been ill for the past four months

Born in Cavan township, he was a son of the late John Killingbeck and Mary Armstrong, and came to Peterborough from Lindsay 36 years ago. For 28 years he was employed here by the Canadian General Electric Company, retiring ten years ago.

Mr. Killingbeck was a member of Park Street Baptist church and of the Independent Order of Foresters, Court Chemong lodge.

Surviving are two sons, Walter and Norman, and four brothers, Thomas, Arthur, Alexander and Joseph All reside in Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock from the Nisbett Funeral Home. Rev. C. C. Boyter of Park Street Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be at Zion cemetery.

WALTER BOLTON.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—(ENS). — Symbolic of his bright cheery disposition was the sparkling sunshine which shone down on the funeral procession of Walter Bolton, as the more than a mile cortege of cars wended its way down the highway from his parents' home at Burleigh Falls to picturesque Hillside cemetery, Lakefield, where interment took place on Thursday afternoon. As the life of this young man had been cut off in the prime at the early age of thirty years, so did the sun sink in the west in the early afternoon as the body was being lowered in the grave.

Rev. E. C. Moore, who officiated at the service, spoke of Walter's thoughtfulness for others. It was always he who noticed the person who wished a glass of water or the stick of wood needed on a dying fire.

Two hymns, 'Rock of Ages' and 'Safe in the Arms of Jesus' were sung.

Of a cheery disposition he was loved by all who knew him. Even at the time of his sudden death he was playing with a small child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Booth, on whose farm he had been cutting wood.

He was deputy preceptory of the Royal Black Preceptory number 697, Lakefield, also marshal of Beresford L.O.L. number 122, Lakefield.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving son and brother are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bolton and three sisters and four brothers. Matilda (Mrs. John Ireland), of Hall's Bridge, Eliza (Mrs. Thomas Gordon) of Harvey township, Gertrude (Mrs. Gerald Graham) of Timmons, George and Donald at home and Samuel and Thomas of Timmons.

The flower bearers, all close friends of the deceased, were: Richard Hill, Gordon McNaughton, Hillard Lytle, Mac Gordon, Leonard Ireland and Gerald Tedford.

Pallbearers were Stanley Higgins, John Blakely and Allen Gill, representing the Royal Black Preceptory and Fred Shewen, Harry McNaughton and Aubrey Blakely of the L.O.L.

The Royal Black Preceptory had charge of the last graveside rites.

Terrific Attack Due In Spring Lothian States

CHICAGO, Jan. 5—(AP). — Lord Lothian, British Ambassador to the United States, believes that the "real prize" of the war between Germany and the Allies "is not territory but sea power."

"For that is the real key to victory," he said last night in an address before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

He also said the Nazis probably would throw all their forces into a "terrific attack by land, air and sea" early in the spring "on France and on the basis of British naval and aerial power."

The Ambassador explained British views on the struggle for sea supremacy thus:

"If Germany can defeat England either by direct attack upon her naval and sea communication or on France through Belgium or the Maginot line, and compel us to surrender our fleet or a large part of it and the naval bases whereby fleets may travel all over the globe, Germany will then be on top of the world.

"The opposition to her in Europe will disappear. Most of the other nations will hasten to get on her band wagon and she will be able to dictate the basis upon which world politics shall be conducted.

"If the German thrust for sea power fails, it is only a question of time before the relentless pressure of the blockade upon her capacity to carry on the war effectively will end in the defeat of her purpose and

Winter Cosmetics Should Protect

A protective foundation preparation is number one on the list of cosmetics the winter vacationist needs. Whether she is going south to lie in the sun or north to skate and ski, a cream or lotion to protect her skin from sunburn or windburn and to make powder stay on for hours is all important. In any case, remember that foundation cream ought to match your natural skin tones exactly.

In addition to regular powder and foundation for southern wear, take along a darker shade of each. Once you have a coat of suntan, your make-up ought to match the shade your skin is then.

Don't forget hand lotion and night cream. And a cuticle cream or oil to counteract the drying effects of salt water or of icy winds.

To Freshen Petit Point

If you are so fortunate as to have heirloom petit point, to keep it clean and the colors bright as possible, occasional dry-cleaning or washing is necessary. Dry-cleaning is safest, as a rule. If you wish to do the job at home, spread the petit point on a flat surface and sponge or brush (with a soft-bristled brush, of course) very gently with a non-inflammable dry cleaner. Use only enough liquid to loosen the soil, never enough to dampen the canvas base. Work with even, light strokes, then absorb the loose soil with a soft- clean cloth. Allow to dry.

ONE WAY to feel compensated for not going south in January is to buy a dress from the tempting collections and put it away for summer. It's surprising how many women do just this, feeling they get the pick of the showings months in advance. It's not a bad idea to use some of that Christmas gift money for things you'll be sure to crave, only to find the stock is exhausted come May. Here's a safe selection, a spun rayon cotton in soft blue and off-white plaid, fastened coat style. It's easily packed and, better, easily laundered. The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, January 6

A lively and joyous day, in which the social, romantic and affectional interests seem to obliterate all other engagements, is forecast. Courtship marriage or other forms of pleasurable pastimes are on the tapis. But there is danger of overdoing, through impetuosity, extravagance and excessive indulgence in many forms. It might be well to take heed of warnings from elders.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much personal happiness and joy, with romance, advanture, much festivity and celebration associated with engagements or marriage. There are signs of excessive indulgence and extravagance, in which the funds as well as personal energies may be subjected to regrettable outlay. Elders stand by with wise advice.

A child born on this day may be extermely lively, active, ardent and enthusiastic, especially in its personal life, in which extravagance and indulgence abound. It may be romantic, gracious and socially inclined, and should find much happiness and domestic contentment.

Home and School Association News

Particular emphasis on the teaching of music appreciation was made by Mr. Jack Telford of Queen Mary School in an address on "Music in the School," demonstrated with Victrola recording, which he presented Thursday evening at a meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association. The study of music appreciation, he pointed out, is a study which develops enjoyment of music. He traced the methods employed in the teaching of rhythm for Junior grades with the addition of melody, and on through until harmony is understood by the Upper grades.

He referred to the pleasure and fun gained by the newly-formed Queen Mary orchestra, and its function in the school. The achievement and pleasure in music, he feels, should be measured by children's standards for children, and set according to those standards, rather than an adult one, as formerly was the case.

Three delightful orchestra numbers were given by nine pupils of this Queen Mary orchestra, conducted under the leadership of their teacher, Mr. Telford, who has been instrumental in organizing and training the group. A vocal solo by Miss Margaret Westbye, with Miss Olga Westbye at the piano, was also a pleasant musical feature. They are both former pupils of the Queen Alexandra school.

Mrs. A. B. Silcox, president of the Ontario Federation of Schools, will be present to speak at the Founders' Night meeting in February.

A brief outline of the organization of the Associated Medical Service in Peterborough was given by Dr. Agnes K. Moffat.

YOUR OWN HALO

By ALICE ALDEN

HAPPY THOUGHT: It's time for a new hat—and any hat goes. It may be an exotic-looking turban, either white or boldly shaded. It may be a straw sailor, for luncheon in particular. It may be Javanese, Malayan or angelic, the word we think best fits this velvet halo designed for dancing star Ann Miller. Because her face is oval—and pretty—Miss Miller gets by beautifully with the shirred chin strap. But some of us should think twice before again adopting this effective means of keeping the hat on the head. All of us, though, can dress our hands cleverly for the cocktail hour, either choosing ready-made gloves which go with our hats or having them made. The black velvets in this picture flaunt sequin embroidery.

We Noticed

....That shoe designers have concentrated on heels with interesting —and startling—results.

....There's a new heel that resembles a miniature beer keg covered with leather or fabric. And this Spring one can slide along on a heel copied from a sleigh. Turkish slippers inspired the heels of other shoes.

.... There are new variations of wedge heels, platform heels, double platform heels, heels extra high and almost no heels. There are but few shoe styles with heels entirely open. Toes, however, are still exposed, but more modestly. (Oh, and we nearly forget to tell you— prices were reported to be from five to ten per cent higher).

Do You Know?

Buy shirred elastic, sew a little around the top of children's socks, and they will always fit the ankle, and the stitches will not break when the sock is pulled on.

The Emergence Of Woman From Inclusion Into The Gay Business And Social World Gives Her a Chance To Look Around And Become Dissatisfied With What She Has.

A GROUP of women were discussing the increase in divorce the other day and one of them wound up the conclave by saying: "Well, it is a lot harder to stay married now than it used to be in our grandmothers' time."

"That's true," responded another woman, "and I wonder why. Human nature is still the same old human nature. Husbands and wives are no more cantankerous and harder to live with now than they have always been, yet a marriage that has lasted ten or fifteen years is getting to be a museum specimen. Men and women now trade in their old husbands and wives for new models with fresh paint and tricky gadgets and streamlined effects just as they do their last year's automobiles."

"It is easy to understand," said a third woman. "Women are the plaintiffs in three-fourths of the divorce cases and they swap husbands for the same reason that they wear knee-length skirts, or shorts, or crazy hats—because everybody is doing it. They think it looks positively old-fashioned and lacking in enterprise to stay married to the same old man for twenty-five years. So when they get tired of looking at John and dish-washing gets on their nerves, or they get an attack of Spring fever, they trump up some story about their meek little henpecked husbands inflicting cruel and inhuman treatment upon them and the next thing you know they are off for Reno.

"Now in the old days, when people married for keeps instead of with one eye on the altar and the other on the divorce court, when a woman said 'I do' she settled down to make the best of what she had got. She knew she wasn't going to have any more digs in the grab bag and so didn't let her eyes and her fancy go roaming around after other men. And, believe me, there is a lot of restraining power in just knowing a thing is final.

"Then divorce wasn't the fashion in Grandma's time. It was a disgrace. No matter what a brute a man was, nor how badly he treated his wife, nor what a saint she was, there was always a little shadow over her if she left her husband. Everybody 'poor Maryed' her and spoke about her as 'unfortunate.' And so women lived through the martyrdom of unhappy marriages rather than endure public pity and the frosty welcome they got when they went back home to Mother.

"And still another reason why women are the best clients in the divorce shop is because most of them nowadays are on their own. They have some trade or profession by which they have supported themselves before marriage. This makes it possible for them to put on their hats and walk out on a husband who doesn't come up to all of their girlish dreams of the Fairy Prince they expected to get in marriage.

"Nothing has boosted the divorce business so much as the financial independence of women. For naturally the woman who doesn't know how to earn a dollar herself has to stick to her meal ticket whether she likes it or not, whereas the woman who can make her own bread and butter and cake can be choosy about husbands and matrimony in general. And then, of course, the mere fact that men and women are thrown so much more together in work and play now than they used to be makes it harder for them to stay satisfied with their choice of life partners. In Grandmas day a married woman was virtually segregated from men. She stayed at home and had babies and kept house and had no opportunity of instituting invidious comparisons between Grandpa and her handsome boss. Nor did Grandpa discover how much better his pretty blond secretary understood him than Grandma did. All of that made for family solidarity, and kept husbands and wives out of the divorce court."

"It certainly was easier to stay married then than it is now," said the first woman wistfully.

DEAR MISS DIX — Is there any way to break a man of lying and bragging? I know a man who has many good qualities and could be successful if it wasn't for these faults. If he does some kind of work he will tell you what a great job he did and that it was so much better than any one else ever did, and that he did it so much quicker. Everything he has and does is superior to anything that others have or do. People make fun of his bragging and call him Mr. Brag, but he takes it as a compliment instead of a knock. Is there any way that I can make him understand how ridiculous he makes himself? — S. E. L. T.

ANSWER:

There is no cure for the liar or the braggart because both faults are due to a fundamental weakness of character. They are just born that way and you can no more change their natures than you can their statures or the color of their eyes.

The liar must know that no one is credulous enough to believe his big tales. He must know that he ruins his chances of success in the world by lying because no one wants to have dealings with a man whose word cannot be trusted. And the braggart must know that he makes himself a figure of fun by his boasting. But such is the egotism of both that they cannot help indulging in their vices. Both of them are good people to let alone.

Brush Up on Etiquette

Will this young man be a popular dinner guest? Not when he shows such poor manners as stacking his dishes. Next he'll shove them aside, use them for an ash tray!

It's so simple to learn the fine points of etiquette there's really no excuse for such blunders.

On finishing a course or meal it's always correct to leave dishes as they are. Hostess or maid will remove them—one at a time.

And, when you have finished with knife and fork, put them side by side on your plate—not crossed like swords.

Even little accidents don't disturb your poise when you are up on etiquette.

A Big Decision Pending

There is one report from Rome, and beside it is another from Berlin. They discuss different topics but in a general way they are related because they deal with the present upheaval in Europe.

Augusto Rosso is Italian ambassador to Moscow, and he is leaving for Rome. That is official. The announcement was made this way:

"The Italian ambassador to Moscow has taken leave of that Government to return to Italy."

In order to catch the significance of that apparently simple statement it is necessary to understand the style employed in Italian protocol. If Rosso were returning to Rome to report to Mussolini, or for a holiday or on account of his health that would have been stated. The announcement that he is returning, without any explanatory remarks, is taken to indicate it is the equivalent of being recalled.

It is only a few weeks since Nikolai Goreichin, Russian ambassador to Rome, left for Moscow, and there is no indication that the post will be filled. The Russian diplomat went away feeling he had been snubbed—that is, if any of Stalin's messengers or emissaries have retained sufficient sensitiveness to register any such emotion. Students paraded in front of the Russian embassy and cried out against the invasion of Poland, and Rome was busy at the same time warning Russia to keep out of the Balkans. So Nikolai went home and there was no one at the station to bid him farewell.

The other despatch coming from Berlin has to do with the situation which is now facing Hitler because affairs of his recently courted Stalin are not going well in the invasion of Finland. The Russian premier Molotoff is expected to arrive in Germany to enter "consultations." The German propaganda machine has been preparing the German people themselves for such a move. Russia is actually going to ask Germany for assistance or guidance in conquering Finland, and unfortunately it would not be a difficult matter for the Germans to land troops in Finland.

We doubt if the German people themselves want to go to the aid of Russia against Finland. If that move were made it would settle Germany in the eyes of the world. Germany has a bad record now but she would have a worse one if she raised a hand against Finland. It would be something which would stink for all time to come.

But that is not all. If Germany went into action then Germans and Russians would be fighting together. But they would be fighting not only the Finns but volunteers from many other nations, and some of those volunteers would be from Italy. And it is right there that these two reports come together. Either Rome or Berlin has to make a choice about the future relationships between these countries. It is all very well for the Italian Foreign Minister Ciano to make an address in which he sought to say that the Rome-Berlin axis was still in unimpaired existence and would remain so. Italy has no patience with the Russian invasion of Finland; Italy is ready to fight if Russia moves into the Balkans. Those are plain facts and the Italian Foreign Minister cannot blink them.

Italy and Russia have broken off diplomatic relations.

Italy cannot have faith in Germany while Germany is tied up with Russia.

So there has to be a decision made. Russia will undoubtedly ask Germany for assistance in dealing with Finland, and in doing so Russia will admit openly to the world that for years it has been the most over-rated bully the world has yet encountered. And if Germany is prepared to be drawn into that sort of business what is Italy going to do with her end of the Rome-Berlin axis? It does not require the mind of a prophet to see that something has to give way, and it will be something about which there can be no possible compromise.

The One Bright Spot

President Roosevelt took in the world in general when he made his inaugural address at the opening of a new session of Congress. He saw a world at war and pointed his verbal guns at those who sought to ride to power as dictators and then inflict their ideas upon other free nations. No names mentioned, but the world would grasp what he meant without an interpreter being present.

The President urged his people to remain united, to watch out for the elements within the national boundaries which would cause trouble if they could; his country must cherish and preserve a brand of freedom which would be worth attaching to the world when it was remade following the war.

Coming to the ticklish point of the duty of United States to the world, the President said this:

"I can understand the wishfulness of those who say that all we have to do is to mind our own business and keep the nation out of the war—but there is a vast difference between keeping out of the war and pretending that this war is none of our business."

There was sufficient in the address to indicate where the sympathies of United States are located. They are with the Allies. That has become more apparent with every passing day, and Russia's attack on Finland has opened eyes in the republic which were formerly blinded by indifference. When that took place they could see as never before just why the Allies had been forced to fight.

But what practical effect will President Roosevelt's address have? Our opinion is none at all. Words have little effect on Hitler and Stalin. The one bright spot is in the recommendation of Chairman Key Pittman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He favors not merely a loan of millions of dollars to Finland, but supplying materials of war to that little nation "as a matter of self-defence—a self-defence which superseded the requirements of neutrality."

And right there is a better phrase than President Roosevelt used in his entire address: "A self-defence which superseded the requirements of neutrality." That can be turned in several directions and still mean much. It can refer to the self-defence of United States on the ground that if freedom perishes in Europe it will stagger in United States. Or the self-defence of Finland is actually the self-defence of United States.

Hitler and Stalin will understand the furnishing of arms by United States to Finland. That alone will penetrate farther and do it more quickly than any amount of verbal straffing.

Snow Here And There

No use in speculating about the amount of snow we may have before Winter is over, but no harm at all noticing snow which has already come down. The Stratford Beacon-Herald tells of some 19 inches which has fallen in the first three days of the year; more than they had in all of February last year. Stratford is about 185 miles from Peterborough, and since the beginning of the year we have had about one inch of snow. No doubt we will have more but for the moment we are thinking of almost 19 inches in Stratford and about one inch in our city on the same three days.

There is a snow-belt in the Stratford district. It runs not far south of that city, but spreads out in other directions. Altitude is considerably higher there than in Peterborough, but here again we are informed that is not the explanation. Last Winter the maximum of snow effort appeared to be on the road leading from Listowel to Orangeville, and the entire district was virtually buried.

Local record show that nearly all our snow comes from the North and Northwest, and the observation of the official Weather Man in Peterborough causes him to believe that when a particularly cold wave moves from the West toward the East it is generally "worn out" before reaching us. But that would not account for snowfall because farther East in Ottawa and Montreal they have more snow than in Peterborough district, and in the Stratford district in the West the precipitation is greater than in our area. The explanation for this variation comes in the list of things which we do not know.

Fighting In The Dark

Owing to the location of Finland the soldiers of that land have always received special instruction in night fighting. Right now that training has come to their assistance for much of the fighting has been done in what we would refer to as night.

The war has been carried above the Arctic Circle, and at this season of daylight there is none at all, of twilight 3 hours and of darkness 21 hours.

In the section where the Russian army has been trying to cut through the "waist" of Finland, there is one hour of daylight, 3 hours of twilight and 20 hours of darkness. Farther south daylight extends to three hours, twilight the same, and of darkness there is 18 hours.

In the extreme south of Finland, where Helsingfors is located, there are 6½ hours of daylight, 2 hours of twilight and 15½ hours of darkness. Russia had a bad cause to begin with; selected a bad season for the bad cause, and is making a bad muddle of a bad cause in a bad season.
